IN MEMORY OF
VED RATAN MOHAN

Col. Ved Ratan Mohan, M.P. was born at Rawalpindi on July 30, 1920. He graduated from the Punjab University and later took his Master of Commerce Degree from Delhi University.

Shri Ved Ratan Mohan's father Shri N.N. Mohan was a prominent industrialist and a generous philanthropist. Shri Ved Ratan Mohan made his own memorable contribution to the success of the enterprises in which his family was interested. He also took active interest in public life and supported many worthwhile causes.

In 1961, the honorary rank of Captain was conferred on Shri Ved Ratan Mohan; in 1966, he became a Lieutenant Colonel in the Territorial Army; in 1972, the honorary rank of Colonel in the Territorial Army was conferred on him.

He was elected as Deputy Mayor of the Municipal Corporation, in Lucknow. Later he was elected to the office of the Mayor. In 1964, he was nominated as a Member of the Uttar Pradesh Legislative Council. In 1967, he was awarded Padama Shri. In 1971, he became the recipient of the Padma Bhushan Award. In 1972, he was elected to Rajya Sabha, the Upper House of Indian Parliament, from Uttar Pradesh.

He died on July 28, 1973, deeply mourned and widely lamented.

He had travelled extensively and had a wide range of interests and accomplishments. Photography, painting, music and poetry had a claim on him. Equally, he gave generously of himself to the solution of public problems and to personal hardships of individuals in distress. He was deeply interested in Indian culture and in educational institutions as vehicles of India's cultural renaissance and socio-economic reconstruction. The Vedas and their message energised his inspiration and impelled him to consecrated action for human welfare.

Ved Ratan Mohan

Foreword

by

Dr. L.M. Singhvi

Executive Chairman, Veda Pratisthana:

The Vedas enshrine the cosmic vision and vitality of our ancestors and epitomise a living legacy of divine inspiration, intuition and insight.

The glory of the Vedas is their universal and timeless quality.

The subtle and symbolic invocations of the Sruti and the mystic and melodic music of the celestial hymns have hallowed human consciousness through trackless centuries with a sublime glow.

The Vedas exemplify a carefully nurtured and elaborately systematized oral tradition which is unrivalled in the annals of civilization.

The evocative poetry of joyous and spontaneous affirmation of life and nature, the unravelling explorations of the seers into the terrestrial and transcendental destiny of mankind, the pervasive immanence and the pristine omnipresence of primeval reality and primordial matter, and the wisdom and philosophy of Moral and Social Order in an harmonious equilibrium unfold the luminous realm of the spirit of the Vedas.

The Vedas are unique in their perspective of time and space.

Early in the history of human civilization, the Vedas proclaimed the essential unity of mankind, untrammelled by geographical barriers and tribal parochialism.

The Vedas declared the enduring filial allegiance of Man to Mother Earth: माता भूमिः पुत्रोऽहं पृथिव्याः.....अथर्व. 12.1.12.

The Vedas articulated the essential equality and intrinsically equal dignity of men and nations and the need for cooperative effort for common benefit: अज्येष्ठासौ अकनिष्ठास एते, संभ्रातरो वाबुधुः सोभगाय । ऋक्. 5.60.5.

The Vedas cautioned against recrimination, jealousy and ill-will among the human kindred: मा भ्राता भ्रातरं द्विषन् मा स्वसारमुत स्वसा.....अथर्व. 3.30.3.

The Vedas aimed and aspired for an ambience of unfailing and ubiquitous friendship:

मित्रस्याहं चक्षुषा सर्वाणि भूतानि समीक्षे ।

मित्रस्य चक्षुषा समीक्षामहे । यजु. 36.18.

The Vedas celebrate the vac whose array of thousand syllables and thousand postures of consciousness manifested in a thousand ways appear as flame-songs of the earth and the empyrean. In their innermost recesses are embedded the eternal and cosmic powers of illumination. The Vedic words rising from the oceanic depths of creative consciousness provide a panoramic vision and a thousand vignettes of that real inner illumination, sva, reached by dhi, the two facets of which are karma (action) and prajna (knowledge). In that realm of invocation and sacrifice, faith (sraddha) converges with reason (tarka); intuition assimilates perception; light combines with vigour; wisdom coalesces with valour; speech and action become one. The science of Vedas seeks that true synthesis of faith and reason, and in that pursuit, its prayer is that we may be blessed with "faith" that has not degenerated into the somnolence of the spirit and that we may be endowed with "reason" that has not, in the words of Gurudeva Tagore, lost "its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit" and which has its habitation in the meandering maze of pointless prolixity:

व्रतारो देवा अग्निबोचता नो मा नो निद्रा ईशत मोत जल्पिः ।

वयं सोमस्य विश्वह प्रियासः सुवीरासो विदयमाबदेम ॥ ऋक्. 8.48.14.

The true Vedic faith does not countenance dogma; the Vedic reason is not a euphemism for sophistry; the Vedic word is not a victim of verbiage. The essential perception of the Vedas is not a prisoner of perversions. The humanism of Vedas is not a hypocrisy and the Vedic teaching of tolerance is not a transient contrivance. The core commitment of Vedas is to truth and dharma, to harmony and happiness, to freedom and justice. The soulful Vedic voyage in ceaseless quest of the experience of inner illumination and with its rich symbolism and manifold meanings is perhaps the oldest and the most magnificent and many-splendoured pilgrimage of the human spirit.

The Vedas gave the Magna Carta of Human Brotherhood and Universal Goodwill and proclaimed a noble prayerful Preamble to the humanitarian Constitution of One World based on friendship, fellow-feeling, freedom and fearlessness in words which are immortal and ever inspiring and which are central to the basic teleology and technology of building impregnable defences of peace in the minds of men. The Vedic seers who viewed the world of perception and the world of thought as a continuum prayed for the composite benediction of hearing noble thoughts and seeing noble deeds: ऋक्. 25.21

In that endeavour of building a universe of noble thoughts and noble deeds, the Vedic seers convened a cosmic convocation based on the fundamental human quest for truth and the acceptance of its many facets (एकं सद् विप्राः बहुधा वदन्ति):

आ नो भद्राः क्रतवो यन्तु विश्वतोऽवस्थासो अपरीतास उदि भद्रः ।

In the Vedic vision of human society, man in his relation to man was not predatory, aggressive and oppressive as in the Hobbesian nightmare which conjured up homo homini lupus. The Vedic ideal was that Man was under an obligation to protect and preserve and to aid and comfort mankind everywhere: पुमान् पुमांसं परिपातु विश्वतः । ऋक्. 6.75.14.

The Vedic philosophy of freedom and fearlessness reached a credal and climactic crescendo in the earthy yet ethereal invocations:

अभयं मित्रादभयमित्रादभयं शातादभयं परोक्षात् ।

अभयं नक्तमभयं दिवा नः सर्वा आशा मम मित्रं भवन्तु ॥ अथर्व. 19.15.7

Equally, the Vedic hymn of togetherness remains a refreshing reminder and a beacon light to the fractured and fragmented world out of whose womb the new world order is struggling to be born:

सङ्गच्छन् संवदन् सं वो मनांसि जानताम् ।

These noble thoughts made the culture of the Vedas the first and foremost foundation of the edifice of universal values: सा प्रथमा संस्कृतिविश्ववाराः । यजु. 7.14.

These enduring verities of the Vedas are not a relic of the past, nor are they the exclusive preserve or the sole inheritance of Indians and Indo-Aryans. They belong to the common heritage of humanity and are relevant in our contemporary world and in our age. We owe it to ourselves and to the peoples and the nations of the world to share this precious heritage and to disseminate its message and meaning.

It is the proud privilege of Veda Pratisthana to be the chosen instrument of the monumental project for preparing and presenting a readable and systematic modern translation of all the four Vedas. The Veda Pratisthana has had the credentials and the capacity to attempt this ambitious task because it was founded on the deep understanding and encyclopaedic erudition of Swami Satya Prakashji, an eminent scientist and a distinguished professor before he became a parivrajaka, the firm financial support and the bounteous benefaction of Narendra Mohan Foundation, an eloquent and tangible testament of the Mohan family's liberal and public-spirited disposition, and of the intrepid faith, fortitude, vision and dedication of the late Shri Prakash Vir Shastri.

The munificence of Major Kapil Mohan and his family and their deep devotion to the cause of Vedic learning enabled the Veda Pratisthana to embark on this noble enterprise. It was Major Kapil Mohan's resolve to raise a truly meaningful memorial in the form of a new edition of the Vedas in remembrance of his elder brother, the late Col. Ved Ratan Mohan that led the Narendra Mohan Foundation to offer its generous and unsparing financial assistance for this project. We acknowledge our debt of gratitude to Major Kapil Mohan and to Narendra Mohan Foundation. We also take this opportunity to pay our tribute to the memory of Col. Ved Ratan Mohan whose life was a superb saga of service and an inexhaustible treasury of goodwill.

The late Shri Prakash Vir Shastri was the main architect of Veda Pratisthana. It was to him that we owed the initial organization, the basic conception and the purposeful momentum of the project. Indeed, we are only trying to translate his dream into a reality. An eminent and gifted parliamentarian, whose cascading eloquence, sparkling wit, mature wisdom and intrinsic goodness had a singular charm, Parkash Vir Shastri was an articulate exponent and a selfless missionary of the fundamental values of India's creative and spiritual culture. Spun and woven with the warp and woof of Indian sensitivity and perception, the tapestry of his life and work was as authentic as it was inspiring. He shunned the pettiness and parochialism of politics and strove to reinforce our national life with the tensile strength of our quintessential heritage. He lived and worked for national goals. In national politics he was the ambassador of the larger cultural claims on life. In his tragic and untimely death, Mother India lost an illustrious son who distinguished himself not by the office he held, nor by his wealth or material acquisitions, but by his dedicated and singleminded service to the cause of the nation. In his death, Veda Pratisthana lost its moving spirit, regained mainly because his memory is a motive force. We savour the exhilarating fragrance and see the inspiring and exhorting presence of his personality, pervasive, permeating and perdurable, in the fruition of this project and pay our affectionate homage to his everlasting memory.

Deepavali, 1978.

Preface

The Vedas are the Word of God. At the very beginning of the Creation, man received knowledge of the Vedas. The R̥gveda is the most ancient of all the holy scriptures in the world.

Knowledge of the Vedas is not intended for a particular race or country. God revealed this knowledge for the greatest good of mankind. This noble objective is reflected in the following words of the Vedic sages :

May all be happy and rid of diseases,
May all have a happy and harmonious life,
May nobody ever be afflicted with suffering.

The Vedas have been translated into several languages. Scholars like Griffith, Wilson and Max Müller have written commentaries on the Vedas in English. But the need for bringing out an unconventional and standard translation of the Vedas has been felt for quite sometime. The task, however, involved dedication, hard work and considerable financial resources.

Col. Ved Ratna Mohan, ex-M.P., was a promising youngman, the scion of a family which had implicit faith in the Vedas. His brilliant career was cut short by untimely death in 1973. His father, late Shri Narendra Mohan, was a leading industrialist of India. Devoted to social service, he took keen interest in the dissemination and distribution of religious literature. He had unshakable faith in God. Daily he would perform yajna and once in a year he would perform this on a big scale when all the mantras of one of the four Vedas would be recited. He had named his eldest son Ved Ratna (Jewel of the Vedas). He had desired the late Ved Ratna to do some service to the Vedas. But fate had willed otherwise. Col. Ved Ratna died before he could fulfil his father's wish.

His younger brother Major Kapil Mohan, who has great reverence for the Vedas like his father, made the noble resolve to get all the four Vedas translated into English and publish them on behalf of the Narendra Mohan Foundation in the sacred memory of his elder brother. This Foundation was endowed by the sons of the late Shri Narendra Mohan, the founder of the Mohan Industries, in accordance with the wishes of their father. A hospital, a college, and several other charitable institutions devoted to public service are being run by the Foundation.

The task of rendering the four Vedas into English was entrusted to the Veda Pratishthana by the Foundation. Dr. Govardhan Lal Dutta, a famous educationist and Head of the Pratishthana, requested the Vedic scholar Svami Satya Prakash Sarasvati to undertake the highly onerous responsibility. Indeed one could think of no other scholar better qualified than Svami Satya Prakashji to accomplish this task. I am happy that Svamiji was kind enough to accede to the request. He is devoting most of his time to the translation work though he is a parivrajaka, a peripatetic monk. In this task, he is collaborating with Pandit Saryakam Vidyalkar.

Thanks are particularly due to Shri Vishwanath for his unstinted cooperation in the excellent printing of this work. No words would be adequate to express my warm appreciation and grateful thanks to Major Kapil Mohan, Svami Satya Prakashji and other colleagues and co-workers of the Veda Pratishthana who have generally helped in the accomplishment of this sacred task.

Our labours would be fully rewarded if through this English translation of the four Vedas, attempted for the first time in India, the divine message enshrined in the Vedas impregnates human consciousness everywhere.

O swift moving, radiant, universal fire, the cosmic divine powers ever excite you and urge you with their dedication for manifestation. O adorable, immortal and brilliant, they generate you as an immortal force among mortals, as the all-competent; they generate you as the all-competent and omnipresent Nature's bounty. 1

O universal fire-divine, bring your venerable brotherly associate, the water-divine, to the presence of the worshipper. He loves very much to participate in universal cosmic creation, he is true to the established laws, is one of the infinite creative principles, and sustainer, truly a sustainer of men; he is like the sovereign venerated by mankind. 2

O fire-divine, friendly and beautiful, bring hither your brother, water-divine (cosmic water) just as the two strong horses convey the swift chariot along the road to its goal. Along with cosmic water, receive, O universal fire, the gratifying homage, and also along with the all-illuminating divine winds, grant, O fire-divine, happiness to our aspiring children ; grant, O beautiful fire-divine, happiness to ourselves. 3

O all-wise fire-divine, avert from us the wrath of the cosmic waters. You are the best invoker, and the most diligent bearer of oblations, the most resplendent; may you liberate us from all animosities. 4

May you, O light-divine, our preserver, be nearest to us with your protection at the breaking of the dawn. May you, reconcile to us the cosmic waters, and propitiated by our praise, cherish our homage, and be swift to respond to our calls. 5

The glance of this auspicious fire-divine, directed towards men, is most excellent, most wonderful, acceptable to all, as the pure warm butter from the milk of the cow acceptable to the divine powers, and as the gift of a milch-cow to a man. 6

These three (divine fire, divine waters, and divine winds) are the supreme, true, most exalted, and eagerly longed for manifestations of the fire-divine. He is revealed in the boundless region, invested with radiance, pure and bright. 7

He, the messenger, the invoker, riding in a golden chariot, with a tongue of flames, frequents all the chambers of worship, drawn by red horse, like rays; he, the resplendent, is always agreeable and is like a dwelling well-supplied with food. 8

As a lover of worship, he knows those people, who bind and take him with the strong cord of praise. He, the divine fire, fulfilling all desires, abides in the homes of mortal devotees and wins a partnership in his possessions. 9

May that fire divine conduct us to that precious treasure, coveted by the devout worshippers. He is the one, whom all the immortals manifest for the performance of sacred rites, of whom heaven is the prime abode and revealer, and on whom the priests sprinkle loving oblations. 10

He is the first in rank and engendered in the habitations; he is revealed at great heaven's base and in this region's bosom. He is without feet, and without head, and conceals his extremities, combining in the lair of the rain-clouds. 11

Glorified by praise, he first rises aloft, defiant, in the womb of cosmic waters, in the lair of the rain-clouds. The seven dear priests (rays) engender the fire-divine, who is the showerer of benefits, desirable, ever-young, beautiful in form and resplendent. 12

In this world, our mortal forefathers, in the course of their search for eternal truth found the universal fire-divine; then calling upon the dawn of wisdom, they extricated the cows of knowledge which remained concealed among rocks in the dark caverns. 13

Rending the rocks they further cleared out the way; others around also reported their findings. Fully prepared for the extrication of the cattle, they sang their songs and found the light and with wisdom they planned out the course of action. 14

Devoted to their leader, the fire-divine, these people, with minds intent upon restoring cattle, broke open, with divine wisdom, the enclosing obstructions, consisting of solid mountains confining cows, — the stable full of cattle. 15

They first have comprehended the name of the milch-cow (the divine speech). They found the mother's three sets of seven noblest terms (21 metres of the Vedas). Then they glorified the conscious dawns (divine light), and the purple dawn appeared with the radiance of the effulgent sun. 16

The diffused darkness receded; the firmament glowed with radiance, the lustre of the divine dawn arose and then the sun ascended above the wide expanses, beholding deeds of men, good and evil. 17

Thereupon awakening, the enlightened devotees obtain celestial treasures of knowledge, and thereon the universal godly men assemble in the congregation. O Lord of cosmic light and intelligence, may the aspirations and efforts of your worshippers be effective and fruitful. 18

May I now glorify the present radiant fire-divine, the invoker of Nature's bounties, the supporter of the universe, and most adorable, though the udder of the cow has not been milked, nor the sanctified and strained libation drawn up by the sun. 19

The universal fire-divine is the mother of all those divine powers, to whom the worship is offered. May He be dear like a guest to all men. Receiving the offered homage, may He, the knower of all that is born, be gracious to us. 20

He, the fire-divine, has been installed immortal among the mortals, the observer of truth, the invoker of natural powers and triumphant among them, the most diligent. He has been placed upon the altar to brighten the ceremony by his lustre, and for the elevation of mankind through oblations in celestial regions. 1

O divine fire, embodiment of strength, kindled today at this place of worship, and invoker of Nature's bounties, may you fair as an intermediate envoy between both (Nature's forces and men), harnessing your vigorous, robust and resplendent flames. 2

I acknowledge with reverence the reddish, prosperity-bestowing, water-shedding and swifter-than-mind-moving, steeds (radiant beams), of Lord, the Truth. Yoking the brilliant pair, you pass between the celestial divine forces of yours and the human beings. 3

Possessed of brilliant flames, an excellent chariot and abundant nourishment, O fire-divine, may you bring the blessings of the cosmic all-pervading powers of light, life, waters, law and order, winds, twin-divines among these worshippers for the benefit of mankind. 4

O mighty fire-divine, may our benevolent actions, celebrated by your worshipper and instituted by the priests be productive of cows, sheep and horses and remain ever uninterrupted. May it grant wisdom, progeny, long continued and broad-based affluence, and social status. 5

O fire-divine, may you be the munificent recompenser of the person, who, sweating with toil, brings you fuel, and in your service exhausts out himself to full capacity and may you protect him from every one that seeks to do him evil. 6

May the worshipper, who, desirous of food, presents reverential homage and constantly offers sweet devotional prayers to you, and also who welcomes you as a guest and devoutly kindles you in his home, be blessed with a son, firm in devotion and liberal in offerings. 7

May you, fire-divine, as if a horse with golden caparisons rescue from evils the bounteous worshipper, who glorifies you morning and evening, and, presenting homage, does what is acceptable to you in his own home. 8

O immortal fire-divine, let not the one, who is dedicated and serves you with repeated praises and who pours out butter with uplifted ladle, be devoid of wealth and let not the wickedness of a malevolent overwhelm him. 9

O fire-divine, gracious and youngest amongst the divines, may that prayer be agreeable to you, which is uttered by the man, with whose well-conducted worships you are well-pleased, and may we be the promoters of the worshipper when he adores you. 10

The all-wise Lord discriminates between virtue and vice, straight between man and man like the groom distinguishing between sturdy and weak backs of horses. O Lord, enrich us with wealth and virtuous children; may you award us the ephemeral wealth, and also protect the non-ephemeral one. 11

O fire-divine, the unreviled wise persons always welcome with reverence wise men in their homes. May you also proceed with rapid footsteps to meet and bless these remarkable and marvellous men of wisdom. 12

Resplendent and ever youthful fire-divine, you are the satisfier of the wishes of men, and giver of good guidance to the participants, who serve you with loving devotion. May you bestow joy-yielding and abundant wealth for the preservation of the participant, who praises and worships you with full dedication. 13

O fire-divine, we churn you, the eternal truth, out with hands and feet, and all our members, the pious experts of the technique, exercise their arms in the work of attrition just as those who fabricate laboriously a car. 14

May we, the seven divine sons, first in order, become the wise fire technicians, and engender as if from the dawn the front rank people, and being well-versed, break open rocks. 15

Thus, O adorable Lord, our virtuous and ancient forefathers, institutors of holy rites based on immortal truths, attain pure light, and reciting sacred hymns and dispersing gloom make purple dawns manifest. 16

Performers of benevolent works, brilliant and aspirants of divinity, make their life free from impurity, as a smith heats iron. Enkindling the fire-divine, and exalting the resplendent Lord, and wandering about in search, they reach the vast mystic source of wisdom and speech. 17

O the powerful fire-divine, the self proclaims the near presence of the mystic source of wisdom, as the herd of cattle in a food-full pasture, and the enlightened participants then plan out the details of attaining this widely-loved wisdom, and having attained it, the master of the family is rendered competent to provide for the increase of posterity and the support of dependents. 18

We have worked for you, O fire-universal; we have nobly laboured; the bright dawns have shed their lustre upon our worship—adding the beauty to the perfect fire-divine, and God's bounteous eye, the Sun, that shines for ever. 19

O all-wise creator, fire-divine, we have repeated these praises to you; may you accept them. May you blaze aloft; make us epulent; may you, being glorified by all, bestow upon us ample wealth. 20

Before the thunder lightning strikes and lays you senseless, O devotees, for your protection, may you kindle fire-divine, who is presiding Lord of worship, the invoker, the afflicter of adversaries, the institutor of sacrificial cosmic order between the earth and heaven, and the one invested with golden colours. 1

This is the altar, which we have decorated for you, as a wife attached to her husband puts on elegant garments. O accomplisher of good works, may you, sit down in our presence, invested with radiance, while these flames incline towards you. 2

Repeat, O priest, the praise, the prayer, to the attentive and affable fire-divine, to the perceiver of mankind, the giver of felicity, to the divine, the immortal; to him the worshipper, while offering homage, like the stone pressing the juice repeatedly sings in a loud voice. 3

May you, fire-divine, the cognizant of truth, the author of good works, be responsive to our adoration. When shall your exhilarating hymns be chanted? When shall our friendship with you be established in our heart and home? 4

O the glorious one like fire, why this complaint to virtuous, and why to the enlightened? What is our offence? Why repeat it to the bountiful friend, to the mother earth, to the ordainers or to the gracious? 5

Why repeat it when exalted in holy ceremonies? Why tell it to the mighty, benevolent, circumambient truthful wind? Why, O the glorious one like fire, to the earth? Why to the afflicter, destroyer of men? 6

Why to the great and nutriment-conveying sustainer? Why to the afflicter, the object of worship and the giver of oblations? Why to the many-hymned protector? Why tell our sin to the mighty destructive forces? 7

Why tell it to the veracious vital principles? Why, even when asked, to the mighty sun? Why repeat it to eternity or to the swift wind? May you, cognizant of all that exists fulfil your divine responsibility. 8

I solicit, O divine fire, the truth of the speech sustained by the natural law itself, though immature she possesses the sweetness of the ripe. Like a cow, black may she be, yet with her bright nutritious milk, she maintains mankind in existence. 9

The powerful fire-divine, the showerer of benefits, is kindled by the genuine sustaining milk; the giver of strength proceeds unswerving from his course, and the sun, the shedder of rain, draws the cosmic vapours from the udder of the firmament. 10

By the force of natural laws, the fire priests, rending the mountain assunder, throw it open, and restore the lost wisdom. The leaders arrive happily at the dawn and soon after the sun manifests as the fire ritual is lighted. 11

By the force of eternal truth, O fire-divine, the divine channels, immortal, unobstructed, continue to flow perpetually with sweet waters, like a horse, that is being urged in his speed. 12

Go not ever, fire-divine, to the invitation of any one who harms us, nor to that of a malevolent neighbour; nor to unworthy kinsman. Accept not the dues from an insincere brother. Let us not rely on the might of a crooked friend or a deceptive foe. 13

O earnestly honoured, fire-divine, ever-guarding, propitiated by our offerings, keep us safe with your protective power; enlighten us and entirely extirpate our sins. May you destroy the wicked when he waxes mighty. 14

Be propitiated fire-divine, by these hymns; accept, O brave, the sacred homage, offered with praises; be pleased, O fire flames, by our prayers; may the adoration addressed to Nature's forces exalt you. 15

O fire-divine, the all-wise, acquainted with the agreed upons, to you I address these wise meaningful hymns. I sing to you, O sage, the charming words of wisdom, these ever-to-be recited poems, composed with discretions and praises. 16

O adorable Lord, put forth your vigour, as a hunter speeds his capacious snare, and go like a mighty king on his elephant with his attendants. You are the scatterer of dark forces. May you swiftly follow and transfix the miscreants with your dart, that burns most fiercely. 1

O divine fire, your swift and whirling flames move quickly. Glowing in your fury, may you consume (the foe). O fire-divine, (when oblations are) offered by ladle, may you cast scorching flames, and sparks, and fire brands all around you. 2

O fire-divine, may you with your most rapid motion direct your radiant flames all around, and unresisted, become the protector of your people. Let no malevolent miscreant, whether remote or nigh, prevail against us, your worshippers. 3

Rise up, O sharp weaponed divine fire! Spread wide your flames. Entirely consume the miscreants, unfriendly to us. O blazing fire-divine! Burn down that one like a piece of dry wood, who acts as an enemy towards us. 4

Rise up, O divine fire! Chastise those, who overpower us. Manifest your divine energies. Slacken the strong bow-strings (i.e. the threatening weapons) of the malignant foes. Destroy those, who are hostile, whether friend or alien. 5

O ever-young (fire-divine), the one who inspires devotion towards the other, well-versed in divine knowledge experiences your excellent favour. May you bestow upon him all happy days, and magnificence of riches, and as a Lord shine upon his dwelling. 6

O fire-divine, may he who propitiates you with constant oblations and praises be prosperous and liberal giver. May all his days and his sacred acts be blessed by you. 7

I adore your gracious favour, O fire-divine; may this reiterated and resounding hymn convey my love to you; may we be possessed of good horses and good cars, so that we may pay you homage and may you, day by day, provide us with protections. 8

O resplendent fire-divine, may every one of his own accord diligently serve you, day by day, shining evening and morning. So, may we enjoying and sporting, be blessed with your favour, keeping in consonance with the glory of common men. 9

You, O fire-divine, become the protector of him, and his friend who possesses good horse-like vigour and a golden chariot-like wisdom, and approaches you with a chariot laden with treasure of knowledge and who gratifies you by the due performance of hospitality to you. 10

O fire-divine, ever-young and invoker of Nature's bounties, possessed of excellent wisdom, through holy texts received from the ancestry of my most revered preceptor, I demolish the powerful evil forces. May you, be aware of our devotions to you, O humbler of foes. 11

O all-wise fire-divine, may your protecting radiance, unslumbering, alert, propitious, ever-friendly, benignant, unwearied, and co-operating, be enshrined in our hearts and homes, and preserve us. 12

O fire-divine, your on-looking protecting radiance, saves the ignorance born of egoism and misfortune. He, the omniscient one, rewards the righteous acts and then his foes, intending to destroy him, would wrought him no harm. 13

O fire-divine, may we, aided by you, become opulent. May we gain strength and attain abundant food, through your guidance. O ever-truthful, destroy both sorts of calumniators, those who are near, and those who are far off, and in due course fulfil our aspirations. 14

O fire-divine, may we propitiate you, with the fuel of our dedication. May you accept the praise, that is recited by us. May you consume the unfaithful wicked. O Lord, rich in friends, preserve us from the reproach of the oppressor and the reviler. 15

How shall we offer, with one accord, our devotion to the bounteous, extremely radiant, supreme leader who holds the universe with His vast, self-sustained body, as a pillar bears the roof. 1

Do not reproach the fire-divine, who is self-reliant, and who accepting the offerings, bestows prosperity to his mortal worshipper of mature intellect. He is wise, immortal, discriminating, chief conductor, most powerful, and supreme leader. 2

The divine fire, spreads his flames both (in celestial and midspace) regions. He is intensely-matured, full of thousandfold vigour, and strong as bull. He comprehends, by his wisdom, the mysterious sacred hymns, concealed like the foot-steps of missing cow. May he reveal that secret knowledge to me. 3

May the bounteous fire-divine, consume them with his fiercely glowing sharp jaws-like flames, who disregard the commandments and steadfast laws of most venerable and sagacious Lord. 4

Like youthful women, who have no close relatives, or like damsels, who unaccommodating with their husbands, go astray; the wicked persons become sinful, untrue, and unfaithful;—such people give birth to the deep abysmal state of life. 5

O purifying fire-divine, feeble and innocent as I am, you have boldly given a heavy burden to me of exceedingly profound, enjoyable, deep, mighty and tangible wealth of seven elements. 6

May our self-purifying, heartfelt praise, suited to his glory, reach rapidly and mount like the sun above the immovable heaven. This the supreme leader, the sun, treats everyone equal, and his swift-moving brilliant orb is stationed on the east of the earth. 7

What can be objectionable about my this utterance? The ancient sages also affirm that the milk which people ought to have obtained with ease like water has been hidden in secret (by the supreme leader), who protects earth's best and well-lived places. 8

I have known the great one's mighty assemblage (i.e. the solar orb) which from an old radiant milk-shedding cow (i.e. the dawn) has followed,—the one (i.e. the solar orb) shining brightly above the waters (i.e. firmament), in secret, swift gliding and swift moving. 9

The great sun, shining amidst the parents (heaven and the earth) drinks the agreeable secretion of clouds in the mid-space. In the similar way, the tongue of the assiduous resplendent and intensely dedicated devotee avails the divine milk quite close from the source. 10

Interrogated, with reverence, I declare the truth, that all this (wisdom etc.) is acquired by your praise, O omniscient Lord. You rule all-over the worldly prosperity. You are the sovereign owner of all the wealth, contained in the celestial and earthly regions. 11

O divine fire, knower of all that is born and exists ! What is the value of this wealth to us, and what is its advantage? Tell us, O omniscient Lord, for you know what is the best secret course for us so that we may follow it unobstructed, as if, it is the direct road. 12

What is the limit? What are the objects? Which is the desirable end to which we rush, like swift horses to the battle? When will the dawns-like divine wisdom, the brilliant inseparable spouse of the immortal sun-like self spread over us the divine splendour. 13

Even ordinary men are not satisfied by unproductive, frivolous, scanty and inconclusive speech. Then O divine fire, wherefore do they address you here? Let those who have no implements suffer from poverty. 14

The splendour of this kindled one, which is mighty, and giver of dwellings, shines for glory in the hearts and abode of all beings for the prosperity of the institutor of worship. He is clothed in radiance, beautiful in semblance, glorified by all, and shines like the earth with riches. 15

O fire-divine, presenter of our worship, you are entitled to our adoration; may you adorn the highest pedestal amidst Nature's bounties. You are cognizant of all our innermost thoughts and inspire the wisdom of intellectuals. 1

The unerring, the sagacious, exhilarating fire-divine, the ministrant priest is enshrined amongst men and in our holy synods. Like the sun, he spreads splendour above, and like a man of authority, spirals the smoke rising up in the sky. 2

The glowing ladle, filled with the butter of devotion, is raised high for offering; invoking Nature's bounties, inspiring the worship, it circumambulates. The newly born sun of wisdom has come up. The fire-divine is shining with his apparently stationary, still moving with speed, beautifully glowing, illuminating and revealing flames. 3

As in the radiant vast firmament, the sun, with his brilliance and activity rises up and circumambulates across the sky, in the similar way, may the priest, the preserver of men and cattle, rise to his task rejoicing, when sacred grass is strewn and fire is kindled of the ritual. 4

The flames of the cosmic fire-divine, cheerful, conveyer, true to natural laws, move periodically of their own accord. The effulgent flames spread around like vigorous courser; all are frightened, when the fire blazes. 5

O bright shining cosmic fire, beautiful and auspicious is your aspect, and you are terrible and wide-spreading. Your splendour is not covered by darkness, and wicked forces leave no stain on your body. 6

The bounteous, purifying cosmic fire shines like a friend in all fields of human activities. He is the progenitor (of mankind), and his benevolence remains unimpeded. Even parents (heaven and earth) are unable to impose restrictions on his aspirations. 7

The flames of the inner fire of human body are awakened at dawn and gradually fed on experiences. They are brilliant like a spear's tooth, sharp as an axe, and are engendered by two sets of five sisters (five sense organs and five vitals). 8

These experiences are of multi-forms : some sanctified by love, some straight-going, some well-motivated, others sturdy and vigorous ; some sincere and honest, others graceful; all are summoned to serve the divine complex of human system. 9

These flames of experiences of inner fire are triumphant, wide-spreading, radiant, adorable and go like falcon hastening to their goal, roaring loudly like an army of thundering clouds. 10

O well-kindled inner fire, for you, the prayer has been composed; may the priest propitiate you by his praise, the devotee offer worship, and may you bestow upon us manifold wealth. Men have established the divine fire as the invoker of Nature's bounties, to be adored by mankind. 11

7

This invoker of Nature's bounties, adored in worship, has been assigned a foremost place by the performers of noble deeds. This is the cosmic fire, marvellous in action, and sovereign over all, whom the wise sages, and their descendents harness for domestic purposes and for the benefit of mankind. 1

O fire-cosmic, when shall your glory, as the shining lord, be manifested, since mortal men have accepted you to be adored in their hearts and homes. 2

You are known to be true to natural laws, intelligent, most sapient like the starry heavens, illumining with cheerful rays each solemn activity in every home. 3

Wise men have enshrined you, O cosmic fire, in each and every individual. You are banner and representative of the sun, the source of universal light. 4

The worshippers enshrine him with delight who is the invoker of Nature's bounties, the intelligent, the graceful, purifying and radiant in seven regions. 5

Worshippers enshrine him as he abides in motherly cosmic elements of sky, and in the woods. He is loved, yet unapproachable, wonderful, hidden in a cave, endowed with knowledge, and accepts oblations from all quarters. 6

The enlightened devotees propitiate him every morning at his very source of cosmic water. Great cosmic fire, when served with reverence, accepts oblations readily as if by flying. 7

You, being a knower, are aware of the functions of a messenger; you are widely present in both heaven and earth, and that which lies between them. You go up the ascents of heaven, as you are one among the earliest and an envoy, amplifying and willing. 8

O bright Lord, dark is your path, the light is before you, and your moving radiance is the chief of all luminous bodies. When the worshippers take up the germ, you are generated by attrition from sticks and then become indeed the messenger. 9

The light of the speedily generated is apparent, and when the wind fans the fire, he spreads his blazing tongue-like flames amongst the vegetation, and between his grinding jaws consumes at will the standing fuel as his food. 10

When quickly, with rapid radiance, he consumes all forms, the mighty sacred fire makes (himself) the speedy envoy of the worshippers; he follows the rustling of the wind, and as a horse-man drives the swift horse onwards, so the rapid-going fire-divine invigorates and urges his flames. 11

I propitiate with praise the omniscient, the bestower of blessings, immortal, the ordainer, the dispeller of gloom. 1

The mighty one knows how to bestow the desired wealth upon the worshipper. He knows the deep recesses of the heavenly world. May He inspire and guide Nature's bounties in this creation. 2

He, the divine, knows how Nature's bounties are to be guided to the sincere worshipper; in His dwelling, He gives them treasures that He loves. 3

O adorable, from you springs poetic wisdom; from you come effective thoughts and hymns of praise, and from you flow fame and wealth to the man, who worships with sincerity and offers oblations. 3

O adorable Lord, you are vigorous, sustainer of food and power, extensive, fulfiller of aspirations, and possessor of lasting courage. From you springs wealth, which is divine, and source of happiness; also from you comes vigour which is swift and impetuous. 4

O immortal Lord, devout mortals worship you with holy actions, as you are the foremost divine. Your tongue like flames are exhilarating. You are dissipator of sin, the humiliator of evil forces and unerring. You are the Lord of their household. 5

O adorable Lord, the source of strength, since you protect your worshippers, may you remove far from us all iniquity; remove far from us sin, and remove far from us all evil thoughts. Verily blessed is he, whom you brighten even at night, and promote his well-being. 6

O omniscient Lord, just as sacrificial fire is kindled by uplifted ladle (full of butter), similarly you are invoked thrice every day by devotional prayers. May your devotee be blessed by you, so that he may excell all others in his attainments. 1

O adorable, ever young Lord, whatever sin through folly, we, as human beings, have committed against you, make us free from that. In sight of Mother Infinity, O Lord, may you efface entirely our offences. 4

O adorable Lord, we are your devoted friends. Let us not ever suffer harm from any great or comprehensive offence against either Nature's divinities or mankind. May you bestow health and happiness upon our sons and grandsons. 5

O adorable bounteous divines, as you have been always liberating the bonded intellects, the same way set us free entirely from affliction; may our long life be further extended. 6

Benevolent cosmic fire manifests its radiance by bestowing its constant light to the resplendent dawns; proceed, O pair of twin divines (wind and lightning), to the homes of the pious worshippers. The divine sun is rising with his splendour. 1

Like a vigorous bull arden for the cow, the divine sun diffuses his light on high, dispersing the dew. Then cosmic forces, such as cosmic light and plasma, and other divinities hasten to perform their function while the sun is ascending in the sky. 2

Seven great coursers convey the sun, the animator of the whole world. Then cosmic forces, occupants of enduring regions, diligently perform their assigned functions, for driving away darkness from the world. 3

O radiant sun, you proceed with most powerful horses, spreading your web of rays, and cutting down the black mantle of night. The tremulous rays of the sun throw off the darkness, which is spread like a skin over the mid-region. 4

How is it that the unbound and unsupported sun does not fall, although directed downwards ? By which self-sustenance does he moves ? Who has really seen him, who guards the vault of heaven, as if a close-set pillar ? 5

The resplendent fire-divine, by whom all is known, manifests dawns, radiant with lustre. Come with your chariot, O widely travelling non-ephimara! twins, to our place of worship. 1

The divine creator displays his banner on high, illuminating the entire creation. Making his presence effective, the sun has filled the firmament, the earth and heaven with his rays. 2

The great and intelligent dawn, variegated with many coloured rays of purple tint, bringing opulence, has come with her lustre. The divine dawn, awaking men, proceeds with her well-harnessed chariot to bestow happiness. 3

May those robust and active horses and chariot bring you (O pair of divines, the morning breeze and morning light) hither, at the breaking of the dawn, and may these morning splendours delight you at our places of work and worship. 4

How is it that the unbound and unsupported sun does not fall, although directed downward ? By which self-sustenance does he move ? Who has really seen him, who guards the vault of heaven, as if a close-set pillar. 5

The fire of the altar, the herald like a horse, and most illuminating amidst all luminaries is brought to our place of ceremony. 1

The fire is brought to our place of ceremonial altar; thrice a day it carries the essence of the oblation to the environmental Nature's bounties with swiftness of the charioteer. 2

This sage, fire of the altar, the source of strength, encompasses the essences of oblation, giving precious boons to the offerer. 3

This resplendent fire of the altar, the subduer of foes, is kindled in the east as has been always kindled for the victories performed by enlightened devotees. 4

That mortal becomes hero, who strenuously worships this fire of the altar, the possessor of sharp flames and bounteous. 5

They, the devotees, diligently serve him day to day, as they clean a horse. He is liberal and resplendent as the child of heaven. 6

When fire, most youthful among sub-natural forces, along with fast-moving twins (wind and light), assures me its help and summons me, I do not decline. 7

I immediately accept the favour of those two excellent and well-trained twins, the associates of the spiritual fire, most youthful among sub-natural forces. 8

16

O ever true, ever righteous, bounteous Lord, may you come to us. May your blessings hasten to us. To Him we surrender our worldly possessions. When sincerely praised, He fulfils all our aspirations. 1

O brave resplendent Lord, allow us to delight you at the end of this worship. May the worshipper repeat an agreeable prayer, to you, the all-wise, the destroyer of infidels, like the brilliant pious sage. 2

Like a sage, knowing the secret of wisdom, and who performs all sacred ceremonies, the resplendent sun drinking copiously the effused herbal essence, exults in the draughts, and thus generates the seven rays from celestial regions. Then devotees perform their duties in the light of day. 3

When the vast luminous heaven, manifested by the rays of light, is displayed, then homes of men also shine at the break of morning. He, the illustrious leader—the sun, having risen scatters thick gloom, so that men may see clearly. 4

Resplendent sun, who relishes the effused saps of plant juices, sustains infinite greatness and with his vastness fills earth and heaven. And beyond this, his majesty extends in magnitude. 5

The radiant sun, knowing all human actions, has let loose the waters, in association with his friends—the cloud bearing winds. They with their loud shouts cleave even the clouds open and desiring to fulfil their work, take over the control of pastures of cattle. 6

Your protecting thunder-bolt destroys the dark clouds, obstructing the flow of waters; the conscious earth co-operates with you. O valiant hero, preserver of the earth, may you through your power, send down the waters of the firmament. 7

Invoked by all, when you divide the obstructing clouds of ignorance sending rain water down, the dawn of wisdom makes her appearance. And you, glorified by fire-priests, the granter of abundant food, shows us favour, breaking open the cluster of clouds. 8

O bounteous Lord, friend of men, the sage, come to the devotee for bestowing wealth, who solicits your aid in contest for sun-light. May you speed him with help in his inspired invokings, and defeat the purposes of guileful wicked outlaws. 9

May you come to us resolving to destroy the outlaws. The wise sage is eager to win your friendship. Now alike in form, you both (wicked and virtuous) sit in the same dwelling. And the lady (the intellect) finds it difficult to have her choice between the two. 10

On the day when discriminating mind prepares to cross over the sea of perturbation, you, the destroyer of evil forces, yoke your straight-going powerful wind-like speedy steeds (sense organs) to the chariot (of body) and take the disturbed mind along with you to defend him. 11

For the protection of disturbed discriminating mind, you destroy the powerful devil of pettiness, and in the very start of the day thousands of longings and lingerings and with your adamant determination, you instantly lay off the rest of the evil tendencies and with the solar wheel, cut them to pieces in the struggle. 12

You subjugate egoistic and extremely violent destructive forces for the sake of righteous and disciplined pious men. You destroy the fifty thousand (innumerable) other dark forces, and, as age consumes garments, you demolish the strongholds of law-breakers. 13

While you set in proximity of the sun, your form, immortal one, seems expanding and you look like a mighty wild elephant; and when you wield your weapon, you are like a terrible lion, capable of consuming the strength of strong foes. 14

In the struggle of life, as if shining in battle, relying upon resplendent Lord for protection, desirous of riches, and food, (the devoted ones) approach Him, for the Lord is the refuge of His worshippers, and is the semblance of the lovely maiden of nutrition. 15

Let us invoke that gracious resplendent Lord, who does so much for the benefit of man; who, bestowing enviable opulence, quickly grants agreeable food to a worshipper like myself. 16

Great are you, O resplendent self, the earthly body and the illuminated mind accept your superiority. You by your vigour destroy evils and set free the streams of noble thoughts from the clutches of dragon of evil desires. 1

On your awakening, the earthly body and mind tremble through fear of your wrath; the mighty mountains of sin get shaky; the stream of free thoughts flow through the arid land (barren mind). 2

The subduer of foes, manifesting his energy and hurling his adamantine will power, shatters the mountain of darkness by his strength; he in exhilaration lays off evil forces with the bolt of his will, and the thoughts, whose obstructor was destroyed, rush forth with rapidity. 3

You are the progenitor of your grandeur like the sun of his own effulgence. May you, resplendent self, be the accomplisher of a most excellent work; you furnish yourself with undecaying adamantine will power for attaining happiness. Indeed you are endowed with supreme greatness. 4

He is sovereign king of men and adored by all, who alone casts down many evils. All godly men, speak high of the munificence of this divine and bounteous self. 5

Truly, he deserves all loving devotion; all these exhilarating experiences are centred in the mighty soul. Indeed you are the Lord of treasures; you support all people devoted to cultivation and reward them with riches. 6

O resplendent self, as soon as you enter body, you strike terror into all the other physical forces; you strike with your adamant will power, the dragon of sinful mind, who obstructs the flow of divine thoughts. 7

We praise the one who is destroyer of untruth by truth, the courageous, the inspirer, the great, the unbounded, the showerer of benefits, the wielder of the adamant will power and who is the destroyer of the devil of ignorance, the bestower of food, the giver of wealth, bounteous and the possessor of treasures. 8

This bounteous soul alone enlightens the ignorant, and sustains right type of desires; in the inner struggles he procures nourishment which he provides. May we be held dear in his friendship. 9

This soul is renowned, whether conquering or slaying evils or whether in conflicts, he recovers wisdom. When he shows his wrath, all that is stationary or movable is afraid of him. 10

The resplendent self, the Lord of opulence, completely recovers the cow of wisdom, prosperity, and vitality. With all his vigour, he is the chief leader. Praised by all his worshippers, he distributes riches, still with his treasures full. 11

Some portion of his strength, the self derives from mother (physical realm); and from his father (spiritual realm). He, the supreme progenitor, has created the world and animates its vigour repeatedly as the wind is animated by thundering clouds (mental realm). 12

You are the bounteous one, who makes destitute prosperous, who scatters from his worshipper the accumulated dust of sin. He is the destroyer of evils, like the lightning of cloud. He is bounteous, who enriches the devotee. 13

He urges forward the wheel of intellect—the sun, source of illumination, and stops horses of vital senses in inner conflicts. The dark undulating clouds of physical form keep the self, the root of radiance, within the inner-space (between mental and physical realms). 14

Like the worshipper, the householder, at night (rejoicing whilst performing daily duties). 15

May we who are wishing for cows, for horses, for nourishment and for women through his friendship induce the inner self, the showerer of benefits, the giver of wives (or mothers), the unwearied granter of protection, to come down, as a bucket is lowered into a well. 16

May you be our preserver, watching and blessing all and bestowing felicity on those who are worthy and offer libations. May you be a friend, a sire, most fatherly of fathers, giver of food, bestowing heavenly bliss upon him who desires it. 17

O resplendent self, may you regard yourself as a protector of those who seek your friendship. Be a friend deserving of commendation and grant food to him who praises you. Suffering difficulties, we make our supplications to you, glorifying you with these holy hymns. 18

When the opulent inner self is glorified, he singly destroys many unyielding formidable evils. That worshipper is dear to him, who relies on his protection. Neither Nature's forces nor men can molest him. 19

Only the possessor of manifold power and opulence, the sustainer of men, the irresistible self may truly fulfil our aspirations, as he is the divine ruler of our existence. May he grant abundant wealth and fame which is rightly due to a worshipper. 20

O lauded and glorified resplendent Lord, may you grant ample food to your worshipper as rivers swell high and give water. O Lord of vital forces, we continue composing new hymns for you. May we, the car-borne, be victors for ever. 21

18

This hymn deals with the first dawn of creation. Dialogue between Resplendent Lord, the creator, and the soul and the Mother Nature.

