PREFACE.

THE Hindi language is so nearly allied to the Sanskrit, and its literature consists so largely of translations or adaptations of, or commentaries on, works of Sanskrit authors, that, in order to ensure a uniform system of transliteration, it became necessary to adopt the correct forms of spelling of Sanskrit names of works and of their authors, and, for the same reason, the final inherent "a," though hardly sounded, and sometimes mute in the Hindi and other vernaculars, has been retained in the case of pure Sanskrit (tatsama) words; e.g., Śivapurāṇa; Sukhasāgara; Lakṣmaṇa for Lachhman; Kṛishṇa for Kishan; Viṣṇu for Bishan. Cross-references have been made, when necessary, from the incorrect and phonetic forms to the correct spelling.

Exceptions have been made in the case of words not purely Sanskrit, but Vernacular (tadbhava) forms. These occur chiefly in the Panjabi, Pushtu, and Sindhi catalogues, the literature of these languages not being so closely connected with the Sanskrit, and having more of the Muhammadan element. In these cases the names of books and authors have been transliterated, with due regard to uniformity of system, according to the way in which they are usually spelt; e.g., Baijnāth; Gyaṇ Singh; Pūran Bhagat.

The Hindi and Panjabi books have been arranged according to the system of classification adopted in the Catalogue of the Hindustani Books in this Library, with a complete alphabetical index of works and authors. The Pushtu and Sindhi books are few in number, and have therefore been simply printed in the alphabetical order of their names, with an index of the names of authors appended to each catalogue.