(Resplendent Lord) This is the ancient and accepted path, by which all divine luminaries come into existence. So, however mighty he be, let him (bonded individual soul) be born in the same manner; let him not injure, otherwise, the mother (the embryo of his mother). 1

(The individual self speaks) I shall not come forth by this path, for this passage is hard to break; let me come forth obliquely from the side. Many acts unperformed by others are to be accomplished by me; let me contend (in one life) with one opponent. 2

(Soul) It may cause the death of my mother; let me not proceed by the usual way, but proceed quickly, according to my will. In the nearness of creator, he enjoys the exhilaration of life in hundredfold ways. 3

(Mother Nature) What irregular act does he commit, whom, I, his mother, bear him (the impregnated life) for a thousand months and for many years? There is no analogy between him and those who have been or will be born hereafter. 4

Deeming it a strange act, his Mother Nature endowed him (the impregnated life) with extraordinary vigour; therefore, as soon as born, he assumes his vesture and fills both heaven and earth (physical and mental realms). 5

These rivers filled with water, flow whispering, as if, expressing the feeling of joy. Ask them to let you know what the streams of water, have been saying, what rocks they have been encircling and break through, whilst they move forward. 6

What do these playful whispers speak to us? They speak of the glory of the resplendent Lord.

Resplendent Lord speaks: My son, the sun, destroys obstructing clouds with his mighty thunderbolt and sets those rivers free. 7

Resplendent Lord to the personified new born life: Once the exulting, youthful mother eternity has brought you in existence, while the unfavourable environments have tried to swallow you, but exulting waters provided delight to the infant, and once again the resplendent life has arisen by its innate strength. 8

O bounteous life, once the ravaging force again tries to smite upon your face, whereupon, being so smitten, you prove stronger, and crush the head of the ravaging forces, with your adamantine will to survive. 9

As a heifer bears a calf, the eternal Mother Nature bears the organic life, mature (in years), strong, irresistible, vigorous, energetic, invincible, destined to follow his own course and heedful of its own person. 10

Then from the evolved organic life, the Mother enquired : My son, do Nature's forces desert you and try to harm? Then the personified life answering in affirmative further speaks to the omnipresent Father : May you exert your prowess with a desire to destroy demonic obstructing forces. 11

Who has made your Mother Nature a widow ? Who has been the person who tried to slay you whilst you were unconscious or in sleep in wakeful state ?

O Child, you have neglected your father as if having seized him by foot and not caring for him. Who could have been more gracious to you than He ? 12

Finally the self, so lamented, in extreme destitution ; What a shame to me that I have committed a heinous crime as if cooking the entrails of a dog (having forgotten my Lord). I could find no comfort among Nature's material forces. Before my own eyes I have seen my wife, the beloved, disrespected. Then the enlightenment, in the form of falcon from heaven, comes down and brings the sweet water. 13

O resplendent self, wielder of the adamantine will-power, all the protecting Nature's forces, who are reverently invoked, and both heaven and the earth (physical and spiritual realms of body) glorify you. You are verily unparalleled, eternal and lofty capable of destroying evil forces. 1

As elders urge their young, so the sense-organs urge you to fight evil forces; then you, O inner-self, become the emblem of truth, the sovereign ruler of the human body, and you lay off the morbid impulses and mark out the courses of all delighting channels of thoughts. 2

In no time, you cut down with your adamantine will-power, the insatiable, hard to awaken, ignorant, unapprehending lazy dragon of evil impulses, who obstructs the free flow of seven prone streams of virtuous thoughts. 3

The inner-self with his strength, awakens, the exhausted nerves of body and mind, in the same manner as wind stirs the water with its fury. Striving with strength, he bursts the solid clouds of ignorance asunder and shatters the high walls of obstructing adversaries. 4

The vital principles hasten to you like mothers to their young; and like chariots who rush (in battle); you, O inner-self, refresh the flowing streams of thoughts; and shatter the clouds of ignorance. You set free the obstructed streams of virtuous thoughts. 5

O inner-self, you, for the benefit of vigorously generous and vigilantly learned devotees, make the physical body cherishing and exuberant with abundant wisdom. You control the violent passions and thus make the rivers of life easy to be crossed. 6

Like the fierceful army marching on, the resplendent self has let youthful channels of thoughts flow forth which are law-abiding, resourceful and the corrodors (of their banks). They inundate the dry lands and the thirsty (mind), and milk out the barren intellect, whom the evil thoughts have become the lords of. 7

Through many a morn and many a lovely autumn, having dispelled dark evils of ignorance, he sets free many channels of dawn-like intuitive thoughts, which were swallowed up by dark prejudices. The inner-self releases the imprisoned rivers of thoughts, encompassed (by clouds) to come out in the world. 8

Lord of vital senses, you extricate out the creative ability of man from its source, where it has been devoured by ants of petty impulses. When extricated, though blind, it distinguishes the dragon of sin. The creative ability is fully restored to health like a creature whose broken joints in the ant-hill have been again fully united. 9

O man of wisdom, I have been knowing and praising the deeds you have been performing ever since. They are generative of rain, spontaneous and beneficial to men. 10

O lauded and glorified resplendent Lord, may you grant ample food to your worshipper and give water. O Lord of vital forces, we continue composing new hymns for you. May we, the car-borne, be victors for ever. 11

May the resplendent self, the fulfiller of aspirations, the Lord of men, equipped with adamantine forces, subduer of his adversaries, small or big, come to us for our protection whether from far or near. 1

May the resplendent self, affectionately inclined to us, equipped with its vital faculties come to us for our protection. He is the possessor of adamantine will-power bounteous and powerful. He remains always with us to help in our benevolent noble deeds. 2

O resplendent self, may you, honouring our benevolent acts, give us strength and fill us full with courage to acquire the benefits. O holder of adamantine will-power, may we remain with you, and like a hunting creature subdue our evils. May we be victorious in our conflicts. 3

O resplendent self, glorious in your own greatness, may you be favourably disposed, and gracious to us. May you relish the ecstasy of spiritual joy and be pleased to accept the sacrificial homage offered by us at the back (i.e. in silence). 4

I, like a lover boasting of his beloved, glorify that resplendent self, adored by all sages, past and present. He is praised like a tree with ripe fruit and like a victor trained and disciplined. 5

You rule over the riches and the dwellings of men; you are the rescuer of the store of wisdom; you are the giver of instructions, the winner in all conflicts; may you lead us to the heaps of riches. 8

By what great wisdom is He renowned as the wisest? Wherewith does the mighty Lord repeatedly perform great deeds? He is the best comforter of manifold sorrows of the worshipper and bestows wealth upon His adorer. 9

Harm us not, but cherish us, O Lord! May you bestow upon us that abundant wealth which you provide to the dedicated worshipper. Praising you, we extol you at this new, well-awarding and excellent ceremony. 10

May the resplendent self, radiant like sun, intrinsically vigorous, come to us for our protection. May he, being praised, here in this ceremony, enjoy the ecstasy of spiritual joy with us. May he, the possessor of many energies, strengthen his own overpowering force. 1

May you glorify the powerful leader of that renowned and opulent resplendent self, whose victorious and protecting forces rule over men, like a universal sovereign remarkable among mighties. 2

May the resplendent Lord, accompanied by the vital principles, come quickly for our protection, from the sky, from the earth, from the firmament, from the waters, from the blissful regions, and even from the distances far and beyond. 3

In the assembly of pious devotees, we glorify the resplendent Lord who is the sovereign of massive and extensive riches; who by His prowess is victor over hostile/hosts, and who by His munificence brings excellent wealth to the worshippers. 4

Let the priest, with many hymns, invoke that resplendent Lord, who, sustains universe, gives food in return to our offerings, and who, with divine voice, inspires men to worship. He is to be propitiated by praises, and adored by all. 5

When sitting and pondering in deep devotion in the priest's abode, the grinder of juices plies with his pressing stones, may the Lord, who is superb in contests and whose wrath is formidable, come to aid as the house-lord's priest. 6

True it is, that the power of the sustainer of the world, the showerer of benefits, favourably helps the offerer of praises. It prevails upon the secret thoughts of the sincere seeker, lying hidden in the priests abode, for his accomplishments, desires and delights. 7

When he sets asunder the clouds of ignorance, and amply supplies the rapid flow of thoughts, the wise, leads him on to vigorous search of truth, and he thereupon finds in the hidden corner, the manifested intellect and its counterpart, the subconsciousness. 8

O resplendent Lord, your auspicious arms are accomplishes of noble deeds, and your two hands confer wealth to your worshippers. Why is this delay? Why do you not invigorate us? Why are you not delighted for granting us riches? 9

Thus glorified, the resplendent Lord, the truthful, the master of treasures gives freedom to man by dispelling the devil of ignorance. O Lord adored by all, may you grant us strength for doing noble acts, so that we may enjoy the fruits of your protective divine favour. 10

O lauded and glorified resplendent Lord, may you grant ample food to your worshipper as rivers swell high and give water. O Lord of vital glory, we continue composing new hymns for you. May we, car-borne, be victors for ever. 11

The personality of resplendent great and mighty Lord is manifested along with His punitive justice in His strength. He loves and welcomes our gifts, and desires them to be offered to Him by us. May He, the possessor of opulence, accept our hymns, our praises, our loving devotions and devotional songs. 1

He, the showerer of benefits, the fierce, the foremost, and the brilliant, wields with his power the four-edged justice for granting prosperity. He, dispelling the wickedness of our mind, releases virtues through channels of wisdom and thus inspires us through friendly favours for spiritual progress. 2

He, the divine, most divine as soon as manifested, endowed with glories and great energies, holding, as if, in his arms the adamantine justice makes both heaven and earth oscillate with vigour. 3

As soon as He ordains, all the hills, flooded rivers, heaven and earth start oscillating with vigour. Through His firm determination, the parent-like mighty Lord sustains both heaven and earth. Cosmic winds make loud noise like a crowd of men in mid-region. 4

O resplendent Lord, great are the deeds, to be proclaimed at all our congregations. O brave Lord, the sustainer of universe bearing the adamantine force, you annihilate the dragon of sinful mind. 5

Most powerful Lord, all your accomplishments are verily true. O showerer of benefits, the cows give milk from their udders through your grace. And, O benevolent Lord, the rivers flow with rapidity fearing you at your command. 6

O Lord of speed and vitality, the divine sister-like streams of rivers offer reverence to you for protection, when you set them free to flow, after their having been impeded by the obstructive forces through a long confinement. 7

The exhilarating melodies of devotional songs have been repeatedly sung for you, as if a herb properly crushed beneath stones (for extraction). Now, may the streams of our love flow to you, and so let the expiatory power of the illustrious utterer of praise be directed towards us, as if a horse directed by reins. 8

O victorious Lord, bless us with excellent, superior and overpowering vigour. And may you make evil forces easy to be conquered. May you demolish the weapon of malevolent man. 9

Graciously listen to our praises, O Lord, and bestow upon us many kinds of prosperity and fulfil all our aspirations, and O bounteous, be delighted to grant us wisdom. 10

In what manner should the devotee extol the mighty resplendent Lord and the sacrifice of which worshipper is favoured by the Lord when propitiated? Rejoicing with our devotional emotions and accepting the homage of the devotee, the mighty Lord bestows brilliant prosperity. 1

Who is that hero, who has enjoyed His fellowship? Who has been a partner in His loving kindness? What do we know of His wondrous acts? How often does He come to enhance the prosperity of the dedicated worshipper? 2

How does the resplendent Lord listen to the invocations of the worshipper? And after hearing, how does He know what one needs for help? What have been His blessings to us since ever? Why is He called the fulfiller of the wishes of His devotee? 3

Is it that in spite of adverse and opposing circumstances, he who glorifies and takes delight in the worship of resplendent Lord, obtains rewards? May the divine Lord appreciate my truthful praises, having received the homage which He loves. 4

When and in what manner, at the break of this dawn, does the divine Lord accept the friendship of a mortal? When and in what manner is His friendship extended to the friends who love Him and entwine in Him their firm affection. 5

How and in what manner shall we proclaim your affection to your faithful devotees? When may we make known to every one your fraternal regards? The efforts of lustrous Lord are for the happiness of all. The astonishing glory of the Lord, as also of the sun, is manifest in His entire creation from earth (to the heavenly bodies). 6

Resolving to subdue the rebels and rivals, He sharpens His weapon to destroy them. The powerful Lord holds in abeyance for an indefinite period the payment of debts, till the approach of distant dawning mornings. 7

Multifold are the bounties of eternal law since ever. The real understanding of eternal law destroys all iniquities. The intelligent and glowing tribute of eternal law opens even the deaf ears of living beings. 8

Many are the stable, sustaining and delightful forms of the embodied eternal law. The expectant devotees obtain long lasting food through the eternal law. By eternal law our senses are led to eternal truth. 9

The worshipper, abiding by eternal truth, verily enjoys the fruits of truth. Swift moves the might of law and procures benefits. The law is supreme over the wide and profound, from the depth of earth to the vastness of heaven. The cow is milked for the sake of eternal truth. 10

O lauded and glorified resplendent Lord, may you grant ample food to your worshipper, as rivers swell high and give water. O Lord of vital glory, we continue composing new hymns for you. May we, car-borne, be victors for ever. 11

What worthy praise may win the favour of the resplendent Lord, the source of strength, so that He may give us riches. O men, He is the supreme hero and the Lord of wisdom. He takes away the benefits from adversaries to give them to those who glorify Him. 1

He, the resplendent Lord, is to be invoked for the destruction of the devil of ignorance. He is to be adored and worshipped. He is the donor of lasting riches. He, the bounteous Lord, gives wealth to the mortal, who offers Him sincere devotion and dedication. 2

Men verily call upon Him in the times of adversities. When the devotees, men and women both, accept Him as their sole preserver, and approach Him, the bountiful Lord, they are blessed with the gift of sons and grandsons. 3

O powerful Lord, men variously put forth their vigour, striving together in the whirl of conflicts. While struggling against each other, they call upon Him for help. 4

Thereupon the offerer verily worships the powerful resplendent Lord and prepares oblation, as if a buttered cake, to offer to Him. Thereupon, the reciter of the devotional prayers turns out the unbelievers. And finally they take delight in worshipping the Lord, showerer of benefits. 5

Resplendent Lord awards him with blessings, who emotionally worships Him. The Lord, moved by the devotion, makes the devotee an ally in his struggles of life. 6

To one who offers to the resplendent Lord his matured emotions and dedications, just as to a guest are offered refreshing drinks and rich cooked meals along with puffed corns, He, the Lord blesses him with vigour and fulfils his aspirations. 7

When the hero warrior of the cosmic world, destroyer of evils, marks out his opposing forces and when he describes his heroic actions done in the long range planned cosmic creation, the cosmic intelligence as a bride in her own dwelling, encouraged by the tributes offered by devotees, takes delight in the praises. 8

A man bids small price (his material gains) for an article of great value (spiritual). Lord, the seller, speaks to the buyer; this is still unpurchased (and you can have it). But He insists to get full price of the article. The purchaser, however, does not raise the offer. The seller sticks to his demand, and the purchaser on to his offer; both look to their own interests whilst milking the udder. 9

Who can purchase the entire spirituality for the humble price of ten cows? When one has destroyed the devil of malice, through the borrowed spirituality, it has to be returned back to the resplendent Lord. 10

O lauded and glorified resplendent Lord, may you grant ample food to your worshipper, as rivers swell high and give water. O Lord of vital glory, we continue composing new hymns for you. May we, car-borne, be victors for ever. 11

Who is he, who, aspiring to be divine, yearns to enjoy the comradeship of resplendent Lord ? Or who with the extracted medicinal herbs and with enkindled fire (intense devotion and enthusiasm) adores Him to win His great and unbounded protection ? 1

Who has with prayer bowed to the Lord, the lover of devotion ? Who is earnestly devoted to Him ? Who is the admirer of the spiritual radiation emanating out of him ? Who seeks His communion ? His friendship ? His fraternity ? Who has recourse to the sage for help ? 2

Who solicits today the protection of Nature's bounties ? Who seeks eternity and the source of eternal light for spiritual enlightenment ? Propitiated by whose praise the pair of twin-divines—mental and spiritual faculties—the soul and the fire of vital forces, willingly accept the love of devotee ? 3

Whosoever says, "let us offer devotional love to the resplendent Lord, the guide of all ceremonies, the friend of man, the chief amongst leaders," to him the radiant, adorable Lord, the bearer of oblations, grants felicity, and he is blessed with long life to behold the rising sun. 4

Neither many collectively nor few individuals can overcome Him. The eternal Lord grants him infinite happiness. Dear to Him is one with noble acts and the one with noble thoughts and dear to Him is one who is particularly enlightened and the one completely dedicated to Him. 5

This almighty resplendent Lord, the prompt dispeller of darkness, accessible with sincere love, grants maturity to the zealous devotee. (On the contrary) He is neither a brother, nor a kinsman, nor a friend, nor a relation of him who offers no dedication. He is beyond access, and the punisher of him, who pays no tributes. 6

The resplendent Lord, the acceptor of loving devotion, keeps no alliance with the one who, though wealthy, is a black marketeer and who shows no devotion. He forfeits his wealth and destroys him when destitute. He is particularly friendly to him, who offers devotion and homage. 7

The resplendent Lord is invoked by the most exalted, the Lord invoked by the most humble, the Lord invoked by the intermediate ones. The moving ones invoke Him and so the stationary. He is invoked by those staying at home, and by fighters in the field. 8

I, so speaks the Supreme Self, am the prime source of contemplation and divine light. I am the far-seeing sage and centre of cosmic orbit. I am the accomplisher of piercing intellect. I am the poet, the well-wisher of all; so may you all behold me. 1

I give the earth to the virtuous men. I shower rain for the benefit of dedicated mortals. I let forth the resonating waters. All Nature's bounties do move with my will. 2

In the perfection of bliss, I send forth showers of ninety and nine (unbound) blessings of rain clouds. I give all round shelter to the followers of path of light. I give hundredfold habitation to the reverential people. 3

This divine bird (the sun), O cosmic vital principles, is pre-eminent over other birds,—may this fleet-winged falcon be supreme of other falcons (ever-moving planets), since he with a wheelless car, strong-pinioned, brings godly bliss to mankind, which henceforth has been dear to Nature's bounties only. 4

When this divine bird (the sun) overpowering physical forces, carries off the divine bliss from here, it flies, swift as thought, along the vast path of the firmament ; it has flown rapidly with the sweet celestial elixir, and this falcon thence acquires glory in this world. 5

This straight-flying bird carries and brings the divine delightful elixir from afar. Having taken it from that lofty heaven, he brings this celestial blessing for humanity. 6

Having taken it, the bird brings the elixir with him to a thousand and ten-thousand sacred places of work and worship, and this being provided, the performer of many selfless deeds, the faultless Sun destroys all evil forces through the ecstasy of that divine elixir. 7

As I lay within the womb, I know all the births of these divinities in their order; a hundred fortresses of iron confine me, but as a falcon I come forth with rapid speed. 1

That embryo does not beguile me into perfect delight, and by the powerful vision of divine wisdom, I triumph over it. And being then the impeller of all, the sustainer of many, I destroy adversaries, and expanding, pass beyond the winds of worldly troubles. 2

When the divine falcon roars loudly with exultation, on his descent from celestial region, and the guardians of the elixir perceive that the elixir has been carried away by it, then the archer, pursuing with the speed of thought, and stringing his bow, let fly an arrow against it. 3

The straight-flying falcon carries off the vast and lofty heaven, as the pair of twin divines, carries off the rescuer from the region of Supreme Lord. Then a falling feather, from the body of the divine bird, drops from him, wounded in the conflict. 4

Now after damage, let the bounteous (bird, the soul) drink the pure, nutritious, sacrificial elixir, filled in a bright pitcher, full of divine knowledge and devotion, offered by the pious priests. May he, the hero, drink this sweet spiritual elixir, drink it for his spiritual bliss. 5

Through that friendship, O blissful elixir, which unites you with your friend—inner self, he makes the thoughts flow for men; he destroys the devil of ignorance, and sends forth the faculties—seven senses. He opens the hidden divine wisdom. 1

With your alliance, O blissful, the soul quickly takes off by force the wheel of the chariot of the sun, the great oppressor, rolling far above in the high summit of the firmament. 2

The inner self destroys evils, O Lord of bliss, and divine fire consumes them before the noon worship. He casts down many a thousand fortresses of evils, usually difficult to be detected. 3

O resplendent self, you make these devils devoid of all benefits; you subdue the tendencies of oppression. May you, O soul and Lord of bliss, repel and destroy animosities and accept our homage for this glorious fight. 4

O soul and Lord of bliss, possessor of wealth, destroyer of evils, it is indeed true that you burst open the doors of wisdom and vitality, which lie concealed, and you restore the land, recovered by your strength. 5

Revered and lauded with sacred hymns, O resplendent Lord, most virtuous, and embodiment of truth, may you come with the speed of rays, through the ecstasy of your strength, to our places of work and worship, for our protection. 1

May He, the best friend of man, the omniscient, come to the place of worship, invoked by the singers of sacred hymns. He is possessed of vital energies, fearless, honoured by the seekers of spiritual joy. He rejoices the company of heroic forces. 2

May you make his ears listen, that he may be vigorous and show his delight from all sides. May He, the vigorous Lord, pouring forth his bounteous blessings, show us the right path and confer perfect safety, free from danger. 3

That resplendent Lord comes to His implorer, to the sage, who with his songs invites Him. He is armed with the bolt of punitive justice, and possesses hundreds and thousands of swift-going horse-like vital elements in the shafts of His divine chariot. 4

O opulent resplendent Lord, may we, the singers, the highly enlightened priests, protected by you, share the riches, sent from lofty heaven, which yield brilliant wealth and abundant food, cherished by all. 5

There is no one, O resplendent dispeller of darkness, superior to you; no one better than you; there is no one, verily, such as you are. 1

Verily, men are attached to you, as the wheels to the chariot. In truth, you are great and renowned. 2

Verily, all Nature's forces, associated with you to obtain strength, confront with evil forces, then you destroy the opposing forces by day and by night. 3

In that contest, for the sake of wise sage, and his allies, you raise the wheel of the sun—the source of divine illumination. 4

In that contest indeed you singly fight with all those opposing forces. You strike down the malignant. 5

In that contest, O Lord, you speedily send forth the force of the sun (light-divine) for the sake of a mortal, and protect the diligent and wise man, like a skilled horse, by your divine radiance. 6

O opulent Lord, destroyer of evils, do you not thereupon become most eager, and, in consequence, strike down the evil forces. 7

Inasmuch as O Lord, you display such manly prowess, you smite down such forces, who conceive ill, like the sun wiping off the dawn — the daughter of the sky. 8

O supreme mighty Lord, you wipe off the evil, as the sun wipes off the glorious dawn, the daughter of heaven, whilst lifting herself with pride. 9

Like the terrified dawn, the evil force descends from the broken chariot of cosmos, when the showerer of benefits smash it. 10

Then her shattered chariot starts journey on unobstructed paths, and she flies far away. 11

You sustain over-flowing stream of rivers over the land by your contrivance. 12

Valiantly you seize and carry off the wealth of exploiter, amassed by him, and then demolish his strong-holds. 13

Like the sun, may you strike down the dark clouds of evils, the source of all sins, hurling them off from the lofty mountain. 14

You annihilate the hundred, thousand and the five followers of the powerful infidels surrounding him like the fellies round the spokes of the wheel. 15

O resplendent Lord, performer of hundred noble deeds, may you make the descendants of brave leader, participants in singing sacred hymns. 16

The Lord of deeds, the all-wise, bears the stout and hard-working persons, denied of sacred rituals, across their difficulties. 17

You destroy at once those two kinds of people of status who are either money hoarders or are the power-blinds, living across the borders. 18

O destroyer of evils, you restore the two—the blind and the crippled, both abandoned. What more happiness could they have than the one given by you ! 19

The most enlightened devotees glorify you with praise, that you may grant ample wealth and vigour. 9

We proclaim your prowess, whereby, through the ecstasy of joy, you proceed to attack the evil-minded and overpower their strong-holds. 10

O resplendent Lord, lauded by sacred hymns, the pious sages celebrate your heroic deeds, performed through the exhilaration of devotional love. 11

The most enlightened sages, offerers of praise, exalt you, O resplendent Lord! may you bestow upon them fame and posterity. 12

Verily your blessings are ever showered on all equally, and hence do we invoke you. 13

O resplendent Lord, the giver of all comforts, acceptor of devotional love, be present with us, and be delighted by the sweet melodies of our prayers. 14

O resplendent Lord, may these praises, which we present to you bring you to us. May you turn both of your horses (of chariot) hitherward. 15

May you accept our offerings of butter and cakes and be delighted by our praises, as a libertine by the caresses of a woman. 16

We solicit resplendent Lord, for swift moving transport vehicles in response to our hundreds of devotional prayers. 17

We seek to bring down from you, thousands and hundreds of cattles. May your wealth flow to us freely. 18

May we obtain from you, ten pitchers of gold ; for you, O dispeller of darkness, are a bountiful giver. 19

A bountiful giver you are, O resplendent Lord ; may you give us bountifully, not little, give plenty ; for verily you desire to give more and ever more. 20

O brave dispeller of darkness, verily you are renowned among many as a bountiful giver. Make us partner of your treasures. 21

O eternal omniscient protector and sustainer of wisdom, I praise the pair of your horse-like energies. May you not let our cow of mind be frightened with them. 22

Like two puppets, on an arranged new and slender stage, your two faculties—mental and vital—are brilliant at the cosmic sacrifice. 23

Blessed are your brown steeds when they move to the upper solstice, and blessed are they when move to the opposite one ; they are innocuous at both the sacrifices. 24

I send my prayer as a messenger to the intellectuals ; I solicit of them the words of sacred wisdom, the yielder of untinted truth. These words are swift as the wind, and the inspirers of noble deeds. These words of advice move freely across the dimension of space and time as if borne by rapid waves of the cosmic wind. 1

When the wise sages, by serving their parents with renovated youth, and by other works, achieve enough, they thereupon proceed to the society of the enlightened, and being friendly they bring nourishment to the devout worshipper. 2

May the physically, intellectually and spiritually advanced sages, always dedicated to resplendent Lord, and lovers of sweet spiritual joy, protect our noble deeds. These sages who render service to their decrepid and dropsy parents, who were laying like two dry posts, make them young again for ever. 3

When for a year, the wise sages preserve the barren land, for a year they invest it with fertility ; for a year they continue effort to make it fertile ; they obtain immortality by their noble deeds. 4

The eldest of the intellectuals said, "The universe is made of two hemispheres". The younger said, "There are three (the upper, the middle, the lower)." The youngest said, "It consists of four quadrants." The creator applauds this version. 5

The leaders of men speak truth, and so they classify the universe. Thereupon the intellectuals follow their inspired version. The supreme creator, beholding the quadrant classification, radiant as the day, expresses satisfaction. 6

When the intellectuals reposing for twelve days, remain in the close proximity of the unconcealable sun (the truth), they render the fields fertile. Let the rivers flow forth, let plants spring upon the hitherto barren land, and let waters spread over the low places. 7

These experienced intellectuals construct the firm abiding, wheel-conducting car; they rear many breads of milch-cow and are the bestowers of food, the doers of great deeds and dexterous. May they grant us riches. 8

The enlightened men are delighted by the work of sages. The mechanical technicians become favourite of the enlightened ones, electrical of the resplendent ones, and hydrodynamical of the venerable. 9

May these electrical technicians, deserving appreciation, who devise motors of vehicles, and construct for the resplendent the two docile engines (for roadways and waterways), bestow upon us satiety of riches and wealth of cattle, like those who devise prosperity for a friend. 10

The godly persons verily give you the exhilarating appreciation today. Not without toil, the divines get friendly with men. Therefore, O eminent sages, grant us wealth at this third term of worship. 11

The illustrious technicians, electrical, hydrodynamical and physical, may grace our work and worship, to distribute precious things. These people of genius have toiled hard in their craft, the essence. Their exhilarating experience is collected for you all. 1

O brilliant sages of spiritual and physical realms, wise from the day of birth, may you rejoice together in appropriate seasons. The exhilarating appreciation is offered to you as well as the intellectual offerings. May you confer upon us riches with excellent posterity. 2

O spiritual leaders, this benevolent work is instituted for you. Being eminently resplendent, you have been doing it, like common men. These propitiatory offerings have been placed for you. O masters of physical realm, verily you are foremost leaders of the world. 3

Now, O leaders, this precious treasure is to be granted as gift to the dedicated mortal worshipper, who serves you. O leaders of physical and spiritual realms, this elixir is to gladden you in the third-afternoon—solemn ceremony. 4

O leaders of material and spiritual realm, come to us with the delight of accepting this rich and great offering. These sacred essences proceed to you, as the day is closing, as cows whose calves are newly born, return to their cow-shed. 5

O spiritual self, may you drink and relish the essence in the company of mental ego. O praised by hymns, drink it in company with vital elements. Drink it with love in company with the fore-most guardians at the ceremonies connected with the seasons. May you drink it in company with rich guardians of wives. 7

O leaders of spiritual realms, be exhilarated, in company with the enlightened, in company with public servants controlling hilly products, ecclesiastical duties, creative arts, river projects, and, mines and minerals. 8

Spiritual leaders, by your assistance, the physicians and surgeons have been able to treat the elders, as well as cattle and kine; and technicians have been able to fabricate motors, engines and armour, and have shown skill as ground and space engineers, they have been notable for their fruitful works. 9

The technicians and architects possess wealth, comprising cattle, food, progeny, dwellings, and abundant sustenance; may you, being the first drinkers of the sacred knowledge when exhilarated grant prosperity to those, who glorify your generosity. 10

O men of experience and wisdom; go not away, let us not leave you; may you be present unrepached at this worship; rejoice along with resplendent leader and with the brave warriors, and with other brilliant dignitaries for the distribution of wealth. 11

O men of strength, not allowing themselves to decline, O expert in war-weapons, and persons of experience and wisdom, come to us, please stay not away. May these exhilarating gifts proceed first to the resplendent Lord and then to you, at this sacred ceremony. 1

May the munificence of the men of experience and wisdom come to us on this occasion; they have accepted our well-composed devotional prayers, and they have given to us by their dexterous and excellent work the concept of dividing the globe into four quadrants. (See hymn 33, verse 5). 2

You have outlined the details of dividing the globe into four quadrants and said, O friend, teach the same to others. O physically strong and spiritually elevated, defthanded men of wisdom, may you accept the concept of four and act accordingly; and thereby attain the realm of immortal enlightened ones. 3

What sort of global ladle was that which by your art and wisdom, you have made four-fold? Now pour forth the elixir of knowledge for exhilaration and inspiration; and,
O leaders of experience and wisdom, may this knowledge be for your relish and enjoyment. 4

By your marvellous thinking, you have made the old young; by your marvellous deeds, you have provided the ladle to enlightened ones for drinking. O jewels among men of physical and spiritual strength; by your marvellous skill, may you fabricate fast moving transports and projects, and bring affluence and fame. 5

We invoke respectfully these pioneers of roadways and space-crafts, to accept our reverential homage. O wise technicians, by your creative ability you design this never-erring, high rolling craft out of your genius workmanship. 2

O leaders of physical, mental and spiritual realms, you have been very well known among the learned, that you can make your aged infirm parents young, so that they are able to walk and work again. 3

You outline the details of the concept of dividing one globe into four quadrants, and by your toil and skill you change the barren crust of the earth to the fertile land, thereby quickly gaining immortal fame among the enlightened. Your great deeds, O leaders of physical, mental and spiritual realms, must be extolled. 4

The food and wealth which have been created by the combined efforts of the pioneers of technology of roadways, waterways and airways has to be appreciated and acknowledged at the public assemblies. 5

He becomes vigorous and skilled in war; he becomes a sage and eloquent, the brave and invincible in battles, and possessed of ample wealth, and he is blessed with excellent posterity; who has the patronage of experts in roadcraft, watercrafts and aircraft. 6

A dignified and highly important position is held by you, this we acknowledge. We know, you are master of wisdom, and therefore, O pioneers of roadways and aircraft, with his prayer, we call on you to come. 7

O enlightened pioneers of technology having full knowledge of all needs and comforts that are good for men, may you, according to our wishes, fashion powerful and splendid machines, of high standard. 8

Gratified by our worship, now help us to gain heroic progeny, wealth and reputation. Vouchsafe us wealth of splendid sort, O pioneers of crafts, that we may be more renowned than others. 9

37

O pioneers of roadcraft and aircraft, come to aid our benevolent deeds by paths meant for divinities. O gracious pioneers, maintain the tradition of work and worship among mankind for securing prosperity all the days. 1

May these offerings be appealing to your intellect and satisfying to your heart. May the sincere devotion, mixed with love, flow to you; abundant appreciation and rewards may bear you onward to power, and when imbibed, delight you. 2

O pioneers of roadways and aircraft, your threefold transport is meant for the welfare of the entire people, and hence the appreciation. Therefore, the affectionate honour is offered to you along with meritorious people of other fields, assembled at this solemn function. 3

O pioneers of roadways, possessed of treasures, you have come here on a strong transport, mounted on a brilliant carriage, and having the jaws of iron. O powerful sons of resplendent; grandsons of never-failing strength, this foremost function is organised for your felicitation. 4

O pioneers of aircrafts, we invoke you, the possessor of war vehicles, devised by you as a result of team-work, of a great utility in war time, fast moving, highly-priced, speedy and strong, complex in structure, and provided with sensitive and sensible components. 5

O pioneers of aircraft, may the person, whom you favour with your help be liberal by his acts and possessor of transport equipment, essential for public good. 6

O pioneers of the land and air transport, may you direct us on the way to the battlefield. O wise ones, being glorified by us, may you traverse all the quarters of space. 7

O pioneers of the land and air transport, ever truthful to resplendent leader of the nation, may you join us and lead with all your mobile transport for our prosperity. 8

O pioneer of land and air transport, powerful and munificent, terror to the enemies, you have been bestowing such rewards from earliest times, as belong to you only. You have given formidable and fierce weapons to the speedy vehicle for the destruction of infidels. 1

And you too give swift spacecraft, the repeller of rebels, the defender of all men, the straight-going like eagle, gracefully-moving, the resplendent, the rapid, the destroyer of enemies like a heroic prince. 2

All men praise this spacecraft which rushes everywhere, down a precipice, springs with his feet like a hero eager for war, and whirls like the car and flies like tempest. 3

The spacecraft gains precious gifts in the battles and rushes fast, passing through the regions, whose vigour is manifest in all directions; and who undoubtedly as we know puts to shame the adversary of the pious man. 4

And men call for the spacecraft in battles, as they shout for thier carrying off a garment, or as a hungry falcon pounces upon his prey; they call after him as if hastening to obtain food, or they loudly address while calling a herd of cattle. 5

And the space-craft, willing to come forth first amid these encounters, rushes in various directions with other rows of space chariots ; or like an elegant courser, friendly to man, decorated with a garland, raising the dust and champing the rein that holds him. 6

And it is a mighty space fighter, who keeps enduring in battle, bestowing food, and doing service with his limbs, rushing swiftly upon the quick-moving host of the enemy, going straight onward, and tossing up the dust, throws it above his brows. 7

And at its thunder, like the roar of heaven, the assailants tremble and get alarmed ; for when it fights against embattled thousands on every side, then, rousing his spirit, it is fearful and irresistible. 8

Men praise the overpowering rapidity of this spacecraft, the accomplisher of the aspirations of mankind. Soldiers going to battle, declare that the swift spacecraft has proceeded forward against adversaries laden with thousands of firing units. 9

This speedy spacecraft serves all the five classes of men with vigour, like the sun who shines with radiance over the sky. May it smite to pieces hundreds and thousands of foes, and lead us to sweet rewards. 10

Verily we praise that swift flying spacecraft, which scatters the enemies all around on the land in the space. May the ascending dawns inspire me to active work and bear me safely across evils and distresses. 1

I reiterate the admiration of this great spacecraft, the accomplisher of all my assignments, invigorater of my spirit, the liberal, which is lauded by all, and showerer of benefits. The experts of solar and hydroelectric powers have fabricated this fast moving craft, brilliant as fire, for all and sundry. 2

May the supreme authority in association with expert technologists of thermal and hydro-dynamic energy, render it flawless. He releases this speedy craft for the fast flight at the break of dawn, when the sacred fire is kindled. 3

Whilst we glorify the auspicious name of this great spacecraft, along with vital principles, the givers of sustenance and strength, let us for our welfare invoke also the technologists of hydro-electricity, solar energy and fire, and the bearer of thunder-arms. 4

Those who prepare for battle, and those who proceed to worship, both invoke the spacecraft, as if he is the resplendent sun. The technical experts of water and electricity have given to us this spacecraft which inspires men to vigorous work. 5

I glorify the spacecraft which is rapid like victorious steed. May he give to our faces the fragrance of fame and longevity to our liver. 6

May be repeatedly recite the praise of spacecraft. May all rising dawns inspire me. May we honour the cosmic forces of water, fire, dawn, the sun, the large planet and invincible vital powers. 1

May the spacecraft, which is active, the cherisher, swift, giver of wisdom, needing service and ease, be willing to accept the sacrificial fuel at the break of dawn. May it which is true, the fleet, and moving with fire-flames, bring for us food, strength and happiness. 2

This spacecraft is quick-moving, hastening, eager to arrive at his goal, the transporter and is as swift as hawk. Eyes of men follow it as other birds pursue the flight of a swift bird. 3

And that speedy horse-like craft, bound by his neck, his flanks, and mouth, accelerates his paces for attack. The spacecraft lends new swiftness to his speed to perform his duty and following the windings of the air-routes goes with still greater speed. 4

This spacecraft goes according to schedule, and is bright like the sun in the high effulgent region, and is like a planet in the inter space, and is like an invoker priest of the ceremonial altar, and is like a guest at home. It is like a leader among men, and the dweller in the most excellent orb, balanced in space. It moves without impediment through the clouds, on the land, and amongst the mountains, always abiding by the code of instructions. 5

O soul and mind, which laudation of yours may bestow felicity on us, similar to the blessings procured by the immortal invoker by offering oblation during ceremony. May that praise, which is addressed by us to you both, O soul and mind, sanctified by acts, and prompted by veneration, touch your hearts. 1

O divine soul and mind, the mortal, who is diligent in offering dedication, makes you his ally to gain your friendship, he dispels his own evils and destroys all adverse impulses in the struggle, and through your great favour, he becomes renowned. 2

When as friends, well-honoured with dedication, you are exhilarated by the devotional love expressed through friendship, O soul and mind, you become most liberal givers of treasures to men, who toil to serve you in various ways. 3

O mighty soul and mind, you hurl the strongest flashing bolt of adamantine will power against those adverse impulses, which are difficult to be resisted by us, which are rapacious and malevolent. May you measure on him your over-whelming vigour. 4

O soul and mind, be the inspirer of our faculties, as the bull is of the milch-cows; may they yield us milk, like a great cow, who pouring out her thousand channels of milk, goes forth to pastures. 5

May the soul and mind, the overthrowers of foes, be around us with their gracious favours, so that, thereby we may have worthy newly-born children and grown up sons, fertile lands, long life and steer-like virility. 6

Desirous of possessing wisdom, we have recourse to you, O soul and mind for full protection. O adorable heroes, you are powerful and kind as kinsmen. We solicit friendship and affection from you, parents, as if, to us, the givers of happiness. 7

O liberal givers, those praises, soliciting abundant food, have proceeded to both of you for the sake of your protection, as soldiers long for battle, and as the sense organs long for their satisfaction and pleasures. May in the same way, my heartfelt hymns approach soul and mind. 8

These my thoughts proceed to soul and mind, desirous of obtaining wisdom, as treasure-lovers approach rich, or as humble maidens of hermitage go to the opulent householders for the charity of food. 9

May we, of our own right, be the masters of horses, chariots, and other vehicles, and nourishing food and fuel, lasting for long duration. May these two, soul and mind, traversing their own regions, direct their mobile faculties towards us, associating them with ever new aids and protections. 10

O mighty soul and mind, come to us in struggle, with your powerful protections, and may we be triumphant in that inner conflict, through your favour, where the flashing arrows of passions are hurled over all around. 11

All the immortals are mine and so are the people of defence and protection. Two-fold is my empire. The divine powers abide by the order of mine, the venerable Lord; I rule over man and his kith and kin. <sup>1</sup>

I am the king, the most venerable. On me are bestowed those principal energies that are destructive of evil forces. The divine powers abide by the order of mine, the venerable Lord. I rule over man and his kith and kin. <sup>2</sup>

I am resplendent, I am venerable, I am in my greatness, like the vast, profound, beautiful regions. Being all wise, like supreme architect, I animate all beings. I sustain earth and heaven. <sup>3</sup>

I uphold the moisture-shedding cosmic ocean. I uphold the effulgent region in the abode of the eternal order. Being the preserver of eternity, I create the universe according to the eternal laws. And I spread abroad the world in threefold elementary space. <sup>4</sup>

The well-equipped and zealous fighters invoke me. Being surrounded they call on me in the conflict and endowed with victorious prowess, I smite the evils into dust in the battle. <sup>5</sup>

I have done all these deeds; on one resists my divine, unsurpassed vigour. And when the devotional love and sacred songs of my worshippers exhilarate me, then the unbounded heaven and earth, both, are alarmed. 6

All beings recognize your deeds, O venerable Lord. O worshipper, address these sacred hymns to the venerable Lord. O resplendent Lord, you are renowned for destroying evils; you have set the obstructed rivers free to flow. 7

The seven-fold principles were the protectors of this kingdom, when the sun was captive in deep dark clouds. They restore for her the queen, the earth and the sun, illuminator of half the earth, the terror to the dark forces. 8

The queen of virtues propitiated you two, the Lord of cosmic light and plasma with oblations and prostrations. They restore for her, the queen, the earth and the sun, the illuminator of half the earth. 9

May we, glorifying you both, be delighted by riches; may the divines be pleased by oblations and may the cows by pastures. May you, the Lord of cosmic light and plasma, daily grant us, the very same cow, free from any imperfection. 10

Which of these, who deserve honour will listen to our prayers? Which of all divine forces will response to our sacred prayers? On whose heart, dearest among the immortals, may we lay this celestial, splendid, dedicated, affectionate prayer? 1

Who will make us happy? Who will, among divine powers, come promptly to us? Who will bring real joy to us? What chariot do they say is quick and drawn by rapid steeds? Verily, that, which the daughter of the sun, the dawn, selects. 2

By moving, you proceed rapidly by day and manifest your power just as the sun manifests its power at the end of night. You are, O twin-divines, descending from heaven, and possessing divine graceful motion. (May we know) by which of your functions, you are most distinguished. 3

O twin-divines, sweet-tempered and foe-destroyers, what could be the fit measure to match your merits? Invoked by what praises do you come to us? Who can bear the attack of your great wrath? O destroyers of evils, lovers of sweetness, may you defend us with your protective measures. 4

Your chariot travels in wide space and round the heaven, till it goes beyond the firmament. Singers of songs are adding sweet melodies to their words of devotional offerings, as if mixing boiled barley with other libations, and sweet herbal juices with milk. 5

The radiant rays carry over moisture from flowing waters, just as steeds moving across the river. The radiations pass on like birds, bright with lustre. Well known is that quick-moving chariot, whereby you become lords of the dawns. 6

O twin-divines, both of you are like-minded and rich in treasures. May our earnest praise offered to you be beneficial to us. May you protect your worshipper. O ever-true divines, my aspirations are directed towards you for gratification. 7

44

O twin-divines, today we invoke your rapid chariot, which is far-spreading and the associator of the solar rays. This well-tightened chariot, which is vast, rich in treasure, and laden with praises, bears the dawn. 1

O twin-divines, sustainers of heaven, you enjoy this glory by your might and power, and by the sacrificial food, which is offered to you; your stately horses (rays) draw you in your chariot. 2

Who is that offerer of oblations; that addresses you today with hymns, for the sake of obtaining protection, and for gaining spiritual joy, or for the eternal fulfilment of the aspiration of worship. Who is the offerer of adoration, that brings you, O twin-divines, to this place of worship. 3

O omnipresent, ever-true twin-divines, come with your golden chariot to this place of worship and participate in the sparkling glory of universe, and give precious treasures to the devotee, who adores you. 4

Come to us, whether from heaven or earth, with your well-constructed golden chariot. Let not other worshippers, aspiring to be divine, detain you. Because here you are bound by earlier bonds of friendship. 5

O destroyers of devils, may you grant us both great opulence, comprising many descendants, since the leaders of the worship have addressed many praises, and worshippers of eternal Lord have joined them in their laudations. 6

O twin-divines, both of you are like-minded and rich in treasures. May our earnest praise offered to you be beneficial to us. May you protect your worshipper. O ever-true divines, our aspirations are directed towards you for gratification. 7

Yonder goes up the sun, your chariot, O twin-divines, traversing the regions. It is associated with the divine orb on the summit of the heaven. Within it are the three analogous kinds of food : the wind, the electricity and the water ; and the leather-like vessel of the sweet clouds rustling is the fourth one. 1

Your food-bearing, cloud-laden, well-horsed chariots, appear at the flash of the dawn, scattering the surrounding gloom, like the sun, and spreading bright radiance over the firmament. 2

May you drink the heavenly sweet sap with lips accustomed to drink it; may you harness your beloved chariot for the sweet sap. May you come to the dwelling of the worshipper, and enliven the path with the sacred sap. May you bring, O twin-divines, the leather vessels, filled with the heavenly elixir. 3

May you come to our place of worship, as fleeing insects and birds to honey, with those waves that are swift of speed, gentle, persistent in action, golden-winged, bearers of burdens, early wakers at dawn, dispensers of water, exulting and sipping the heavenly elixir. 4

The foremost requisite of the holy rituals, the sacred fire, the acceptor of sweet libations, praises the associated twin-divines every day, when the prudent priest, the conductor of the ceremony, with clean hands expresses by grinding stones the sweet-flavoured juice of medicinal herbs. 5

The near-advancing rays, dispersing the darkness by the light of day, are over-spreading the firmament with lustre. The sun, harnessing as if the (horses) of his chariot, proceeds on his way. May you investigate the paths on which the sun traverses, offering food libations, as he moves. 6

Celebrating sacred rites, I glorify you, O twin-divines. Your undecaying chariot has excellent horses, wherewith you traverse swiftly through the regions of space. May you abounding in oblations promptly come to our place of worship, conferring happiness. 7

O soul and vital breath, both of you deserve to relish the devotional elixir. Our devotion flows towards you as drops of water gather to move towards lower levels. 2

O soul and vital breath, lords of strength, vigorous, and drawn by the subsidiaries, the sense-perceptions, may both of you come riding in the same vehicle to accept devotional love for our protection. 3

Leaders of ceremonies, conveyors of sacred homage, O soul and vital breath, may you grant to the dedicated devotees the reputed sense-enjoying faculties, which are blessed by you. 4

O vital breath, come like an army chief, the terrifier of evil force. May you enrich the worshipper and come with your refulgent car to enjoy exhilarating experiences. 1 invincible, great sacred works of your such worshippers, as gladden you by their work, and who are possessed of great wisdom, and glorify you. May you make their adversaries tremble. 2

O sun, lord of vast universe, these vital rays of yours, coming from a distant region, exist in the eternal order. May these rays relish the exhilarating moisture of all that is on this earth, just as the worshipper enjoys the herbal juice, pressed by the sounding stones during the ceremony and flowing copiously, as if from a deep well. 3

O sun, lord of vast universe, you first appear in the highest region of supreme light with your seven-fold mouth and with noise of thunder ; with seven rays, you blow and disperse the darkness. 4

Aided by the reputed and brilliant troop of the devout sages, he destroys with super-sound the crooked pollution. Then the sun, the lord of vast universe, the bestower of food with super-sound, sets free his rays for the growth of harvest, that supplies the material of oblations. 5

Thus may we offer worship with praises and dedication and with oblation to the paternal universal Lord, the showerer of benefits, and may we, O Lord of Universe, be blessed with excellent and valiant progeny and become proud possessors of rich treasures. 6

Surely that prince overcomes by his strength and prowess all hostile people, who cherishes Supreme Lord liberally by oblations and glorifies and honours him as the foremost sharer of the offering. 7

Verily he dwells in peace and comfort in his own house ; to him the earth bears fruit in all seasons ; to him his subjects willingly pay homage, the prince to whom the Lord supreme first favours with His blessings. 8

Their widely-spread light is coming up in the east, from out of darkness, inspiring divine wisdom. Verily the brilliant dawns, the daughters of heaven, enlighten the path of action for men. 1

The richly-coloured dawns rise up in the east, like the pillars planted at the place of worship round the altar. Radiant, splendid and purifying are they manifested, opening the portals of the fold of gloom. 2

The gloom-dispelling, affluent dawns animate the pious worshippers to offer sacrificial treasure. May the churlish traffickers sleep on unawakened in the gloomy depth of darkness. 3

O divine dawns, may your chariot, whether old or new, be frequent at this day's worship, wherewith, O affluent dawns, possessing riches, may you shine upon the singers reciting seven-tones of the fire-priests, presiding over the ceremony lasting nine or ten days. 4

O divine dawns, with speedy rays, harnessed by eternal order, you swiftly travel round the regions of space. May you arouse the sleeping creatures, whether biped (men) or quadraped (cattle), so that they may pursue their assigned duties. 5

Where is that ancient one of those dawns, through whom the works of men of experience and wisdom are accomplished ? As the bright dawns happily proceed onward, they are not known apart, being alike and undecaying. 6

Blessed are those dawns, shining with blessings, furnished with that truth which springs from eternal holy order. With the help of these dawns, the worshipper, adoring with silent praises, and glorifying with hymns, soon obtains riches. 7

Coming from the east, from the same region alike, they spread around in a similar form. These divine dawns, springing from the seat of holy order, shine like radiant rays of the sun. 8

The auspicious rays are visible, spreading like scattered cows. The dawn has filled the world with her refulgence. 5

O refulgent dawns, filling the world with light, you dispel darkness with your radiance. There after may you protect our grainaries. 6

You overspread, O dawns, the heaven with rays, as well as the vast and loving firmament with pure lustre. 7

We, solicit of this divine, powerful and all wise creator, who deserves adoration, and who is master of ample wealth ; wherewith He freely grants His worshipper, offerer of homage, protection of his own accord. May the great Lord grant us such blessings every day. 1

He, the all-wise creator, is the sustainer of heaven, and the protector of the world. He puts on as if an armour of spiritual halo around Him. He discriminates all objects, and filling the world with bliss, disperses great laudable benefits. 2

The divine creator fills with radiance the celestial and terrestrial regions. Shining in His own sovereignty, He puts forth His arms of help for the protection, regulates the world, and animates it with His divine light. 3

The divine creator, unhampered in His activities, illumines the regions and protects the righteous men. He extends His arms of help to the people of the earth. Firm in His determinations, He shines over the wide world. 4

The creator, encompassing all the three regions by his magnitude, He pervades the three divisions of the firmament, the three worlds, the three brilliant spheres, the three heavens, and the threefold earth. May He, by His threefold measures, protect us, through His own pleasure. 5

May that divine creator, who is the source of great happiness, the engender of all, comprehender of all, regulator of both the moveable and the stationary, grant us happiness in the three worlds, and enable us to drive away the sins. 6

May the divine creator be with us along with all His seasonal blessing. May He bring prosperity to our homes, and bestow upon us food and noble sons. May He inspire us by nights and by days. May He send us opulence with progeny. 7

Now we have the realization of the divine creator. May He be glorified by us and praised by the priests at this ceremony and at the close of the day in order that He apportion precious treasures to humanity. May He bestow upon us, on this occasion, most excellent wealth. 1

O creator, you grant the best gift of immortality to the enlightened and dedicated men of the first category. To the liberal givers, you open the portals of light and to the common men, you award the continuous cycle of existence. 2

If O creator, through ignorance, infirmities or omissions on our part, we have committed offence against your divine laws, or against learned elites or common men, may you on this occasion absolve us from the guilt and be compassionate. 3

None can ever obstruct the acts of the divine creator, He sustains the whole world, and the print (the divine art) of His finger is widely visible over the extent of earth ; and the magnitude of the heaven verily is the truth, that is His. 4

You raise your worshippers to the highest level, just as the sun is elevated above the vast clouds. For them you provide dwelling places, filled with habitations. And the more they rise in their levels, the more you are retained in their hearts, and the more they are in possession of your love, the more they obey your command. 5

O creator, may the sun, the heaven and earth, the ocean full of waters, and infinity (time and space) and its divisions, be the cause of happiness for such worshippers, as offer prayers and devotional homages to you day by day, thrice a day. 6

Who, of you, O providers of riches, is our saviour ? Who is our protector ? O heaven and earth, and eternity, may you preserve us. O sun and ocean, may you protect us from the strong foe. O divines, among you, who confers rewards for our sacred deeds ? 1

The divine powers grant rewards of previous lives, dispel darkness, distinguish virtue from vice, and are infallible. They are eternal distributors of rewards, granters of what is desvied, the upholders of eternal truths and they shine brilliantly. 2

I implore Nature's bounties, such as mother-infinity, and the ocean, and the divine source of bliss for friendship. I praise you, both day and night, that you may protect us unimpeded. O night and morning, may you fulfil our wishes. 3

O ordainer and most virtuous, guide us along the path of worship. May the illustrious leader, the Lord of food, show us the way to happiness. O resplendent and protector, being glorified, bestow upon us aspired prosperity comprehending descendants and household comforts. 4

I have recourse to the protection of mountains, the cloud-bearing winds, and Nature's splendour. May the oceans preserve us from human wretchedness, and may the sun save us with a friendly regard. 5

O divine heaven and earth, I praise you, together with clouds and lightning, for those things that are desired. Desirous of acquiring riches, I praise the ocean, in which the boiling cauldron-like sounding rivers whilst traversing disappear. 6

May the divine eternity, with the divine powers, preserve us ; may the saviour Lord protect us with unceasing care. We dare not withhold the lofty powers of Nature's bounties like the sun, ocean, and fire. 7

The fire-divine is sovereign lord of treasures. He is the lord of prosperity. May he bestow these gifts on us. 8

O opulent dawn, the inspirer of aesthatic truths, food-abounding, bestow upon us ample riches. 9

May Lord, the creator, gracious, most virtuous, friendly law-abiding, and resplendent come to us, and grant prosperity. 10

May the vast and most excellent heaven and earth, honoured by sacred hymns, become the field of dedicated work and worship. In the space between the two mighty regions, the rapid winds, loudly roaring, as if bearing the divine messages of Lord, are fast-moving. 1

May the divine, adorable, benevolent, fertilizing, truthful, unoppressive heaven and earth, the leaders of cosmic sacrifice, whose children are Nature's bounties, become the place of work and worship and associated with other adorable powers be honoured by our brilliant compositions. 2

Verily He, the supreme Lord, is the master accomplisher of good work in two regions, heaven and earth, generated by him in interspace, and He with His determined purposefulness and austeric action gives an impulse to the two spacious and deep well-fashioned realms, which remain firm, apparently unsupported. 3

May heaven and earth, vast, equally respected by all, universally adorable provide us food and grant us spacious apartments, inhabited by house ladies. And may we for the performance of our noble duties be possessed of chariots and helping hands. 4

We offer earnest praise to both of you, O resplendent heaven and earth. We approach you to offer adoration with pure heart. 5

You physically sanctify each other, and shine by your own power and thus you function according to eternal laws. 6

O mighty heaven and earth, you fulfil the aspirations of your friends; distributing food and giving sustenance; may your blessing be always with us in our dedicated task. 7

May we be victorious, with the aid of the master of agricultural field, our well-wisher. May he bestow upon us cattle, horses, and nourishment, and by such gifts may he make us happy. 1

The waves of sweet water spring forth from the ocean ; by the solar rays, the water is carried to celestial region. That which is the secret name of mystic butter is the tongue of Nature and the navel of ambrosia. 1

We celebrate the name of this mystic butter at our worship ; we offer it with adoration. May the supreme preceptor, the knower of the four-horned Vedas, the Divine Word, listen to this adoration. 2

Four are his horns, three are his feet, his heads are two, his hands are seven ; this triple-bound showerer of benefits roars aloud. That mighty divine is enshrined in the hearts of all mortals. 3

The enlightened one discover the mystic butter, concealed by rivals in threefold forms, as if in the mystic cow. The resplendent self generates one portion out of it, radiant mental faculty sets free the second one and the vital breathing system fabricates out the third one, each with his own genius. 4

In countless channels these showers flow down from the heart of celestial interspace, unrestricted by the dark clouds. I look upon these showers of mystic spiritual rays descending, and behold the mystic golden reed in the mid of them. 5

The flow uninterruptedly like pleasing rivers, purified by the mind, seated in the heart; these streams of mystic butter descend upon the fire, like wild beasts that fly from the hunter. 6

The streams of this mystic butter, swifter than the wind, and rapid as the waters of a river, flow down a declivity. Bursting through the fences, and hurrying on with their waves, they flow-down like high-spirited steed. 7

The streams of this mystic butter, incline to spiritual fire, as devoted wives loving and smiling to husbands. They feed the flame of mystic fire like fuel, and the omniscient Lord joyfully receives them. 8

I contemplate these streams of mystic butter, as they flow from where the exhilarating experiences come forth, and where the noble works are solemnized. They flow as a bride, decorating herself with ornaments, whilst going to the bridegroom. 9

May the priests address sacred prayers in the well-known divine language. May they bestow upon us auspicious riches. May they convey our worship to the divine powers, whereat the streams of mystic butter descend with sweetness. 10

O adorable Lord, the whole world finds an asylum in your effulgence, whether it be in the interspace, in the emotional heart, in the vital breath, in ocean, in army or warfare. May we receive those sweetly flavoured waves of bliss which proceed from you and end in you. 11

BOOK FIVE

At the approach of dawns, who come like cows, the sacred fire is kindled by fuel offered by men. Its radiant mighty flames rise up like stately trees throwing aloft their branches towards heaven. 1

The cosmic fire, the bestower of blessings is awakened to invoke cosmic forces. Every morning the gracious fire, the sun, rises up. When kindled, his brilliant vigour is manifested, and the great enlightened one is released from the darkness. 2

The radiant universal fire makes all manifest with his brilliant rays, when he seizes upon the confining girdle of the entire world. Thereupon the precious strength-giving oblation is offered to the flames, that spread out, and roaring aloft, consume it as if with tongue. 3

The spirits of the pious turn together to the fire-divine, as the eyes of men towards the Sun. When the multiform heaven and earth bring him forth along with dawn, he is born at the day break, as a strong white courser. 4

The noble one is kindled at day's beginning and deposited red in colour amid well-laid wood. And so the adorable fire, the invoker, is established in every house, displaying his seven gems-like flames. 5

The adorable fire divine, the invoker, is established in a fragrant place in the bosom of his mother earth. He is ever young, wise follower of eternal truth, pre-eminent over all, and kindled among people, whom he sustains. 6

On sacred ceremonial occasions all glorify that divine fire with hymns of reverence who is holy, intelligent, and the bestower of food and who spreads out both worlds by eternal law and charges them with rain. 7

Entitled to worship, he is worshipped in his own abode. He is humble-minded, eminent amongst sages, our auspicious guest, the thousand rayed, the showerer of benefits, of well known might, may you O fire divine, surpass all others in strength. 8

O divine fire, you quickly pass over all others, for him, to whom you appear most lovely. You are wonderously fair, adorable, effulgent, the guest of men, and loved by all people. 9

To you, O most youthful Lord, men bring their tributes from near and far. May you accept the prayer of him, who extols you most; for, the felicity, which you confer, O divine fire, is great, vast and auspicious. 10

Ascend today, radiant divine fire, on your resplendent, well-conducted chariot, together with the adorable Nature's forces. May you, knowing the paths across spacious firmament, bring hither divine forces to enjoy and share in our offerings. 11

To him the wise, the adorable, strong, and the showerer of benefits, we sing forth our song of praise, and present homage. Steady and disciplined sages offer with reverence this praise to the fire divine, like the gold-like shining sun, raised high to the sky. 12

The young mother cherishes her mutilated boy in secret, and gives him not up to the father (worshipper) ; but when he gets up the people see his unfading countenance before them. (Young mother is the lower piece of wood, and the boy is latent fire). 1

O youthful one, what boy is this whom you carry ? The mighty queen has given him birth. The unborn has grown through many autumns. I see him born as the mother bears him. 2

I see him from a close distance, the golden-toothed, bright-coloured, hurling his weapons from his own place. At what time, shall I offer to him unadulterated ambrosia. How can now the Godless and hymnless people harm me ? 3

I see him (the fire) passing secretly from place to place, like a herd of cattle, and shining brightly of his own accord. The people do not arrest his growth, but again he has been born, and now the flames which had become grey-haired are once more young. 4

Who disunited my people from cattle ? Is there not for them an invincible protector ? May they free them, who-soever of having seized them upon. May he, the observant bring back the herd to us. 5

Enemies have secretly kidnapped this sovereign king of people, the refuge of men. May the prayers of the fearless sage set him free. May those who revile be reviled. 6

O adorable God, may you liberate the most wise sage bound with his worries, for thousands of actions, he prays with fervour. So, may you, O most intelligent and invoker Lord, listen to our prayer, and free us from all bonds that bind us. 7

O adorable Lord, you have gone away from me, as if in anger. The protector of truth, the resplendent self has told me this: "Follow Truth". Having been so advised, may I follow the instruction. 8

The glory of adorable God shines with great and varied radiance, and by His greatness, He makes all things Manifest. He overcomes godless malignant delusions and sharpens His measures for the destruction of the violent infidels. 9

May you roaring flames, O adorable Lord, be manifest in the sky as sharp weapons, to destroy infidels. In His exhilaration may His shining splendour inflict destruction. The godless hands try to bind him from all sides but do not succeed. 10

As a skilled craftsman makes a car, I, a devout worshipper, have composed this hymn for you, O mighty one. If, O divine adorable Lord, ever glorious, you approve of it, then may we obtain abundant heavenly bliss. 11

May He, the strong-necked, the showerer of benefits, ever increasing, mighty Lord, gather the riches of the evil-minded men, without opposition. The immortals have spoken thus to Lord, "Be pleased to bestow happiness on the man who is dedicated ; happiness to the man who is prosperous". 12

O adorable God, when your glory is revealed, you become venerable to all, and when enkindled, your glory shines like the Sun. In you, O source of strength, all the powers of Nature's forces are centred. You are like a bounteous king to men, who offer sincere devotion to you. 1

O self-sustained fire-divine, you bear mysterious name, you become upholder of law in relation to maidens. They anoint you, like a welcomed friend, with milk and butter, when you make husband and wife of one mind. 2

For your glory, the cloudbearing winds sweep the firmament. O Lord of cosmic vitality, your manifestation is charming and wonderful. Since the pervading lord has placed cosmic waters at the high place, you uphold the mysterious name. 3

O adorable Lord, Nature's forces are lovely. Through your glory and by their liberal gifts they gain immortality. Men desirous of long life, adore the fire-divine, the conveyor of offerings by homage and prayers. 4

There has been no granter of rewards, more venerable than you, O adorable God, nor shall there be one worthier of invocations through hymns of praises. The man, within whose house you live as guest, shall surely obtain prosperity and progeny through his noble deeds. 5

O adorable God, may we, the aspirants of wealth, aided by you, be safe under your protection ; may we acquire riches, through our devotion, be victorious in our struggles, and be successful in our worship every day; and may we, O source of strength, obtain prosperous sons and grandsons. 6

May adorable Lord inflict evil upon the evil-plotter, who commits sin or wickedness against us. May the sagacious Lord destroy the calumniator, who injures us with double-dealing. 7

At the dawn's flushing, O adorable Lord, people from the earliest times have been serving you with offerings, accepting you as the envoy of Nature's bounties. You, O bright shining fire-divine enkindled by the mortal devotees, please go to places of worship, the places where the wealth is stored. 8

May you carry him across the troubles, O Lord, the source of strength, who offers to you reverence, like a wise son to his father. O sagacious Lord, when will you look upon us ? When will you, O Lord, ordainer of eternal law, direct us to noble path ? 9

Glorifying you, he addresses you with many a name, when you, O Lord, the bestower of dwellings, as father are pleased to accept this. Verily the Lord, proud of His strength and splendour, bestows happiness upon His true devotee. 10

Most youthful adorable God, verily you bear your adorer safely beyond all his troubles. We now know our thieves and hostile people. We have, however, to guard against those who have gone underground. 11

O adorable Lord, sovereign king of wealth and treasures, I glorify you whilst busy at the selfless noble deeds. May we obtain the strength we long for, through you ; and through you, may we overcome the fierce attacks of the forces of wicked persons. 1

The eternal adorable Lord, the bearer of oblations, is our protector. He is all-pervading, resplendent, and pleasing in appearance. May He supply us plenty of food, in return of our well-maintained household fire and measure out to us abundant food and fame. 2

O men enshrine the cosmic fire in your hearts, as Lord of the Society of human beings, the pure, the purifying, balmed with water or butter and invoker of divine powers. He bestows upon His learned worshippers the choicest gifts. 3

O cosmic fire, competing with solar rays may you relish our offerings, and in this let your effulgence also participate. May you enjoy, O universally present fire, this fuel of ours, and bring here other Nature's bounties also to have their share. 4

When we present to him devotional homage, and when he accepts the offerings of men, then by the strength of his divine splendour, he assumes the radiance of eternal truth. 3

Verily he gives a signal during the darkness of night to one, who is far off, when he, the purifier, the undecaying, consumes the forest tree. 4

At whose worship the devotees pour the dripping butter upon the ritual fire, and streams mount along the flames, as if ones own son riding upon the back of his father. 5

Him whom, the desired of many, the devout man recognizes as the sustainer of all, the giver of flavour to food and the provider of home to every living man. 6

He, who is vast and possessor of irresistible strength, crops the dry ground strewn with grass and wood, like a herd, while grazing ; he, as if, with a golden beard, and shining teeth. 7

Bright as an axe is he, to whom the mortal sage, exempt from the three types of pains, offers worship ; he, whom his prolific mother, the fire-stick, has given birth to. The benefactor fire then receives the offerings. 8

O adorable Lord, the acceptor of homage, like the fire accepting butter, the upholder of all, be delighted by our praise. May you bestow upon the worshippers fame, food and intelligence. 9

O adorable Lord, may he, the triply liberated sage, take all the gifts of cattle and wealth, offered to you, and with that aid subdue the hostile men. 10

O adorable Lord, you are inspirer of strength. From the earliest times, ancient devotees, the lovers of truth, have been enkindling your love in their hearts for their preservation. You are eternal, bliss-bestower, adorable, nourisher of universe, liberal giver, lord of the home holder, and venerable. 1

O adorable Lord, men enshrine you in their hearts, as their dear ancient guest, and master of their homes. You are brilliant like the blazing flame of fire, highly enlightened, and multiform. You are dispenser of wealth, bestower of happiness, kind protector and destroyer of decay and rot. 2

Human beings glorify you, O gracious adorable Lord, the appreciator of offerings, the discriminator between virtue and vice and the most liberal giver of precious things. You the auspicious, stay-concealed in the innermost cavity and yet at times visible to all, and your loud voice is heard by them. You just as fire with butter, are honoured by holy hymns and glorified by loving devotion. 3

We are drawn near you, O all-sustaining adorable God, adoring you in many ways, singing songs and with reverence. May you, O self-illuminated Lord, when enkindled like fire, be propitious to us and with your radiance make us glorious. 4

O adorable Lord, multiform, you grant nourishment to each and every mortal. You by your might, are sovereign over all sorts of nourishing food. Your splendour, when blazing brightly, is unrivalled. 5

O adorable God, ever young, when you are pleased, Nature's bounties are inspired by you and take you as the bearer of homage. Your glory is wide-reaching. Your love to the devotee when invoked, is enkindled as fire with butter. The men inspired by their understanding accept you as the brilliant eye of the universe. 6

From the earliest times, men seeking joy have been kindling you with earnest invocations and devotion, just as fire with fuel and butter. Again, just as sprinkled with butter and fed with plants, the fire spreads all over the layers of land, similarly, you, by the devotion, enlighten the entire life of the worshipper. 7

Mortal men with reverential homage, glorify you, O fire-divine. I adore you, O Lord, cognizant of all that is born, so that you may please convey my offerings to Nature's forces. 1

Adorable Lord evokes Nature's bounties to proceed to the home of that person who liberally gives and whose heart is free of impurities ; and further, in whom congregate all sacrifices, securing food and fame. 2

It (the attrition fire) is the one which the two wooden sticks have engendered, like a new-born infant. This has become the supportor of men, and therefore, it fully deserves our adoration for peaceful purposes. 3

It is very hard to harness this fire, like the taming of the offsprings of wriggling snakes. O terrestrial fire, you have the capacity of burning forests as an animal consuming fodder. 4

The fire emits forth the smoke and the flames intensely collect and then diffuse to the three regions. The fire inflates in the firmament like the blower of a bellows and then sharpens its flames as the fire blazing from the blast of the blower. 5

O fire may we through your friendly and protective aids, and by our praises of you, subdue the wickedness of mortal men, and destroy the malignant. 6

O powerful fire, upon us, the institutors of holy acts, please bestow affluence. May this fire lay off our foes, and protect and nourish us and help in procuring energised food. May it be with us in our struggles for success. 7

O adorable Lord of irresistible powers, bring to us most powerful and resistless splendour, may you invest us with over-flowing store of wealth, and mark out for us the paths to spiritual enlightenment. 1

O marvellous adorable Lord, gratified by our noble acts, invest in us greatness of vigour. In you abides the strength, necessary to destroy wickedness and evils. You, the O embodiment of holiness, are actively engaged like the radiant sun. 2

O adorable Lord, increase means of sustenance and house and home of ours who are wise and have acquired prosperity through the chanting of vedic hymns. 3

O blissful supreme Lord, those who glorify you with hymns, obtain richness of vitality and are invigorated with the foe-destroying energies. Their fame reaches the height of firmament. This they gain by your own accord (i.e. by your favour). 4

O adorable Lord, these your bright and fierce flames of glory spread all over like the lightnings flashing around and are like a rattling car forcibly procuring foodgrains. 5

Now O adorable Lord, come swiftly for our protection, and for bestowing riches to the needy and oppressed. And may all the aspirations of our enlightened ones be fulfilled. 6

O adorable Lord, dear as our life, glorified in the past, glorified at present, invoker of Nature's forces, bring unto us riches enabling us to overcome the mighty. May you give to your praisers ability to extol you, and be near us for success in struggles. 7

The glory of the powerful adorable Lord, the protector of man, ever vigilant, is revealed again and again for the fresh prosperity of the world. Whilst pleased with devotion, his intense radiance appears to the devotee as if touching lofty heavens and His glory shines brilliantly for the liberal benefactors. 1

Men, engaged in meditation first kindle the glory of adorable Lord in all the three realms ; physical, vital and mental. The meditating mind, the divine light, the self and the inner organs of cognition, all the four are channelized into one direction, as if riding in one and the same car. He, the one engaged in meditation, sets in the comfortable posture for the transcendental concentration. 2

O adorable Lord, may your glory be manifested in our innermost consciousness, just as the fire (of attrition) is generated unobstructed of the two mothers, and when fed with butter and offerings, it gives out smoke, spreading abroad in the sky, like the banner of your glory. 3

May fire divine, the fulfiller of our aspirations, come to the holy place our work and worship. Devotees cherish the fire-divine in every dwelling which is the bearer of oblations, and becomes an envoy, the bearer of our gifts. Wise men adore the fire-divine as the accomplisher of benevolent works. 4

O adorable Lord, to you, this sweetest prayer is addressed, May this praise, product of my thought, be dear to your heart. May my pious hymns fill you, and make you, for us, yet more mighty in strength, as large rivers replenish the sea. 5

O adorable Lord, earnest seekers discover your knowledge, which remains hidden in mystery, like flames taking refuge from wood to wood. Similar to fire by attrition, your glory is manifested by hard toil and great endurance. Therefore devotees call you, O dearest Lord, the source of strength. 6

12

Like well-purified butter poured into the mouth of ritual fire, I offer the usual sincere and thoughtful praise to the adorable Lord, the supreme, the venerable, the guide of eternal truth, the vigorous, the showerer of benefits. 1

O adorable Lord, best knowing the purpose of our truthful prayers, may you listen to our words and thereon send forth full streams of eternal order. I do not use my might for the purposes of violence, and for duplicity in matters of truth and untruth. I faithfully follow the Lord of the eternal law. 2

O adorable Lord, bestower of blessings, by what eternal law will you be giving recognition to our adoration? May you, O guardian of the laws be pleased to know my purpose. I know not the Lord, who has been distributing riches among us. 3

O adorable Lord, who among us are the subduers of adversaries? Who among us are the protectors, and distributors of splendid wealth? Who among us, are the defenders of falsehood and who are the encouragers of evil deeds? 4

14

May you arouse the grace of immortal Lord with your prayers ; so that, when pleased, may He, like the flame of fire, bear our homage to Nature's bounties. 1

Mortals extol this immortal, divine supreme, at high solemnities, most adorable among mankind. 2

All glorify the spiritual fire pouring out love from their heart as if butter to fire with sacrificial ladle. They glorify the spiritual fire, so that it conveys their homage to Nature's forces. 3

The spiritual fire as soon as manifested, blazes brightly, destroying the wicked and dispersing the darkness by its lustre. It restores wisdom, action and happiness. 4

May you honour the spiritual fire, the source of wisdom, whose summit blazes with love. May it respond to my invocation. 5

Devotion live alone pleases our adorable Lord. He is strong, blissful, the possessor of riches, the acceptor of homage and the bestower of habitations. To such a far-seeing, renowned, eternal, glorious, all-wise Lord, the praise I offer. 1

They, who, with the help of mortal priests, gain favour of the immortal leading divine powers, the firm sustainers of the loftiest heaven, by sacred prayers, enshrine in their hearts the Lord of universal fire, who is upholder of all noble deeds, and embodiment of truth. 2

They, who present to the eternal universal fire, the sacred oblations, unattainable by others, their minds and bodies become free from sin and disease. May the Lord, newly-revealed and realized help him to conquer his adversaries, gathered around him, like an angry lion. 3

While pervading everywhere, you support all men like a mother, and being adored for sustaining and imparting knowledge, you mature every kind of food, then, O universal fire, assuming many forms, you comprise all beings in yourself. 4

O divine universal fire, may the sacrificial food, the vast yielder of benefits to men, the sustainer of riches, support the utmost of your vigour ; and may you, like a thief, who keeps his refuge secret, help the sage, exempt from three types of miseries to obtain true wisdom and affluence. 5

Sing abundant devotional praises to the divine and radiant adorable God, whom men, by laudations, assign the foremost place, as given to a friend. 1

That adorable Lord, by the strength and splendour, becomes the ministrant priest of men, who conveys their homage straight to Nature's bounties, and like a gracious friend distributes desirable wealth. 2

May we surrender ourselves to Lord just as persons surrender their strength to the loud-sounding and all-ruling fire. May we the devotees through our love and praise of the rich and extremely radiant Lord, obtain all sorts of prosperity. 3

O adorable Lord, may you be disposed for bestowing excellent strength on these worshippers. In your brilliance, you surpass the glory of heaven and, earth, and even the mighty sun. 4

Glorified by us, O adorable Lord, come quickly, and bring to us precious wealth ; we who are your worshippers, we who are your adorers, offer you welcome, and these devotional oblations. May you be favourable to us, and near to us in the struggles for our victory. 5

The enlightened man for his help, calls upon the radiant adorable Lord, with sacred worship. He invokes Him for preservation, whenever a sacred work is solemnized. 1

O performer of sacred works, being renowned, may you praise, by your well-conceived words, that adorable Lord, who is possessed of wonderful splendour, is exempt from pain, is venerable, and is supreme, beyond the conception of man. 2

Verily, men gain glory through Him, whose glory is increased by powerful praise, whose various beams of splendour flash on high as though they spring from heavenly seed. 3

Wise devotees obtain prosperity and high nobility through the worship of omniscient Lord, who is full of splendour. Adorable Lord is invoked and glorified by all people. 4

O adorable Lord, may you give us such precious wealth, as is obtained by a devout worshipper, by singing songs of praise. O source of strength, be gracious to us to fulfil our aspirations, and protect us for our welfare. May you bear in our struggles for our prosperity. 5

Let the immortal, adorable Lord, who delights in all devotional offerings of mortals, be glorified. May He, the beloved guest of all, be present at dawn. 1

O immortal, be willing to grant a part of your own strength to the seeker, endowed with two-fold qualities—material and spiritual, to the worshipper, who offers devotion with pure heart, for he is your diligent praiser, and offers devotional love increasingly. 2

O glorious bestower of vigour and long life, I invoke you with praises, so that your chariot of virtuous attributes, proceeds unimpeded. 3

Those, among whom there are varied ways of thoughts and practices, who perpetuate the sanctity of hymns by their recital, and who make all preparations for performing sacred worship, may they deck themselves with high fame. 4

O immortal Lord, bestow ample, and abundant food, and many helpful dependants upon those noble men, who at the synod present me fifty (numberless) fast moving vehicles.

The Lord is the bearer of our oblations. May all glorify
Him with praises. 4

O adorable Lord, bestow upon the donor of the oblation a son, abounding in nourishment, abounding in deep devotion, excellent, and invincible, a son that brings glory to his sire. 5

Adorable Lord, may you bestow a son, the protector of the good, who, with his followers, conquers in battles ; may he be in possession of high-speed war-transport that keeps conquering and is never conquered. 6

The praise, which best conveys our veneration, is due to adorable Lord alone. Affluent in splendour, O Lord, may you grant us prosperity since from your grace proceed vast riches and ample food and strength. 7

O adorable Lord, resplendent are the rays of your light, and loud is your voice like the roar of clouds. Your voice spontaneously resounds like the thunder in the sky. 8

Thus we, seeking wealth and wisdom, glorify the supreme adorable Lord. May He, the most wise, carry us over all our adversities, as a boat crosses a river. 9

O fire-divine, holy and illustrious, may you with your radiant and pleasing tongue-like flames bring here to us the benefits of Nature's bounties and honour them. 1

Fed upon, as if, with sacred butter, bright with variegated radiance, we solicit you, (O fire-divine), radiant like the sun, to bring here Nature's bounties to partake of divine glory (in the creation). 2

At this worship-hall, we kindle you, O sage (the Fire-divine) brilliant and vast whose food is, as if, the cosmic oblations. 3

Come, O fire divine, with Nature's bounties, to the donor of the oblation. We choose you as our invoking priest. 4

O fire-divine, bring excellent vigour to the institutor of the rite, who pours out the libation. May you stay here, with Nature's bounties, in the sacrificial assembly, as if, and participate. 5

Victor over thousands, you when kindled, favour our holy laws. You, (the fire-divine) are the honoured messenger of Nature's bounties. 6

May you enshrine this fire-divine, who is the bearer of our sacred oblations, most youthful, brilliant, and the ministrant invoker. 7

May the homage, most solemnly offered by the devout, duly proceed today to Nature's bounties. Spread, you all, your pure heart to greet them and welcome. 8

So, may all the divine persons, teachers and preception, friends venerable and righteous, and their people come and be seated here to participate in the sacred work and worship. 9

O leader of people, protector of the virtuous, vigilant, powerful, opulent, popular amongst the three classes, intellectuals, fighters and rich, endowed with three impulses, physical, mental and spiritual, we know you bestow upon us immense treasures (the thousands and so) of wisdom and speedy transport. 1

O leader of people, praised and exalted by us, may you bestow happiness upon citizens endowed with three impulses. You give them hundres of golden treasures, dozens of cattle, and two horses driven chariots with excellent axles. 2

O leader of people, every wise person, endowed with three sorts of impulses, physical, mental and spiritual, invokes you and craves for your favour, every time anew. Likewise, the disciplinary force, which keeps wicked under fear and control also invokes you with attentive spirit, and eulogises. 3

When a wise man prays with hymns, asking wealth for national service, then may you, O adorable Lord, grant riches to that earnestly devoted man. May you give right understanding to him, who obeys eternal laws. 4

This is the sacred national service, where plans for triple development of agriculture, industry and defence (triple elixing) are offered, and hundreds of robust oxen are donated. May this offering yield delight to my nation. 5

O resplendent Lord and divine powers, bestow upon the munificent performers of this sacrificial act, infinite wealth, with excellent posterity, undecaying as the sun in heaven. 6

Glory of adorable Lord, when enkindled, spreads lustre through the firmament, and shines widely turning unto the universal light of divine intelligence. Eastward the ladle, as if, of knowledge proceeds, that repels all sins and worries and honours Nature's bounties with homage and oblation. 1

O adorable Lord, whilst your glory enkindled, you become the king of immortals. You take full care of the offerer of the oblation for his welfare. He whom you favour, acquires universal wealth ; he sets before you, O lord, the gifts that guests may claim. 2

May you repress, O fire divine, our foes to ensure our great prosperity. May your effulgent splendour be excellent. May you preserve in concord the relation of man and wife, and may you overpower the energies of our adversaries. 3

O adorable Lord, I praise your glory, kindled and vigorously blazing. You are the affluent showerer of benefits. Your glory is well lighted at all sacred performances. 4

O adorable Lord, invoked, and your glory kindled, inspire Nature's forces to come to assist us in our holy acts, for you are the bearer of our homage. 5

May you offer worship and adoration to adorable Lord, when the sacred sacrifice is solemnized. May you offer devotion to the bearer of the oblation to Nature's bounties. 6

In the admiration of Nature's forces by men, there are three lustrous faculties—(mind, intellect, spirit) and three worldly lights—(fire, lightning in midspace and the sun in heaven) that sustain the universe. O resplendent self, the vital principles, pure and strong adore you, for you are their sapient guide. 1

When, through the ecstasy of well-earned spiritual joy, the resplendent self upholds the bolt of determination, He destroys the devil of ignorance and sets the abundant thoughts free to flow. 2

And O mighty vital principles, O soul, may you both relish this well-earned spiritual joy. For the joy thus offered, helps to gain wealth and wisdom for the offerer, and thus the innerself, having experienced this joy, can conquer serpentine devil of ignorance. 3

Thereupon He sunders and firmly fixes body and mind, and, resolutely advancing, He strikes the evil mind with terror ; and then stripping off his covering, he destroys the devil, endeavouring to hide, and panting with fear. 4

When, O resplendent self, you retard the advancing rays of the Sun within, for the illumination of mind, then, for this favour of yours, all the sense-organs, one by one, pay loving homage to you. 5

When mighty self, in one stroke, with his determination, destroys ninety and nine strongholds of vices, obstructing light of knowledge, the vital principles, dwelling in the same body, glorify soul with melodious hymns of TRISTUBH (a metre of 44 syllables). 6

As a friend to another friend, the cosmic fire ripens the sap of three hundred fields and forests of people, and the Sun works for the destruction of widespread darkness over the three regions, celestial, interspatial and terrestrial. 7

When the cosmic fire has ripened the sap of three hundred fields and forests, and the Sun has been able to destroy the darkness spread over the three regions, all Nature's bounties express their gratitude to the Sun and offered the homage, for he has been of a great service in the struggle. 8

When, the self and the accompanying intellect, with vital and quickly-effective energies, proceed to the innermost of the wise person, the foes, are destroyed and then you, the Self, and the wise person, work in coordination, as if both sitting on the same chariot, thus the Self destroys the sinful impulses. 9

One car-wheel of the Sun, you roll forward, another you set free to move for the wise seeker, where-with He may acquire wealth and wisdom. With the bolt of determination you have confounded the noseless (shameless, or viceless) wicked impulse and the other speech-bereft foes in the struggle. 10

May the praises of preceptors exalt you. You humble down the egoistic tendency of the intellectual snobs. An honest and strong forward devotee, sincerely ever active craves always for your friendship and you gladly accept his loyalty and affection. 11

The seekers, who have brought their nine (i.e. five vital breaths and four psychic powers—mind, consciousness, intellect and ego) under discipline and their ten (five organs of sensation and five of action) under control are entitled to adore the resplendent self with hymns. Such vigilant seekers, glorifying him, set open the door of the cave of wisdom, otherwise firmly closed and fastened. 12

How shall I serve you, O bounteous, mighty soul, knowing full well, what brave deeds you have been accomplishing. O most mighty Soul, we will also celebrate, at our sacred synods, the fresh deeds that you would do. 13

O resplendent Self, all these unique deeds you have been doing from of old by your innate energy O wielder of the bolt of determination, the subduer of evils, you always accomplish whatever you undertake. None is there to hinder your prowess. 14

O most mighty Soul, may you be pleased to accept the prayers which are now offered, and accept the new praises, which we utter. Firm, performing pious acts, and desirous of wealth and wisdom, I have composed these acceptable chants and verses, just as a craftsman carefully designs a car and as a dress-maker makes charming garments. 15

Where is that hero ? Who has seen the resplendent, seated in his light-rolling chariot, yoked with his horses. He being powerful as lightning, is invoked by all. Desirous of honour, he goes to the dwelling of his admirers to offer him protection. 1

I have discovered his secret and strong place, where he dwells. I have sought the place of that Self-sustainer ; I have inquired from others ; and they the leaders, the seekers of wisdom, say, let us proceed to find the resplendent. 2

When we offer homage we celebrate, O resplendent, your mighty deeds, which you have performed for our sake. Let him, who is ignorant, acquire knowledge of these, and let him, who is acquainted with them, make them known. Hither comes the Resplendent with all his associates. 3

As soon as manifest O resplendent, you make your mind resolved. You go alone to contend against numerous adversaries. You rend asunder the rock of ignorance by your strength, and you restore the lost wisdom. 4

From the time when O super-most and supreme, you take birth, bearing a name widely renowned in for off regions, since then, even Nature's forces have been in dread of you, O resplendent. You subjugate all the streams of thoughts, which serve the impulses of evil mind. 5

These blissful vital principles sing their songs of praise and pour out devotional love to you. The resplendent with wondrous devices, overcomes guileful lurker who arrests the flow of pious thoughts. 6

O bounteous glorified by us, you assail the antagonist, with the power of lightning. You, seeking man's prosperity, crush those who have been hostile to you since your birth, and you strike the head of ever-clinging evils. 7

O resplendent, pounding the head of the ever-clinging evil, which was sounding and rolling like a cloud, you make me your associate. Then body and mind have been caused by the vital principles to revolve like a wheel. 8

The ever-clinging slave (i.e. the temptations) makes women as his weapons. (On this the resplendent thinks thus:) What will his feminine corps do unto me? The resplendent makes two of the ladies as captive, and goes forth to combat against the slave. 9

When the sacred sources of wisdom were separated from their seekers of wisdom, as calves from cows, they wondered about hither and thither; but when the well-placed devotional love makes the resplendent full of joy, he with helpers, i.e. vital breaths reunited them. 10

When the loving devotion, offered by the men of mature wisdom, exhilarates the resplendent, he, the showerer of benefits, roars aloud in the struggle. So, the resplendent, the destroyer of cities, strong-holds of evils, through ecstasy of joy, restores to him his wisdom—the milk-yielding cattle, as if. 11

O adorable, the brilliant sages, giving me wisdom by four thousand hymns, have done well. We accept this wealth of wisdom, which, the liberator from debts, the leader of leaders, freely offer. 12

O adorable, brilliant sages, present to me a beautiful abode, with thousands of wise sayings. This big offering makes the Soul joyful, and then the darkness of night, the course of which was coming to an end, changes to morning. 13

The gloom-investing night ends at the appearance of liberator of debts, and changes into morning. King of the brilliant wise men, himself, O man of mature wisdom, urges onward and goes like a fleet courser, and obtains four thousand—a treasure of sacred wisdom. 14

We have accepted, O brilliant Lord the (four thousand cattle) treasure of wisdom from the brilliant enlightened sages and we receive the mental caldron the glowing offered in the solemn sacrifice. 15

The bounteous resplendent, the possessor of opulence, drives with a considerable speed the chariot, on which he sits. He, the foremost, proceeds unimpeded, with an intention of granting wealth and wisdom, and thus leads and commands as a herdsman drives the herds of cattle. 1

Hasten to us, O Lord of speed ; be not indifferent to us. O distributor of splendid wealth, befriend us. For there is nothing else that is better than you. You have been giving life-partner to the unmarried ones. 2

When out of strength arises strength, that conquers darkness, the resplendent grants all sorts of power to the worshipper. He restores the source of wisdom from the interior of obstructing walls, and dissipates the enveloping darkness with light. 3

O resplendent, dear to all, the divine artisans fabricate your chariot, and yoke to it the befitting horses. The ammunition technician has designed your radiant thunder-weapons. The venerable priests, have blessed the resplendent with hymns, and have encouraged him for the destruction of the dragon. 4

When the vital faculties, without steed or chariot, inspired by the resplendent overcome the devils of ignorance, they sing their praises to you, O resplendent and they were filled with ecstasy, as the showerer of benefits, the clouds in the midspace. 5

I celebrate, O powerful resplendent your old achievements, and those which you have newly attained. O wielder of the will-power, subjugating both mind and body, you have distributed the wonderfully bountiful enjoyments to man. 6

Handsome and sagacious resplendent, this is your achievement. Just as the Sun to clouds, having slain evil, you have here displayed your vigour. You arrest and slay the devices of sinful tendency. During the struggle you get victory over the indisciplined. 7

You, resplendent, even from afar render the rushing thoughts agreeable to hard-working and strong men. You two, the resplendent and intellect, assail the fierce petty tendencies, and you convey the pious man of intelligence to his dwelling. Therefore, men of genius and the divines honour you both. 8

May your speedy senses bring you both, O resplendent and intellect, to the struggle riding in one chariot. You expel sin from thoughts, from his proper abode, and chase away the darkness of ignorance from the heart of the affluent adorer. 9

The sage gets control over senses. Swift as wind, just as a horseman over his docile horses. Here are the vital faculties, your dear companions, whose prayers augment your vigour. 10

He, the resplendent in the struggle, arrests even the rapid chariot of the Sun. Further he upholds the wheel of the moving universe and setting it eastward, he inspires us for active life. 11

O resplendent, men come to see you, just as they go to see a friend who has expressed devotional love. Let the creaking stones, mental and physical faculties be laid upon the altar and let the priests hasten to turn it quickly. 12

O immortal, let not the mortals, who are wishing and anxiously wishing for you, fall into disgrace and evil. May you be pleased with the pious and their sacrifice, and grant spiritual light to those men amongst whom we live, and who are particularly yours. 13

32

You, resplendent self, cleave the dark forces asunder. You set free the fountains of knowledge, you liberate the obstructed streams. You open the vast cloud of darkness, and give vent to the showers of blessings, having destroyed wickedness. 1

You, O possessor of strong will-power, set free in their seasons the obstructed clouds of dark thoughts. You let flow the fountain of virtues O mighty soul, destroying the powerful serpentine evil, that lies, extended in the deep sub-conscious mind, and thus you show your vigour. 2

The inner self, by his prowess, annihilates the weapon even of that mighty beast, from whom another yet more powerful, conceiving himself one and unmatched, is generated. 3

The wielder of the bolt of determination, the clearer of the evil-intentions, smiles with his bolt and destroys the wrath fire of the wicked, the mighty exploiter and his waring strength, couched in darkness, who has been exhilarating himself with the food of these living creatures. 4

(O resplendent Soul), you discover the secret vital part of the vicious wicked, who thinks himself invulnerable, when, O powerful protector in the exhilaration of the spiritual joy, you detect him preparing for a struggle in his dark abode. 5

The soul, the showerer of blessings, exhilarated through the ecstasy of spiritual joy, uplifting his thunderbolt destroys him, who swells there huge in dimensions, sleeping and thriving in sunless darkness. 6

When resplendent self uplifts irresistible will-power against the mighty devil, and when he subdues him with his bolt of determination, he makes him lowest of all living creatures. 7

The mighty self seizes upon that restless flood of wicked-forces, an insatiable devil drinker of the sweet liquor, enveloper (of the world), and then with his great weapon, in his dwelling, crushes him, who is footless, measureless, and evil-speaking ogre. 8

Who may arrest his strength or resist his vigour ? Verily alone and irresistible, He bears off all the riches. Even these two (physical and mental faculties), through the fear retire and submit to the supremacy of the fast-approaching Soul. 9

Even the divine, and self-sustaining powers of intellect and mind bow before the potent self, and the body resigns to the Soul like a loving wife. As he shares his vigour with all of them, men straightaway offer reverence to him. 10

Verily, I hear that you from the very birth are supreme Lord, the protector of the good, and friendly to the five people, the five senses. May all, representing their wishes and uttering praises propitiate the resplendent self—evening and morning. 11

So, too, I hear of you that you favour and readily enrich the learned from season to season on their approach. But what do your loyal friends and those who rest their hopes in you receive, O Soul ? 12

Feeble as I am, I offer praise to the great and vigorous resplendent Lord for granting strength to all these people. He, with his band, shows favour to these brave people, interested in struggle against evils. 1

O resplendent Lord, showerer of blessings, you are delighted when adored through sacred hymns. May you be pleased to fasten the traces of horses and drive hither to assist us in a victory over your hostile people. 2

O resplendent Lord, those persons do not deserve your favour, who differing from us, have no faith in you through their ignorance. O the wielder of adamantine will-power, ascend this chariot, and hold the reins, O Lord, of your noble horses. 3

In as much as, O resplendent these praises are offered to you, may you make our fields fertile with a free supply of unobstructed water of wisdom. You are radiant like the sun and in your own dwelling, may you destroy the name of the darkness of nescience, the devil slave in battle. 4

O resplendent self, we are yours, and yours are they, who are the leaders, confident of their strength, and whose energy is directed to you. O resplendent, capable of destroying the evil darkness, splendid in struggles, and easy to be invoked, may you, come to us and likewise come with all your riches. 5

O resplendent Lord, glorious is your strength ; you are immortal, and enwrap the world with light. May you give us splendid riches. I shall always greatly praise the munificence of the opulent Lord (as you are). 6

Thus favour us, O resplendent Lord, with your succour and protect the singers who chant your praises. May you be friendly to those who offer fully-dedicated love of ecstasy that yields a defensive covering in struggles. 7

May those ten (five sense organs and five vital breaths) resplendent in their brightness, the gift of those whom the devils fear, exceedingly brilliant and wise, occupying highest places, carry me for the fulfilment of my assigned duties. 8

And may we also be the possessors of powerful, well-actioned, swift transport vehicles, yoked with wind-like horses, and constructed in well-reputed workshops, and may we also receive the gift of thousands of treasures from generous sources, and further may we get ample dresses and decorations for our fighting soldiers. 9

Or, may the bright and dynamic steeds (transport motors) be bestowed upon me by experts and from the concerns well-known for their supreme quality; and may we be the possessors of riches endowed with generosity. And may all these proceed to reliable experts, like cows to their stalls. 10

The undecaying, heavenly, unlimited offering goes to the one (resplendent) who is not born and who is the performer of wondrous deeds. Therefore press-out (the medicinal herbs), prepare, cook and dress, and offer oblation to him, who is the acceptor of prayer, and who is glorified by many. 1

The bounteous, who fills his heart with spiritual bliss, and is exhilarated by experiencing the sweet celestial elixir, lifts up his mighty thousand-fold adamant will-power, desiring to lay down the monstrous of wickedness. 2

Illustrious is the man who expresses devotional love to that bounteous, by day or by night. The supra-powerful Lord is the friend of sages, but He disregards the man, who suffers from vanity and family snobs. 3

The supra-powerful Lord does not necessarily disfavour the one, whose father, mother, or brother he has punished (for justifiable reasons) and is willing to accept his devotions and offerings. He is the upholder (of justice). The Lord, the bestower of riches, does not subscribe to the sins. 4

He places no impediments in the normal functions of the five sense organs or ten vital breaths. He does not associate with the man who performs not the benevolent acts, though prospering well. The terrifier of foes, however, punishes or destroys the wicked. But, to the virtuous, he gives a cattle-farm in reward. 5

Exceedingly strong in struggles, he accelerates the wheels of his chariot, and turns away from him who offers no prayer. He, however, augments him who prays. The resplendent Lord is the subduer of all, and formidable, and He keeps the undisciplines under His full control. 6

He proceeds to confiscate the wealth of the avaricious and bestows precious riches to His faithful devotee. A man, who provokes the mighty to indignation, dares not stand secure even in his wide stronghold. 7

When the resplendent Lord, the opulent, discriminates between two wealthy persons fighting amongst themselves over the precious knowledge, he chooses one of them on merits, and frightens the other one. He takes the meritorious one as his close ally, and associated with the vital faculties, bestows wisdom upon him. 8

O resplendent Lord, may you grant for our protection that of your holy and effectual power, which conquers men for us, which is invincible in life-struggles. 1

Whatever aids, O resplendent Lord, are yours, whether four (physical, vital, mental and spiritual) or three (physical, mental and spiritual), or those accorded to the five classes of men, bring them quickly all that help to us. 2

We invoke for the choicest and mightiest help of yours, O the most liberal showerer of blessings. As soon as manifest you are quick in showering of benefits, and destroying evils. May you associated with the vital principles, grant us protection. 3

You are the showerer of boons, and as such as soon as manifest, you bestow riches. Your strength is the fulfiller of aspirations. Your self-invigorated mind is firm in determination, and your manly vigour subdues multitudes. 4

O resplendent Lord, performer of hundreds of selfless deeds, wielder of the punitive justice, may you, with your all-pervading chariot's force, proceed against the mortal, who entertains hostility towards you. 5

O resplendent Lord, like the press stone, your devotee offers laudations to you. With your left hand, O bounteous Lord, you bestow riches, and so with your right too; be not reluctant. 4

May the effective eulogium melt you, O showerer of blessings. Your radiance is borne by actinic rays. So, O showerer of blessings, splendid in form, wielder of the punitive justice, with mighty chariot, may you defend us in struggles. 5

O cosmic vital forces, may all men bow down in obedience to that young possessor of well-known chariots, who rich in steeds gives me two dark red horses (the colourful dawn and dusk) together with three hundred and more cattle (the days of the year). 6

Bedewed with clarified butter and worshipped earnestly, the swift flames vies with the splendour of the sun. May the dawns rise without cessation for him who says, "let us offer devotional love to the resplendent Lord." 1

May you, O resplendent Lord, grant us whatever you deem worth the wish and blessed. May we continue to be your in your boundless munificence. 2

O wielder of justice, since your generous and praise-worthy liberality is far-renowned, may you with that lofty spirit break open the stronghold of adversaries, and distribute substantial food to the deserving. 3

In the praise of the resplendent Lord, people chant ancient hymns and please Him, who is extremely rich among opulents and sovereign king among men. 4

To that resplendent Lord, must be sung the poems and hymns of praise. The sages, free from three folds of miseries, glorify Him with their hymns. He is the acceptor of praises. The three-fold free sages augment His glory through praises. 5

Come to cherish our devotional love, which has been effused out with sincerity and integrity as the invigorating extracts from herbs by pressing stones. O showerer, the resplendent Lord, the destroyer of evils come with the showerers (the vital faculties). 1

Showerer is the cloud, showerer is the spiritual delight, showerer is the effused herbal juice. O showerer, the resplendent Lord, the destroyer of evils, come with the showerers (the vital faculties). 2

As strong, I invoke you, O strong the wielder of adamantine justice, for your marvellous protective means. O showerer, the resplendent Lord, destroyer of evils come with the showerer (the vital faculties). 3

May the acceptor of simple and sincere homage, the wielder of punitive justice, the showerer of benefits, the queller of the mighty (foes), the powerful the monarch, the dispeller of darkness, the acceptor of devotional love, speedily as if mounted on courser, come down to us. May the resplendent Lord be exhilarated at the mid-day worship. 4

When, O sun, the mighty devil, the nescience, eclipses you with darkness, all creatures look bewildered like one who knows not the place where he actually is. 5

When, O Sun, you dissipate those illusions of the eclipsing nescience which are spread below the sky, then the three fold free sage, by his fourth vision (the innate instinct, beyond the physical mental and intellectual) discovers the sun concealed by the darkness impeding his functions. 6

Let not the violator, with his dread, through anger swallow me up, for I (the sun) am your true friend, O three fold free sage. May you and the brilliant venerable divine, both protect me. 7

Then the wise three fold free sage, collecting the material for sacred worship, and propitiating divine powers with praise, and adoring them with reverence, places the eye of the sun in the sky and causes the delusion of the nescience to vanish. 8

The sun, whom the demon envelops with darkness, the three fold fire, sages subsequently recover not but them is able to make his release effective. 9

O Lord of light and bliss, who is truly devoted to you ? May you, whether abiding in the region of heaven, or of the vast earth, or of the firmament, protect us, and give us physical strength and vitality. 1

May these divinities,—the cosmic bounties—like the divine light, cosmic plasma, eternal order, the parameter of time, the spirituality, the soul force and the cosmic vital principles be gracious to us. And in the same way, the other ones of one mind with benevolent cosmic vitality accept our hymns, adorations and laudations. 2

I invoke you, the pair of twin divines, the restrainers of desire, for the acceleration of your chariot with the swiftness of wind. We offer praise to the worshipful celestial ordainer as it were a libation. 3

May the divine acceptor of worship come speedily to the sacrifice as the fleetest courses rushes to the battle. In this sacrifice may the wisest participate as priest ; and the triple bounty, the fire on the earth, the air in midspace, and the Sun in the heaven may also come in concurrence (with our Lord). May the other bounties of grace and sustenance, the protectors of the universe also come. 4

O vital principles, may you bring wealth, comprising horses. Let wise men acquire and preserve riches. May the ministrant priest, the disciple of brilliant sage, be made happy by those swift-going horses, which are rapid in motion. 5

May you, by your prayers, bring him, the air-divine, here who is the fulfiller of desires, and adorable ; and let him yoke the chariot. May the tender lovely and excellent copartners, as if wives, also come hither to inspire us with wisdom. 6

O mighty divine day and night, to you and to the other adorables, I present homage with prayers, delighting and explicit. May you, like two learned lady-sages, inspire mortals for accomplishing noble deeds. 7

We extol, with offerings the architect of creation, the nourisher of men, and the Lord of homes. We glorify with obeisance the goddess of speech, bestower of opulence, and also those who share opulence, the Lord of the forest, and the herbs, with the expectation that we may obtain riches. 8

May the clouds, the establishers of the world, like heroes, free moving, liberally shower their bounties on us. May the persons of authority and reliance, who are ever friendly to men, and whom we all respect, grant us fame and prosperity. 9

I glorify with unqualified praise the lightning in the clouds, the embryo of the earth-fertilizing rain, the offspring of the waters. He, who is threefold, who with might neighs loudly like a charger, when flashing through clouds with fiery hairs and withering rays, he (the lightning) consumes the forests. 10

How shall we speak to the mighty posterity of the Lord of cosmic vitality, or to the all-knowing gracious Lord, for the sake of obtaining riches. May the waters, plants, the heaven, the woods, and the mountains, whose tresses are trees, preserve us. 11

May the Lord of vitality, who traverses through cloudy heaven, the circumambrient listen to our prayers. And may the crystal clear waters, bright like marble cities, hear us, as they flow round the towering mountains. 12

O mighty cloud bearing winds, we know your ways. O charming ones, we, furnished with choicest offerings, sing your glory. May they, well disposed, come down to us, destroying with their weapons, the agitated mortals, who try to oppose them. 13

I offer adoration to the cloud bearing winds, of celestial and terrestrial origin, deserving sacred worship, in order to obtain the waters. May my joy—bestowing noble aspirations prosper, and so my songs. May our cherished rivers be full of waters. 14

My praise has been continually offered to each one. May the strong force, with her powers of perservation protect us. May the great venerable mother-earth, adored by enlightened straight-handed, possessor of benevolent treasures, confer precious things to us. 15

How may we present offerings to the liberal ones with reverence ? How to adore the vital principles with present praises in a fitting manner ? The vital ones are universally recognized as worthy of our invocations. May not the cloud ever contrive for our harm. May he be the destroyer of our adversaries. 16

The mortal devotee worships you, O divine powers, at all times for the increase of progeny and prosperity. Verily, the mortal devotee wins you O divine powers. Here and now, they sustain my body with salutary food. May my mother-earth keep off my old age. 17

May our most sweetest song, with the deep devotion, successfully reach the virtuous, friendly, gracious, and eternal Lord. May the ministrant of the five vital airs, hear us, who pervades the dappled cosmos, and who is unimpeded and the bestower of life and happiness. 1

May the infinite and indivisible Lord accept my affectionate and delightful praise, as a mother welcomes her son. I address this inspired, bliss-giving prayer to the virtuous and friendly Lord, which he surely would love to accept. 2

Inspire him, the sagest of the sages, imbue him with the sweet devotion, and may the divine creator provide us with abundance, all attainables, benevolences, and gold and silver. 3

With a willing mind, may the resplendent Lord grant us wisdom and wealth; may the Lord of light, associate us with pious men of learning, with prosperity, with sacrificial food, and that which is acceptable to Nature's bounties and with the favour of the adorable godly men. 4

May the divine, gracious, creator, the Lord of wealth, the resplendent self, the winner of the strength of evils and also from amongst us the enlightened sages, persons strong and healthy, and distinguished intellectuals, as well as the people of immortal fame, hasten to bless our sacred performances, and protect us from calamities. 5

Let us celebrate the deeds of Lord of vital principle, beyond visibility and cognition, victorious and undecaying. Neither the ancients, O bounteous Lord, nor their successors have attained your prowess, nor any present one would attain it. 6

May you glorify the supreme Lord of universe, the first donor of precious treasure, the distributor of riches, the bestower of happiness, the burthen of every recitation and chants, and who comes laden with ample wealth to His invoker. 7

O Supreme Lord of universe, tended with your protections, men are unharmed by foes, and become opulent and blessed with descendants. The wealth of those only is blessed and meaningful who are the liberal givers of horses, of cows and of garments. 8

Take away the riches from them, who even on asking do not partake their wealth to the needy, and continue to enjoy their riches alone. May you keep them far from the sunshine, who do not perform benevolent deeds, and who, though prospering in their vocation are averse to devotion. 9

O Lord of vitality, may you send them into darkness, with wheelless chariots, who invite undesirable elements to the sacred performances of the virtuous ; and who revile those who offer prayers and belittle the wishes of those who toil to serve you. 10

May you praise him who has the sure arrow, and the strong bow, who is the Lord of every balm that heals. May you worship the Lord of cosmic vitality for a comprehensive and sound understanding, and adore the powerful divinity with salutations. 11

May we have the assistance from and good-will of generous people, persons of activity, skilled artisans, ladies of high status, and the like ; and may we derive advantage from the streams or water ways, carved out by marine engineers. May we have the blessings from the divine goddess of learning, the highly enlightened, possessing the grace of full moon night, bestowers of boons and aspirations. 12

I offer devoutly, this freshly inspired song to the great and sure protector, the showerer, who makes for us this all. In fond love for His daughter, the earth, He (the resplendent Lord) has provided this water for our use to the rivers of varied dimensions and forms. 13

May your pious praise, Oh worshipper, assuredly reach the thundering, roaring Lord of the earth, who proceeds, illuminating the heaven and earth with his lightning and impelling the clouds distributes the rain. 14

May this hymn reach up to the mighty cloud-bearing wind, the youthful offspring of cosmic vitality. My intent desires incite me to earn riches for the good of all. May every one glorify them who go to their sacred assignment speedily as if mounted on spotted steeds. 15

May our invocations reach the divine bounties on earth and in the mid-region and the forest trees, the plants, for the sake of riches. May each individual divine bounty be easily invoked by me. May not the mother earth be unfavourably disposed to me. 16

O divines, may we ever enjoy great and uninterrupted bliss. 17

May we obtain the very fresh favour of the twin divines (bounties on the earth and in the heaven) and gain their unprecedented, joy-conferring and well-guided protection. May the immortals grant us riches, brave youths and all round prosperity. 18

May the harmless speech, in different metres, like milch-cows, who hasten to their destination come to us, with their sweetness. The wise worshipper invokes the seven-metred divine speech vast and joy-diffusing for gaining ample riches. 1

With pious praise, and reverence, I invoke exhaustless heaven and earth. May the father (heaven) and mother (earth), both sweet in speech, loving in treatment, and well-reputed protect us in every struggle. 2

Priests, who are composing sweet tunes, first offer to the wind-divine, the delightful and brilliant sweet drink. May you, like an invoker, O priestly wind-divine, be the first to accept this sweet offering, which we are presenting to you for your exhilaration. 3

The ten expressers of the juice (the ten fingers of both the hands) and the two arms of the worker, are actively engaged in effusing out the juice from the medicinal herbs, with the help of pressing stones. The exulting expert worker toils on the assignment, big as a mountain, and finally for the spiritual joy he is able to press out the sweet extracts. 4

The devotional love (like the extract of herbs) has been effused, O resplendent Lord, for your delight and for impelling your strength in action, and for your great exhilaration ; therefore, O resplendent Lord, when invoked by us, put your two dear, docile, well-trained horses in your chariot, with fire axle. 5

O fire divine, being well pleased with us, bring to us, by paths frequented by the divine powers, the divine queen of knowledge, who is mighty and omnipresent, to whom oblations are offered with reverence, and who is vast and cognizant of sacred worship, to partake of the exhilaration of the sweet devotion. 6

A priest offers butter to the fire, in the same way as wise men nourish the seed and extend the realm of knowledge. The sacred caldron when placed on fire of the altar looks as if the son sitting on his father's lap. 7

May this adoring, earnest and gratifying praise go like a messenger to summon the twin divines hither. Come O twin divines, givers of happiness, riding in one chariot. May you come down to the cherished loving devotion, as the bolt to the axle of the wagon. 8

I offer adoration with reverence to the nourishing bounty and victorious wind-divine, who both are inspirers of wise thoughts and granters of strength and of food, and also both of them are distributors of riches. 9

O omniscient Lord, invoked by us all, may you bring here vital principles, under their several names and forms. May you, O vital faculties, come with all your protecting impulses to bless our benevolent deeds, the prayers, and the adoration of the worshipper. 10

May the radiant divine speech come to bless our benevolent works from heavenly regions and cloudy-realms. May she, glittering with glory, and appreciating our offerings, eagerly hear our melodious songs. 11

May you enshrine in your hearts the Supreme Lord of universe, the creator, whose dark-blue sky is the back. Let us serve this Lord, seated in the inner chamber of our body and shining everywhere. He is golden-hued, and resplendent. 12

May the sustainer of all, (the fire divine), greatly radiant, the delighter, come with all his protecting faculties, when invoked. He is clothed with flames and with plants, and is invincible. His horns, as if flames, are of three colours (white, red and black), and is the showerer of blessings and the bestower of life. 13

The priests, equipped with all the accessories of the fire ritual have come to the bright and most excellent place of the mother earth. As men clean and wash and then deck and decorate the infant child, similarly the priests foster and take care of the new born auspicious fire with reverence. 14

Married pairs (husband and wife) getting old in their devotion, jointly offer abundant sacred oblations to you, O fire divine. May the most divine among all divine powers, be invoked by me, and may the mother earth keep no ill-thoughts for me. 15

O divine powers, may we ever dwell in your uninterrupted bliss. 16

May we obtain the very fresh favour of twin divines and gain their unprecedented joy-conferring and well-guided protection. May the immortals grant riches, sons and grandsons and all round prosperity. 17

As ancient sages, our predecessors, and all sages of the present generation have been drawing strength by prayers of the resplendent Lord, so, may you also draw power, from Him who is the oldest and best of the divine powers. Enshrine to Him in your pure hearts, who is the bestower of bliss, and is swift and victorious. May you extol to Him by such prayers. 1

Being self-radiant, your glory spreads through the regions and through the beautiful waters of unyielding clouds for the good of mankind. O performer of good deeds, the preserver of men, you are in no way to cause injury to creatures. You excel all wisdom. Your name abides in truth. 2

He, the fire-divine, is associated with the perpetual offerings, and is the sustainer of all. Nothing restricts him, the showerer, in his way whilst gliding to the place of ceremony. He is an infant, later on ever-young, exempt from decay and rests in the midst of plants. 3

These well-combined rays of the Sun, are descending with intent to proceed to the place of the fire ritual amplifying the gains in the interests of the worshipper. Operating with these swift-moving all-regulating rays, he takes up waters flowing in low places (to heights to form clouds). 4

Object of honest eulogium, enkindled with fire-sticks, accepting devotional prayers animated by the heartfelt love, and giver of life, it shines among the inner chambers of the enlightened worshippers, and upholders of the sacred words. May you increase your protecting flames, the consorts in the sacred fire-ritual. 5

Like as it is beheld, so it is described to be. It, with its extensive splendour in the waters, makes earth yield us room enough and amply wide. May it grant us great vigour undecaying energy, and invincible strength, together with brave progeny. 6

The creator is the foremost poet of vision, radiant like the sun, she advances with his superior conscient power. He is ever intent or combat with his adversaries in advancement. May we adore the all round illuminator of bright heavens and may he secure our entire felicity, and grant us a sheltering home, that wards fierce heat of the day off on every side. 7

Your name, sung by seers in the hymns, goes to the superior one with this swift-moving banner like luminous flame. By devotion, he wins the blessing, where on his heart is set. He, who himself stirs and strives acquires abundant riches. 8

The chief and best of these our praises proceed to the ocean—like sun ; that worship does not fail where in these sacred hymns are extended. There the heart's desire of the worshipper remains not unfulfilled where the mind is pure. 9

He verily is to be glorified. Let us with pleasant thoughts of such high values of life as the spirit of voluntary assistance, good-will, security, reverence, co-existence and safety, strive to win the super strength to be shared by everyone, wise and sensible. 10

The bird, the son of Infinity is the master of this elixir, the spiritual joy. It fills the heart with ecstasy, and as such everyone craves to have this universally covetable reverential and inspiring elixir, and all urge one another to enjoy. Everyone finds in this wonderful elixir this invigorating blissful drink. 11

A devotee in the company of such virtuous ones as are ever rich in wealth, pious worshippers, destroyer of the crooked by strong hands, fully-learned and skilful, would always destroy his enemies. Such a person would surely gain his wishes in both worlds, and would shine brightly. 12

He becomes the defender of the sons of the pious institutor of ceremony, a benevolent guardian and uplifter of all holy thoughts, the milch-cows (scriptures) offer sweet wisdom, which is distributed all over. But only he knows this who learns and speaks the holy texts, not he who sleeps. 13

The Rk hymns love him who wakes and watches; the Saman tunes also bless him, who is ever vigilant. The loving Lord also addresses thus to the man, who is vigilant, "I am yours, my dwelling in your friendship". 14

The Rk hymns love the one enlightened, who ever wakes and watches. The Saman tunes also bless the one enlightened who is ever vigilant, and to that enlightened one the loving Lord also addresses thus: "I am yours; my dwelling in your friendship." 15

The self of the realized devotee recovers the lost wisdom, praying and hurling his bolt of determination from the innermost realm. The rays of the approaching dawn are spread around the divine source of light, scattering the clustered gloom, has risen and set open the doors of knowledge of men. 1

The sun of enlightenment spreads his light as splendour personified. Dawn, the mother of the light, knowing his approach, comes from the spacious firmament. The rivers with running waters flow, breaking down their banks. The heaven is stable like a firm-set pillar. 2

These traditional hymns cause the burthen of the cloud to descend to fertilize the fields. The sky performs its assigned duty (and pours down the rain). The assiduous farmers tire themselves out with more work. 3

O resplendent and adorable Lord, I invoke you for my protection with God-pleasing and well composed words to obtain your favour. Preceptors excelling in academic pursuits and assiduous men also adore you with reverence. 4

Come today quickly ; may our thoughts be holy. May we cast away mis-fortune far from us. May we then keep them at distance, who hate us and hasten to meet the institutor of the sacred works. 5

Come friends, let us strive to attain that solemn purpose, wherewith the gate of (the stolen) mother-cow (the divine wisdom) could be thrown open, wherewith man could overcome evil-desires attractive in appearance and wherewith the wandering merchant could obtain his wealth. 6

At this place of work and worship, the preparation is set in motion by the hands of the priests for singing praises, whereby the progressive ministrants celebrate the ten-months worship. And when the divine intuition comes straight and discovers the wisdom, fire-priests render all the worship effective. 7

When the fire-priests on the opening of this adorable dawn, could recover the lost cattle (the lost wisdom) they milched the cows and distributed the milk (the spiritual joy) to the august assembly, for intuitive instinct could find wisdom by the path of truth. 8

May the sun (the self) the Lord of seven steeds (sense organs), arrive, for he has a distant goal to reach by a tedious journey. Fleet as a hawk, he pounces upon the offered sacrificial food, ever young and far-seeing, he shines, moving amidst rays of light. 9

The sun has ascended above the shining ocean, as soon as he yokes his bright-backed steeds. The wise sage draws him, like a ship, across the ocean. The rain waters, hearing his commands, have come down. 10

I offer to you, for the sake of rain, an all-bestowing worship, whereby the progressive ministrants have completed the ten-months rite. May we, by this worship, invoke Nature's bounties to guard us against ills. May we, by this worship, pass safe beyond affliction and sin. 11

The enlightened person of his own accord, attaches himself to his assigned task, like a trained horse to a chariot. I also bear that task which is transcendent and preservative. I seek for no release, neither see way of turning back therefrom. May he, who knows the way, conduct me by the right path. 1

May you the cosmic divine powers, such as the lightning, the vapours, the vital principles, the pervading ethereal element and the sun confer strength upon us. May the twin-divines (dawn and dusk) cosmic vitality, the speech, the nourishments, the gracious elements, and the divine enlightenment be blessings to us. 2

I invoke for protection the nature's bounties like lightning and fire, light and plasma, the mother infinity, the heaven, the earth, the vital principles, the clouds, the waters, the air-divine, the nourisher, as well as, above all, the Supreme Lord of the universe, the creator. 3

May all pervading Lord and lord of the divine wind who harms non give us felicity. May the blissful Lord, the bestower of riches give us joy. May the spiritual preceptors, the pair of physicians and surgeons, the architects and other intellectuals, be favourably disposed to our aspirations. 4

And may the adorable celestial company of the vital principles, grace our assembly devoted to sacred work, and may the Supreme Lord, provider of nourishment, the venerable, friendly and the maintainer of law and order guard and grant shelter to us. 5

And may the glorious mountains, the beneficent rivers, keep us safe from harm. May the gracious, the apportioner of wealth, come with abundance and protection. May this wide-pervading infinity hear my invocation. 6

May Nature's motherly bounties, help us of their own accord. May they so protect us, that we obtain vigorous children and abundant food. O mothers, the goddesses, whether terrestrial, or those in charge of the waters in the firmament, may you on our earnest invocation bestow upon us felicity. 7

Urging men to their labours, the adorable dawn, a great mother, comes from the heaven, she is the awakener of her daughter-earth; and is pious, ever young and glorified. She comes, when invoked, to the chamber of worship, with the protecting divine powers.

The rays of light, extending round, fulfilling their task of bringing on the day, abiding in contact with the orb of the immortal sun, unlimited and diffusive, spread everywhere through heaven and earth. 2

The showerer of rain, the shedder of dew, the radiant and the one of splendid wings,—such as the sun, has entered the region of the paternal east. The many-tinted and pervading luminary proceeds to both extremities of the firmament, and guards the two limits. 3

The four directions bear him up and seek their own welfare. The ten regions of space invigorate this babe to travel his daily course. His three-fold elementary rays swiftly traverse round the boundaries of the sky. 4

O men, indescribable is the mystic knowledge: who can say from whence the rivers flow, and where the waters dwell; how the visible two (day and night), associated and closely united, support the mother (i.e. the mother of the sun), who herself is invisible ? 5

For him worshippers lengthen praises and works of adoration, and for him mothers (cosmos) sew garments of rays. Rejoicing in the contact of their impregnation, the rays, the consorts, of the sun, come to our presence, by the path of the sky, to meet him. 6

May this our praise, O Lord of light and bliss, be appreciated by you. May it, O adorable Lord, be valued by you, as the means of health and happiness to us. May we then obtain depth (of life) and stability. We offer reverence to the vast celestial region. 7

48

How and when shall we offer adoration to the great resplendent dear to all, self-renowned, self-sovereign, and who, as the master of cosmic intelligence, investing heavens, spreads the waters above the clouds over the immeasurable firmament. 1

These dawns diffuse the consciousness, that gives strength to pious men and overspread the whole world with uniform light. The devout man does not worry about the dawns which have disappeared and those which are yet to come, but he lengthens the field of action with those that are before him. 2

The resplendent sun, whose hundred rays attend in his own abode, drives the days afar and brings the revolving days back again. Animated by the libations offered by day and by night, the sun sharpens his vast bolt of rays against the beguiler, the cloudy darkness. 3

I know the form of that fire-divine which is like an axe's edge. His resplendent form is designed for the welfare of mankind. To the man, who invokes him in struggle, he gives such opulence, as is like a dwelling place, full of precious treasure. 4

Blazing with his fiery tongue in the four quarters, and wearing beautiful lustre, the venerable proceeds onwards, dispelling darkness. With our human limitations, we would never know the omnipotency of the gracious supreme creator, whereby He bestows his blessings. 5

49

Today, I approach the divine gracious creator, who allots the gracious treasure amongst men. O the fast moving twins, the leading divines, conferrers of all enjoyable things, seeking your friendship, I call on you every day. 1

Knowing fully well the approach of the expeller (of darkness), i.e. the time of sunrise may you worship the divine creator with holy hymns and praises. Let him, who rightly knows, speak with reverence to him who distributes precious treasures amongst men. 2

 syata | āré viṣvam patheshthām dvishó yuyotu yúyuvih ॥ 3 ॥

The nourisher, the gracious, the infinite Lord, whose garb is splendour, bestows the excellent viands. Lord, the resplendent, the omnipresent, the venerable, the friendly, and adorable gives birth to auspicious days. 3

May the invincible creator grant us the covetable wealth, and may the flowing rivers hasten to convey it to us, for which I, the ministering priest of worship, repeat pious praises. Affluent in food, may we be the lords of wealth and rich treasures. 4

May ample wealth be granted to those, who present homage to the Lord of wealth and comforts, and to those, who have repeated praises to the Lord of light and bliss. O divines grant them uninterrupted happiness. May we all rejoice through the grace of heaven and earth. 5

50

Let every man solicit the friendship of the divine leader. Each one seeks glory and obtains affluence through his grace. 1

O divine leader, those who serve you are yours and the others too who serve the divine powers. We are sure both of them would be blessed with opulence and may the aspirations of all of us be fulfilled. 2

Therefore, serve the leaders of our sacred works, like guests, and also honour their wives. May the divine discriminator drive to a distance every adversary, and all who block our way. 3

Where fire is set and swiftly runs the cow's milk and butter, placed in the vessel, there the Lord, friendly to men, like the benevolent household wife, gives special opulence of dwellings and children. 4

O Lord, the divine leader, may your protecting chariot, laden with riches, be blessed to us,—blessed to us for wealth and well. We glorify him for well-being, peace and prosperity. We, the devout worshippers, adore him. 5

51

Come, O adorable Lord, with all your divine protecting measures, to accept our devotional love and to grant blessings. 1

Come to our sacred work and worship, O possessors of divine wisdom, and performers of righteous deeds. May you relish our love, as the ritual fire consumes oblation with tongue like flames. 2

O wise and ever gracious Lord, come to accept our devotional love with those wise and virtuous divine forces, who move from the early morning. 3

This loving devotion is expressed as if effused into the ladles and poured forth into the vase of heart, acceptable to resplendent Lord of cosmic vitality. 4

Come, O Lord of vitality, propitious to the offerer of homage, to accept our devotional love, as one drinks the extracts of foods and relishing herbs. 5

You are, O resplendent Lord and Lord of vitality, ever worthy of accepting our drinks of devotional love. May you with all kindness cherish them fully, and accept the pleasant offerings also. 6

The devotional prayers, expressed with love and earnestness are poured out as if plant juices mixed with milk creams, to resplendent Lord, the Lord of vitality. May the sacrificial viands proceed to you as rivers flow to a lower level. 7

Accompanied by all the divine powers and accompanied by the twin divines, and by dawns, O adorable Lord, come and cherish our dedications and appreciations, like three fold free sage. 8

Associated with cosmic light and plasma, also with the sun and moon, may you come, and cherish our dedications, O divine fire, like the three-fold-free sage. 9

Accompanied by the element of eternity and comforts, also accompanied by the elements of resplendence and of vitality, may you come and cherish our dedications, O fire divine, like the three fold free sage. 10

May the pair of twin-divines, the gracious Lord and the divine eternity, contribute to our prosperity. May the irresistible sun, the scatterer of light and the dispenser of darkness, bestow upon us prosperity. May the most vital heaven and earth vouch safe us happiness. 11

We glorify Lord of vitality for prosperity—Lord of bliss for prosperity, who is the protector of world. We praise the Supreme Lord, associated with all divine powers. May the radiant rays of all the suns and luminaries bring us health and happiness. 12

May the divine wise sages protect us for our prosperity. May the fear of the Lord of terror keep us off from crimes and calamity. 13

May the Lord of light and bliss grant us prosperity. May the guiding spirit of firmament and the goddess of riches, grant us prosperity. May the adorable and resplendent Lord prosper us. And O the spirit of indivisible fullness bestow prosperity upon us. 14

May we ever pursue our path of prosperity like the sun and moon; may we move in full cooperation in mutual give and take, without causing injury to each other, and in the mutual right understanding. 15

O divine winds, moving speedily along the brown clouds as if riding on such horses, and associated with the praise-deserving vital principles, sing boldly the glory of those who are holy on their own accounts and who enjoy their reputation, free from guile. 1

For, in their boldness, they are the firm friends of steady and sure vigour. They are, in their course, resolute and guard innumerable men with willingness and pleasure. 2

Gliding along, and shedding moisture, they pass through the nights; therefore we now celebrate the might of these cloud bearing winds, manifested in both heaven and earth. 3

Let us earnestly offer praise and worship to the cloud-bearing winds, who through all ages of mankind have been protecting the mortal worshipper against calamities. 4

May you offer reverence to the adorable cloud bearing winds, who come from heaven, and are worthy of worship, who are munificent leaders, and possessors of unequalled strength. 5

The leaders (of rains) and the mighty divine winds, shine like soldier hurling javelins of gleaming gold. Following these divines winds, proceeds the lightning roaring from the sky, a splendour which spontaneously breaks forth. 6

The cloud-bearing winds who are close to the earth, are augmented, so are those who are in the vast firmament. They too wax who proceed along the rivers, and so those winds who move in the vast midspace. 7

Glorify the truth-invigorated and infinite strength of the cloud-bearing winds, for they, the leaders of the rains, gliding along, are working voluntarily for our good. 8

Whether they abide on the cumulus clouds, along with a river, or, purifying all, they clothe themselves with light, or whether they cleave the rock asunder with strength by the wheels of their chariots. 9

Whether, following the paths that lead to us, or that spread diversely, or those that sink into the hollows (of the mountains) or those that extend smoothly, they, however scattered, tend well the cosmic sacrifice for my benefit. 10

These leaders of the rains uphold the world, at one time blending together, whilst the other time remaining aloof, they are manifest in varied forms. 11

Singing hymns, seeking water, dancing and praising, they provide water as if from a well. Some of them move in secret like thieves, but only to help us, and some are splendid to behold. 12

Glorify, O sage, with grateful songs, the group of these clouds, who are bright with lightning lances, who are melodious like poets, and full of wisdom. 13

Approach, O sage, with offerings and with praise, the group of the clouds, as a maid goes to her friend. May you, O clouds, hasten here from heaven, bold in your strength, and glorified by our hymns. 14

Glorifying them promptly, may you go to them, who are like an escort of Nature's bounties. They are characterized by their wisdom, by their velocity, and by the generosity of distributing rewards. 15

To me, inquiring of their kin, the sage—clouds have given an answer. They declare the earth to be their mother. And the same mighty ones declare the food-bestowing cosmic vitality to be their father. 16

May the seven times, seven all-potent clouds, aggregated as a single troop, bestow upon me hundred gifts. May I possess wealth of cows, renowned upon the banks of confluent channels. May I possess wealth of horses. 17

53

Who knows the birth of these cloud-bearing winds? Who has formerly been participant of the enjoyments of them, and when are the deer-like spotted waves yoked to their chariots? 1

When standing in their cars, who has heard them tell the way whither to go? Who is the liberal worshipper to whom their kindred rains descend with manifold food? 2

To me have they spoken whilst having come with radiance to cherish noble deeds. O leaders and heroes, free from blemishes or stain, whenever you behold them, admire and appreciate. 3

They the self-luminous, whilst arrayed in chariots, are decorated with ornaments, swords, and bows, breast-plates, bracelets, and wreaths. 4

I look upon your chariots, O munificent cloud-bearing wind with delight, like wandering lights in the rains. 5

These munificent heroes bring the heaven's treasury as if down to the earth for the benefit of the worshipper. They set the rain cloud free to stream through both the worlds and desert spots are flooded with rains. 6

The bursting torrents (from the clouds) overspread the firmament with water, as milch cows yield milk and just as swift horses hasten to their journey's resting place, the glittering brooks run in various directions. 7

Come, O cloud bearing winds, from heaven, from mid-air, or from near at hand. Tarry not far away from us. 8

Let not the dust nuclei, nor the indefinite variation of heat and light, neither the motion of the earth, nor the wide-roving ocean hold you back. Let not the fully flowing river oppose you on your way. May the happiness of yours be ours. 9

My appreciations of the brilliant group of cloud-bearing winds, who have the strength of the latest chariots, and whose appearance is followed by good rains. 10

To what nobly-born and oblation-giving worshipper are the clouds proceeding on this course today. 12

With the same grace that you bestow imperishable grain-seed upon the sons or grandsons, may you bestow it upon us, that for we implore of you the life-sustaining auspicious bliss. 13

O cloud-bearing winds, may we overcome our crooked and reviling adversaries, dispelling evils, with goodwill.
And may we through rain be blessed with unmixed happiness, water, cattle, and curative herbs. 14

O leading cloud-bearing winds, verily that mortal shall be favoured by the divine powers, and blessed with progeny, whom you protect. May we also be graced with that blessing. 15

Praise the givers of enjoyment, at the holy place of wor-shipper, for they delight in pious praise just as cows enjoy the barley-husk. So let them come close to you, as if your old friends; praise them with songs, as they love adoration. 16

Offer praise to the group of the cloud-bearing winds, who are self-irradiating, who can cast the mountains down. May you present liberal oblations to the illustrious divine winds, who absorb the heat; to those who come from the sky, for sacred acts; and to the givers of abundant food. 1

O cloud-bearing winds, your troops are rich in water; they are strengtheners of life, and are your strong bonds; they shed water and augment food, and are harnessed with steeds (waves) that wander far and spread everywhere. Combined with lightning, the triple-group (of wind, cloud and lightning) roars aloud, and the circumambient waters fall upon the earth. 2

The clouds appear gleaming with lightning; they are leaders (of rain) armed with adamantine weapons, blazing with the wind and are the over-throwers of mountains; they further are the repeated distributors of water and wielders of the thunder-bolt. Roaring in concert, they send rain, and are of exceeding strength. 3

O powerful cosmic winds, you terribly upset nights and days, you violently shake the firmament and the worlds. You toss the clouds like ships on the sea and you throw down the strongholds of enemy. But, O vital principles you even then do no harm. 4

Your glory, O cloud-winds, is spread far and wide like the sun extending his radiance. Even without hopes, you travel fast on your courses with unbounded lustre, you cleave those clouds which withhold water. 5

O cloud-bearing winds, dispensers of rain, your strength is manifested, when, you shake the water-laden clouds, and make them loose the shower. Conjointly propitiated, may you conduct us by an easy path leading to prosperity, as the eye guides the way. 6

The sage, or the sovereign, whom you, O divine wind, direct, is never overcome nor slain. He does not perish, nor suffers pain, nor undergoes injury, nor are his riches or his safety imperilled. 7

These lords of speedy waves, over-comers of multitudes, leaders (of rites), radiant as the ordainers, are the dispensers of water. These loud-sounding sovereign lords fill the clouds, and moisten the earth with sweet watery sustenance. 8

This earth becomes widely extended for the cloud-bearing winds, the heaven becomes spacious for the spreading clouds. The paths of the mid-space become wide extended to provide way to their course. The expanding clouds quickly bestow (their gifts). 9

O clouds of combined strength, leaders and divine guides to the goal of happiness, you are delighted, when the sun has risen up. Then may your rapid waves know no relaxation, but quickly reach the limits of this road. 10

Lances gleam, O clouds, upon your shoulders, anklets on your feet, golden chains are on your breasts, and purity shines in your chariots, lightnings blazing with fire glow in your hands, and golden tiaras are laid upon your heads. 11

O clouds, when moving, you shake the vault of splendid heaven beyond conception, and stir the bright water. When you combine your energies and shine brilliantly, and when purposing to send forth the rain you utter aloud shout. 12

O most wise cloud-bearing winds, may we, be the drivers of the car of riches, full of life, that have been bestowed by you. Let that wealth in thousands dwell with us, which never vanishes like the sun or the tisya constellation (eighth lunar mansion) in the sky. 13

You bestow, O clouds, wealth and enviable posterity; you offer protection to the Seer, learned in the chanting of verses. You grant vitality and nutrition to the enlightened priests; you provide prosperity to a prince even. 14

Therefore do I solicit wealth of you, from those who are prompt to grant protection, whereby we may multiply our descendants, as the sun spreads wide his rays. Be propitiated O divine clouds, and accept graciously this hymn of mine, so that by the efficacy whereof, may we pass over hundred winters. 15

The adorable cloud-bearing winds, armed with bright lances and with their breasts adorned with gold rushing onwards hold vigorous existence. They move on swift, well-controlled horses. May their chariots incessantly move onward when they proceed for our welfare. 1

O clouds, you yourself maintain vigour according to your judgment. You shine most widely and majestically. You pervade the mid-air with your power. May their chariots incessantly move onward when they proceed for our welfare. 2

These simultaneously formed mighty clouds, co-dispensers of moisture, grow to great majesty. They are leaders, and resplendent, as the rays of the sun. May their chariots incessantly move onward when they proceed for our welfare. 3

Your mightiness, O clouds, deserves to be adorned. A visit to you is worthy to be longed for, for your beauty is like the orb of the sun. So, lead us with your aid to immortality. May their chariots incessantly move onward when they proceed for our welfare. 4

O cloud-bearing winds, you uplift waters from the ocean and charged with moisture, you shower down the rain. O destroyers of foes, your milch kine are never dry. May their chariots incessantly move onward, when they proceed for our welfare. 5

O adorable God, I invoke the victorious group of divine impulses decorated with brilliant enlightenment, to descend today from the luminous realm of innermost consciousness. 1

In whatever manner you honour them in your heart, may they come to me as benefactors. May you strengthen those impulses, frustrating and fierce in the first appearance, who most promptly come to your invocations. 2

As persons on this earth ruled by powerful Lord, have recourse to him when oppressed, so comes the host of divine impulses clouds exulting to us. O impulses, your group, active as fire, is as difficult to be resisted as a formidable bull. 3

These, the divine impulses, who with mighty prowess over-throw evil ideas, like bulls difficult to be restrained, cause even the heavenly stone to shake,—may you shake the rocky mountains as these (impulses) rush on with speed. 4

Rise up, O divine impulses. Verily, by my praises, I invoke the mighty and unprecedented troop of these exalted group of impulses, strong like a herd of kine. 5

O cloud-bearing winds, full of wisdom, armed with swords, with lances, with bows, with arrows, with quivers, you are well mounted and have handsome chariots; O sons of mid-air, you are well armed, come for our good. 2

You agitate the clouds in the sky. You give wealth to the donor of oblations. Through the fear of your approach the forests bow down. O sons of mid-air, you make earth tremble, when, for the purpose of sending water, you, fierce clouds, yoke your colourful chariots. 3

The cloud-bearing winds are brilliantly radiant and wrapped in their robes of rain water. They are charming like noble twins and of graceful form. They are masters of tawny and of ruddy horses, devoid of guile, destroyers of foes and vast in magnitude as the sky. 4

They (the cloud-bearing winds) are shedders of abundant showers, wearers of ornaments, munificent, of brilliant aspect, yielders of inexhaustible wealth, noble by birth, are adorned with gold upon their breast, singers of the sky, entitled to adoration, they enjoy their immortal fame. 5

Lances rest, O cloud-bearing winds, upon your shoulders. Strength of foe-destroying power rests in your arms and golden turbans are on your head. Your weapons are placed in your chariots and all glorious majesty is moulded on your bodies. 6

O cloud-bearing winds, bestow upon us affluence in cattle and steeds, in cars, treasure, and male descendants. O sons of cosmic principles, grant us high distinction. May I ever enjoy your divine favour and protection. 7

O cloud-bearing winds, leaders of ceremonies, be propitious to us. You are infinitely opulent, immortal, be gracious to us. You are rich in treasures, renowned for truth, wise and young. You are greatly glorified and worshipped with copious oblations. 8

58

I glorify today that self-brilliant group of the adorable cosmic cloud-bearing winds, lords of swift moving forces, who pass along in strength, who are self-radiant, and maintain control over ambrosial rains. 1

O devotee, glorify extremely brilliant and powerful troop of clouds, decorated with hand-bracelets, and which is agitator and wise; whose individuals are conferers of wealth, bestowers of felicity, and whose greatness is unbounded. May you glorify these leaders. 2

May the universal divine winds, who impell the rain, come to you, today laden with water. They are very wise and ever-young. This fire, rain-bearing clouds, is newly-kindled; may it find favour with you. 3

O benevolent divine winds, with your blessings a son is born to the man, who would be a ruler and over-comer of adversaries or who would be skilled architect. From your blessings, comes a valiant descendant, strong-fisted (a boxer), mighty-armed; and by your grace, he becomes a possessor of excellent horses. 4

Like the spokes of a wheel, none of you are inferior to the rest, but equal in measure as days. These sons of mid-air are born off all alike. None is inferior in splendour, and all are rapid in speed; these divine winds pour rain of their own free will. 5

O divine winds, when you come with stout-axled cars drawn by coloured horses, the waters are disturbed, the forests are shattered; let the sky the showerer of rain thunder and pierced by the solar rays, may it send his roar downward. 6

On their approach the earth becomes capable of fertility, and they deposit water in her as their germ, as the husband generates the embryo of the child. They harness their vital horses' fleet as the wind. The clouds are offsprings of cosmic vita principles whose sweat becomes the rain. 7

O divine winds, the leading heroes, be gracious to us. You are infinitely opulent, immortal, law-abiding, renowned for truth, youthful poets, greatly glorified, and worshipped with profuse adorations. 8

59

The priest glorifies you, O divine winds, for the good of the donor of the oblation. May he offer worship to the shining midspace and to the earth. They (the cloud-bearing winds) scatter the rapid rain and traverse the firmament. They extend far and wide their radiance up to the sea. 1

The earth shakes and reels in terror at their onward rush as a crowded boat goes quivering. Visible from afar, they are recognized by their movements. The divine winds, heroes, pass between heaven and earth to the place of work and worship. 2

You bear, for your decoration, an excellent (diadem) like the horn of cattle. And like the sun, the eye (of day), dispell darkness. You are diligent, graceful, and rapid as horses, and you are conscious to earn glory like mortals. 3

O mighty divine winds, who may exalt the great mighty excellencies of you? Who may (offer you fitting) praises? Who may glorify your manly deeds? For, you verily make the earth tremble like a ray of light, when you confer the gift of rain for fertility. 4

Resplendent as steeds of one kindred, they engage in combat like valiant champions. Like prosperous men, they, the leaders, augment in strength and cover the eye of the sun with their showers. 5

None of them are older, not one the younger than the others, the destroyers of foes, none hold a middle rank, but all excell in glory. Noble by birth, having mid-space for your mother, may you, O divine wind, come from heaven to our presence, and be gracious to mankind. 6

Like birds of air, they flow with might in rows from heaven's high ridges to the borders of the sky. Their motivations cause the waters of the cloud to descend, as both mortals know. 7

May the heaven and the earth yield rain for our sustenance; may the wonderfully bounties dawn's toil for us glittering with moisture. May these sons of cosmic vitals, lauded by sages, send down the heavenly treasure. 8

60

I praise with reverence the gracious adorable Lord with hymns. May he, propitiated on this occasion, approve of our acts. May I be full of riches like a chariot full of precious treasures. May I divinely blessed exalt vital principles and thereby become prosperous. 1

O fierce divine winds, offsprings of cosmic vitality, (when you come) mounted, on aura of waves, drawn by speedy currents to the woods bow down in terror, and the earth, even the mountains, tremble. 2

The mountain, though vast and lofty, is alarmed at your roaring, and the summit of the firmament trembles, when, lance-armed cloud-bearing winds move sportingly. You rush along together like the waters. 3

Like wealthy bridegrooms, who have decorated their persons with glittering golden ornaments, the noble and powerful cloud-bearing winds, seated together in their speedy chariots, set their splendours on their forms for ever. 4

Like brothers, of whom no one is elder, no one younger, they grow up together for their mutual prosperity. Their father, the cosmic vitality, is ever-youthful, doer of good deeds, and their mother, the midspace, who is easy to be milked, make their days favourable for their growth. 5

Auspicious cloud-bearing winds, may you come to us, whether you abide in the upper, the middle, or the lower heaven. O cosmic vital principles, come to us from thence; and O fire-divine, accept our homage offered to you today. 6

O divine winds, lords of all, since you and fire-divine abide above the summits of the upper region of the sky, may you, who cause your enemies to tremble, and who rejoice in destroying the adverse elements be pleased to bestow prosperity upon the dedicated workers and devotees. 7

Associated with cloud-bearing winds, gleaming, singing and gathering in groups, whilst purifying and animating the universe, O fire-divine, the universal leaders, the possessor of banner-like bright flames, may you accept our devotional love, with delight. 8

Who are you, O most excellent leaders, that come one by one from a region exceedingly remote ? 1

Where are your horses ? Where are the reins ? What is your capability ? Where are you going ? Do you have the saddle on your back and the rein in your nostrils ? 2

The whip is laid upon their flanks. The rider forces them to spread their thighs apart, like women in bringing forth children. 3

O heroes, blazing, as if, with fire, since you are friendly to men and of noble birth, may you proceed far and wide on your mission. 4

She, (the Mother Nature), stretches her arms round the hero, who is accomplished with brown speedy horses and she, the same one, gives in wealth and vigour, and hundreds of cattles. 5

An accomplisher of praiseworthy deeds, may she be a woman, is more excellent than a man, who reverences not the God and does not offer wealth in charity. 6

For she discerns one who is weak and worn, one who thirsts and is in want and she sets her mind towards God. 7

And I proclaim that the man, her other half, the greedy, is not worthy of commendation until he also becomes equally liberal in munificent donations. 8

He (the widely reputed sage) the knower of the cosmic mystery, gives me hundreds of treasures, and like a swimmer, takes me across by his spacious boat. 10

These cloud-bearing winds are brought hither by swift horses like waves. They, drinking the inebriating elixir, attain high glory here. 11

They, by whose glory heaven and earth are over-spread, shine splendid in their aura of chariots like the radiant sun in the heaven above. 12

That band of cloud-bearing winds is ever young, riding in bright chariots, irreproachable, auspicious, supra-mobile and unobstructed and steady. 13

Who knows of a certainty where these intimidators of their foes live and rejoice? They are born of the eternal law and are exempt from defects. 14

You are admirable guides to happiness of the man, who propitiates you by his pious deeds. You are quick in response to him, who cries for help. 15

You are destroyers of the malevolent, and are worshipful and abounding in bright wealth. May you bestow upon us the riches that we crave. 16

O goddess, the night, may you convey my praises to divine cloudy winds, who shower water as a charioteer conveys the contents of his vehicle to his destination. 17

And when the devotional affection is presented, say on my behalf to the chariot-moving ones (cloud-winds) that my loving regards remain the same. 18

This opulent charioteer cloud still dwells upon the banks of the flooded river, and on the skirts of mountains far away. 19

I have beheld the stationary eternal orb of yours, the Sun, (the source eternal of cosmic energy and cosmic plasma), concealed by cosmic vapours; wherefrom the rays are released. A thousand rays abide together here. This is the most excellent of the embodied forms of Nature's bounties. 1

Exceeding is that your greatness, O Lord of cosmic energy and Lord of cosmic plasma, whereby the felly of the chariot of one amongst you two, the ever revolving, has, through (succeeding) days, milked forth the stationary waters. The felly of the other enables the chariot to go round perpetually. Thus both of you augment all the world-illuminating rays of the self-revolving sun. 2

O splendid Lord of light and Lord of plasma, by your energies, you uphold earth and heaven. O prompt benefactors, you cause the plants to flourish and give nourishment to the cattle. May you send down the rain. 3

May your well-harnessed horses bear you both hither, and with well-guided reins come down. The embodied form of water,—the clouds, follow you and the rivers flow to us as ever. 4

O Lord of light and plasma, with all your power and glory, you go on augmenting your reputation more and more, and you give protection to earth, just as the sacrifices are protected with veneration in verses. Abound in food and viands, may you ascend your chariots in the midst of the places of work and worship. 5

You are open-handed and benignant to the performer of pious acts. You protect him in all benevolent works. You two (Lord of energy and plasma), who are sovereigns, and free from wrath, uphold together a dominion based on thousand pillars. 6

Their chariot is adorned with gold; its pillars are of iron, and it glitters in heaven like lightning. The sacrificial altar has been established in an auspicious place along with all devotional requisites. May we share the meath that loads the car-seat. 7

At the break of dawn, at the rising of the sun, O Lord of light and Lord of plasma, ascend your golden-bodied, iron-pillared car, and thence behold the earth and its inhabitants. 8

O munificent Lord of light and Lord of plasma, protectors of the universe, it is up to you to grant us unobstructed and perfect felicity. May you, therefore, bless us with that felicity; may we be prosperous and ever confident of victory. 9

O guardians of eternal truth, and observers of truth, you stand firm in the lofty heaven. O Lord of light and Lord of bliss, whom you protect, to him the cloud sends down its sweet showers from the sky. 1

O Lord of light and bliss, imperial rulers of this world, your glory shines at the place of sacred dedication. You are the beholders of heaven. We ask of you the wealth of rain and immortality. Your radiations traverse all the realms of earth and heaven. 2

O Lord of light and bliss, imperial and mighty showerers, Lords of heaven and earth, beholders of the universe, you approach with variegated clouds to hear the sound of your praises, and cause the sky to send down rains by your well-planned mystic power. 3

O Lord of light and bliss, your device is manifested in heaven, when the sun, your wonderful weapon, moves in the firmament; him you invest in the sky with cloud and rain; and then O clouds, the sweet rain falls. 4

The cloud-bearing winds harness their easy-going chariot, O Lord of light and bliss, for the emission of water, as a hero harnesses his war-car. The fellies of their chariot traverse different spheres of sky to distribute the rain. May you, therefore, O supreme rulers, shed upon us water from heaven. 5

O Lord of light and bliss, the cloud, through your will, roars in mighty and wonderful voice, indicative of radiance, and announcing abundant food; the cloud-bearing winds thoroughly invest the clouds with their well-planned devices and along with them, you two cause the purple and spotless sky to send down rain. 6

We invoke you, O Lord of light and bliss, the dispeller of darkness, with this hymn, you encompass round the entire realm of light, as if with penfold of your arms. 1

May you stretch out your arms with loving kindness unto this man who adores you. I shall also be singing forth your glory and liberality in all lands. 2

That I may now move in the right direction, may I proceed by the path shown by the Lord, the divine friend of all; for every one gets protection under the charge of this affectionate friend who harms us not. 3

May I, through my devotion, obtain from you, O Lord of light and bliss, such enviable wealth, that is found in the homes of rich and devout people. 4

Come, O Lord of light; Come O Lord of bliss, with your fair splendour to our assembly, and augment the prosperity of the affluent devotee and of those who are your friends in their respective spheres. 5

He who knows Him is really the performer of noble deeds. Let him communicate that knowledge to us in the assembly of learned people. His praise songs alone are accepted by Lord of bliss and Lord of light. 1

The twin-Lord (the Lord of light and bliss) is verily excelling in radiance, the royal-pair, who hears (our prayers) from greatest distances Lord of the virtuous, strengthener of eternal laws and preserver of truth in each individual man. 2

O eternal twin-divine, approaching you, I invoke you together for protection. Possessed of good speed, we call on you to give us strength. 3

Lord of light grants occasions and assistance for improvement to the sinful even. For verily he, who performs worship and struggles with ignorance, obtains favour from this Lord of light. 4

66

O wise sage, adore this twin-Lord, the performer of noble deeds and the destroyer of foes. May you offer homage to the mighty Lord of bliss, the same as the Lord of light for his delight. 1

For the twin-Lord possesses irresistible evil-subduing strength, in full perfection, and therefore the holy worship, the fire-altar, has been established among men and has been made beautiful as the sun in the sky. 2

We glorify you the twin-Lord (of light and bliss), that your chariots may travel to long distances in front of ours, blessing the pious prayers of the offerer of homage through his hymns. 3

Now, O adorable and wonderful twin-Lord, propitiated by the former praises of your worshipper, O possessor of pure vigour, approve the praises of these devotees with favour. 4

O earth, this is a sublime law that you reward the sages, who toil for fame. The wide-spreading twin-divine powers are here. They come with ample and over-flowing water. 5

We and the devout invoke you, O far-seeing Lord of light and bliss, we strive to reach the realm you rule, which is spacious and well-protected. 6

67

O divine forces of infinity, light, sun, ocean and law, it is true that you have obtained super-most, adorable, vast and exceeding strength, set apart for you. 1

When, O twin-Lord of light and bliss, supporter of men, destroyer of evils, you are in your brilliant causal form, you bring perfect happiness. 2

The triple-Lord, of the functions of enlightenment, of bliss and of the maintenance of universal order is possessed of omniscience. He supervises all our sacred activities, as if functioning in His diverse offices and protects the worshipper from the malignant. 3

Verily, He in his triple functions is an embodiment of truth, ordainer of law and order, protector of holy rites among men. He is leader, liberal donor, and deliverer from distress. 4

In which function of yours, O twin-Lord of light and bliss, your merit not our praise. Therefore our thoughts always tend towards you,—the thoughts of even the sages, above three-fold miseries. 5

Sing loud an inspired song to the twin-Lord of light and bliss. O mighty Lord, you are Truth, you are Great. 1

The twin-Lord of light and bliss, is a sovereign ruler, original source of water, and eminently divine among Nature's forces. 2

He, the twin-Lord is able to grant us great terrestrial and celestial riches. Great is your might, O Lord, among Nature's bounties. 3

Carefully tending eternal truth with truth, He attains His vigorous might. The twin-Lord enhances His power, devoid of guile. 4

With raining sky and streaming rivers, the twin-Lord of sustenance, and granter of gifts, occupies His sovereign position. 5

O Lord of light and bliss, you uphold the three realms of light, the three heavens, the three regions of the earth, augmenting the force of the vigorous resplendent sun and guarding the order that lasts for ever. 1

O Lord of light and bliss, the cows are full of milk through your command; the rivers yield sweet water through your will, and there through you stand in the three world-spheres, three showerers, potent with genial moisture and splendid in their brightness. 2

I invoke the divine and bright infinite at dawn, and at mid-day, when the sun is high. I worship you, O Lord of light and bliss, at all seasons, for the sake of riches, progeny, prosperity and happiness. 3

I worship you, the luminous twin-divine, upholder of the celestial and terrestrial world, and the immortal Lord of light and bliss, who never impairs his everlasting statutes. 4

70

O Lord of light and bliss, your protection extends far and wide. May I obtain your kind favour. 1

O benignant twin-Lord, may we obtain food from you for our sustenance. May we ever remain in your grace, O cosmic vital powers. 2

Protect us with your protections, preserve us with kind preservation. May we with our physical strength overcome the wicked. 3

O the twin-Lord, the worker of wondrous deeds, let us not depend upon the charity of any one else; may we, our sons and grandsons, all rely on our own efforts. 4

Whether, O twin-divines, sustainers of many, you are at present far remote or near at hand, or whether you are (roaming) in many places, or are in mid-air, may you please come here. 1

I invoke you for protection, hither, O widely-spread out ones, accomplisher of many great acts, most excellent, irresistible; and the mightiest. 2

You have fixed one luminous wheel of your car, the sun, for illumination while with the other you revolve in the spheres to regulate the time measure, for reckoning the age of men. 3

O the universally accepted twins, may my praise, recited to extol you be agreeable as offered. And may you, who are severally born, and are spotless show brotherly spirit to us. 4

When dawn, the daughter of the sun, ascends your rapidly-moving vehicle, then bright-waving, red-bird-like resplendent rays encompass you. 5

The three-fold free sage extols your benevolence with delightful attitude, O ever-true leaders, since through his praise of you, he fully comprehends the meaningfulness of the innocuous nature of this heat. 6

Your strong, lofty, swift and ever-progressing beams are ever since renowned to help us in all our benevolent works. O twin-divines, the best guides you ever rescue the three-fold free person by your acts. 7

The fire-divine (or the sun) lights up the face of the dawns. The devout singers have started chanting pious their sacred hymns. Therefore, O twin-divines, Lords of the chariot, descending, come hither to bless and in our full-fledged sacrifice. 1

They harm not our well-accomplished sacrifice. O twin-divines, may you now come most quickly, and be glorified on this occasion. May you be present at the opening of the day, and at its close and provide protections against destitution. May you be prompt to bestow happiness upon the donor of the offering. 2

Whether you come at the milking time of the cattle, at the dawn of day, or at noon, when the sun is high, or by day or by night, come with felicitous protection. The recitation not only now, the twin-divines have always been welcome to the draught of devotional offers. 3

This home, O twin-divines, is your ancient abode; these are your mansions, this has been your dwelling. May you come from the vast firmament, overspread by clouds loaded with water, bringing to us food and strength. 4

May we be united with the twin-divines by their heartening protection, which is the source of happiness and guide to progress. May you bestow upon us, O immortals, wealth, posterity, and all auspicious things. 5

Adore the two (the twin-divines), the first to come at early dawn. Let them relish the drink before the other greedy withholders get it, for the twin-divines verily claim the morning homage. The ancient sages extol them before the break of day. 1

Adore the twin-divines, at early dawn and offer them these oblations; the evening is not the time for adoring these divines, it is unacceptable to them. Beside ourselves, if another propitiates them, the worshipper, who is foremost would be most highly favoured. 2

O twin-divines, plated with gold, honey-tinted, water-shedding, laden with food, quick in speed as thought, rapid as the tempest, such a chariot of yours approaches wherewith you travel over all obstacles and obstructions. 3

He, who serves most often the ever-true twin-divines, gives to them the sweetest food at the offerings, and supplements all this with his dedicated works, secures, by his such actions, the welfare of his son, and he always has the advantage over them who enkindle no sacred fires. 4

May we be united with the twin-divines, and be blessed by their special protection, which is the source of happiness and the guide to progress. May you bestow upon us, O immortals, wealth and all auspicious things. 5

O twin-divines, come hither to us. O ever-true, be not ill-disposed. Descend like a pair of swans to cherish our devotional love. 1

O affluent dawn, nobly-born, and sincerely praised for the gift of vigour, bring wealth and abundant food to those, who are liberal givers, and bestow upon us riches of horses and cattle. 7

O daughter of heaven, nobly-born, and sincerely praised for the gift of vigour, bring us food and cattle, and come along with the pure, shining, and refulgent rays of the sun. 8

O dawn, the daughter of heaven, nobly-born, and sincerely praised for the gift of vigour, may you shine forth; please delay not our sacred rite, and let not the sun with fervent heat scorch you as one punishes a thief, or subdues an enemy. 9

O dawn, nobly-born and praised for the gift of vigour, you give whatever indeed has been solicited, and even more. You are radiant one always dawning upon your admirers and have never been cruel to them. 10

Wise devotees welcome with hymns the divine dawn, who brings sun-light. She is sublime and follows with earnest truthfulness the eternal order. She illuminates all the parameters of space and time, whilst she is tinted with purple-pink and is refulgent. 1

The lovely dawn awakens men, and precedes the sun, making the pathways easy to be travelled. Riding in a spacious chariot, vastly expanding everywhere, she diffuses splendour at the day's beginning. 2

Harnessing the red rays to her car, unwearied, she brings perpetual riches. Praised by all and cherished by everyone, she shines, manifesting the paths that lead to happiness. 3

Lucidly white, she occupies two regions (the upper and the middle firmament), and displays her form from the east. She closely follows the path assigned by Nature's order, and with her perfect awareness, she never fails in appearing in the right quarters. 4

Exhibiting her person like a well-attired damsel, she stands before our eyes, inclining like a woman just out of the bath. Dispersing the dark glooms, the dawn, the daughter of heaven comes to us with radiance. 5

The daughter of heaven, the dawn, tending to the west, puts forth her beauty like a well-dressed woman, bestowing precious treasures upon the offerer of adoration. She, ever youthful, brings back the light as she has been doing for all times. 6

The wise yogins concentrate their minds; and concentrate their thoughts as well in the Supreme Reality, which is omnipresent, great and omniscient. He alone, knowing their functions, assigns to the sense organs their respective tasks. Verily, great is the glory of the divine creator. 1

The wise creator, the Supreme Enlightenment, arrays himself in all forms. He brings forth what is good for biped and quadruped. The adorable creator illumines the heaven's high vault and continues to shine even after the departure of the Dawn (the first flashes of the inner conscience). 2

He is divine and resplendent; from Him alone the other gods, the sense organs, proceed to receive their majesty with power. He verily by His greatness has measured out the terrestrial regions. 3

You either traverse, O creator, the three regions (mental, vital and physical), or combine in one the entire radiations from the Sun of the innermost realms; and you pass between the night on either side. O divine creator, you are the Supreme measure of all through your benevolent actions. 4

You alone rule over the actions of living beings; you are nourisher. O divine creator on your own accord, you are sovereign over the whole world. The most intellectual and active devotee offers you praise, O creator. 5

We adore the excellent glory of the divine creator. May we receive from the gracious Lord that glory which is excellent, all-sustaining and victorious over adversities. 1

No one can impair the supremacy of this creator, who is most glorious and loved by all. 2

That creator Lord, who is gracious too, shall bestow precious treasure on the dedicated devotee. We implore to obtain our due portion from Him. 3

Grant us today, O divine creator, affluence and progeny, and drive away the painful dreams. 4

Remove from us, O divine creator all the ills and evils and bestow upon us that, what is good and beneficial. 5

Let us be free from sin towards that Mother of Infinity in the realm of the divine creator; may we obtain all lovely riches from Him. 6

We glorify today with hymns the illuminator of all, the protector of the good, the embodiment of eternal truth, and the supreme creator. 7

We glorify the divine object of meditation, the creator, who is ever vigilant, and precedes both the night of dissolution and the day of creation. 8

The one who reveals His knowledge through the sacred hymns to all the living beings, and inspires them with life in this Creator. 9

I address the mighty cloud, with these invocations; I praise him with adoration. I worship him with reverence, who is the thunderer, the showerer, the bountiful, and who lays, in the plants, the seed for germination. 1

He strikes down the trees, he destroys the wickeds, he terrifies the whole world, by his mighty weapon. Even the tender-hearted innocent shudders at the appearance of the thundering cloud, smiting the wicked. 2

As a charioteer, urges the horses with his whip, so the cloud speedens the rain, and the entire sky is covered with water, and all the space resounds with the roar of a lion. 3

The winds burst forth, the lightnings flash, the plants shoot up, and the firmament is covered to the full. The food springs in abundance for all creatures when the cloud fertilizes the soil with showers. 4

O cloud, under your supremacy the earth grows fertile; under your regime, all creatures thrive; and at your behest, plants assume all colours; may you grant happiness and prosperity. 5

Send down for us, O divine winds, the rain from heaven. Let the showers of fertility descend in torrents from the speedy clouds. Come down with thunder, O cloud, sprinkling water; you verily are our protector. 6

May you cry aloud and impregnate the plants. May you traverse the sky with your water-laden chariot and draw open the tight-fastened, downward turned water-bags, and may the high and low places be made level. 7

May you lift up the mighty treasury, pour down its contents, let the rivers flow unimpeded forward. May you saturate with water both heaven and earth, and let there be abundant bererage for the cattle. 8

When, O clouds, sounding loud and thundering, you destroy the wicked, this universe and all that is upon the earth rejoices. 9

You have poured down sufficiently; now withhold the rain. You have made the deserts very much fed for utilization. You have given birth to plants for man's nourishment. Verily you have obtained laudation from all living creatures. 10

O firmament verily you sustain the rending tools of the clouds and give delight to the earth, with your might and greatness. 1

May you offer a sublime, solemn and loving prayer to the great and imperial sovereign Virtuous Lord, who spreads the firmament as a bed for the sun, like a hunter spreading out the skin of the dead. 1

He extends the firmament over the tree-tops, puts vigour in horses, milk in kine, devotion in hearts, fire in the waters, the sun in heaven and herbs on mountains. 2

The Virtuous Lord open the clouds and set free the water to flow downward, for the sake of heaven, the earth and the mid-region. Thence He becomes the supreme monarch of all the world, watering the soil as the rain bedews the barley. 3

When the most virtuous Lord is pleased to grant milk,
He moistens the sky, the land and earth. Thereupon the mountains clothe their summits with the rain clouds and the vital winds, exulting in their strength, compel the clouds to release water. 4

I declare this great marvelous accomplishment of the renowned and virtuous Lord, who abiding in the mid-space has meted the firmament by the sun as if by a measure. 5

No one can counteract the device of the most sagacious divine Lord, whereby with all their floods, the lucid rivers would never be able to fill even one sea, wherein they have been pouring their waters so long. 6

O most Virtuous Lord, if we have even sinned against a benefactor, or a friend, a comrade, a host, a brother, or neighbour or a stranger, may you remove that stigma from us. 7

If like gamesters, who cheat at play, we have done a wrong, knowingly or without knowledge, then may you,
O Virtuous Lord, cast all these sins away like loosened fettters so that we become dear to you. 8

The mortal man, whom you O twin-Lord of celestial and Terrestrial fires, help in the conflict of life, breaks through even the strongly guarded treasures of adversaries as the speech of the sage of three-fold virtues. 1

We invoke the Twin-lord of celestial and Terrestrial fires, who is irresistible at the time of strife of life and worthy to be renowned in frays and protects the five classes of people. 2

Overpowering is His strength; and bright and sharp is the weapon in the hands of that bounteous Lord. He goes with speed as if on a chariot for the destruction of evil and recovery of the lost wisdom. 3

We invoke you to the battle of life, O twin-Lord of celestial and terrestrial fires, the all-knowing, the one most deserving of adorations and master of quick-coming wealth. 4

O invincible, spotless Twin-lord of celestial and Terrestrial fires, who inspires mortal men to grow every day, I pay tribute to you O the shining ones for the sake of obtaining vigour. 5

The invigorating homage of devotional love, sweet as the elixir extracted by the grinding stones, and pure as butter, has been offered to the twin-Lord of celestial and Terrestrial fires. May He grant fame and ample wealth to the enlightened and dedicated devotees and food to those who sing His praise. 6

May the praises recited by the dexterous mortal reach to the all-pervading Lord, associated with vital principles. He is strong, adorable, brilliantly-adorned, vigorous, praise-loving, who rushes on with joy to scatter dark evil forces. 1

The dexterous mortal glorifies those vital forces which are manifested with greatness and appear speedily and spontaneously with the knowledge. O vital principles, your infinite liberality is beyond comprehension. You look unmoveable and stable like mountains. 2

The dexterous mortal glorifies those clouds with praise, who, while descending from vast midspace look brilliant and happy; and who hear our invocation. No one can yoke them and disturb in their commonhome. They, like self-radiant fires, are impellers of rivers. 3

When the dexterous mortal of vital energy harnesses his own chariot with rapid horses at his residence, the rain-shedding clouds, emulous, vigorous and conferrers of happiness, sally forth from their spacious common dwelling space. 4

Let not the tremendous roar of your approach, which is mighty, the announcer of rain, the shedder of light diffusive and loud, shudder the dexterous mortal of vital energy. O clouds, you are victorious, self-luminous, decked with gold, well-equipped with weapons and provider of food, and such as you are, you always successfully accomplish your functions. 5

May these cosmic vital principles, worthy of worship, and resplendent like fire, protect the dexterous mortal. It is through them that this ethereal dwelling has been extended and made spacious and luminous. They are free from faults and manifest mighty energies when they proceed at the time of confrontations. 7

O vital principles, free of enmity, come to our place of chanting hymns and hear the prayers of the devout dexterous mortal. O brave divines, may you who are the associates and devotees of all-pervading Lord, drive away like warriors seated on chariots, our hidden foes with your valour. 8

O adorable vital principles, come to our sacred worship with grace and hear the invocation of unprotected dexterous mortal. You as formidable as lofty mountains for defence. O profoundly wise ones, may you strike the wicked impulses without compassions. 9

NOTES ON BOOK IV

Hymn-1

1. Samanyavah devasah—learned people, accompanying temper (मन्युना क्रोधेन सह वर्त्तमानः विद्वांसः—Daya.); emulous gods, gods vieing with (स्पर्धमानाः इन्द्रादयो देवाः—Sayana; समन्यवः—मन्युः स्पर्धा, तया सह वर्त्तमानाः); Nature's bounties, vieing with each other.

Compare the morphic nature of the first three verses of this hymn with the hymn I. 127 to I. 138; their metres are long as asti, atijagati, dhrti, atisakvari, atidhrti, or atyasti; at the end of the last line in each verse, there is a repetition of three or four words. It is difficult to say whether there is a deliberate, pure or even a partially modified sense in these repetitions.

4. The verse occurs as Yv. XXI. 3.

5. See also Yv. XXI. 4; av vaksua, come to (संगच्छस्व—Daya.); destroy (अवयज, विनाशयेत्यर्था—Sayana).

Varunam—Varuna-kṛtam (वरुणकृतं)—a disease inflicted by Varuna (जलोदरादिरोगं or dropsy)—Sayana. Dayananda translates varunam as, to a venerable teacher or preceptor (श्रेष्ठमध्यापकमुपदेशकं वा).

7. Janimani, जनिमानि=जन्मानि; three births of agni, as fire on the earth, vayu or lightning in the midspace, and surya in heaven. See Rv I, 95. 3; X. 45.1

8. Hiranya-rathah, one with shining or attractive form, one whose chariot or character is similar to that of the sun (तेजोमय रमणीय स्वरूपसूर्य इव रथो व्यवहारो यस्य सः—Daya.); one with golden chariot—Sayana.

Ramsu-jihvah, one with beautiful flame (Sayana) or one with charming speech (Daya).

Rohidasvah, one with red horses or red fast moving vehicles (रोहिता रक्तादि गुणविशिष्टा अग्न्यादयोऽश्वा आनुगामिनो यस्य सः—Daya.).

10. अच्छा=अच्छ (a Vedic usage); आभिमुखेन—Sayana.

11. Budhne=in the midspace (Daya.), rajasah, of the group of worlds (लोकसमूहस्य—Daya.; but of the midspace—अन्तरिक्षस्य—Sayana). Sayana translates budhne as in the root, or on the earth (बुध्ने मूले पृथिव्यां).

Nilhe, नीले=नीदे, गृहे=in the house, in the nest; in the sky (नीले निलये नभसि; also नीले कुलायभूतेऽन्तरिक्षे वैश्वतामिने रूपेण वर्तमानं त्वा—in verse 12.—Sayana

Vṛsabhasya, of the sun; of the showerer (Daya.); of the clouds (Sayana).

13. Asmakam pitarah, of our forefathers; of our protectors or guardians. According to Sayana, here is a reference to angirasah, the first discoverers of fire by attrition, or the fire-technicians in general.

16. Te manvata prathamam nama dhenoh—they first comprehended the name of dhenu, speech (धेनोः वाण्याः—Daya.; वाचः सम्बन्धि—Sayana), name or नाम is स्तुतिसाधकं शब्दमात्रं mere sound as the means of praise. The passage is also supposed to refer to the ancient nomenclature of cattle as uttered by Angirasas: वेङ्गिरसः प्रथमं पुरातनं नाम एहि सुरभि मुग्मलगन्धिनीति धेनोर्नामधेयं मन्यत उच्चारयामातुः ।

Trih-sapta,  $3 \times 7 = 21$ ; 21 Vedic metres extending from the Gayatri of 24 syllables to one of 104 syllables, (21 jewels stolen by Panis, मातुर्भूम्याः स्वभूतानि पणिभिरपहृतानि त्रिः सप्त रत्नानि विन्दन्—Sayana).

20. See Yv. XXXIII. 16; Aditi, continuous interspace अखण्डमन्तरिक्षम्—Daya.; the earth, the support of all — विश्वेषां देवानामदितिर्भूत्वानीयः आधारभूत इति यावत्—Sayana.

Hymn-2

1. Martyesu, among the mortal (मर्त्येषु मरणधर्मेषु—Daya.); or among mortal sense-organs (वागादीन्द्रियेषु निहितः—Sayana); agni in man becomes the speech; —अग्निर्वर्तमानो मुखं प्राविशत्—Ait. Up. II. 4.

3. Antariyase yusmansca devan visa a ca marttan, thou goest between you, the gods and men; this probably refers to Agni; he goes to men to receive the oblations and then to gods (Nature's bounties), of whom he is one, to bear it to them.

4. Aryamanam, to a judge, न्यायाधीश; varunam, to a venerable, श्रेष्ठगुणं; mitram, to a friend, सखायम्; Indra—Visnu, lightning and sutratman, सूत्रात्मन्, marutah, to wind or air, Asvinaw, pair of sun and moon (Daya).

6. Tatapate, तपपते, O, the protector of the extensive, ततानां विस्तृतानां पालक (Daya); burns or heats with a load of wood-fuel, तपपते काष्ठभारेण तापयति (Sayana).

Hemyavan, one who relates to hemya; hema=water (Nigh. I. 12) —हेम्युदके भवारात्रिविद्यते यस्य (Daya); स्वर्णनिर्मित कक्षावान्, having a girth made of gold (Sayana).

Dosa—in the night.

11. Cittim acittim cinavat, may the sage (Agni) distinguish that which is to be known; चित्ति=ज्ञातव्यं पृथक्, the virtue worth knowing;—कृतचयानां श्रिया; or चित्ति=ज्ञानं knowledge; अचित्ति अज्ञानं or nescience = अकृतचयनां श्रिया (Daya).

15. Divasputra angiraso bhavema, may we, O Angirasa, be the sons of heaven or may we, the sons of heaven, be Angirases.

Angirases bhavema, possessed of a superior power.

(Angirases are known as the sons of Aditya;—that which was his seed was first manifested as Aditya, thence in succession, those which were the cinders became the angirases: अङ्गिरसामादित्यपुत्रत्वमेवमाप्नायते—“तस्य यद्रेतसः प्रथममुददीप्यत तदसावादित्योऽभवत्” इत्युपक्रम्य—“येऽङ्गिरा आसंस्तेऽङ्गिरसोऽभवन्—Ait. Br. III. 34).

According to Dayananda, sons of enlightenment or light, like vital breaths (प्रकाशस्य तनयः प्राणा इव).

Adrim rujema dhaninam, this according to the tradition alludes to the rock in which the cows were hidden. Adri is also cloud (Nigh. I. 10) or a cloud-like adversary (मेघमिव शत्रुम्—Daya).

16. See Yv. XIX. 69; अघा=अघ (निपातस्य चेति दीर्घः)

Ksama, the earth (Nigh. I. 1)

17. जनमा=जनिम=जन्म, janma, of the birth.

Gavyam, with go or with speech (गोमयं वाङ्मयम्).

18. Ayutheva ksumati pasvah akhyat devanam yaj-janima anti, lit. like a herd in food—possessing animals, he has said to the gods that which birth is nigh (Wilson); or herd of cattle in a well-stored stall, (To Sayana, janima is go—Sangham, or herd of cattle); Yutha, army (सैन्यानीव—Daya.)

Urvasih, of widely pervading ones (बहुव्यापिकाः—Daya.); progeny (प्रजाः—Sayana).

Sayana refers to Nir. V.13. Urvasi is a naiād (so called because she pervades wide regions (उरु+√अश् to pervade), or she pervades by means of thighs (उरु+√अश् to pervade); or her desire is great (उरु+√अश् to desire).

Akpran, were made able (कल्पन्ते—Daya.; ताभिरानीताभिर्गोभिः कल्पन्ताः समर्था अभवन्—Sayana).

(The urvasi has nothing to do with the current pauranik legend of the birth of an apsara of the name from the thigh of Narayana.)

Hymn-3

1. Pura tanayitnoh acittat; lit. before the unconsciousness of the thunderbolt; implying a state of unconsciousness, or death as sudden as if the work of the thunderbolt (tanayitnoh—विद्युतः—Daya.; अज्ञानिः ह्यास्मिन्—Sayana; acittat—अविद्यमानं चित्तं यत्र तस्मात्—Daya.; नि विद्यते चित्तं यस्मिन् तदचित्तम् । चित्तोपलक्षित सर्वेन्द्रियोपसंहारो मरणमिति यावत् । तस्मान्मरणात्—Sayana.)

2. Jayeva patya usati suvasah—See Rv. I. 124.7; IV. 3.2; X. 71, 4; 91.13; Nir. I.19; III.5); cf जायापतिमिव वाससा, Av. XVIII. 2.51—as a wife attached to her husband puts on elegant garments (इया स्त्रीव स्वामिने कामयमाना शोभनवस्त्रालंकृता—Daya.).

The beautiful usage of this analogy is in reference to speech, X. 71.4; 5, as given in Nir. I.19. वक्तुमा = वक्तुम् a Vedic license (संहितायामिति दीर्घः).

5. Agah, fault (अपराधम्—Daya.; तत् पापम्—Sayana).

6. Nrghne rudraya, to the man-destroying Rudra, to the destroyer of the sin—committing men, i.e. of wicked ones; नृणां पापकृतां हन्त्रे—Sayana.

7. Sarave—to the one, destroyer of the wicked (दुष्टानां हिसकाय—Daya.; शरवे, शृणाति पक्त्वा ओषधीरति शक्ः शरत् संवत्सरः, यद्वा, हिसिका निवृत्तिः—Sayana). Saru (शक्) means Nirrti the female personification of evil.

The word Nirrti is also used in masculine (Taittiriya Yajus, I. 2.11), meaning an evil spirit disturbing sacrifice.

10. Pr̥sni, the sun (Sayana); midspace (Daya.); sky (Nigh. I. 4)

11. Svar abhavat jate agnau, the sun was manifest as agni was engendered.

16. Nivacana kavyani, ever to-be-recited poems (नितरामुच्यन्तेऽर्वा वैस्तानि कविभिर्निमित्तानि, the poems with extensive or deep meanings—Daya.).

Hymn-4

For verses 1, 14, and 15 see Nir. VI. 12; V. 15 and III. 21 respectively.

1. Raja-iva ama-van ibhena—in this phrase ibhena (इभेन)=by fearless (host), गतभयेन or=by an elephant (हस्तिना); ama van (अमश्वान्)=strong one (बलवान्); also a minister (अमात्य) or an associate; or sickness, inflicting it on the foe.

May thy powerful throng extensive. Powerful throng (पात्रः) is so called from being maintained ( $\sqrt{\text{पात्र}}$ ).

Prasitih (प्रसितिः) is so called from being fastened (प्र— $\sqrt{\text{सि}}$ ); noose or net. Go like a king who is accompanied by his ministers, or who is the terror of his enemies, or who is followed by his own attendants, i.e. retinue, well-nourished with food, or (riding) a fearless elephant. Hastening after the net with speed: the word (तृष्वी) is a synonym of quick; it is derived from  $\sqrt{\text{तृ}}$  (to pass over), or from  $\sqrt{\text{त्वर}}$  to hurry.

Thou shootest, transfix the fiends with darts that burn, or enflame or crush down most fiercely. (Nir. VI.12).

Trsvim, towards one who is thirsty (पिपासिताम्—Daya.), the one who is speedy or in hurry (तृप्—क्षिप्र=quick; Nigh. II.15; it is derived from  $\sqrt{वृ}$ , to pass over, or from  $\sqrt{त्वर}$ , to hurry; तस्तेर्वा त्वस्तेर्वा—Nir. VI. 12).

Prasitim, bondage (बन्धनम्—Daya.); net-thread (प्रसितिः प्रसहनात्तन्तुर्वा जालं वा); a trained or well-equipped army (प्रकुण्डां सेनाम्—Sayana).

2. See Yv. XIII.10.

3. See Yv. XIII.11.

Spasah, touching (rays); prati-spasah, opposing rays (परबाधकान् रश्मीन् चारान्—Sayana; visrja, to direct against.

Spasah etc. may also mean caran, चारान् or spies, sent to discriminate between true and false (सत्यानुत् विवेकार्थं—Sayana).

4. Aratim, to the enemy (शत्रुं—Daya.); one who annuls or prevents our donation (प्ररातिमदानं वा कुस्ते—Sayana); one who makes a gift no gift.

5. Jamim-ajamim, whether kindred or allied, (बन्धुमबन्धुम्—Sayana; whether enjoying or non-enjoying भोगमभोगम्—Daya.); or repeated or not repeated (पुनरुक्तमपुनरुक्तम्—Mahidhara); or repeatedly chastized or not chastized (पुनस्पुनस्ताडितमताडितं वा—Mahidhara). See Yv. XIII.13.

6. Ivate brahmane—for the one who knows the Veda, and is well-versed in knowledge (विद्याभ्याप्ताय वेदविदे—Daya.); a Brahman coming quickly—Wilson. (cf. ईवते गमनवर्ते कस्याणहेतुभूतागमनाय; ब्रह्मणे परिवृद्धाय—Sayana).

Aryah vi durah abhi dyaut, shines upon his door or dwelling; also the worshipper specially shines over his house (अर्थः कर्मणामनुष्ठाता सः यजमानो दुरो गृहानभिविद्यौत् विशेषेण द्योतते—Sayana).

8. Su-asvah tva su-rathah, good horses and good chariots. Sayana regards the phrase as metaphorical for, may we, being with sons and grandsons, and the like worship thee (उपलक्षणमेतत् । पुत्रपोत्रादिभिः सहिताः सन्तः त्वाम्, सर्वेयेम् भलंकृषाम्—Sayana).

9. Kridantah, practising for efficiency in defence sciences and war technique (धनुर्वेद विद्याशिक्षणाय युद्धाय शस्त्राभ्यासं कृवंतः—Daya.); playing and enjoying the company of children and grand-children in family (स्वे स्वे गृहे पुत्रपौत्रादिभिः सह संक्रीडमानाः—Sayana.). Compare with कीलन्तौ पुत्रैर्नप्तुभिर्मोदमानौ स्व गृहे, X.85.42.

11. Gotamat, from gauh (गौरिति स्तोतृनाम—Nigh. III.16), i.e. from the one who praises the superb knowledge (प्रतिशयेन गौः सकलविद्यास्तोता तस्मात्—Daya.).

13. Payavah, the protectors (रक्षकाः—Daya. and Sayana.).

Mamateyam, one with egoism, attachment and the like (ममभावो ममता तस्या इदम्—Daya.; one born of Mamata (ममता). For Mamateya, see I.147.3; I58.6; and IV.4.13. Sayana refers to an allusion to the well-known filthy legend of the birth of Dirghatamas, who in this verse is said to have recovered his sight by worshipping Agni.

14. Anusthuya Krnuhi ahrayana,—ahrayana (अह्रयाण) means one whose car does not bring shame to him. “Make it presently O (Agni) whose car does not bring shame (Nir.V.15). We have a similar word hara-yana (हर-वाण), meaning, one whose car is moving constantly (VIII.25.22).

15. Aya to agne samidha vidhema, aya (अया) and ena (एना, with this) are synonyms of reference, “With this faggot, we worship thee, O Agni. Here it (अया) is in the feminine gender. Ena (एना, with this) is in neuter gender as in एना वो अग्निं (with this, to us, O Agni—VII.16.1). See Nir. III.21.

Hymn-5

For verse 7, see Nir. VI.18.

2. Svadhavan, an affluent person with plenty of food etc. (बहुवन्माद्यैश्वर्यः—Daya.; स्वधावान् अस्मद् दत्तेन हविर्लक्षणेनाग्नेन तद्वान् सन्—Sayana.).

3. Dvi-barhah, filling both; the elderly one, with learning and humility both (द्वौष्वो विद्याविनयाभ्यां वृद्धः—Daya.); one who fills both the positions, middle and the best (द्विबर्ही द्वयोर्मध्यमोत्तमयोः स्थानयोः परिवृद्धः—Sayana.).

Apagulham, secret or mysterious (गुप्तम्—Daya.; अत्यन्त रहस्यम्—Sayana).

Manisam=ज्ञातव्यम्, what is to be known (Sayana, who connects it with साम, Sama);=intellect (प्रज्ञाम्—Daya).

5. Anṛtah, अनृताः, मानससत्यरहिताः false in thought—Sayana); false in speech.

Asatyah, असत्याः (false in speech, वाचिक सत्यरहितामनसा वाचाग्निमभजमानाः—Sayana; false in behaviour, असत्याचरणाः—Daya).

Idam padam ajanata gabhiram, creates the deep abyss (Daya.); gabhiram padam is अगाधं नरकं स्थानम्—a deep abyss of hell (Sayana).

6. Sapta dhatu, the seven elements, the seven sorts of animals ग्राम्यारण्य भेदेन सप्तप्रकारम्/सप्तग्राम्याः पञ्चवः सप्तारण्याः—TS. VII.2.2.1). Dayananda interprets as the seven metals, gold etc., the Yajurveda (XVIII.13) enumerates six metals: हिरण्यं, अयः, व्यामं, लोहं, सीसं and तपु, to which silver may also be added to make seven; the Veda also refers to five tame animals: cow, horse, goat, sheep and man.

7. Sasasya carman adhin prsneh, above the immovable heaven or midspace (pr̥sni=midspace—Daya). Sasasya is the sleeping one स्वपतः—Daya).

Agre rupa arupitam jabaru, here jabaru (जबारु) means one who grows with speed, or who grows causing others to decay, or who grows swallowing (darkness or juice), i.e., the Sun—जबारु जवमानरोहि, जरमानरोहि वा; जरमानरोहीति वा, जवमानरोहीति वा—Nir.VI.17.

The Sun was placed on high in the beginning of creation (जबारु जवमानमारुढम्, i.e. the sun.—Daya).

Sayana interprets तमिन्त् as तमेव वैश्वानरं दृस्थानम्, i.e. the Vaisvanara, which is fire, lightning, and the sun, all the three in three regions—अग्निविद्युदादित्यास्त्रयोऽपि मतभेदेन वैश्वानरं शब्दाभिधेयाः ।

The Nirukta (VII.23) regards the Vaisvanara as the sun: वैश्वानरो यतते सूर्येण (R̥v.I.98.1).

9. Maham anikam, lit. assemblage of the great maham (महाम् = महताम्; here त has been dropped as the Vedic licence—Daya.).

This refers to the solar orb; अनीकं समूहकं सूर्यमण्डलं वैश्वानर एवेति शेषः—Sayana). अनीकं सैन्यमिव, an assemblage like an army (Daya.).

10. Prayatasya, assiduous (perhaps the assiduous performer, or the Vaisvanara active in the form of the ahavaniya fire and the rest (Sayana)).

15. Ksitir na raya puruvaro adyaut, shines like a man with opulence (राया अश्वादिधनेन, क्षितिर्न राजादिरिव—raya=raja (king); or=wealth of cattle and treasure—Sayana).

Hymn-6

1. ऊँ पु णो=ऊँ इति—सु+नः (उ वितर्कं, सु शोभने, नः अस्माकम्) ।

Vishvam abhi asi manma, prevalent over all that is desirable (Wilson).

Manma, spiritual knowledge (विज्ञानम्—Daya.); desirable wealth of foes (मन्म मननीयं शत्रूणां धनम्—Sayana).

Abhi asi, thou conquerest (अभि भवसि—Sayana).

3. Ghrtaci, night (Nigh. I.7).

4. Trivistyaeti goes in the sky (आकाशे—Daya.), thrice circumambulates, त्रिरावृत्य—Sayana); cf. विष्टप् (नभ इति) Nigh. I.4.

(त्रिविष्टि—त्रिरावृत्य, परि—एति, त्रिहि पर्यगिः क्रियते—Agni goes round, having thrice returned; or Agni is thrice made around, implying that the fire is thrice circumambulated—Sayana).

7. Na matara-pitara nu cid istau, whose parents need not urge (Wilson) अघा=अघ=अप, after this (Daya.).

8. Svasarah dvih yam panca, ten (2×5) sisters or fingers. (द्विवारं पंचाङ्गुलपः—Daya.); the fingers employed in producing fire by attrition.

Usarbudham (उषबुधम्), to the one who is cognizant in the dawn (य उषसि बुध्यते तम्—Daya.; females awaking him at dawn (उषसि बुध्यमानम्—Sayana).

10. Syenasah, horses moving with the speed of hawk (ज्येनः पक्षीव सद्यो गन्तारोऽश्वाः—Daya.; अश्वा इव—Sayana).

Duvasanasah, attendants (परिचारकाः—Daya.; परिचरणीयाः—Sayana).

11. Akari brahma, the prayer has been composed (ब्रह्म=स्तोत्रम्; अकारि=स्माभिः कृतम्—Sayana); अकारि=क्रियते; ब्रह्म=महद्घनम्, collected a large sum—Daya.).

Hymn-7

For verses 3 and 8, see Nir. III.20 and VI.17 respectively.

1. See Yv. III.15 (according to the ritualists, agni here intended is the Ahavantiya which is kindled before the Daksina).

Apnavanah, one having children and grand-children (पुत्रपौत्रादियुक्ताः—Daya.); name of a ṛṣi or seer of the family of Bhṛgu (Sayana); also putravantah, or having children, an epithet of Bhṛgu (Mahidhara).

3. Pasyanto dyamiva str̥bhīh, looking at the sky with stars, as it were. In this phrase, stars are known to be str̥bhīh (स्त्रुभिः) since they are scattered in the sky (तीर्णनीव); ṛksa (ऋक्षाः) are also stars as in "they are placed on high" (Rv. I.24.10), since they appear to be raised up (उदीर्णनीव). See Nir. III.20.

4. Dutam vivasvatah, messenger from the sun (विवस्वान्=the sun, —Daya.); messenger of the man, or worshipper, or yajamana (विवस्वन्त इति मनुष्यनाम Nigh. II.8); विवस्वतः मनुष्यस्य यजमानस्य—Sayana.

5. Sapta dhamabhih,=सप्तभिः धामभिः; Saptabhih, by seven vital breaths—Daya.; सप्तभिः तेजोभिः युक्तम् accompanied by seven bright ones—Sayana.

6. Vitam asritam, loved yet unapproached (Wilson); वीतं व्याप्तम्; अचितं=असेवितम्—Daya.

Kucid-arthinam, seeking oblations from any quarters; स्वचित् बहुव्रीह्या विद्यन्ते यस्मिंस्तम्, pertaining to one, possessing great affluency —Daya.

Hymn-8

8. Ati ksipreva vidhyati, entirely obviate the removable ills (क्षिप्रेव क्षेप्याभ्येव विनाशयितुमर्हानि, दुरितानीति शेषः । अतिविध्यति = अतिविध्यतु अतिशयेन नाशयतु —Sayana).

Duta iyase pradiya uranah—uranah (उरानः) means making abundant,—“from days of yore, thou art employed as a messenger, making (the small) abundant. (Nir. VI.17.)

Hymn-9

3. Hota and pota, two of the sixteen priests (hotr and potr); also होता = दाता donor; पोता = पवित्रकर्ता, the purifier. (Daya.)

4. Uta gnah agnir adhvaryu,—here gna, is devapatni, the wife of deva, as if (agni worships the wives of the gods at the sacrifice, gna is going; it may designate the adhvaryu,

ग्नाः देवपत्नीर्यजति, यष्टा भवतीत्यर्थः । ग्ना

गच्छन् अध्वर्युर्भवति । उतो अग्नि च सोऽग्निः

—Sayana.

5. Upavakta, preceptor of preceptors (Daya.); the director of the ritual, i.e. the priest who pronounces the formulae of sacrifice; he is often the Brahma (ब्रह्मा) or the sadasya (सदस्य), directing what is to be done (Wilson).

8. See Yv. III.36.

Hymn-10

1. See Yv. XV.44.

Agne tam adva asvam, perhaps, Agni is the bearer of oblations as a horse is of burthens (बोडारमश्वमिव तथा हविषो वाहकम्—Sayana). The text is elliptical (Wilson).

2,3. See Yv. XV. 45-46.

3. भवा=भव (अत्र द्वयचोतस्तिष्ठ इति दीर्घः)

8. No nabhih sadane, नाभिः is the centre of gravity of body (मध्याकृगम्—Daya.); नाभिः=बन्धनम्, binding or fastening; सदाने=देवानां स्थाने, in the place of gods; सस्मिन्नुधन् (sasmin udhan)=सर्वस्मिन् यज्ञे in every sacrifice (Sayana), udhan=ग्राह्ये, धनाह्ये, the treasury. (Daya.)

Hymn-11

1. Suryasya upake, in the proximity of the Sun (i.e. by day).

Naktaya cit, by night.

2. Vepasa, by deeds of dedication, as administration etc. (Nigh. II.1; वेपस इति कर्म नामानि ।)

3. Kavya,=काव्यानि; this refers (according to Sayana), to the details of the fire ritual such as bringing the deities, conveying the oblations and the like. Dayananda interprets it as the compositions of poets and learned (कविभिर्विद्वद्भिर्निमित्तानि). In the far-fetched sense, kavya refers to the offerings to the Pits or manes (the degraded pauranic sense).

4. Devajutah, known or introduced by learned ones (देवैर्विदितश्चक्षितः—Daya.).

5. Mandrajihvam, the one with a sweet tongue (मन्द्रा घ्रानन्दज्वनिका जिह्वा वाणी यस्य—Daya.); this refers to Agni, whose tongue exhilarates the devout mortals.

Damunasam, those who restrain their desires (दमनशीलम्—Daya.); the humiliator of the demons (दमूनसं रक्षसो दमनकरेण मनसोपेतम्—Sayana). For the etymology of this term, see Nir. IV.4. (दमूना दममना वा । दानमना वा । दान्तमना वा । अपि वा दम इति गृह् नाम । तन्मना स्यात् । मनो मनोहेः, i.e. one who is inclined towards kindness, or one who is inclined to charity, or one who is inclined to self control; or else the word dama is a synonym of home, therefore this term may mean, one who is devoted to home. Manas is derived from  $\sqrt{\text{मन्}}$ , to think).

Hymn-12

2. Pusyan rayim sacate ghnān amitran, prosperous and destroying his enemies, acquires riches (Daya. and Wilson) (प्रजापतिः पशुभिश्च पृष्टः सन् स यजमानः शत्रून् हिंसन् धनं सेवते । सर्वदा पश्यादिधनसमृद्धौ भवतीत्यर्थः—Sayana).

3. Br̥hatah Ksattriyasya, the possessor of great strength (महत्: बलस्य—Sayana; महत्: क्षात्रधर्मयुक्तस्य—Daya).

4. Aditeh anagan, free from the defects of earth (अदितेः=भूमेः=of the earth—Sayana;=पृथिव्याः—Daya.; अनागन्=अनागतः पापरहितान्, free from sins—Sayana; अनपराधान्, free from guilt—Daya).

5. Sam yoh, संयो, happiness produced by what is done well (सुखं सुकृताञ्जनितम्—Daya.; सं पापक्षयोद्भवाणां शान्तिं योः सुकृतोत्पादितं सुखम्—Sayana).

6. Ṣiṭam mūṣṭata=सितां + प्रमुञ्चत; मुञ्चता=मुञ्चत । Gauryam=गौरी वाचम्=Speech (Nigh. I.11).

Hymn-13

1. The verse, according to Sayana, is a paraphrastic announcement, that the dawn having appeared, the morning fire is to be lighted. (Wilson)

Asvina, a pair of wind and lightning. (Daya.)

2. Yat suryam divyaroḥayanti, when the rays of light cause the ascent of the sun—Sayana; यं सूर्यं तदितुलोकं दिवि आरोहयन्ति—Daya.

Bhanum, ray (किरणम्).

Mitra, according to Sayana, is the deity presiding over the day, whilst Varuna presides over the night.

Varuna=water; Mitra=air or wind (Daya).

3. Sapta yahvih, the seven great ones (सप्त महत्यः—Daya.); haritah=horses or rays (हरितः दिश इव व्याप्ताः किरणाः, the rays pervading like directions—हरितः directions (दिङ्नाम—Nigh. 1.6).

4. Tantum viharan, spreading thy web of rays (Sayana).

Asitam avavyayan vasma, cutting down the black abode (of night); or removing the darkness.

5. The verse is also repeated in the next hymn. (IV.14.5).

Hymn-15

1. Pari niyate, is obtained or procured; is brought. The word “परिणीयते” has a technical meaning also in fire rituals; it stands for bringing the fire taken from the household fire, wherewith to light the sacrificial fire.

Vaji, a strong horse (बलवानश्च इव—Daya.)—they load, as a horse bringing a load (Wilson).

3. See Yv. XI.25.

Pari-akramit, =परिक्रामति=परितः क्रामति, व्याप्नोति, taking the offerings for conveyance to gods (Wilson).

4. Srjaye, the battle in which the rival enemies are defeated (यः प्राप्ताञ्छत्रून् जयति तस्मिन्—Daya.); Sayana ascribes the term to a somayajī (सृञ्जयो नाम कश्चिदसोमयाजी । सृञ्जयस्य यष्टृत्वं तैत्तिरीया आननन्ति—‘वसिष्ठो ह सारवहृष्यो देवभागं पप्रच्छ यत्सृञ्जयान् बहुयाजिनोऽप्यीयजः’; Vasistha Satyahavya asked Devabhaga : when thou didst cause to sacrifice the Srñjayas, with many sacrificers (Tait.S. VI.6, 2.2).

For Srñjaya, see Rv. VI.27.7 (स सृञ्जयाय तुर्वशं परादाद्).

The Aitareya Brahmana (VII.34.9) refers to Sahadeva Saranjaya (सहदेव सारञ्जय). In later history Srñjaya (सृञ्जय) is the name of people, a clan, of which Daivavata was also a distinguished prince. Of course, these names are borrowed from the words originally occurring in the Vedic Texts. (For Srñjaya, see the Vedic Index by Macdonell and Keith).

8. Sahadevyat, one in company with learned people (Daya.); from the prince, the son of Sahadeva (Wilson).

9. Somakah, one with cool and fine temper resembling Soma or moon (Daya.); Son of Sahadeva of this name (सहदेवस्य पुत्रः कुमारः सोमकः सोमकाभिधानः —Sayana).

10. Kumaram Sahadevyam, according to Sayana, again a reference to Somaka. A pupil in company of a learned teacher, ब्रह्मचारिणं विद्वत्सहचरम्—(Daya.).

Hymn-16

For verse 11, see Nir. V.15.

1. R̥jisi, straight forward policy (ऋजुनीतिः)—Daya.; the Soma of which the essence is gone (ऋजीष शब्देन निष्पिष्टो विगतसारः सोमोऽभिधीयते—Sayana).

3. Jijanat-sapta-karūṇa ahna cit cakruh vayuna gr̥nantah etc.—this generates the seven efficient rays from heaven, which being glorified, have made manifest the objects of human perception by day (Wilson).

4. Applicable to the resplendent Lord, Indra, and the sun both.

Arkaih, by ideas or thoughts (मन्त्रैर्विचारैः —Daya.); by rays (रश्मिभिः —Sayana).

Vastoh, the day (दिनम्—Nigh.1.9) for stay or halt (निवासाद्यम्—Sayana).

Dudhita=दुधितानि=दुहितानि=नाशितानि, removed, scattered.

5. R̥jisi, =ऋजुः, made straight (Daya.); the stale Soma, निष्पिष्टः विगतसारः सोमोऽभिधीयते—Sayana.

Also see III.46.3; IV.16.1; V.40.4; VI.17.2; 18.2; 24.1; VIII.90.5; X.89.5.

6. Sakrah, शक्तः, powerful or potent (शक्तिमान्—Daya.); potent Indra (समर्थ इन्द्रः —Sayana).

The earlier references are I.10.5; 62.4; 104.8; 177.4; III.35.10; 37.11.

Gotra—गोत्राणि—the components of cloud (मेघस्याऽवयवान्—Daya; Nigh. I.10); गोत्राणि=प्रभ्राणि (clouds—Sayana).

9. Kavim, to a seer, to a wise man (विद्वान्तम्—Daya; मेधाविनम्—Sayana; Sayana refers this epithet to Kutsa, a seer. (IV.16.10).

10. Kutsa, a despised person (निन्दितः—Daya.); mythologically, the son of Ruru (रुरु), a royal saint; Kutsa is a Rajarsi. For Kutsah, see also I.106.6; X.40.6 and for Kutsa-putram X.105.11. Kutsa has also been the name of several rsis of the Vedic hymns, one of them is the son of Angiras, whilst we have another one, of this name as the son of Arjuna.

Sarupa vi vam cikitsat rta-cit ha nari, the truthful woman got perplexed, having seen that they were both exactly alike. The traditional mythology sees in this verse a reference to a story thus: After the destruction of the enemies of Kutsa, Indra conveyed him to his palace where Saci (सची), the wife of Indra, could not tell which was her husband, as they were both exactly alike,—of course, an absurd story.

11. Rca vajam na gadhyam yuyusan, the word gadhyam is derived from  $\sqrt{\text{ग्रह्}}$ , to seize. "Like food which is to be seized, they desire to unite themselves with the straight-forward." (Nir.V.15).

12. Susnam, शुष्णम्, the earlier references are : I.11.7; 33.12; 56.3; 63.3; 101.2; 103.8; 121.9; II.14.5; 19.6; and III.31.8. (शुष्कं नीरसम्—Daya.).

Kuyavam, see I.103.8; 104.3; II.19.6; IV.16.12; VI.31.3 and VII.19.2 (कृत्स्निता यवा यस्य तम्—Daya.).

13. Mrgayam, the one in search of a deer or animal (मृगयाचक्षानम्—Daya.); name of an Asura (Sayana).

Piprum, pervading (व्यापकम्—Daya.); also see I.51.1; 101.2; 103.8; II.14.5; IV.16.13; V.29.11; VI.18.8; 20.7; VIII.32.2; X.99.11; 138.3.

Pancasat kṛṣṇa ni vapah sahasra atkam, fifty thousand kṛṣṇas, or fifty thousand soldiers of dark race; atkam is pervading air.

Purah, city; city of Sambara (शम्बर—Sayana).

14. Mrgo na hasti, like the cervine elephant, also a sort of elephant like a deer, quoeer, if the Sivatherium existed in the time of this hymn—Wilson.

Ayudhani, war weapons like guns and swords. (अस्त्रि-मुमुक्षु-शतघ्न्यादीनि—Daya). Perhaps here is a reference to war-weapons, quick in darting as a deer; strong as an elephant, and fierce as a lion (Daya).

15. Svar-milhe, स्वर्मीलहे, here मीले = battle (=संग्राम—Nigh.II.17); a battle for peace purposes.

Ranva sudṛṣi-iva pustih, good-looking (goddess) of nutrition (रमणीया सुष्टु द्रष्टुं योग्येव पुष्टिः—Daya). Sayaha refers to the goddess Laksmi.

18. Vamadevasya, of the good looking or charming learned person (सुरूपयुक्तस्य विदुषः—Daya).

Vajasatau, in the battle (Nigh. II.17).

19. Ajau, in the battle (Nigh. II.17).

20. Bhṛgu, the celebrated, or brilliant architects of chariots or cars (देदीप्यमानाः शिल्पिनः—Daya).

21. नू = नु immediate, (ऋचि तनुषेति दीर्घः—Daya).

Akari te brahma, a new hymn (brahma) has been composed for thee (Wilson); new treasures have been procured for thee.

Hymn-17

1. Kṣah, क्षाः earths (भूमयः—Daya.; Nigh. I.1; क्षा = पृथिवी).

4. Dyauh te janita manyat, heaven, thy progenitor, conceived (dyauh, like lightning—Daya.;= dyotaman, bright; janita = Prajapati—Sayana).

12. Janituh, of the progenitor, जनकस्य—Daya.; Prajapati, —Sayana.

Stanayat-bbhih abhrih, thundering clouds, शब्दायमानैः घनैः सह—Daya.; वातो न जूतः etc., as the wind is driven by the thundering clouds: as the wind is impelled by thundering clouds: so Indra is influenced by the hymns of the worshippers. (Sayana)

14. Etasam=एतस्मिन्=horse. (Daya.; Nigh. I.14).

Also see, I.54.6; 61.15; 121.13; 168.5, II.19.5.

15. Asiknyam, at night: the entire verse consists of a small phrase; such verses are known as yajusi-pankti (याजुषी पङ्क्ति) or ekapada viraj (एकपद विराज), a line with ten syllables.

For other single line verses, see V.41.20; 42.17; 43.16; VI.63.11 (एकपदा त्रिष्टुप्); X.20.1.

Such one-line verses usually refer to the contents of the preceding verse, or are the untraceable remnants in the Samhitikarana (editing and compiling processes) of the Vedic texts.

16. Avate, in the well (कूपे—Daya.; Also Sayana; Nigh. III.23).

21. See the last verse of Hymn 16. नू=नु (ऋचि तुनुषेति दीर्घः—Panini, VI.3.132).

Hymn-18

The hymn represents a dialogue between Indra and Vamadeva, the higher self and the bound lower self, the jiya. Sayana converts this metaphysical dialogue to a mythological one. He refers to a legend: Vamadeva a Vedic Rsi, whilst yet in the womb, was reluctant to be born in the usual manner, and resolved to come into the world through his mother's side: aware of his purpose, the mother prayed to

Aditi, who thereupon came, with her son Indra, to expostulate with the R̥si; the present hymn gives, as if, an account of this dialogue. Regarding this absurd story, Wilson says : "The interesting part of the absurd story is its accordance with the birth of Sakya (शाक्यमुनि), according to the Buddhists, who may possibly have borrowed the notion from the Veda."

3. Tvastur gr̥he apibat somam indrah—Indra drank the costly Soma at the residence of Tvastṛ (त्वष्टा). Sayana completes the story by saying that Vamadeva vindicates his own wilfulness by the example of Indra, who came to Tvastṛ's house uninvited, and by force, drank the Soma prepared for other gods.

4. Nabi nu asya pratimanam asti, there is no analogy etc. Wilson cites the legend further thus : Aditi defends her son upon the plea that, as his period of gestation was marvellous, his actions are not to be compared with those of any others.

Sahasram masah jabhara saradah ca purvih—(सहस्रं = प्रसङ्ग्यम् = numerous; मासः = चैत्रादिः, months, like caitra; शरवः = शरदाद्युत्तुन्, seasons like autumn; पूर्वीः = सनातनी, older ones; नही—नहि).

5. Guha akah, does in secret cavity; also guha=intellect (वृद्धीकरोति—Daya.; गुहा गुहायां गह्वररूपे सूतिका गुहे जातं, अकः—अकरोत्—Sayana); in the privacy of the lying-in chamber, unworthy of so great a divinity. —Wilson.

6. Eta vi precha kim idam bhananti—Ask them what is this they say. That is, they are proclaiming the greatness of Indra, by which, and not by their own efforts, they have been extricated from the cloud.

7. Nividah, the speeches or words, expressing mysterious and spiritual knowledge (नितरां विदन्ति यामिस्ता वाचः—Daya.); sacred strains (Wilson). [मरुत्वती शस्त्रे प्रयुज्यमानानि 'मरुत्स्तोत्रो मरुद्गणः' इत्यादीनीन्द्रस्तुति प्रतिपादकानि कानिचित् पदानि निविष्टान्देवोच्यन्ते—i.e. the special prayers in the praise of Indra and Maruts, repeated at some sacrifices—Sayana]. Here again, Vṛtra, being a Brahmana, the crime committed by his killing is transferred to the waters in the shape of foam. Wilson further remarks thus: these explanations are rather, perhaps derived from the pauranik developments of the original legends, imperfectly handed down.

8. This and the following verses are in the praise of Indra.

Yuvatih, the fully-matured lady of 24 years (Daya).

Kusava; कुषवा, of bad intentions (कृत्स्नितः सवः प्रेरणा यस्या सा). In the pauranic mythology, Kusava (कुषवा) is the name of a Raksasi (lady-demon), whom Indra, although at first swallowed by her, drove out of the lying-in chamber (Wilson).

Jagara, swallows (निगलति—Daya; गिरतिस्म—Sayana).

Mamat cana (ममच्चन), exulting (माद्यन्त्येव—Sayana; प्रमादयन्ती—Daya).

9. Vyamsa, one possessing considerable strength (विप्रकुष्टा वंसा बलादयो यस्य सः—Daya). In mythology, Vyamsa is the name of a Raksasa, who also attempted to destroy the infant Indra.

12. Kah te mataram vidhavam acakrat, who hast made thy mother a widow (विधवां विगतो धवः पतिर्यस्यास्ताम्—Daya). The Prakṛti is mother; God, the Supreme Self, is father; Prakṛti never gets widowed, since God never dies.

Yat praksinah pitaram padagrhya—Since thou hast slain, having seized him by the foot; Dayananda translates padagrhya, as one worthy of respect, to whose feet, one might surrender. (पादान् गृहीतुं योग्यः—Daya; पादेषु गृहीत्वा—Sayana); pra-aksinah, प्रकर्षणावधीः—Sayana; अक्षिणाः क्षयति हन्ति—Daya.) destroys, kills, slays. (See also Tait. S. VI.1.3.6 to which Sayana refers: The sacrifice (yajna) reflected on the gift. He had intercourse with her. Indra perceived this and reflected. 'He who will be born from this union will be this world.' He entered her; from her verily Indra was born; he reflected, 'He who hence other than I will be born will be this world'. Stroking her womb, he split it, she became barren after birth, and that is the origin of the cow(who is barren after birth).

13. Manu, refers to a legend; Vamadeva, when oppressed with hunger, took for his meals the flesh of dogs, but who was not thus rendered impure; this he did for the preservation of his life. (Manu X.106).

Hymn-19

1. एवा=एव (निपातस्यचेति दीर्घः) ।

Umah, ऊमाः, those who give protection and shelter; the protecting ones (ऊमाः रक्षकाः—Sayana ; रक्षणादि कर्त्तारः—Daya).

2 Parisayanam, slumbering: one who sleeps in the interspace from all sides (योऽन्तरिक्षे सर्वतः शेते तम्—Daya; परितः समन्तात् शयनं कुर्वन्तम्—Sayana).

Visvadhenah, one comprising all speeches (धेना=वाक्—Nigh.I.11); all delighting (विश्वस्य प्राणयित्रीः—Sayana).

Arnah, water (उदक, Nigh. I.12); water channels.

3. Aparvan, at the time without parva; on the day of full moon (अपर्वन् अपर्वणि पौर्णमास्याम्—Sayana).

Sapta, seven (Daya.); of gliding nature (सर्पणस्वभावाः—Sayana).

4. Parvatanam, of clouds (Daya.; Nigh. I.10); of hills (Sayana).

6. Turviti, see I.36.18; 54.6; 61.11; 112.23; II.13.12; IV.19.6.

Vayya, see I.54.6; 112.6; II.3.6; 13.12; IV.19.6; IX.68.8.

7. Adhok staryo dansupatnih, he has milked the barren cows (Wilson); अधोक् अधुक्षत्; स्तयः स्तरीनिवृत्त प्रसवा गाः; दंसुपत्नीः दमनपरा असुराः सुष्टुपतयो यासां तः—Sayana); he has removed the barrenness occasioned by the grief of their separation by rescuing the cattle carried off by the Pani—Wilson). (दंसुपत्नीः—workers' wives, दंसूनां कर्मकर्तृणां पत्न्यः, स्तयः the coverer, आच्छादिकाः; अधोक् to complete, प्रायात—Daya.).

9. Vamribhiih, (वम्नीभिः and upajihvikah, उपजिह्विकाः) are synonyms of emmet. Vamryah (emmet) are so called from vomiting (वमनात्); here in this verse, we have "unmarried maidens have taken the undivided son from emmets (वम्नीभिः पुत्रमश्रुवो अदानम्)—Nir. III.20. To Sayana, Vamri is white ant, which throws up a hillock known as Valmika (निवेशनात् वल्मीकाक्यात्—Sayana).

Agruvah.—rivers (नद्यः—Daya.; Nigh. I.13). Son of Agru, some one unknown (अग्रुनाम काचित् । तस्याः पुत्रम्—Sayana).

Ahim, serpent, (the presence of a snake in an ant-hill is a popular notion—Wilson).

Nirbhut, coming out of the ant-hill (निर्भूत् बल्मीकान् निर्गतः अभूत्—Sayana; निः भूत् भवति—Daya.).

Ukhacchit, corroded by white ants (उखच्छित् बल्मीकाद्याया उखायाञ्छेदकानि—Sayana; one who damages or corrodes the path way, य उखङ्ग मनञ्छिनस्ति सः—Daya ).

11. Same as IV.17.21.

Hymn-20

Compare the verses 1 and 2 with Yv.XX.48 and 49.

1. Ojisthebbih, with an army or team consisting of strong and sturdy people (प्रतिशयेन बलादिगुणयुक्तैर्नरोत्तम सैन्यैः—Daya.); with the gallant Maruts—प्रोजिष्ठेभिः प्रतिशयेन तेजस्विभिः मरुद्भिर्व्युक्तः—Sayana.

2. Vajasatau, in the battle (संग्रामे—Daya.).

4. Prsthyena, with the pleasure derived subsequently (पश्चाद्भवेन सुखेन—Daya.; with the noon-day hymn (पृष्ठ शब्देन माध्यंदिन सवने उद्गातृभिर्व्यु- गोयमानं स्तोत्रमुच्यते, तत्सम्बधिना—Sayana).

Andhasa, with food etc. (अन्नाद्येन—Daya.; पीतेन सोमेन—Sayana).

5. अच्छा = अच्छ ।

9. Vrajam, to a group (समूहम्—Sayana); arms and weapons (शस्त्रास्त्रम्—Daya.).

11. Same as IV.7.21.

Hymn-21

1. The verse occurs as Yv.XX.47. Dyauh, the Sun.

Tavisih, energies, energetic armies (बलवृक्ताः सेनाः—Daya.).

Sadhamat astu, be exhilarated along with us (अस्माभिः सह माधन् भवतु—Sayana; समानस्थानात् यसह माधति अस्तु—Daya.).

2. Krstih, people of the enemies (शत्रु सम्बन्धिनी प्रजाः—Sayana; people in general, मनुष्याः—Daya.).

Vṛsnyani, nṛn, वृष्यानि नृन् powerful leaders (बलेषु साधूनि नायकान्—Daya.); might refer to Maruts also.

3. Puriset, from waters (पुरीष=उदक, Nigh.I.12).

Samudrat, from the mid-space (समुद्र=अन्तरिक्ष—Nigh. I.3).

5. Vacam janayan yajadhyai, utters a voice enjoining me to sacrifice or for unifying functions (सुशिक्षितां वाणीं प्रकटयन् यष्टुं सङ्गन्तुम्—Daya); (The speech of Indra is the thunder, the effect of which is to induce the parens deorum cultor et infrequens, whether Roman or Hindu, retrorsum vela dare—Wilson).

6. Ausijasya, of the worshippers; one who employs priests (कामयमाना ऋत्विजाः—Sayana); sons of the aspiring ones (कामयमानाऽपत्यस्य—Daya.).

Gohe, in the dwelling (संवरणीये गृहे—Daya.).

Adrim, like a cloud (Daya.); one who tears foes, from  $\sqrt{dr}$ , to divide, to tear, and thus it is a name of Indra also (अद्रिम—आद्गानि शक्नुं ह्याद्रिरिन्द्रः—Sayana).

7. Bharvarasaya, भार्वरस्य, of the king who serves the people (प्रजाः भूर्तृराजः—Daya.); भवर्, Prajapati, who is the sustainer of the world, भवरो जगद्भर्ता प्रजापतिः, तस्य पुत्रो भार्वरः—Sayana).

Guha pra (गुहा प्र), guha, in intellect (बुद्धौ—Daya.); in the secret thoughts (गुहायां गुहारूपे हृदये—Sayana).

The purport of the verse is that Indra, the resplendent Lord, always protects his worshippers (इन्द्रस्य बलं यजमानं सर्वदा पालयतीत्यर्थः—Sayana).

8. Vidad gaurasya gavayasya gohe, he finds it in the haunt of Gaura and Gavaya, the two species of deer or any wild animal (Sayana); they may be two different wild animals;—gavaya is Bos gavaeus or Gavaeus frontalis, and gaura is Bibos gaurus, or B. cavi-frons (Wilson).

10. Varivah purve kah; here puravah=man (Nigh.II.3). (पूर्वे—धामिकाय मनुष्याय, बरिवः—सेवनम्; कः—कुर्याः—Daya.); bestows riches on men (पूर्वे मनुष्याय यजमानाय, बरिवः धनं कः करोति—Sayana).

11. Same as IV.16.21; 17.21; 19.11; 20.11; 21.11; 22.11; 23.11; and 24.11.

Hymn-22

1. This verse gives rise to the four-fold forms of offering worship, since in it occurs the four words brahma (ब्रह्म), stomam (स्तोमं), somam (सोमं) and uktha (उक्ता). In the first form of ritual, the offerings are of cakes steeped in butter and the like (ब्रह्मचित् हविलक्षण पुरोडाशादिकमन्नं च); in the second form, it is the praise that is recited aloud (स्तोमं स्तोत्र समूहं); in the third, the libations are of the Soma juice (सोमम्, अग्निपुतं सोमं च); and in the fourth, the praise or prayer is repeated silently in a lower tone (उक्ता, उक्तानि शस्त्राणि च) —Sayana.

Dayananda translates the terms as ब्रह्म, महद् धनमन्नं वा, wealth consisting of foodgrains in plenty, etc.; स्तोमं प्रशंसनीयं or worthy of praise; सोमं, औषध्यादि गणैश्वर्यं, medicinal herbs and other prosperity; and उक्ताः, प्रशंसनीयानि वस्तूनि, rich and adorable products.

2. Urnam parusnim, the investing parusni (ऊर्णा, धाच्छादिकां; परुष्णी पर्ववती नदी—Sayana; परुष्णी विभागवती—Daya.). The verse devotes to a river and a troop of a battles too. The river having joints or bands covering.

Yasyah parvani sakhyaya vivye—lit., whose joints through friendship he has approached; according to Sayana, the separate districts of which river he has, for the sake of friendly acts, covered or concealed, यस्याः नद्याः पर्वानि भिन्नान् देशान् सख्याय सखि कर्मणे विष्ये संवृत्तवान्—Sayana.

According to Dayananda, (पूर्वाणि पूर्वाणि पालनानि सख्याय मित्रस्य भावाय कर्मणे वा विश्वे कामयते ।)

4. Matara bharati goh, मातरा=parents; गोः=earth (Daya.); parents of the moving Sun (Sayana translates goh as गन्तुः सूर्यस्य i.e. of the moving Sun).

Paaijman, one pervading all along in the mid-space, or the extensive earth (since जमा = earth, Nigh.I.1) (सर्वतो व्याप्तेऽन्तरिक्षे विस्तृतायां भूमौ वा—Daya.).

6. वू = वृ, again.

7. Svasarah, fingers, अंगुल्य इव मैत्री भगिनित्वमाचरन्त्यः—Daya. For Svasarah, the earlier references are I.62.10; 71.1; 164.3; 191.14; II.5.5; III.29.13; and IV.6.8.

8. Yamyah, the nights (Nigh.I.7).

Goh, for the one who praises (स्तावकस्य Nigh. III.16). Sami (शमी), a superb action (उत्तमं कर्म—Daya.); (शशमानस्य शमीशक्तिः—स्तुवतः शमनं स्तुतिकर्म—Sayana).

10. Godah, one who gives cows (यो गां धेनुं ददाति सः—Daya.).

Hymn-23

For verse 8, see Nir. X.41.

1. Andhah, foodgrains or food (अन्नम्—Daya.; Nigh.II.7).

2. Sasamanasya, one who glorifies (प्रशंसितस्य—Daya.).

3. Papurim, to the one who protects and sustains (पालकम्—Daya.).

4. Nasadah, one who does not know (यो न वेत्ति सः—Daya.).

Appreciator, one who profusely knows (अतिशयेन ज्ञाता—Sayana).

6. Goh, of the moving Indra (गन्तुरिन्द्रस्य—Sayana); of earth etc. (पृथिव्यादेः—Daya.).

7. Tetikta, sharpened (भुजं तीक्ष्णं करोति—Daya.).

Tigma, already sharp (पूर्वमेव तीक्ष्णानि—Sayana).

Anika=अनीकानि = weapons (प्रायुधानि—Sayana); invincible armies (शत्रुभिः प्राप्तुमनर्हानि सैन्यानि—Daya.).

Druham jighansan dhvarasam anindram, Resolving to kill the oppressing malevolent (wicked), not acknowledging Indra (Wilson). (द्रुहं—द्रोघधारं; जिघांसन्—हन्तुमिच्छन्; ध्वरसं—हिसकं; अनिन्द्रा—अनीश्वरी गति, ungodly ways—Daya.). Sayana supplies the word raksatim (राक्षसी). This may well refer to death, the debt of nature, the payment of what Indra's favour delays by prolonging life; (a conjecture proposed by Wilson).

8. Rta, truth, eternal truth (different from satya), sacrifice, and also water (Nigh. I.12); in this verse, according to Sayana, it may refer to Indra or Aditya, in addition to the former three, personified as divinities (अत्र ऋत शब्देनेन्द्रो वादित्यो वा सत्यं वा यज्ञो बोध्यते; ऋतस्य ऋतदेवस्य सम्बन्धिग्यः; ऋतस्य धीतिः—ऋतदेवस्य सम्बन्धिनी प्रज्ञा, तद्विषया स्तुतिर्वा—Sayana).

According to Dayananda, ऋतस्य of truth, of what is real and exact, सत्यस्य यथार्थस्य, धीतिः धारणावती प्रज्ञा ।

“Of Rta, indeed, are the earlier invigorating draughts. Contemplation of Rta kills vices. The call of Rta awakening and illuminating, pierced even the deaf ears of the living being.—Of Rta, indeed, are the earlier invigorating draughts, consciousness of Rta kills all that should be avoided. The call of Rta pierces the ears of even the deaf. Deaf whose ears are closed. Causing to wake and making bright the ears of the living being, of the moving being, of man of light, or of water.”—*Nir.*X.41.

Hymn-24

1. सुष्टुतिः=सुस्तुतिः; निष्पिघां=निःसिघाम् ।

2. Satyaradhah, wealth earned through honesty and earnestness (न्यायोपाजित सत्यधनः—Daya.); the gift given by the yajamana (यजमानेभ्यो दातुं सत्यधनो भवति—Sayana).

3. Ririkvansah tanvah krnvata tram, by purging, cleansing the body (रिरिक्वांसः—रेचनङ्कारयन्तः, तन्वः कृष्वतः, शरीरस्य कृष्टत रक्षकं—Daya.); inflictors of austerity upon their persons (तन्वः स्वकीयानि शरीराणि रिरिक्वांसः तपसा रेचयन्तो यजमानास्तमेवेन्द्रं वा वातारं—Sayana); worshippers emaciating their own bodies by penance.

Samike, in a battle; in a group (Nigh.II.17).

8. Dirgham yat ajim abhi-akhyat aryah, when the Lord is engaged in the long battle.

Aryam, king, lord, God, (for Indra—Sayana).

Samaryam, in a battle (सहमर्त्यं यत्—Sayana; ajim, a battle in which weapons are thrown, भजन्ति प्रक्षिपन्ति शस्त्राण्यस्मिस्तम्—Daya.).

Rghava, the killer of enemies, i.e. Indra (शत्रूणां हन्ता—Daya.; शत्रूणां हिंसक इन्द्रः—Sayana).

Durone, in the house; the place of sacrifice (यज्ञगृहे—Sayana).

9. Bhuyasa vasnam acarat kaniyah, by much a man acquires little, wealth or value (सः विक्रेता पुनर्मूल्यं भूयसां न प्रचुरयेत् । सः विक्रेता भूयसा धनेन कनीयः अल्पतरं मूल्यं नारिरेचीत् क्रेतुः सकाशान्न रिक्तीकरोति—Sayana). Sayana, here in this context, gives the details of a bargain between the vendor or seller and customer or buyer. The verse IV is also interpreted on the same lines.

Hymn-25

3. Jyotir, light; also water (ज्योतिः प्रकाशं—Daya.; ज्योतिः उदकं च—Sayana).

4. Jyok pasyat suryam ut-carantam, and long behold the rising Sun.

Jyok, for a long or continuous tune (ज्योक् निरन्तरं—Daya.).

Sarma, शर्म, pleasure as that of home (शर्म=गृह, Nigh.II.4).

6. Prasusat, प्राशुषाद्, the prompt comfiter of foes (शत्रूणां प्रकर्षेण शीघ्रमपि भविता—Sayana; यः प्राशून् वेगवत्तप्तवृन् सहते—Daya).

Supravyah, one who is to be approached with homage etc. (सृष्टु उपगच्छतो हविभिः सृष्टु प्रतर्पयितुर्वा—Sayana); one who is protected with care (सृष्टु रक्षितुं योग्यः—Daya).

Duspravyah, one approached with difficulty (दुष्प्राप्यः दुःखेन प्रावितुं योग्यः—Daya; दुरुपगमनस्य—Sayana)

7. Nagnam, worthless, shameless (निरर्थकं —Sayana; निर्लज्जं—Daya).

Hymn-26

For verse 7, see Nir. XI.2.

1. Manuh, a thoughtful learned man, मननशीलौ विद्वानिव सर्वविद्या विज्ञापकः—Daya; मनुश्च सर्वस्य मन्ता प्रजापतिरस्मि—Sayana.

Suryah, enlightened like the sun, सूर्य इव सर्वप्रकाशकः—Daya; सर्वस्य प्रेरकः सविता—Sayana.

Viprah, wise, मेधावी—Sayana; मेधावीव सर्ववेत्ता—Daya.

Kaksivan rsih, one in which the orbits of entire creation exist, सर्वसृष्टिकक्षा विद्यन्ते यस्मिन्तः—Daya; son of Dirghatamas, दीर्घतमसः पुत्र—Sayana.

Kutsam, adamantite or vajra-like, वज्रं—Daya., Nigh.II.20; a Rsi of this name—Sayana.

Arjuneyam, created or invented by a learned, अर्जुनेनार्जुना विदुषा निष्पादितमिव—Daya; son of Arjuni, i.e. Kutsa, अर्जुन्याः पुत्रम्—Sayana.

Ushana, loved by all, serviceable to all, सर्वहितं कामयमानः—Daya., a Rsi of this name—Sayana.

Kaviḥ, the farseeing, कान्तदर्शी—Sayana; expert in all disciplines of knowledge, सर्वशास्त्रविद् विद्वान्—Daya.

3. Sambara, सम्बर, see references, I.51.6; 54.4; 59.6; 101.2; 103.8; 112.14; 130.7; II.12.11; 14.6; 19.6; 24.2; IV.26.3; 30.4; VI.18.8; 26.5; 31.4; 43.1; 47.2; 47.21; VII.18.20; 99.5; IX.61.2.

Divodasa, see references, I.112.14; 116.18; 119.4; 130.7; 130.10; II.19.6; IV.26.3; 30.2; VI.16.5; 16.19; 26.5; 31.4; 43.1; 47.22; 23; 61.1; VII.18.25; IX.61.2.

Atithigva, one who receives and honours guests (अतिथिग्वम्, योऽतिथीन् गच्छति गमयति वा तम्—Daya.; अतिथीनामभिगन्तारं—Sayana).

4. Acakraya yat svadhaya, with a wheelless car.

Suparnah havyam—according to Sayana, this is a metonymy for the Soma, which is said to have been brought from heaven by the Gayatri in the form of a hawk (Suparna); again the hawk is the Supreme Spirit or para-brahma (the conjecture of a later period).

Hymn-27

1. The verse refers to the cycles of births and deaths of the lower self, the soul in bondage. The udana vital breath takes out the soul from one body with an infinite speed and carries it to another body, where the soul is reborn. Every individual amongst us is the vamadeva, who enters into the womb and comes forth in the form of a hawk. A hundred bodies of metal (iron or gold, सुवर्णमयीसौहमयीर्वा—Daya.) provide us the bondage in the life cycle. It is through the acquirement of divine knowledge, through a series of repeated births, one gets the final release or emancipation, the Mukti or the Moksa.

2. वा=व (ऋचि तुनुवेति दीर्घः—Panini VI.3.132, स वा=he alone.

Irma, ईर्मा = impeller (वैरकः—Daya.); the Paramatman or the Supreme Self.

Purandhib, the sustainer of all (पुरा धारकः—Sayana, बहुधरः—Daya., i.e. the Paramatman).

Vatan atarat, goes beyond the winds, beyond the vital breaths. The vital airs are the cause of pain and worldly existence (वातान् गर्भक्लेशकरान् वायून् अतरेत् अतारीत्—Sayana).

3. Adha yat Syenah dyauh ava asvanit, just as or when the hawk screams on his descent from heaven. Sayana refers to a parable narrated in the Aitareya Brahmana (III.26); Gods requested the Gayatri to fetch the Soma, the elixir of life; she flew to heaven in the form of a hawk. She in this form, having flown and having terrified the guardians of the Soma (सोमपालाः), grasped with foot and mouth Soma the king, and also grasped the syllables which the other two metres had dropped. Havihg shot at her, Kṛsanu (कृशानु), a Soma guardian, cut off the nail of her left foot; that became a porcupine, which is nail-like. The fat that flowed became the barren cow; the socket and the point became a serpent; from the swiftness came the viper; the feathers became flying foxes; the sinews earth-worms; the shaft the blind snake. It is not possible here to expound the beautiful parable. (See also the verse 4, patat patatṛi asya parnam.)

Veh, (वेः), birds (पक्षिणः—Daya.).

4. Bhujyumna, like the one enjoying (भोक्तारं—Daya.) as the asvins carried off Bhujyu, a king of this name, from the region of Indra. The earlier references to Bhujyu are: I.112.6; 20; 116.3-5; 117.14; 119.4; and also VI.62.6; VII.68.7; 69.7; VIII.22.2; 46.20; X.40.7; 65.12; 95.8; 106.4; 143.5.

5. Sukram, water (Nigh. I.12).

Hymn-28

2. Visva-ayu apa dhayi, the everywhere going wheel has been taken away (सर्वतो गन्तुचक्रमिन्द्रेणापाहारि—Sayana; अप सर्वमायुः ध्रियते—Daya.).

Mahahdruhah, of the great oppressor, enemy or tyrant, the evilmonger (महत् ड्रेष्टुः—Daya.; प्रभूतस्य द्रोष्टुः सूर्यस्य सम्बन्धि—Sayana).

3. Dasyun, them, who are of great treachery (महासाहसिकान्, दुष्टान्—Daya.).

Durge=दुःश्लो, in a place difficult of access.

Durge durone, in a place which is dangerous and difficult of access.

For Dasyun, see also I.63.4; 78.4; 100.18; 101.5; II.11.19; 13.9; 20.8; III.29.9; 34.6; 9; IV.16.12; 28.3; 4.

4. Visah dasih akrnoh a prasastah, you have made the servile races abject (Wilson).

Dasih, the liberal givers (दानशीलाः—Daya.); having no special or religiously instituted rites or functions (i.e. may be slave or servile) (कर्महीनाः—Sayana); visah, people (प्रजाः—Daya., मानुषी प्रजाः—Sayana); aprasastah, debarred from respectable position (प्रशस्त सुखरहिताः—Daya., गहिता, reviled, vile—Sayana).

Hymn-29

1. Haribhih, by excellent brave people (उत्तमैर्वीरपुरुषैः—Daya.; by horses, अश्वैः—Sayana).

Tirascit, come, attained (तिरः सत इति प्राप्तस्य—Nir.III.20; तिरश्चि दयंया परि० V.75.7).—Tiras and satas are synonyms of attained. Tiras, i.e. it has crossed over ( $\sqrt{t}$ ); satas, it is moved together ( $\sqrt{s}$ ).

2. पमा = स्म

3. Sutirtha, the holy places (शोभनानि तीर्थानि; दुःखतारकाण्याचार्यं ब्रह्मचर्यं सत्यभाषणादीनि येषास्तान्—Daya.;—any thing even a person, or a way of life that takes us away from pains, miseries or sins is a tirtha).

5. Bhajanasah bṛhad-divasya rayah a-kayyasya davane puruksoh—According to Sayana, may we be enjoying thee for the same of the gift of wealth of much food, every way commendable and very brilliant (वयं महद्दीप्ते आकाय्यस्य आसमन्तात् स्तुत्यस्य पुरुषोः बह्वन्तस्य बहुकीर्तव्यं ते त्वदीयस्य दावने दाने निमित्ते सति भोजानासः त्वां भजमानाः स्वाम भवेम—Sayana).

Hymn-30

For verses 10, 11 and 24, see Nir. XI.47, XI.48 and VI.31 respectively.

Indra in these verses is resplendent Lord or the Sun also, and vrtra, is the cloud, or wicked nescience in man. Dayananda refers this hymn to an ideal head of a State, i.e. a king.

1. एवा = एव (निपातस्य चेति दीर्घः) ।

6. Sacibhih, by intelligence; by actions (प्रज्ञाभिः कर्मभिर्वा—Daya.); by war-actions (युद्धकर्मभिः—Sayana).

Etasam, एतस्य, a learned man, a man strong as a horse, name of a ṛṣi (Sayana).

8. Duhitaram divah, the daughter of the sun, i.e. the dawn (दुहितरमिव वर्तमानामुपसम्—Daya.; द्युलोक सकाशादुत्पन्ना स्त्रियं उपसम्—Sayana). The dawn is extinguished by the ascendancy of Indra (i.e. the sun) through the day.

10. "Being afraid, usas has fled from the shattered car, because the strong bull (वृषा) has struck it down."—Being afraid, usas has fled from the shattered car, i.e. the cloud. (Anas (अन्स्) means wind, derived from the verb √अन्, to breathe). Or else, it may be for the sake of comparison, i.e., as if from the car. Anas means a car, because rags are tied to (आनः) it, or it may be derived from the verb √अन्, meaning to live; it is a means of livelihood for people.

Cloud is called anas from the same verb also. Because the strong bull, the rainer, the showerer, i.e. the atmospheric god, has struck it down. (Nir. XI.47).

11. In continuation of the verse we have this verse :

"Here lies her car, shattered and all broken in pieces. She has fled afar."—Here lies her car, shattered in such a manner as if it were a different car altogether. Broken into pieces, i.e. without a single connected piece. Dawn has fled afar, being pushed out, or being pursued (Nir. XI.48).

12. Sindhum vibalyam vitasthanam adhi ksami, the swollen Sindhu when arrested, you have spread on earth. (अग्नि=on the earth, Nigh.I.1). Sindhu is a river in general, (विबाल्यम्—विगतवात्यावस्थां i.e. whose youth was passed, संपूर्ण जलां, i.e. who was full of water—Sayana; वितस्वानां-वितिष्टमानां, i.e. stopping or being stopped.

16. Ukthesu abhajat, उक्तेषु स्तोत्रेषु, आभजत् भागिनं कृतवान्, participant in sacred hymns, see IV.19.9—वज्रीभिः पुत्रमयुवः ।

Satakratuh, Indra, the one whose actions are cent per cent for the sake of others, or the one of hundred actions (शतकर्मा—Sayana); the one of innumerable intellects (असंख्य प्रज्ञः—Daya).

Paravṛktam, indefatigable valour (अचिन्तनीवीर्यम्—Daya.; but a person of this name—Sayana).

Agruvah putram, son of Agru (Sayana); persons who are in front rank (अग्रसराः—Sayana). See also IV.19.9.

For Agruvah, also see I.140.8; 191.14; III.29.13; IV.19.7; 9; 30.16; VII.2.5; IX.1.8; 66.9. For Agruh V.44.7.

17. Turvasayadu, तुवंशस् and यदु, तुवंशा=man (Nigh. II.3), one who easily brings into control; यदु=active, and ever diligent (तुवंशायदू—शीघ्रं वशं करो यत्नवांश्च तो मनुष्यो—Daya).

For Turvasah, see earlier references I.36.18; 47.7; 54.6; 108.8; 174.9; and for Yadu, I.36.18; 54.6; 108.8; 174.9 and also VI.20.12; 45.1; VIII.4.7; 7.18; IX.61.2; X.49.8; 62.10.

Asnatara, अस्नातारा, those who are not particular about daily baths and the like (स्नानादिकर्मरहितो—Daya.; but those who were under the spell of the curse of Yayati, according to mythology (ययातिज्ञापादननिषिक्तो—Sayana).

He made them worthy to be inaugurated, or crowned, which they were not at first (this refers, according to Sayana, to a myth, alluding to their exclusion from the succession in favour of the youngest son, Puru, by their father Yayati).

20. Asman-mayinam puram, of the cities built up of stones, resembling cluster of clouds (मेघप्रचुरारागमिव पाषाण-निर्मितानां नगराणां—Daya.). Sayana refers to the cities of Sambara, पुरां सम्बरस्य सम्बन्धिनां नगराणाम् ।

Divodasaya, one who serves light, or who favours enlightenment (प्रकाशस्य सेवकाय—Daya). In later mythology, the name of a king. See earlier references, I.116.18; 119.4; 130.7; II.19.6; etc.

21. Sahasra and trimsatam, thousands and thirty.

Mayaya, by wisdom (प्रज्ञया—Daya.); by ones own strength (स्वकीयया शक्त्या—Sayana).

24. "May god Aryaman (Lord of Justice) give you all fair and beautiful things. O destroyer (of enemies), may Pusa-Bhaga and the god having gaps in his teeth give you all fair and beautiful things."

Fair (वामं वमनीयं) is so called because it is to be won. Destroyer (शत्रुहर्त्रि) is so called from destroying (आदरणात्). But who is the god who has gaps in his teeth? According to some, it is an epithet of Bhaga who comes before it. According to others, this god is Pusan because he has no teeth. Pusa is without teeth, and an eater of gruel, says a Brahmana passage (प्रदन्तकः पूषा Kausitaki Brahmana, VI.13; also SBr. I.VII.4.6). See Nir. VI.31.

Hymn-31

1. Sacisthaya, by the excellent thoughts, words or deeds (अतिशयेन श्रेष्ठया वाचा प्रज्ञया कर्मणा वा—Daya.; प्रज्ञावत्तमया प्रज्ञासहितमनुष्ठीयमानेन—Sayana).

Uti, ऊती, pertaining to care and protection (रक्षणोदिक्रिया सह—Daya., तपणेन—Sayana).

See also Yv. XXVII.39; Av. XX.124.1;

2 and 3. See Yv. XXVII, 40; 41; Av. XX.124.2; 3.

4. अभा = अभि (संहितायामिति दीर्घः)

Carsaninam, of men; of people.

9. आ = स्म (निपातस्य चेति दीर्घः)

11. इहा = इह (संहितायामिति दीर्घः)

13. अया = अय (निपातस्य चेति दीर्घः)

14. Asvayuh, with the strength of several horses (बहुवश्व बलयुतः—Daya.).

15. Varsistham, वर्षिष्ठं, of very old age (प्रतिशयेन वृद्धं—Daya.).

The verses of this hymn are relevant in relation to mighty Sun, who is also known as Maghavan, Surya and Indra, and also equally relevant in relation to our resplendent Lord.

Hymn-32

For verse 23, see Nir. IV.15.

1. Asmakam ardham, near us (समीपं—Sayana) for our growth (वर्धनं—Daya.); ardham (अर्धं) may also mean dwelling place (निवासदेहं) or half of worship (देवयज्ञदेहं—Mahidhara). See Yv. XXXIII.65. 9 and 12. Gotamah, [go=speech (Nigh. I.11)], the supermasters of speech (प्रशस्तागोर्वाविद्यते वेदान्ते—Daya.). A seer of this name—Sayana.

15. Hari, हरी—two horses or the pair of fire and water (अग्निजले अश्वौ वा—Daya.).

16. Purodasam, a special food preparation (पुरोडाशं सुसंस्कृतान्न विशेषं—Daya.). For this, see I.162.3; III.28.1; 3-6, 41.3; 52.2-6; 8; IV.24.5; 32.16; VI.23.7; VIII.2.11; 31.2; 78.1.

23. "Like two small dolls (कनीनकेर) on their newly-wrought, perforated, wooden seats the bay steeds shine on their courses."—Two dolls, two young maidens : कनीनके कन्ये । कन्या कमनीया भवति क्वेयं नेतव्येति वा (कमनेनानीयत इति वा) कनतेर्वा स्यात् कान्तिकर्मणः, Kanya (maiden) is so called because she is an object of love (कमनीया) or because it is said to whom should her hand be given, or because she is brought by the lover, or it may be derived from the root √कन्, to shine. "The words relating to the seats of the maidens are in the locative singular (सप्तमी एकवचन)," says Sakapuni, i.e. on the ornamental wooden seats.

Daru (दारु, wood) is derived from  $\sqrt{दृ}$ , dṛ (to split), or from  $\sqrt{दृ}$ , to injure.

Dru (wood) is derived from the same root also.

Nave (नवे) newly made; arbhake, small, not large. As they shine on their sheets, so the bay steeds shine on their courses. This is a joint panegyric of two bay steeds.

Hymn-33

Rbhus are the devatas of hymns 33 to 37 Vaja (वाज), rbhu (ऋभु) and vibhu (विभु) are the three classes of divine architects, pertaining to regions of land, space and water. They design and supervise the means of transports of these three regions in human social organization. They are thus the technicians. For this, see IV.33.9: वरुणस्य विभ्वा (i.e. vibhvan of Varuna, i.e. the architect pertaining to the water region); इन्द्रस्य ऋभुषा (i.e. ribhuksin of Indra, i.e. the architect pertaining to the space) and thirdly, वाजो देवानां (i.e. vaja, the artificer of the rest of gods, particularly on land, or the architect pertaining to land). Rbhu in the Nighantu means the man of wisdom (III.15).

1. Pari dyam sadyah apasah babhuvuh—were born quickly across the firmament. This might refer to the sun's rays also.

Evaih (एवैः) by the fast moving horses (गमनशीलैरश्वैः—Sayana); fast moving projectiles or weapons (वायुवेरितास्त्र सरेष्वादि पदार्थाः—Daya.); fast moving vehicles.

3. Vajah vibhva rbhuh, the three categories of architects, of the land (वाजः), of the waters or river-ways (विभुः) and of the space (ऋभुः). Literally, vajah is learned (ज्ञानवान्), vibhva, means by the one who is pervading (विभूना ज्ञानेन जगदीश्वरेण—Daya., and rbhuh means enlightened (विद्वान्). According to Sayana, the three sons of Sudhanvana Angirasa were Vaja, Vibhavan and Rbhu (ते वाजो विभ्वा ऋभुः च एतन्नामकास्त्रयः सुधन्वन आङ्गिरसस्य पुत्राऋभवः). All the three were known Rbhus in general.

5. The eldest (R̥bhu) wanted to make two ladles whilst the younger (Vibhvan) three, and the youngest (Vajah) wanted to have four. See also I.161.2 for एकचमसं चतुरः कृणोतन । The whole hymn I.161 is devoted to R̥bhus. The present hymn should also be read and interpreted on the same lines. See also the next verse (IV.33.6).

Tvastr̥ is head technician who has applauded the proposal of the R̥bhus for the construction of four ladles.

6. Tvastr̥, beholding the four ladles, brilliant as day, was content.

11. Na r̥te srantasya sakhyaya devah, gods are not pleased through friendship alone, unless one is wearied by penance.

Hymn-34

For verse 3, see Nir. VI.16.

The hymn again begins with R̥bhu, Vibhvan and Vaja along with Indra. On the spiritual plane, R̥bhu dominates on the mental realm (मनोमय कोश), the technicians of space; Vibhvan on the emotional plane (or प्राणमय कोश, the vital realm) and Vaja on the physical (अन्नमय कोश). Indra is the lower self, the soul. The final enjoyment lies in the attainment of spiritual happiness or the divine ecstasy. All the eleven verses should be read in this light. The enjoyment is in the company of our entire human complex of which Maruts (verse 7), Adityas, Parvatas, and the divine Savitri are the components, and Nature's divine bounties (verse 8), as well as R̥bhus are evoked, not to go away, not to leave us. They have to be with us, and have to be satisfied along with Indra and Maruts (verse 11).

3. Pra vah accha jujusanasah asthuh abhuta visve agriya uta vajah, "enjoying, they have stood forth to you, all of you have become the chiefs, O R̥bhus". Enjoying, they have stood forth to you (प्र + प्रस्वुः = प्रस्थितानि—Durga of the Nirukta). All of you have become the chiefs by going in front (or by swallowing first of all), or by accomplishing first of all. Or else, the word अग्रिया (agriya) is अग्र (agram) itself with meaningless case-termination (अनर्थकमुपबन्धम्). (Nir. VI.16.)

7. Gnaspatnibhih, by the ladies of the husbands (वा म्नाः पत्नीनां स्त्रियस्ताभिः—Daya.); wives of the gods; also the female protectors of women (Wilson).

8. Parvatebhih, by a sort of Nature's bounties, particularly clouds (मेघैः सह—Daya.) which, according to Sayana, are to be worshipped at the Parvas, certain periods of the month, as the new and full moon etc. (पर्वतेभिः पर्वद्भिः पर्वण्यर्च्यमानैर्देवविशेषैः — Sayana); Similarly, Sindhubhih, refers to rivers or flowing streams (स्यन्दनस्वभावेनैवाभिमानि देवैश्च—Sayana).

9. Svapatyani cakruh, bringing up children with care and good instructions (सुष्ठु शिक्षयोत्तमानि चापत्यानि च तानि कुर्युः—Daya.); accomplishing acts productive of good results (स्वपत्यानि स्वपतनसाधनानि वा कर्माणि चकृः—Sayana), i.e. acts, the means of accomplishing their good offspring or consequences.

Hymn-35

1. Indram anu gamantu, may follow the one with resplendent qualities; may they come after Indra (इन्द्रमनुमृत्य, अनुगमन्तु—Sayana); or may they come after you to Indra (Wilson).

Saudhanvanah, pertaining to sudhanvan, the possessors of good bows, or pertaining to the brilliant rain-bow in the sky (शोभनानि धन्वान्तरिक्षस्थानि येषान्तेषामिमे—Daya.).

Napatah (न + पात) without fall (अविद्यमान ह्रासाः—Daya.); also sons of strength or one without protection, (नपातः बलस्य पुत्रास्तस्य न पातयितारो वा—Sayana).

2. Camasam, cloud (Nigh. I.10).

Caturdha, the four categories of motions—downwards, upwards, transverse, and straight (अथ ऊर्ध्वं तिर्यक्समपतति युक्तं—Daya.).

For camason caturdha (ladle made fourfold, or the cloud of four types, stratus, cumulus, cirrus and nimbus), see also verses 3 and 4 of this hymn. For camas, see I.20.6; 54.9; 110.3; 161.1; 2; 4; 5; 9; IV.33.5; 6; 35.2; 3; 4; 5; 36.4; VIII.82.7; X.16.8; 25.4; 68.8; 96.9; 101.8.

Hymn-36

The three-wheeled car (रथस्त्रिचक्रः) without the horses (अनश्वः) and without reins (अनभीष्टः) traverses the inter-space. This refers to the movement of the Sun. Rbhus are the divine architects in the cosmic creation. Just as in cosmos we have the physical sun, similarly in our own inner complex, we have the divine source of enlightenment, which wise sages create by mental meditation (रथं ये चक्रुः सुचेतसः अविह्वरन्त मनसस्प-रिध्यया—verse 2).

In the verses 3, 5 and 6, we have again a reference to Vaja, Rbhu and Vibhvan, and in the verse 4, again a reference to a single camas (ladle or cloud, made four-fold, and to a cow's new hide (चर्मणः गां). The cow may be earth in the cosmic creation, and wisdom on the spiritual plane.

9. Sravo-virvat, here Sravah, is food or also hearing or reputation (अन्नं श्रवणं वा—Daya.; वीरवत्=प्रशस्तवीरकारं—Daya.); food comprehending offspring, or endowed with dependents.

According to Sayana, praja, (प्रजा) is progeny (पुत्रपौत्रादिरूपां), Sravah (श्रवः) is reputation (यशः), and viravat (वीरवत्) is (वीरैर्मृत्यादिभिरूपेतं तद्यत्—Sayana) i.e. adherents.

Hymn-37

1. Rbhuksah, ऋभुक्षाः, great ones (महान्तः—Daya.).

Rbhuksin (ऋभुक्षिन्) is the name of Indra, but Sayana in this verse, identifies it with Rbhavah, i.e. Rbhus (Pl. nom. of Rbhu). In verse 3, we have another term Rbhuksanah (ऋभुक्षणः), also translated as great ones, by Dayananda. For this term also see Verses 5, 7 and 8.

4. Ayah-siprah, those in possession of horses with nose or chin so hard as of iron (अय इव शिप्रे हनुनासिके येषामश्वानां तद्वन्तः—Daya.; “शिप्रे हनुनासिके वा” अश्वोवत्सारभूतशिप्राः—Sayana).

Vajinah, speedy (वैगवन्तः—Daya.), one of the Rbhus (ऋभवः—Sayana).

Suniskah, one with beautiful gold coins known as Niska, or gold ornaments. (शोभनानि निष्कानि सुवर्णमयाभूषणानि येषान्ते—Daya ).

8. In this verse, we have Nasatyas also in addition to Vajas, Rbhuksans and Indra. For Nasatya, see earlier references : I.3.3; 34.7; 9-11; 46; 5; 47.7; 9; 116.2; 4; 9-11; 13; 14; 16; 17; 19; 20; 22; 23 etc.; not untruthful, i.e. truthful (प्रविद्यमाना-सत्याचारो सभान्यायेणी—Daya ).

Hymn-38

For verses 5 and 10, see Nir. IV.24 and X.31 respectively.

1. Vam (a dual pron.) of you two, implies, the pair heaven and earth. Dayananda refers to the pair of the king and his army chief.

Ksetrasam, क्षेत्रासां=क्षेत्रसां, he who divides the fields (यः क्षेत्राणि सनति विभजति तं—Daya.); a horse (क्षेत्राणि सर्वाभूमौः सनोतीति क्षेत्रसाः अश्वः—Sayana).

Urvarasam, the son (उर्वरा सर्वसस्याद्वाभूः, fertile, तां सनोतीत्युर्वरासाः पुत्रः—Sayana).

Thus क्षेत्रसां ददधुः उर्वरासां means, you have given a horse a son (Sayana). Sayana's derivations are not clear, i.e. how could ksetrasam mean a horse, and urvarasam a son.

To Dayananda, urvara means a fertile land, yielding valuable products (उर्वरासां=बहुश्रेष्ठाः पदार्थाः सन्ति यस्यान्तां भूमि सनति तम्—Daya ).

Trasadasyu, the one who is a terror to wicked persons (व्रसन्ति दस्यवो यस्मात्सः—Daya ).

See I.112.4; IV.38.1; 42.8; 9; V.27.3; VII.19.3; VIII.8.21; 19.36; 36.7; 37.7; 49.10; X.150 5

2. Dadhikram = Dadhikravan = a horse (Nigh. I.14, दधिका and दधिक्रवा, synonym of asva or horse.)

Dadhi is one who bears or carries his rider; kram; to go.

According to Ait. Br. III.15.5, it means Agni, who in the form of a horse destroyed the asuras as desired by Bharadvaja (दधिकाम् । दधदन्धं धारवन् क्रामतीति दधिकाः । तमेतन्नामकं देवम्—Sayana; यो दधिना धारकेणाऽधिकेन सह तम्—Daya ).

4. Vidatha ni-cikyat tirah aratim pari apah, puts to shame the adversary of the pious man (Wilson). (विदथा, विदथानि ज्ञातव्यानि; निचिक्यत्, पश्यतिकर्मेतत्; जानन्; अरतिम्, अरमणं दुःखमभियन्तारम्, अरि वा; परि—सर्वतः; तिरः, चरति तिस्करोति । कस्वारतिमिति; आपः व्याप्तस्य, स्तोतुः—Sayana., i.e. knowing things cognizable, who disgraces the opponent or the foe of the man, the praiser.

5. "People shout after him in battles, as they do after a clothes-stealing thief, or a falcon let loose and swooping downwards, and a glorious herd of cattle."—People shout after him as they do after a clothes-stealing thief, i.e. one who steals clothes. Vastram is derived from √वस्, to wear. The word tau (ताम्) is synonymous of thief (स्तेन): "He is a store-house (संस्त्यानं) of sin", say the etymologists, or it may be derived from √तस्, to perish.

People shout after him in battles. The word bhara (भर) is a synonym of battle; it is derived from the root √भृ, to bear; or √हृ, to carry away. Swooping downwards (नीचायमानं), pouncing downwards. Downwards is going down; upwards is going up. Like a falcon let loose. Falcon (श्येनं) is so called because it swoops in an admirable manner (संसनीयं गच्छति). And a glorious herd of cattle, i.e. a famous herd of cattle; glory and the herd, or wealth and the herd. Yutham (यूथं) or herd is derived from √यु, to connect; it is compact.

Srava, श्रव, food; also praise (प्रशंसा).

10. "Dadhikra spread out the five tribes with might as the sun, the waters with his light. Thousand gaining, hundred gaining is the swift courser. May he commingle these speeches with honey". See Nir.; here madhu (honey) means water; madhu (मधु) is derived from the verb धम्, to blow by reversing the letters धम्—मधु (Nir.X.31).

Hymn-39

1. Dadhikram, दधिकां, sustainer of one worth sustaining (घत्तव्यं घरे—Daya.; दधन्त्वां धारयन् कामतीति दधिकाः ; also the name of a Deva, तमेतन्नामकं देवम्—Sayana).

See Nir. II.27 and 28; Dadhikra is a synonym of horse (Nigh. I.14), because it runs while bearing a rider on its back, or it neighs while bearing a rider on its back, or it looks beautiful while bearing a rider on its back. There are Vedic passages where the word is used for horse as well as a deity.

(तत्र दधिका इत्येतद् दधत् कामतीति वा । दधत् क्रन्दतीति वा । दधदाकारी भवतीति वा । तस्याश्ववद् देवतावच्च निगमा भवन्ति—Nir.II.27. See also IV.40.4.

2. Dadhikravnah, दधिक्रावणः, of the one who pleases the custodians of knowledge (विद्याधरान् कामयते तस्य—Daya.); praise (स्तुति) of Dadhikra (Sayana).

3. Aditih, parents (मातापिता वा—Daya.); the indivisible, (or infrangible).

Dadhikra, (अखण्डनीयो दधिकाः—Sayana).

Dadhikravnah, worship of the steed; praise of the horse.

4. Marutam, मरुतां, of the praisers (स्तोतॄणां स्वभूतं—Sayana).

5. Surabhi no mukha karat, may he make our mouths fragrant. (The mouth is defiled by the use of inelegant language, Yv. XXIII.32; Av. XX.127.3.) This verse used to be recited at the time of the Asvamedha, when the priests used to bring queen away from the horse (Mahidhara).

6. Dadhikravnah, praise of dadhikra; the ordainer of dharma or sacred duties (धर्मधरस्य क्रमयितुर्वा—Daya.).

Hymn-40

For verse 4, see Nir. II.28.

1. Dadhikravnah, the praise of dadhikra, the one who impels wind etc. (वाय्वादि कारणं क्रामयितुः—Daya.).

Angirasasya, of the one born in the vital breaths (अङ्गिरस्तु प्राणेषु भवस्य—Daya.).

Bṛhaspateh, of the great master or saviour (बृहतां पालकस्य—Daya.).

Jisnoh, जिष्णोः, of jisnu; of the one victorious (जयशीलस्य—Daya.); name of a deity—Sayana.

3. Taritratah, by the side of the transporter. (अश्वनस्तारिता—Daya.); along the one who conveys across the other side.

Syenasya-iva dhrajatah etc. as swift as a hawk; as of a hawk, quick-going with respect to the insertion of the foot or to the breast (literal trans.).

(अंकसं पादाधारम्, उरु प्रदेशं वा—Sayana). See Yv. IX.15.

4. "That courser hastens with speed, although it is bound by neck, flank and mouth. Putting forth its best power, dadhikra sprang along the bonds of roads".

—That courser, i.e. the swift runner, trots on the road with speed, i.e. quickly, although it is bound by the neck.

Griva (ग्रीवा) is derived from  $\sqrt{\text{गृ}}$ , to swallow or from  $\sqrt{\text{गृ}}$ , to call out, or from  $\sqrt{\text{ग्रह्}}$ , to seize. Bound by flank and mouth has been earlier explained in the Nirukta. Putting forth its best power, i.e. action or intelligence. Anu santavitvat (अनु सम्जितवीर्यत्) is a word derived from the simple original form of tan (तन्) to spread. Bends of roads (पथां संकांसि).

Panthah (पन्थाः, path) is derived from  $\sqrt{\text{पत्}}$ , to fall, or from  $\sqrt{\text{पद्}}$ , to go, or from  $\sqrt{\text{पन्थ्}}$ , to move.

Ankah, (अंकः, curve) is derived from  $\sqrt{\text{अञ्च्}}$ , to bend. A-paniphanat (आपञ्नीकणत्) is a reduplicated form (intensive) of  $\sqrt{\text{फण्}}$ , to bound.

5. This verse is also known as the Hansavati R̥c; also see Yv. X.24 and XII.14; Ait.Br. IV.20.1.

Aditya has been regarded as the Sun in the type dadhikra with para-brahma, or the supreme deity.

Hansa (हंस)—derived from √हन्, to go, he who goes eternally to destroy, who destroys individually, or it is resolvable into अहं+सः (I+he), i.e. I am that, the Supreme. Also one who destroys sins (यो हन्ति पापानि सः—Daya.).

Vasu, the appointer of the stations of all creatures or all men, or that which abides (वसति) at all times (सर्वदा). Also one who stays in bodies etc. (यः शरीरादिषु वसति—Daya.).

Hota, the sacrificer (here agni); the donor and receiver (दाता आदाता वा—Daya.).

Atithi, or guest, meaning agni or fire; first as the sacrificial, and secondly as culinary fire (प्रतिषिवत् सदा पूज्योऽग्निः—Sayana); an unexpected guest (अनिपततिषिः—Daya.).

Nṛsad (नृसत्), one present among men (यो नरेषु सीदति—Daya.); the dweller among men; one who dwells in men as consciousness and vitality (नृषु मनुष्येषु चैतन्यरूपेण सीदतीति नृषत्—Sayana).

Rta sat (ऋतसत्) is he who is present in truth, or in water or in sacrifice (ऋतं सत्यं ब्रह्मयज्ञो वा तत्र सीदतीति ऋतसत् अग्निः—Sayana).

Vyomsat (व्योमसत्), the dweller in the sky; it may be wind (वायुः—Sayana; यो व्योम्नि सीदति—Daya.).

Abjah (अप्ज्जाः), born of water or in the midst of water; (उदकेषु जातः । उदकमध्ये खल्वयं जायते—Sayana). This refers to the rising of the sun from the ocean and again setting in the same.

Gojah (गोज्जाः), born amidst rays (गो=रश्मि, ray); or born out of the earth (यो गोषु पृथिव्यादिषु जातः—Daya.).

Rtajah (ऋतज्जाः), born of truth (यः सत्याज्जातः—Daya.); (born from the mantras of the Vedas—Sayana.); also born of truth, from being visible by all, not invisible like Indra and the rest (ऋतं सत्यम् । सर्वेदं प्रयत्नेन सत्यजातः । न ह्यसाविन्द्रादिवत् परोक्षोभवति—Sayana); or born in water like electricity or lightning, or sea-fire (यद्वा, उदकेषु वैद्युतरूपेण वाज्वरूपेण वा जातः—Sayana).

Adrijah (अद्रिज्जाः), cloud-born (योऽद्रेर्मेषाज्जातः—Daya.; अद्रि=cloud, Nigh I.10); mountain-born (अद्रावुदयाचले जातः—the sun born in the eastern Udayacala mountain—Sayana).

On the spiritual side, the text refers to the lower self and the Supreme Self; see Ait.Br. हंसः शुचिपदित्येषवै हंसः शुचिपत् (IV.20). Aditya is the Sun; more so, it represents Brahman, ऋतं सत्यमवाध्यं सर्वाधिष्ठानं ब्रह्मतत्त्वम्, the indefeasible, all regulating principle, the supreme universal spirit, the parabrahma, सत्यं ज्ञानमनन्तं ब्रह्म, truth, wisdom, and infinitude (ऋतं बृहत्).

Hymn-41

In this verse, though the names are two Indra (the resplendent) and Varuna, the venerable; both these terms refer to one and the same Supreme Reality, who alone is invoked; these invocations and praises, yielding multifarious benefits, as a cow that has gone forth to pasture furnishes milk through thousands of channels (verse 5)—सहस्रधारा पयसा मही गौः ।

6. Paritakmyayam, be around us (Wilson); परितक्म्यायाम्=परितस्तक्मानवो यस्यां तस्याम्—Daya. See Nir. XI.25 for परितक्म्या where it means night (किं परितक्नम् । परितक्म्या रात्रिः । परित एनां तक्म । तक्मेत्युष्णनाम । तक्ति इति सतः) —What was the errand with regard to us ? What night ?

Paritakmya means night, because takma surrounds it on both sides. Takma is a synonym of heat, because it goes away (√तक् to go away). See X.108.1.

Surah, of the Sun ( प्रेरकस्य सूर्यस्य—Sayana).

Dṛṣike (दृशीके), for the visibility of the sun for a long time, i.e. for a long life (चिरकाल दर्शनाय चिरजीवनाय—Sayana).

8. Yavayuh (यवज्युः), longing for you (युवां कामयमानाः—Sayana, Daya).

9. Jostarah-iva, जोष्टारःश्व, as servants (सेवमाना इव—Daya), i.e. as servants on a rich master. Also a flatterer, from √जुष, to please.

Hymn-42

1. Mama dvita rastram Ksattriyasya visvayoh, two-fold is my empire, of the defence people of long and full lives (visvayoh, विश्वायोः विश्वं पूर्णमायुर्यस्य, तस्य—Daya; विश्वायोः कृत्स्नमनुध्याधीशस्य—Sayana; or visvayoh means entire or the whole, here it may mean the entire military race Sayana unnecessarily translates. Ksattriyasya, as of these born in the ksatriya clan (क्षत्रियजात्युत्पन्नस्य). Tvita is two-fold : (according to Sayana one pertaining to earth and the second to heaven, द्विता क्षितिस्वर्गभेदेन द्वित्वापन्नं—Sayana) Perhaps, the better would be of the ruler (राजा) and ruled (प्रजा), these two divisions.

Visve amrta yatha nah, all the immortals are ours. (Sayana presumes that Svarga is a separate world over which the Supreme Being also presides, and the Svarga is inhabited by the immortal ones (अमृताः देवाः). The Supreme Being is Varuna, perhaps, he is also identified with Trasadasyu (see verse 3)—अहं (i.e. असदस्युः) इन्द्रः वरुणः (am Indra and Varuna also).

2. Kṛsteh, of people.

Aham, is Trasadasyu (Sayana), the Supreme Lord (जगदीश्वरः—Daya).

Asuryani, of clouds-like, of wicked people, (असुराणां मेघादीनामिमानि चिह्नानि—Daya.) असुरः = मेघः (Nigh. I.10).

4. Sadane rtasya, ऋतं=water (Nigh.I.12); as the abode of water; or in the final world of truth (सदने सर्वस्वित्यर्थे जगति, ऋतस्य सत्यस्य प्रकृत्याश्रयस्य—Daya).

Aham (अहं)=The Supreme Lord; apah = water or midspace.

5. Tridhatu (त्रिधातु), three-fold elementary state or of three sorts (त्रि प्रकारं—Sayana); or the entire creation, resting on three principles of satva, rajas and tamas (त्रयः सत्त्वरजस्तमसि गुणा धारका यस्मिंस्तत् सर्वं जगत्—Daya).

8. Trasadasyu, the one of whom the wicked ones are terribly afraid of (ब्रह्मन्ति दस्यवो यस्मात्तम्—Daya).

Daurgahe, in the very deep (दुर्गहे—Daya). According to Sayana, Daurgaha is the son of Durgaha (दुर्गहः), identified as Purukutsa. Sayana refers to a parable which the mythology evolved out at a later age; Purukutsa, son of Durgaha, being a prisoner; on a certain occasion, his queen (पुरुकुत्सानी) propitiated the seven Rsis (सप्तर्षयः) to obtain a son to succeed his father as king in due course. The seven Rsis advised her to worship Varuna and Indra, and in consequence, she got a son who came to be known as Trasadasyu.

9. Ardhadevam, this refers to the Sun who lights up at a time half of the universe. Sayana refers it to Indra, who is considered as one-half of all the gods taken together; and he thus alone is entitled to have the largest sharings.

Purukutsani, पुरुकुत्सानी, wife of Purukutsa (Sayana); a lady with a large mass of ills and evils (पुरुणि कुत्सानी यस्यां सा—Daya).

10. Anapa-sphurantim, one exhibiting strong will and penetrating wisdom (दृढां निश्चलां प्रज्ञां सम्पादयन्तीम्—Daya.); free from any imperfection—Wilson (अनर्वाहसिताम्—Sayana).

Hymn-43

Like some of the earlier hymns, this hymn also refers to Sun, his daughter Surya (dawn), Indra, Dasras and Nasatya. For Dasras see I.3.3; 30.17; 46.2; 47.3; 6; 92.16; 112.24; 116.10; 16; 117.5; 20; 21; 139.3; 4; 18.5; 182.3; 183.5 etc.

2. Dravat-asvam, द्रवत्अश्वम्, one equipped with fast moving horses (द्रवन्तो द्रुतं गच्छन्तोऽश्वा यस्मिंस्तम्—Daya.; आशुम्—Sayana).

Maksu, quickly, with speed (षीघ्रम्—Sayana).

3. Paritakmyayam, at the end of night (रात्रावतीतायाम्—Sayana); in the creation full of jolly persons (परितः सर्वतस्तकन्ति हसन्ति यस्यां सृष्टौ तस्याम्—Daya).

4. Dasra, दसा, destroyers or dispellers of pain (दुःखोपेक्षयितारो—Daya.; दसा शत्रूणामुपयितारो अश्विनौ, dispeller of enemies; Asvins—Sayana).

Madhvi, O the creator or dispenser of sweet saps (मधुर रसस्योदकस्य स्रष्टारो—Sayana).

6. Sindhu, river, sea or water in general.

Hymn-44

1. अथा = अथ ।

2. Sangatim goh, bringer into union (गो गवां संगमयितारं—Sayana), or associator of Go; Go is earth (Daya.); associator of the solar ray (Wilson), since Asvins are associated with light or the sun.

3. Kakuhasah, कुकुहासः, all the directions (सर्वादिशः—Daya.); (ककुहः = ककुभः = दिक्; Nigh.I.6); large horses (महान्तोज्वाः—Sayana).

6. It refers to Purumilha and Ajamilha (उभयेषु पुरुमीलहाजमीहलेषु — Sayana); also later on the two Rsis of the hymn. To Dayananda, उभयेषु refers to king and his people.

Ajamilha (अजमील्ह) is one who trains goats, his children are अजमील्ह (येऽजान् विद्यया सिञ्चन्ति, तदपत्यानि—Daya.). The word exists no where else in the R̥gveda.

For Purumilha, also see I.151.2; 183.5; V.61.9; VIII.71.14.

Hymn-45

1. Mithunahtrayah, मिथुनाः त्रयः, pairs of threes.

Trayah, wind, water and lightning (Daya.); three sorts of foods (trayah praksasah, त्रिविधाः प्रक्षानि;—“अन्नं, पानं, खादश्च” इति हि श्रुतम्—Sayana). Even the term mithuna (मिथुन) or pair so often stands for a group of more than two; here mithuna represents mother, father and the son (*Taittiriya*s).

Dṛtiḥ, leather vessel for holding water; (रसद्रव्याधारः पदार्थश्चर्ममयो दृतिरित्युच्यते—Sayana); and cloud (Nigh. I.10); also leather vessel-like cloud (दृतिमिव वत्तमानं मेघम्—Daya, in verse 3).

4. Hamsasah, हंसासः, horses (Nigh. I.14); horses moving with the speed of swans.

Maksah, king of bees or big flies.

6. Akenipasah, आकेऽनिपासः, rays which always fall very close (य आके समीपे नितरां पान्ति ते किरणाः—Daya.).

Hymn-46

2. Niyutvan, strong and mighty wind (बलवान् समर्थो वायुः—Daya.; नियुदिभूस्तद्वाङ्—Sayana).

Indra sarathih, Indra as the assistant, or as a charioteer; Indra is lightning or vidyut (Daya.).

3. Indra-vayu, a pair of the sun and wind; or wind and lightning; or of king and his army; or of a teacher and preacher, or of king and his minister (Daya.).

Hymn-47

1. Sukrah, shining by discipline and penance (व्रतचर्यादिना दीप्तोऽहं—Sayana); purified by holy acts (Wilson), मध्वोः (gen.) = मधुम् (acc.).

Hymn-48

2. Niyutvan, see IV.46 2.

1. Vipah na rayah, like a prince, the terror of foes (शत्रूणां वेपयिता राजेव—Sayana); विपः—wise man (मेधावी—Daya.), रायः = wealth (धनानि—Daya.; aryah, businessman (वैश्यः—Daya.); Candrena, by golden or bright (सुवर्णमयेन—Daya.).

2. Indra Sarathih, the one who moves Indra in orderly way. Indra is lightning, the sun or fire.

5. Harinam, हरीणां, of men (मनुष्याणां—Daya.); of horses also yoked to a chariot.

Sahasrinah, thousands or numerous.

3. Kṛsne vasudhiti—kṛsne—kṛsne (the drawn, कर्षिते); vasudhiti (the conditions governing the motion of heavenly bodies in space—वसूनां धितिर्ययोर्वावा पृथिव्योस्ते—Daya.); dark nurses of wealth—Wilson; कृष्णवर्णे वसूनां धाव्यो—Sayana.

Hymn-49

The hymn invokes Indra and Bṛhaspati, the Lord with resplendence and supremacy. The pair of Indra and Bṛhaspati has been interpreted as the pair of (i) lightning and the sun; (ii) king and his minister and (iii) teacher and preacher (Daya.).

Hymn-50

Bṛhaspati is the Sun; the glory of Lord in the sun, and finally, the Lord Supreme.

1. Trisadhasthah (त्रिसधस्थः)—Three level places, or the triad of knowledge, action and devotion (त्रिषु समानस्थानेषु कर्मापासना ज्ञानेषु वा—Daya.).

Ravena, रवेण, by sound advice (उपदेशेन—Daya.).

Also, who abides with noise in three regions (त्रिषु स्थानेषु वर्तमानः, रवेण एवं तिष्ठतेत्यनेन शब्देन—Sayana).

4. Sapta asyah, seven-mouthed, the seven sorts of rays are the mouth, of that one; sapta rasmih, the seven rays.

6. Visvadevaya, the universal deity; the Supreme Lord, an appellation of Bṛhaspati. Deva also means praise (देव शब्दः स्तुत्यर्थः—Sayana), and hence, he who has the praise of all (सर्वेस्तुत्याय—Sayana); also for one who enlightens all (विश्वस्य प्रकाशकस्य—Daya.).

7—9. See Ait Brahmana VIII.5.24-26. Sayana interprets these verses as an authority for the indispensable employment by a prince of a Brahmana as a family priest (purohita) to conduct solemn rites on his behalf. By a Brahmana is meant a person who is well versed in divine knowledge and leads the life of dedication.

Hymn-51

For verse 1, see Nir. I.5.

1. इदम् । ऊँ इति । See Nir. I.5; the letter u (उकार) is used after in the sense of 'mutual opposition' (विनिग्रहार्थं); it is also used as expletive (पद पूरणः), as in इदम् (IV.51.1) and तदु (I.62.6).

1. Divo duhitarah, daughters of heaven, i.e. dawns.

Gatum, to the earth (पृथिवीम्—Daya.); the faculty to move or go etc. (गातुं गमनं गमनादि व्यापार सामर्थ्यं—Sayana).

Janaya, to man, to the yajamana (यजमानानां—Sayana).

Gatum kṛnavan janaya, are giving man the faculty to act (Wilson); they give to the offerers of sacrifice the ability to perform the acts of going and the like.

3. Panayah, the accomplished women (पशंसनीयाः—Daya.); traders, non-givers, churlish traffickers (वणिज इव आदातारः—Sayana).

Maghonib, the wives of those who have love and respect for wealth (सक्तुत धनानां स्त्रियः—Daya.); wealthy ones (धनवत्यः—Sayana).

Radhodeyaya, for liberally giving wealth (धनं दातुं योग्याय व्यवहाराय—Daya.).

4. Navagve, dasagve, nine day's rite and ten day's rite; for the one accompanying nine cows or ten cows (नवगावो विद्यन्ते यस्य तस्मै; दशगावो यस्य तस्मै—Daya.).

Sapta-asye, in the one who has seven vital breaths in the mouth (सप्तप्राणाभ्रास्ये यस्य तस्मिन्—Daya.). Seven-mouthed Angirasas—i.e. repeating the Seven Vedic metres.

11. It has been an old practice of reciting this verse inaudibly every morning at day-break (Wilson).

Hymn-52

1. Sunari, a fine lady-leader; a woman of status (सुष्ठुनेत्री—Daya.); the conductress (of men)—Wilson. See also I.48.5; 8; 10; and VII.81.1 for सूनरी; for सूनरः VIII.29.1 and X.115.7 and सूनरम्—I.40.4; V.34.7 rays of light (i.e. dawn). (सूनरी जनानां सुष्ठु नेत्र्युषाः—Sayana, VII.81.1).

Asva (अश्वा) iva, like a mare.

Compare माता गवामृतावरी (2) with माता गवामसि (3); ऋतावरी (2) with सूनृतावरि (4), and विभावरी (6).

Rtavari—giver of eternal truth (बहुसत्यप्रकाशिका—Daya.; Sunrtavari, giver of true speech (सत्यवाक्प्रकाशिका—Daya.); Vibhavari, the possessor of wide enlightenment (प्रणस्तविविध प्रकाशयुक्ता—Daya.).

4. Yavayad-dvesasam, baffler of animosities (यावयन्तं द्वेषारं द्वेषं द्वेषारं पृथक् कारयन्तीम्—Daya.). The dawn puts to flight those enemies who had been endeavouring to destroy their adversaries during the night.

5. Gavam sarga na, like the creations of the earth etc. (गवां पृथिवीनां सर्गाः सृष्टयः न इव—Daya.); like showers of rain (गवां उदकानां सर्गा न वर्षाधारा इवेयम्—Sayana).

Hymn-53

The hymn is devoted to the Sun, the centre of our planetary system. The Sun is Savitṛ. So is our Supreme Lord, the Creator of the universe. The verse 5 indicates mystically the three firmaments, three worlds, three spheres, the three heavens, the threefold earth and the three functions of Savitṛ. Just as the planetary system has a Sun to guide and hold the equilibrium, so we have the adhidaivata realm, the realm of sense organs and the mental activity. There is a third realm of spiritual existence, the adhyatmika. The verses 6 and 7 invoke the Savitṛ of this last realm.

1. Chardih, छर्दिः, dwelling (Nigh. III.4), तद् छर्दिः नः महान् उदयान् देवः प्रकृतुभिः—May the great Lord grant us such dwelling, such light or enlightenment every day.

2. Pisangam drapim prati muncate, leaves or casts off the armour of special form (विचित्रं रूपं कवचं प्रतित्यजति—Daya.); puts on his golden armour (हिरण्मयं कवचमाच्छादयति प्रत्युदयम्; every morning he puts on a golden cuirass—Sayana).

3. Bahu asrak (बाहु अस्त्राक); puts forth his arms (or his rays); brings forth his arms (i.e. his strength and valour, सृजति बलवीर्यं—Daya.).

5. Trih antariksam, (अन्तरिक्षं = अन्तरक्षयमाकाशम्—Daya ).

(According to Sayana, antariksa, is divided between Vayu, Vidyut and Varuna in to three portions).

Tri rajamsi, three worlds (उत्तममध्यमनिकुण्टानि, the best, medium and the worst—Daya.; क्षित्यन्तरिक्षदुल्लगान् त्रिलोकान्, the earth, the midspace, and the sky—Sayana).

Trini rocana, three brilliant spheres (विद्युत् भौतिक सूर्यरूपाणि ज्योतीषि—Daya ); the regions of Agni, Vayu and Surya—Sayana.

Tisrodivah, three heavens, three lights, of the Sun, of moon (and stars), and of lamps and flames (प्रकाशान्—Daya.); the lokas of Indra, Prajapati and Satya Loka (Sayana).

Tisrah prthivih, the three divisions of earth,—land, water and air (क्षित्यवान्तरभेदान् लोकान्—Sayana).

Tribhih vrataih, by three types of rules (नियमैः—Daya ); i.e. distributing heat, rain and cold (उष्णवर्षहिमाश्वैः—Sayana).

Hymn-54

This hymn again invokes the Creator, the Savitṛ. On the physical plane, the hymn describes the characteristics of our Sun, the centre of the planetary system.

2. Suvasi, from su to bear or bring forth, thou engenderest (Sayana). From the same su, we have suvatat (सुवतात्—verse 3), suvasi (सुवसि—verse 4) and again suvasi (सुवसि—verse 5). Dayananda translates suvasi as thou impelest (सुवसि प्रेरयसि, सुवतात् प्रेरय).

Anucina jivita, successive existences, as father, son, grandson and so on (जीवितान्यनुक्रमयुक्तानि—Sayana; ग्रन्थनुचरन्ति तानि जीवितानि—Daya). See also Yv. XXXIII.54.

5. Yatha-yatha patayantah vi-yemire, in the like manner at thy command they stayed (Wilson); (पतयन्तः पतिरिवाचरन्तः; वियेमिरे विशेषेण नियच्छन्ति—Daya.; यथायथा पतयन्तः गच्छन्तः त्वां वियेमिरे विनियम्यन्ते त्वया—Sayana).

Hymn-55

The hymn refers to Vasus, Aditi, Mitra, Varuna (1), Sindhu and svasti (3); Aryaman, Varuna, Agni, Indra, Visnu (4); Parvata, Maruts, Bhaga and Mitra (5); Dyava-prthivi and Ahibudhnya (6), Aditi, Mitra, Varuna and Agni (7); Usas (9); and Savitr, Bhaga, Varuna, Mitra, Aryaman and Indra (10). See earlier references on these terms. They have a variety of interpretations on different planes and in different contexts.

3. Svasti, abode of happiness; well-being.

Hymn-56

1. Dyava-prthivi, a pair of the sun and earth (Daya).

2. Devi, shining (देदीप्यमाने); aminati (अमिनती), unharming (अहिसके), uksamane, sprinkling with happiness (सर्वान् प्राणिनः सुखैः सिञ्चमाने); rtavari, possessing truth (बहुव्रतं सत्यं विद्यते यशोस्ते—Daya.; ṛta is also water or sacrifice); adruha, not opposing or violent (प्रदोष्यन्ते); devaputre, having learned people as sons (देवा पित्र्यैः पुत्रा ययोस्ते); netri, leaders or investigators (नयनकर्तार्यो).—Daya.

Hymn-57

For verses 1, 2 and 5, see Nir.X.15, X.16 and IX.41, respectively.

The hymn is devoted to agriculture. The Grhya Sutras recommend the verses to be recited at the time of ploughing. Ksetrapati the landlord, śunasira, the servants of the landlord, sita, furrow are typical agricultural terms.

1. Ksetram, क्षेत्रम्, abode; the word is derived from √क्षि, meaning to dwell,—the ksetra-pati is thus the protector or supporter of the dwelling place. (Nir.X.14).

“We will win with the lord of abode as with a friend; bring to us a horse or a cow, O nourisher. He shall be gracious to us for such (a gift)” —We will win with the lord of abode as with a very friendly person. Bring, O nourisher, a well-nourished cow or horse. He shall be gracious to us for such (a gift).

With strength or wealth. The verb √मृन् means to give.

2. O lord of the abode, bestow upon us the wave, rich in honey, distilling honey, and well-purified like clarified butter, as cow does its milk. May the lords of the sacred law be gracious to us

The verb √मृन् means to protect or to worship. Some authorities think that the two words मधुमन्तं (rich in honey) and मधुवृत्तं (distilling honey) have tautology (समानाभिप्रायव्यहार) in them, just as in हिरण्यरूपः स हिरण्यसंदृग् (golden in form, he is golden in appearance (II.35.10). Another school of thought does not admit tautology, if there is some difference, even if it is very slight, as for instance in मण्डूका इवोदकान् मण्डूका उदकादिव (X 166 2), or “as from water the frogs” and “as frogs from water”.

5. Sunah (शुनः) means wind, so called because it moves quickly in the atmosphere; sirah (सीरः) means the sun, from moving √सृ; O wind and the sun, enjoy this praise. Sprinkle ye both this (earth) with whatever water you make in heaven.

Dayananda refers to the pair of land-lord and his servants (शुनासीरो क्षेत्रपति-भृत्यौ) instead of the pair of wind and the sun.

7. Sitam, furrow (भूमिकर्षिको—Daya.). See Yv. XII.69-72.

8. Sunam, happily (सुखम्—Daya.).

Phalah, फालाः ploughshares.

Kinasah, कीनासाः ploughmen (कृषीवलाः—Daya).

For verses 7 and 8, see Av. III.17.4 and 13.

Hymn-58

For verses 1, 3 and 8, see Nir. VII.17, XIII.7 and VII.20.

For the whole hymn, see Yv. XVII.89-99.

1. Samudrat urmih madhuman ut arat, the wave rich in honey, has arisen from the ocean. According to the Nirukta, this is regarded as referring to the sun (VII.17). The sun rises, indeed, from the oceans and from the waters (समुद्राद्ध्येपोऽद्भ्य उदेति—Kausitaki Br. XXV.1) as we have this Brahmana quotation.

Dayananda, on the other hand, translates samudrat as from the interspace (मन्तरिक्षात्; Nigh. I.3).

Amsuna, by the sun; ghṛtasya, of water.

The verse refers to the mystic name of ghṛta (घृत), it is the tongue of Nature's bounties and the navel of ambrosia.

Sayana has given various shades of meaning to this verse, according to the signification one gives to samudra; (i) as that in which the worshippers delight, i.e. sacrificial fire (संमोदन्तेऽस्मिन्यजमानाः इति वा समुद्रोऽग्निः पार्थिवः) or (ii) that from which waters rush (समुद्रवन्त्यापोऽस्माद् इति व्युत्पत्त्या वैद्युतोऽग्निः) i.e. the celestial fire or lightning.

Urmi in the first case may imply reward or consequence. (ऊर्मिः—ऊर्मिवदुपर्युपरि उद्भूतः); in the latter case, rain; and in the latter sense of urmi, samudra may have one of its more ordinary meanings, antariksa or firmament. Samudra may imply, etymologically, the udder of a cow, whence flows milk, samudravati, from which comes urmi, ghee or butter.

2. Here again a reference to ghṛta, which is the name of clarified butter also. Here in this-verse, we have a reference to the four-horned Brahma (चतुःशृङ्गः), which is elaborated in the verse 3. The four horns are the four Vedas (Daya).

Gaurah, fair-complexioned; one who is fond of divine speech and good learning (यो गवि सुस्तितायां वाचि रमते सः—Daya.); gaura = yajna (Mahidhara).

Avamid gaura etat—The fair complexioned deity perfects this rite (Wilson). According to Sayana, the verse applies to Agni as the Sun.

3. One of the very popular verses, interpreted differently by people of different discipline :

(i) As applied to yajna (the Aditya) : the four horns—the four Vedas; the three feet—three daily sacrifices (morning, midday and evening) ; the two heads — two ceremonies—Brahmaudanam and Pravargya : according to the Nirukta—the prayaniya (प्रायणीय) and the udayaniya (उदयनीय); the seven hands—the seven metres (candas, Gayatri etc.); the three bonds—mantra, kalpa and Brahmana i.e. the prayer, the ceremonial and the rationale.

(ii) Another way, applied to yajna: the four horns—the four priests, the Hotṛ, Udgatṛ, Adhvaryu and Brahma; the three feet—the three Vedas, the R̥k, the Saman and the Yajus; the two heads—the Havirdhana and Pravargya rites; the seven hands—the seven metres or the seven priests; the three bonds—the three daily sacrifices.

(iii) As applied to Aditya, the Sun : the four horns—the four cardinal points of the horizon : east, south, west and north; the three feet—morning, noon and evening; the two heads—day and night; the seven hands—the seven rays or the seven seasons (the six seasons and the aggregate, or the years as the seventh); the three bonds—the three regions, earth, mid-air and heaven.

(iv) As applied to grammatical speech : the four horns—nouns, verbs, prepositions and particles; the three feet—three persons or three times (past, present and future), two heads—the agent and the object; the seven hands—the seven cases; three bindings—the three numbers, singular, dual and plural.

The Nirukta (XIII.7) favours the details outlined under the head (i).

4. The Panis, or the Asuras the traders. For this, see earlier notes. The three forms or states in which the ghee (घी) was deposited in the cow are milk, curd and butter, of which Indra engendered (जज्ञान) milk, Surya butter and the gods (देवासः) fabricated (ततधुः) curds from the shining (वेनत्), that is Agni.

According to Dayananda, gavi is 'in the divine speech'; ghṛta, is the divine bliss or enlightenment, Venat is from the close proximity of Lord.

5. Samudrat, from the mid-air (अन्तरिक्षात्—Daya.); Satavrajah (सतव्रजाः), innumerable movements (अपरिमित गतयः—Sayana), etah, i.e. showers of water (आपो घृतधारा वा—Sayana).

Vetasah, produced out of waters, fire or lightning (वेतसः अप्संभवो- ऽग्निर्वैद्युत—Sayana); lovable (कमनीयः—Daya.).

6. Sayana utilizes the verse for pouring clarified butter from the ladle on the sacrificial fire.

Dhenah, enlightened speech (विद्यायुक्ता वाचः—Daya.); words, texts flowing like rivers (धेनाः प्रीणयिष्यो नद्य इव—Sayana).

Antarhṛda manasa puyamana, freed from error by the heart and the mind; or by the mind gone within the heart (मनसा हृदयमध्यगतेन चित्तेन—Sayana.; अन्तः स्थितेनारमना शुद्धेनान्तःकरणेन पवित्रता कुर्वाणः—Daya.).

7. Kasthah bhindan urmibhih pinvamanah—काष्ठः, limiting circles (मर्यादाभूतान् परिधीन्—Sayana); banks like the directions, or directional boundaries (दिग इव तटीः—Daya.).

Ghṛta, water; sindhoh iva, like a river (sindhu may be antariksa also).

10. Ghṛtasya dhara, the streams or speeches through which knowledge flows (प्रकाशितस्य बोधस्य प्रकाशिका वाचः—Daya ).

Su-stutim gavyam ajim—the sacred praise, the source of herds of cattle; gavyamajim the number or collection relating to cattle, —Sayana), function in relation to well-known speech—गव्यं गवे वाचे हितं व्यवहारम्—Daya.); or abundance of water.

The entire hymn is characterized by mystic thoughts, and elegant spiritual realization.

NOTES ON BOOK No. 5

Hymn-1

For verse 2, see Nir. VI.13.

1. उषासम्=उषसम् (अन्येषामपि०—Panini VI.3.136).

See Yv. XX.24.

Prati dhenum iva ayatimusasam, as the cow is awakened in the morning by the calf and men by day-break. (Mahidhara)

Yahva iva pra vayamujjihanah, as large birds springing from the branches of the trees, or as the largest birds from their nests (Mahidhara). (यज्ञा इव—महान्तो वृक्षाः, like large trees; वयां शाखाः, branches; उज्जिहानाः—त्यजन्तः, springing from; leaving—Daya.; वयां वृक्षशाखाः—Mahidhara).

2. Rusat, this is a synonym of colour; it is derived from the root √ रुष्, meaning to shine: the "brilliant strength of the kindled one has been seen." (Nir. VI.13) (समिद्धस्य प्रदीप्तस्य, दग्धत् रुष्, अदग्धि दृश्यते, पात्रः बलम्—Daya.).

3. Yad-im ganasya rasanamajigah—when he has seized the rope of the company; that is, the confining girdle of the aggregated world (or the darkness encompassing the world, like a rope or cord, obstructing all active exertion—(गणस्य समूहस्य, of a group—Daya.; संपात्मकस्य जगतः—Sayana; रशनां रज्जुमिव व्यापारप्रतिबन्धकं, तमः—Sayana; अजीवः भूतं गिरति—Daya.).

Uttanam, one proceeding in the upward direction, ऊर्ध्वगामिनीम्—Daya.; recumbent,—Wilson; ऊर्ध्वतानामुपरि विस्तृताम्—Sayana).

4. Virupe, antiform (विरुद्धस्वरूपे—Daya.); multiform or of various forms (नानारूपे—Sayana); being in the fem. dual it may represent the heaven and earth—आवापृथिव्यो ।

6. सुरभा उ=सुरभी—ऊँ इति ।

Surabhau, fragrant (सुगन्धिभे—Daya.); in two fragrant places.

Hymn-2

For verse 9, see Nir.IV.18.

This is a mystery hymn, which according to the ritualists, is devoted to the lightning of fire, of course, in the metaphorical allusive language, obscure at places. The mother is the two pieces of touch-wood, which retain fire; this refers to the Vedic process of attrition; the fire thus generated is the child; the father is perhaps the yajamana. The mother does not spontaneously give it up to the father until forced by attrition; till then, also, the priests do not behold it, but they see it when bursting into ignition.

On the spiritual side, the fire so generated is the fire of spiritual knowledge, the Divine Enlightenment, which has to be kindled by the yogin out of his innermost subconsciousness.

Sayana quotes unnecessarily a story in this connection from the Satyayana Brahmana, referring to Raja Tryaruna, the son of Trivṛṣṇa of the race of Ikṣvaku, and the Purohita vṛṣa, the son of Jara. The Raja and the Purohita (the priest) were once going in one and the same chariot, and according to the custom then prevalent, the priest was driving the chariot. By an accident, a Brahmana boy, playing on the road was killed, and the dispute ensued between the king and the priest as to which was the murderer, the driver of the chariot or the owner. The dispute was referred to an assembly of Ikṣvaku, who decided the matter against the priest. Thereupon, Vṛṣa, the priest restored the dead boy to life by reciting the prayer known henceforth as Vṛṣa Saman (स ऋषिर्वांससाम्ना तं कुमारमुदजीवयत्—Sayana). The whole incident, however, annoyed the priest, Vṛṣa R̥si, who cursed the Ikṣvaku for their partiality, and thereon fire henceforth ceased to perform its functions in their dwellings,—in their kitchens and sacrifices both. On this Ikṣvaku invoked the presence of the priest; and pleased with this, the R̥si with the same mantra restored the fire to them. The story is given in the Tandya Brahmana, and the Bṛhad-devata, where we read thus also : “Vṛṣa being propitiated sought for the heat of the fire in the King’s house, and he found a Pisaci as a wife of the king. Having seated himself with her upon the cushion on a stool, he addressed her with the verse” (kam etam tvam, V.2.2.), speaking of the heat (haras) in the form of a boy, he addressed her (thus). And when he uttered the verse (vi jyotisa. V.2.9) the fire suddenly flamed up, repelling him who approached and illuminating what was already bright; and it burned the Pisaci where she sat." (Bṛhad. V.19-22). The entire legend is a concoction of the post-Vedic period, and refers to some controversy between princes and priests, and a temporary discontinuance of worship with fire. The entire hymn is a beautiful composition, referring to the kindling of the innermost fire for one's enlightenment.

Dayananda refers to this hymn in connection with the marriage of youthful couples.

7. Sunah-sepam, to one indulging in worldly enjoyments and sensual functions (सुखस्य प्रापकमिन्द्रियारामम्—Daya.).

Yupat, from the simple or complicated bindings (मिश्रितादमिश्रिताद् बन्धनात्—Daya.); (शुनश्चिच्छेपं=शुनःश्लेषम् चित् ।)

Pasan, bondages (बन्धनानि—Daya.).

9. Mayah, fraudulent intellect (छलादियुक्ताः प्रज्ञाः—Daya.).

12. Tuvigrivah, a charming damsel with health and vigour, or the one with strong neck (बहुबलयुक्तः सुन्दरी वा ग्रीवाः यस्य सः—Daya.).

In this verse, we have a repetition of बहिष्मते मनवे शर्म with a slight variation as हविष्मते for बहिष्मते ।

Hymn-3

1. Here it implies that the same one who is Agni (adorable) is also Varuna (venerable), Mitra (friendly) and Indra (resplendent). This is true of the Supreme Self, of a learned person and in certain metaphorical aspects of the sacrificial fire. The word Agni is in vocative, and the rest are adjectival nouns.

Agne—O adorable lord, fire, a learned person (कृतविद्याभ्यास—Daya.).

Varunah, venerable, one who binds the undesirable and unwanted malevolents (दुष्टानां बन्धकृच्छ्रेष्टः—Daya.).

Mitrah, one who measures, a friend (मया—Daya.).

Indrah, the resplendent, the giver of prosperity (ऐश्वर्यदाता—Daya.).

2. Tvamyama bhavasi yatkaninam—You are the Lord of Justice or Aryaman in relation to maidens (Aryama—न्यायाधीशः—Daya.; Kaninam, to maidens, to the charming (कामयमानानां—Daya.); also you are the regulator of the ceremony (aryaman=nuptial fire—सर्वेषां नियमितसि—Sayana).

Dampati Samanasa Krnosi—You make husband and wife of one mind (विवाहितौ स्त्रीपुरुषौ समानमनस्को दम्पती कृणोषि—Daya.).

Guhyam nama, mysterious name (रहस्यं नाम—Daya.); according to Sayana, the term refers to Vaisvanara, meaning the friend of all men; a name of fire; or a person belonging to the universal brotherhood.

Gobhih, with milk products (गोभिः । विकारे प्रकृतिशब्दः । गोविकारैः क्षीरादिभिः—Sayana); of sense organs (speech etc. वागादिभिः—Daya.).

3. Gonam, of the cows, of the sense organs, of the rays, of the cow products like butter and milk.

Tena pasi guhyam nama gonam—you cherish the mysterious name of the waters (तेन गोनाम् उदकानां गुह्यं नामानि पासि रक्षसि—Sayana).

7. Abhasastim, accuser or calumninator; to the one who tortures from all sides (प्रभितो हिसाम्—Daya.).

जहौ=जहि (अत्र द्वयव्योतस्तिष्ठ इति दोषः—Panini VI.3.134).

9. Ava sprdhi pitaram yodhi vidvan putrah yah te—who like a wise son offers to thee (reverence) as to a father; or, who like a father cherishes you as a son.

10. Bhuri nama vandamano dadhati, glorifying thee, he offers the copious oblation (Nama, नाम=नामकं हविः also स्वदीयं नाम—Sayana; संज्ञा—Daya.), Vandamaneh=स्तुवन् (Daya.); praising your various names, he offers oblations.

12. Agah, offence (अगः अपराधः—Daya.).

Yamasah, the directed ones (यामासः गन्तारः स्तोमाः—Sayana); the en-comiums; disciplines consisting of yama and niyama (यामासः यमनियमान्विताः—Daya).

For yama (restraints) and niyama (observances), see Patanjala Yoga Sutras, II.29 and 32.

Hymn-4

1. Pr̥tasutih mār̥tyanam, hosts of (hostile) men; the army of men (प्रतसुतीः सेनाः मर्त्यानां मरणधर्माणां बहूनाम्—Daya).

3. Visam vispatim, lord of people (विशां प्रजानां विस्पति प्रजापालकम्—Daya); the wise lord of human beings (Wilson). Compare with vasupatim vasunam (verse 1).

Ghr̥tapr̥sthām, cherished with the oblations of butter, (ghr̥ta=butter; and also water; घृतपृष्ठं घृतमुदकाज्यं पृष्ठं प्राधारे यस्य तम् the one whose base is butter or water—Daya).

6. Vayah Kṛ̥nvanah tanve svayai, appropriating the sustenance to your own person; tanu in also son, or the vajamana in that relation. (वयः जीवनं कृष्णानः तन्वे शरीराय स्वायै स्वकीयाय—Daya; वयः अन्नं, food or sustenance—Sayana).

8. Trisadhaṣṭha, the abider in three regions (of earth, midspace and heaven—(त्रिषु क्षिप्रपादिषु स्थानेषु स्थित हव्यम्—Sayana; pertaining to one who does impartial justice to three—his people, servants and own relations—त्रिभिः प्रजाभृत्यात्मनोपैर्जनैः सह पक्षपातरहितस्तिष्ठति, तत्सम्बुद्धौ—Daya).

Sarmana trivaruthena pahi, cherish us with triply-protected felicity (शर्मणा); sarman also means a house, (शर्मणा गृहेण—Daya); and then, the phrase would mean—protect us by or in a three-rooted, or three-storied dwelling (त्रिष्टुदिष्टेण गृहेण नः पाहि रक्ष—Sayana).

Trivaruthena may also mean by the three-seasonal favours (prosperity through rainy, winter and summer seasons, त्रिषु वर्षहिमन्तशीत-समयेषु वर्षेन वरेण—Daya).

10. Amrtatvam, immortality, perhaps through the unbroken succession of descendants (संतत्यविच्छेद लक्षणम्—Sayana; अमृतत्वं मोक्षभावम् —Daya). Sayana quotes a line from Tait.Br. प्रजामनुप्रजायसे तदु ते मर्त्यामृतम् I.5.5.6; i.e. (when progeny is born after progeny, that verily is the immortality of your mortality).

The verses 10 and 11 are cited in the Putra-Kamesthi (पुत्रकामेष्टि) sacrifice, i.e. in the one for obtaining sons (Asva. Srauta. II.10).

Hymn-5

1. Three epithets of fire—agni (adorable), susamiddha (the well-kindled, सुप्रदीप्तम्) and jatavedas (one pervading through all born-things, जातवेदसे—जातेषु विद्यमानाय—Daya).

2. Narasamsah, the one praised by men in general (नरैः शंसनीयो-ज्यमग्निः—Sayana; यो नरैः प्रशस्यते—Daya).

Madhuhastah, sweet-handed, or one notable amongst the sweet-handed (मधुहस्तेषु साधुः—Daya).

3. Ilitah (ईलितः), the one praised, honoured or adored (स्तुतः सन्—Sayana; प्रशंसितः—Daya).

4. Urnarnadah, soft as wool (ऊर्णं कम्बलवत् मृदु हे वह्निः—Sayana; refers to grass or Barhis, Poa Cynosuroides (Wilson); anointing or rubbing with the help of servants or protecting persons (य ऊर्णं रक्षकैर्मृद्वनन्ति—Daya).

7. Vatasya patman, on the path of the wind (परमन् पतन्ति यस्मिन्मार्गे तस्मिन्—Daya); or with the swiftness of the wind (परमन् लुप्तोपमं वा । वायुगमन-सदृश गमनार्थम्—Sayana); or through the firmament, (वातस्य पतनसाधनेऽन्तरिक्षे गच्छन्तो—Sayana).

8. Ila, Sarasvati and Mahi, see earlier notes on I.13.9; 31.11; 142.9 etc.; the three goddesses (तिस्रः देवी).

10. Vanaspate, O the protector of forests (वनस्थपालक—Daya). Here Vanaspati might represent Agni or fire, as identified with sacrificial post or yupa or the deity presiding over it (यूपाभिमानी देव—Sayana).

Guhya namani, the secret names or secret forms, (नामानि नामकानि रूपाणि—Sayana).

11. Svaha, the truthful speech (सत्यावाक्—Daya).

This word has several meanings (i) to give an oblation, with the final utterance of the term Svaha, स्वाहा (स्वाहा करोमि इति शेषः); to give a good offering (सु + प्राहुतं करोमि); a praise (स्वाहाः कृतेः स्तुतिः—Sayana). Svaha is also one of the Apris or personification of Agni. (See Nir. VIII.20.21) : Consecrations by saying Svaha (hail!). They are so called because the word Svaha (स्वाहा) is uttered in them; or speech herself said 'well ho !' (स्वा वागा हेति वा), or one addressed himself, or one offers oblation unsecrated with "Svaha" (hail); see Rv. X. 110.11 : Yv. XXIX.36; Av. V.12.11—अस्य होतुः प्रदिश्यतस्य वाचि स्वाहाकृतं हविरदन्तु देवाः—May the gods eat the oblation consecrated with the utterance of "स्वाहा Swaha" (hail) in the speech (i.e. the mouth) of this sacrificer, set up in the eastern direction.

Hymn-6

1. Astam, the one who is the shelter or asylum of all (सर्वेषां गृहवद् आश्रयभूतम्—Sayana); the one utilized or evoked (प्रस्तं प्रक्षिप्तं प्रेरितम्—Daya). See also Yv. XV.41.

2. See also Yv. XV.42.

6. Pro tye agnayah agnisu visvam pusyanti varyam—These fires cherish (or nourish—पुष्यन्ति) all that is precious; they give delight. The primary flames of Agni, when manifested in the household fires are the source of riches (Wilson).

Hinvire, spread widely (वर्धयन्ति); invire, pervade (व्याप्नुवन्ति—Daya).

7. Ye patvabhiih safanam vraja bhuranta gonam—They seek postures of the hoofed cattle. Patvabhiih = पतनैः = by fallings (गमनैः—Daya.); vraja = वेगान्, speeds. Those rays which by fallings wish for or proceed to the herds of hoofed cattle. Perhaps meaning thereby that the spreading flames long for the burnt offerings. (Wilson and Sayana).

9. Ubhe darvi, the two ladles, perhaps juhu (जुहू) and upabhr̥ta (उपभृत्), used for pouring the melted butter upon the fire—see Yv. XV.43.

Hymn-7

1. Urjah, of the one with strength and bravery (बलस्य, पराक्रम—युक्तस्य—Daya.); also water (ऊर्जम्=ओजः=तेजः=उदकम् or water—Mahādhara).

Urjah-naptre, grandson of water, i.e. fire (water's son is fuel and fuel's son is fire).

3. R̥tasya rasmima dade, assumes the radiance of R̥ta (eternal law or truth or rite. Sayana accepts the solar ray that is the apprehender or absorber (ग्राहकम्) of water, alluding to the production of rain as the result of burnt-offerings. Again, he becomes endowed with the energy generative of the reward of sacrifice (फलजनकं तेजः, स्वीकृतवान्). Lastly, he accepts the praise which is, as it were, the lustre or ray of the sacrifice (ऋतस्य यज्ञस्य रश्मिं रश्मिवत् ग्राहकं स्तवं प्राददे स्वीकरोति —Sayana).

5. Bhuma pr̥stha iva ruruhuh, many (भूमा) or much on the back. According to Sayana, bhuma signifies off spring or that which is many (बहुभवतीति भूमापत्यम्). According to Dayananda, the word means, "of the earth" (भूमा पृथिव्याः).

Pr̥stheva, like the backs of the father (पृष्ठेव पितुः पृष्ठ-देशानिव, as boys mount upon the fathers side so do the flames, यथा पितुरङ्कमारोहन्ति, तद्वत् —Sayana).

7. Dhanva aksitam data na dati a—Here dhanva is a place without water (धन्व निरुदकप्रदेशम्—Sayana; midspace (धन्व अन्तरिक्षम्—Daya.; also Nigh. I.3).

ध्वा = स्म (निपातस्य चेति दीर्घः) ।

Aksitam, tossed over with grass, timber and the like (तृणकाष्ठ-दिग्भिरालिप्तम्—Sayana); one who is uninjured from all sides (समन्तादनिष्टमिव —Daya.).

Hirismasruh, one with a golden beard (हिरण्यमिव श्मश्रूणि यस्य सः —Daya.).

Sucidan, शुचिज्जन्, the one with pure teeth (शुचयः पवित्रा दन्ता यस्य सः—Daya.).

8. Sucih sma yasma atrivat pra svadhitiva riyate, Sayana translates Svadhiti as an axe (परशुरिव छिन्दन्); Dayananda as one who holds vajra, or adamant stone (वज्रधर इव Nigh. II.20, स्वधितिः=परशुः=वज्रः). Atrivat, like an atri (or one free from triple calamities); or it may mean an eater or devourer, or an animal eating grass (अस्ति तृणमित्यस्तिः पशुः । स इव । स यथा तृणानि खादमानो गच्छति तद्वत्—Sayana). According to Wilson, atrivat applies to the yajamana and svadhiti to agni.

10. Isah, इषः, desires or aspirations (Daya.; इषः एष्टुन्—Sayana).

Nṛn, नृन्—men adept in discipline, law and order (नीतियुक्तान् मनुष्यान्—Daya.); encountering and opposing men (विरोधिनः—Sayana).

Sasahyat, repeated two times for respect (पुनरुक्तिरादरार्था—Sayana; अत्रोभयत्राभ्यास दीर्घः—Daya.); may Atri (the one always active, सततं पुष्पापर्वी—Daya.) overcome hostile (दस्वून्) men (नृन्).

Hymn-8

Sayana considers Isah (इषः) as the Rṣi or seer of this hymn (an epithet of the seer Atri), in which every verse begins with Tvamagne (त्वामग्ने).

2. Jaradvisam, poison, or hostile to the old or decayed (जरद विनष्टं शत्रुरूपं विषं यस्य तम्—Daya.); the pervader or consumer of old trees; or that by which water is dried up (जरद्विषं जरतां वृक्षाणां व्यापकं जीर्णोदकं वा—Sayana).

7. Abhi jrayansi parthiva vi tisthase—Jrayansi; speedy works or actions (अवांसि वेगयुक्तानि कर्माणि—Daya.); foods (अवांसि अन्नानि—Sayana); Parthiva, born of earth, or pertaining to earth (and hence, the trees, पाथिवा पाथिवान् वृक्षान् or it may be an epithet of jryansi, earthly eatables—पाथिवानि चक्षुरोडाद्यादिकानि—Sayana).

Hymn-9

1. Jatavedas, one who knows all that exists; he whom all know to be identical with all that exists. Also he from whom all wealth is generated—Sayana.

- (1. जातमुत्पन्नं चराचरं भूतजातं वेत्तीति जातवेदाः;
2. जातानि स्वावरजंगमात्मकानि एनं विदुरिति जातवेदाः;
3. वेद इति घननाम—Nigh. II.10; जातं सर्वं वेदो घनं यस्या सौ जातवेदाः).

2. Ksayasya, of space, abode (निवासस्थ—Daya.); the abode of the fruit of good works (क्षियन्ति निवसन्त्यस्मिन् स्वर्गसाधनफलानीति क्षयः—Sayana).

4. Putro na hvaryanam, like the son of the crooked-going.

According to Sayana, it refers to a young snake ( ह्यास्यां कृटिलं गच्छतां सर्पाणां; न पुत्र इव बालसर्प इव क्षिप्त बालाश्च इव वा); or again, it may mean the colt of rearing and plunging horses, of those not broken in (प्रास्कन्दितानि गतिविशेषेण बकगमनामश्वानां etc.); crooked-going (कृटिलानाम्—Daya).

पुरु = पुरु (संहितायामिति दीर्घः) ।

5. ध्मातरो = ध्मातरि ।

Yadamiha trito divi upa-dhmata iva dhamati. Here trita refers to three regions, and hence, spread in the three regions; or having gone beyond the three regions. (त्रितः संप्लावकः) or efficient conveyer.

Dhmata, blower (धमनकर्ता—blower or conch etc.) or one who fans or blows fire by bellows (कर्मारो यथा भस्त्रादिभिरग्निं संवर्धयति तद्वत् स्वाभानं वर्धयतीति—Sayana).

As the fire blazes from the blast of the blower (क्षिप्तीते ध्मातरि); like the fire, which, in the proximity of one blowing with a bellows, blazes up, so Agni sharpens his flames, or of himself adds to their intensity.

Hymn-10

1. Cf Samaveda I.81 (with slight variation in the text of the second half of the stanza).

2. Krana, क्राणा = कृन्न् (driving away the disturbers of sacred rites).

3. Gayam, गयम्, = it is a diminutive or apatya term; (Nigh.II.2); also, wealth (Nigh. II.10); a dwelling, abode or house (Nigh.III.4).

Maghani, wealth (घनानि—Daya.); Nigh. II.10.

Hymn-11

1. Bharatebhyah, for the Bharatas; for the sustainers (धारणपोषण-कृद्भ्यो मनुष्येभ्यः—Daya.); for the priests (भरतेभ्यः ऋत्विग्भ्यस्तदर्थम्—Sayana).

For modifications of Bharata, see also

भरतः — VI.16.4; भरतम् I.96.3

भरतम् — I.109.7; भरतस्य III.53.24; VII.8.4

भरताः — III.33.11; 12; VII.33.6.

Gṛ̥tapratikah, like well-purified butter (Wilson); fed with pure butter (घृतप्रतीकः घृतेन प्रज्वलिताङ्गः—Sayana; घृतमाज्यमुदकं वा प्रतीतिकर यस्य सः, the one fond of butter or water—Daya.).

Divispr̥sa, one who touches sky with flames (अध्रंनिहेन तेजसा युक्तः—Sayana; यो दिवि प्रकाले स्पर्शति तेन—Daya.).

2. Tri-Sadhas̥the, in the space, abode or place associated with three (त्रिभिस्सहस्र्याने—Daya.; Samidhire, have first kindled in three places, that is, as in the three fires : Ahavaniya, Garhapatya and Dakṣina. (ग्राहवनीयादि लक्षणैः त्रिप्रकारेणानेन सह तिष्ठतीति त्रिषधस्यः—Sayana).

3. Jayase matroh, born of two mothers, i.e. of two sticks of attrition (मात्रो धरण्याः, जायसे प्रादुर्भूतो भवसि—Sayana); having been instructed by respectable like mothers, teachers and preceptor (मात्रोः मातृवन्मान्यकार-कयोविद्याचार्ययोः—Daya).

Udatistha vivasvatah, thou hast sprung from the devotion of the householder. Vivasvatah=yajamana from vi, abiding vasata, the chamber where the agnihotra and other fire rituals are celebrated (विवस्वतः अग्निहोत्राद्यर्थं गृहे विशेषेण वसतः यजमानात् उदतिष्ठः उदितोऽभव—Sayana).

Dayananda translates Vivasvatah as from the Sun.

6. See Yv. XV.28 also.

Angirasah, in the disciplines of knowledge (श्राना इव विद्यासु—Daya.); guha, in the super-cavity of intellect (बुद्धौ—Daya).

Hymn-12

1. Praticim, the former, the usual (पश्चिमां क्रियाम्—Daya.; अभिमुखी—Sayana).

2. Rta and Rtasya dhara—here rta stands for truth, praise, and water, all the three, (ऋतं स्तौत्रं, ऋतस्य उदकस्य; द्वयेन च, सत्यानृताभ्यां यत् किञ्चिद् वैदिकं कृत्यम्—Sayana).

To Dayananda, ऋतं सत्यकारणं, ऋतं सत्यं ब्रह्म; ऋतस्य सत्यस्य विज्ञापिका; द्वयेन कार्यकारणात्मकेन, ऋतं उदकम् ।

Dvayena, with both (truth and untruth—Sayana; cause and effect—Daya).

4. Wilson gives an alternative interpretation : Who are they that confine their foes ? Who are they that preserve me from uttering untruth ? Who are they that vindicate people from calumny ?—they are, Agni, the worshippers.

To Dayananda, Agni here is the head of a state.

Hymn-13

For verse 4, see Nir. VI.7.

4. Sapraṭha, means broad, all round (सप्रष्ठाः सर्वतः पृष्ठः—Nir. VI.7)
—O Agni, thou art broad all-round.

Hymn-15

2. Rtena, by truth, by God (सत्येन परमात्मना वा—Daya.); by praises (स्तोत्रेण—Sayana).

Rtam, truth, the eternal cause or law; truth embodied fire (सत्यरूपमग्निम्—Sayana).

Dharayanta, hold (धारयन्ति), also withhold or detain (Wilson).

Parame vyoman, in the best place; also thus the fire altar; also best pervading one (प्रकृष्टे व्यापके—Daya.).

Nanaksuh, attain or obtain (प्राप्नुवन्ति—Daya.; अभिप्राप्नुवन्ति—Sayana).
Cf Nigh. II.14.

Jataih ajatan, the unborn with the born; according to Sayana, the unborn are gods (अजातान् देवान्) and the born are men or priests (जातैः मनुष्यैश्चैतृभिः) ।

3. Amhoyuvah tanvah tanvate vi, enjoy forms exempt from defect; they who remove the sins (येऽहोपराधं युवन्ति पूषक् कुर्वन्ति ते); effect the extension of their own persons or bodies (तन्वः शरीरस्य मध्ये तन्वते विस्तृणन्ति—Daya.; तन्वः स्वास्तनूः अहोयुवः अहंसा वियोजिकाः वितन्वते विस्तारयन्ति—Sayana).

Vayah, life (वयः जीवनम्—Daya.; the sacrificers who offer food etc. as oblations (वयः हवीरूपमन्नं प्रयच्छन्ति ते यजमानाः—Sayana).

4. Vayo-vayo, every life (कमनीयं जीवनं जीवनम्—Daya.); every kind of food (वायोवः सर्वमन्नम्—Sayana).

5. Tayuh, a thief (तायुः तस्करः ; चोरः).

Atrim, to the protector (अत्रि पालकम्—Daya.).

Aspah, be propitious (अस्पः प्रीणाय).

Mahah raye citayan, considering (the means of acquiring) great riches.

Guha, secret place; in the intellect (बुद्धौ—Daya).

Padam, foot-prints (पदचिह्नम्—Daya.); (stolen) articles (पदं द्रव्यं—Sayana).

(तायुः न तस्करो यथा गुहायां द्रव्यं धारयन् रक्षति तद्वत् महते धनलाभार्थं सन्मार्गं प्रकाशयन्—Sayana).

Secure receptacle is guha, the inner cavity in conscience of the rst, in which the wealth of knowledge is kept safe, as the thief keeps his stolen articles safe.

Hymn-16

1. Prasastibhih, by praises (प्रशस्तिभिः प्रशंसाभिः—Daya.); cf. Samaveda, I.88; prasastaye, for the praises).

2. Bhagah, the sun (भगः सूर्यः—Daya).

4. Yahvam na, like the great sun (यह्वं महान्तं सूर्यं, न इव—Daya).

Hymn-17

1. Puruh, the rational man (पुरुः मननशीलो मनुष्याः—Daya.); the man, the worshipper (पुरुः मनुष्यः स्तोता—Sayana).

2. Vidharman, O, the one assigned with specific duties, O, the performer of various functions, (विधर्मन्, विधिष्टो धर्मो यस्यासौ विधर्मास्तोता, तस्य संबोधनम्—Sayana; विशेष धर्मानुचारिन्—Daya).

3. Asya vasa u arcisa, by his lustre, verily the sun is luminous (अस्य वै असौ ऊँ इति the pada patha; meaning, by the light of him, he verily). By the light of Agni, the sun becomes luminous (अग्नेः प्रभया आदित्यः अविष्मान् भवति—Sayana).

5. Sagdhi Svastaye, be alert or competent or prepared for our prosperity (समर्थोभव सुखाय—Daya). For prosperity means the wealth consisting of Ksema, cattle etc. (स्वस्तये क्षेमाय पशवादि लक्षणस्य धनस्य क्षेमाय शग्धि त्वा वाचे—Sayana).

Hymn-18

1. Cf. Samaveda I.85, with a difference in reading.

Rk, reading विश्वानि यो अमर्त्यो हव्या मर्तेषु रप्यति; (he who, immortal, desires the oblations of mortals).

Sama reading विश्वे यस्मिन्नमर्त्यो हव्यं मर्तसा इन्धति (in or upon all that which is immortal, mortals offer oblations—Wilson).

2. Dvitaya, to the one who has been receiving knowledge since two births (द्विताय द्वाभ्यां जन्मभ्यां विद्याय प्राप्ताय—Daya.); the son of Dvita (द्वितेपुत्राय —Sayana).

Mrktavahase, मृक्तवाहसे, for the conveyer of pure oblations to gods, (मृक्तं शुद्धं हविर्देवेभ्यो वहति प्रापयतीति मृक्तवाहाः—Sayana); for the one who receives true spiritual knowledge (मृक्तवाहसे शुद्धविज्ञानप्रापकाय—Daya.).

4. Svarnare, in the man who is blessed with happiness (स्वर्गरे स्वः सुखेन युक्ते नरे—Daya.); in the sacrifice which leads man or the yajamana to heaven (स्वः स्वर्गं नरं यजमानं नयतीति स्वर्गरो यज्ञः, तस्मिन्—Sayana).

5. Asvanam, of the horses, of all the things which move with speed (वेगवतामग्न्यादि पदार्थानाम्—Daya.).

Hymn-19

4. Jamyoh, with his two relations; the earth and the light, the two givers or producers of food (जाम्योः अन्नव्यान्नप्रदयोर्द्यावापृथिव्योः—Daya.); the heaven and the earth (द्यावापृथिव्योः—Sayana).

Gharmo na vaja-jatharah, he who like the mixed oblation, is filled with food; he in whose belly is food like the gharmah; like the pravargya, the gharma, sprinkled with the oblation butter and milk (घर्मो न प्रवर्ग्यं इव वाजजठरः वाजोऽन्नं जठरे यस्य सः । घर्मो यथा हव्येनाग्न्येन पयसासिक्तो वाजजठरस्तद्वत् । हविर्जठर इत्यर्थः—Sayana).

Gharma, a vessel, a pitcher; also warm, hot, that of day (Yaska; घर्मः प्रतापः—Daya.).

Vaja-jatharah, one which incites hunger in the stomach (वाजो जुद्धेनो जठरे यस्मात्तः—Daya.).

Hymn-20

1. See also Yv. XIX.64 (for वाजसातम, read कव्यवाहन).

Vajasatama, O bounteous giver of food (अत्यन्तमन्नद—Sayana); O distributor of knowledge and other articles of sustenance (प्रतिज्ञयेन वाजानां विज्ञानादिपदार्थानां विभाजक—Daya.).

3. Prayasvantah, those having food, we the possessors of food (प्रयस्वन्तः अन्नवन्तः एतन्नामका वयम्—Sayana); the men of activity and efforts (प्रयस्वन्तः प्रयत्नमानाः—Daya.).

Hymn-21

1. Manusvat, like the man (मनुष्वत् मनुष्येण तुल्यम्—Daya.); like manu, मनुषिब —Sayana.

Hymn-22

1. Visvasaman, the one adept in the entire knowledge of Saman, the Vedic chants (विश्वानि सामानि यस्य तत्सम्बुद्धौ—Daya.); a way of addressing the ṛsi (ऋषेः सम्बोधनमेतत्—Sayana).

Atrivat, like Atri, the one possessing a general universal knowledge (अत्रिवत् व्यापक विद्यवत्—Daya.).

4. Atrayah, sons of Atri (अत्रिपुत्राः—Sayana); the one free from three blemishes of passion, anger and greed (त्रिभिः कामक्रोधलोभदोषैरहिताः—Daya.).

Hymn-23

1. Rayim, riches (धनम्—Daya.); metaphorically, a son (पुत्रम्—Sayana).

Hymn-24

For verse 3, see Nir. V.23.

1, 2. The verses 1 and 2 occur in the Samaveda; see I.448, II.457; II.458; II.459 and Yv. III.25; 15.48.

Varuthyah, born in superb houses or families (वरुथ्यः वरुथेपुत्तमेषु गृहेषु भवः—Daya.); that which is to be chosen, to be enjoyed or to be worshipped (वरणीयः, संभजनीयः—Sayana); auspicious or favourable to the house or family (वरुथः=पुत्तसमूह or गृह—Mahidhara); also endowed or enclosed with circumferences or defences (वरुथैः परिधिभिर्बद्धः—Sayana); Vasusravah, dispenser of food (व्याप्तान्नस्त्वम्—Sayana); one rich in wealth and prosperity. (धनधान्ययुक्तः—Daya.); renowned for wealth (Mahidhara).

3. Urusya no aghavatah samasmat, उरुष्य नः अघवतः, protecting from all attacks; in the quotation, it occurs in the oblique case. The verb urusyati means to protect. It occurs in the nominative plural also. (Nir. V.23).

Hymn-25

1. Rsunamputrah, the son of the Rsīs; according to Sayana, this refers to Agni, since as one generated by the rsīs by their rubbing the sticks together which produce fire (ऋषूणाम् ऋषीणां पुत्रः । ऋषिभिर्मन्त्रेण जनितत्वात् पुत्र इत्युपचर्यते—Sayana); ऋषूणां=ऋषीणां (अत्र वर्णव्यत्ययेन इकारस्य स्थान उत्त्वम्—Daya.).

2. Satyah, true (सत्सु साधुः—Daya.); refers to Agni, since he never fails to bestow upon his worshippers the recompense of their devotion, सत्यः भवति, सत्यं प्रतिश्रवो भवति—Sayana).

Mandra-jihvam, to the one with sweet or praiseworthy tongue (मन्द्रा प्रशंसनीया जिह्वा यस्य तम्—Daya.); the sweet-tongued (whose speech is delightful), or whose tongue is fascinating (मन्द्रजिह्वं मन्दनजिह्वं । मोदनं जिह्वमिति वा—Nir. VI.26, cf. I.190.1).

5. Tuvisravastam, rich in food and rich in fame (अतिशयेन बहुधान्यवणयुक्तम्—Daya.).

Tuvibrahmanan, one who has in his association learned persons, well-versed in the Vedic lore (तुविब्रह्मणां बहवो ब्रह्माणश्चतुर्वेदविदो विद्वांसो यस्य—Daya.); abounding in devotion (बहुस्तोत्रम्—Sayana).

5, 6. These verses have been traditionally recited at the ritual pertaining to obtain male offspring, the putrakamesti.

7. See Yv. XXVI.12, and Samaveda I.86.

8. Grava iva, like a cloud (मेघ इव—Daya.; Nigh I.10) like a stone (प्रभिषव ग्रावेव—Sayana).

9. Vasuyavah, we, who desire wealth (वसूयवः वसुकामा वयं—Sayana; आत्मनो वस्विच्छवः—Daya.).

Hymn-26

1. See Yv. XVII.8; Samaveda II.871.

3. Samaveda II.872; 873.

Hymn-27

In this hymn, we have three Ṛsis, who are said to be three kings : (i) Tryaruna, the son of Trivṛsna; (ii) Trasdasyu, the son of Purukutsa and (iii) Asvamedha, the son of Bharata. Alternatively, Atri alone may be the Ṛsi. All the three names have been taken from the Text.

Tryaruna : त्रिऽअरुणः—V.27.1; 3; त्रिऽअरुणाय V.27.2.

Trasdasyu तसदस्यवि —VIII.49.10; तसदस्युः IV.38.1; V.27.3; VIII.19.36; तसदस्युम्—I.112.14; IV.42.8; 9; VII.19.3; VIII.8.21; 36.7; 37.7; X.150.5; तसदस्योः V.33.8.

Asvamedha : अश्वमेघस्य V.27.5; अश्वमेघाय V.27.4; अश्वमेघे V.27.6.

In the entire R̥gveda, the word asvamedha occurs only at these three places; i.e. in the present hymn.

1. Traivṛsna, one who showers in the three (regions) (त्रैवृष्णः यस्त्रिषु वर्षति स एव—Daya.).

Tryeruna, the one who possesses three qualities or attributes (त्रयोऽरुणा गुणा यस्य सः—Daya.).

Asurah, ravelling with pranas (breaths) (असुषु प्राणेषु रममाणः—Daya.); strong (असुरः बलवान्—Sayana).

2. Hari, हरी, two horses (अश्वौ—Sayana).

3. Trasdasyu, one terror to thieves (त्रस्यन्ति दस्यवो यस्मात्सः—Daya.).

Tuvijatasya, outcome of many, born of many (बहुव पत्यस्य—Sayana).

4. Asvamedhaya, for national service, (अश्व=राष्ट्र) also, for the one readily purified, (अश्वमेधाय, आशुपवित्राय—Daya.).

5. Asvamedhasya, pertaining to crafts of administration of an empire (चक्रवर्तिराज्यपालनस्य विद्यायाः—Daya.).

6. Asvamedhe, in the administration of a State (अश्वमेधे राज्यपालनाख्ये व्यवहारे—Daya.).

Hymn-28

The Rsi of this hymn is Visvavara, a woman, belonging to the family of Atri; her name is also derived from the word which appears in the verse.

1. Visvavara, one who repels all sins (सर्वमपि पापस्यं शत्रु वारयित्री एतन्नामिका—Sayana); one who brings the entire creation into appearance (या विश्वं वृणोति सा—Daya.).

Ghrtaci, night (Nigh.I.7); the one with ladle (पूताची पूताच्या खुचा सहिता—Sayana; हविषा पूताची, bearing the ladle with oblation (पुरोडासादि लक्षणैः युक्तया पूताच्या खुचा सहिता—Sayana).

In respect to this, Wilson rightly remarks : "The whole passage is remarkable, whether this explanation is admitted or not, as it leaves no doubt that a female is described as discharging the offices of a priest. Worshipping the gods at dawn with hymns and oblations : besides visvavara (विश्ववारा) being feminine the epithets praci (प्राची), Ilana (ईलाना) and ghṛtaci (घृताची), are of the same gender.

The word visvavara is not a proper noun as is seen from its several modifications in the R̥gvedic passages :

विश्वज्वार	—I.30.10; VII.5.8; 16.5; 92.1; VIII.46.9; IX.91.5.

3. Sam jaspadyam su-yamam a kṛnuṣva, preserve in concord the relation of man and wife; make perfect the well-connected duty of wife and husband; an appropriate prayer for a female Yv.XXX.12 (Wilson).

6. Adhvare, in the sacrifice; in the factory or industry (मध्वरे शिल्पादिव्यवहारे—Daya.).

Vṛnidhvam havyavahanam, select the bearer of oblation to the gods. According to ritualists, there are three kinds of sacrificial fires : havyavahanah (हव्यवाहनः) which receives the oblation intended for gods or Nature's bounties; the Kavyavahanah (कव्यवाहनः), that intended for the pitr̥s, and the Saharaksas (सहरक्षस्) that intended for the Asuras. It is expected that the worshipper would be selecting the first one (त्रयो वा अग्नयो हव्यवाहनो देवानां कव्यवाहनः पितॄणां सहरक्षा असुराणाम् । एतर्ह्यर्हसन्ते मां वरिष्यते मामिति वृणीध्वं हव्यवाहनमित्याह य एव देवानां तं वृणीते—Taitt. Samhita II.5.8.6).

Hymn-29

1. Tri-aryama, the convener or the planner of three (त्रीणि व्यवस्थापकः—Daya.); three effulgences (त्रीणि अयमा अयमाणि यानि तेजांसि सन्ति—Sayana).

Tri-rocana, the three enlightening ones (त्रीणि प्रकाशकानि—Daya.); three luminaries, the sun, wind and fire (त्रीणि रोचनारोचमानानि वाय्वग्निमूर्त्यैत्वकानि—Sayana).

3. Manuse gah avindat, obtains cattles for the offerer; here gah (गाः) may also mean rain (गाः घेनुवृष्टिलक्षणान्युदकानि वा—Sayana), or even speech (गोः=गाः=घेनुः=speech, Nigh. I.11).

Ahim, cloud, or serpent of nescience.

4. Danavam, the evil-doer, a mischievous person (दुष्टप्रकृतिम्—Daya.); Vṛtra, the son of Danu (Sayana).

5. Etase, एतस्ते, for Etasa; like a rider on the horse (एतस्ते अश्वेऽश्विक इव). See also I.54.6; 61.5; 121.13; 168.5; II.19.5; IV.17.14; 30.6.

6. Nava-navatim, ninety-nine; see also I.32.14; 53.9; 54.6; II.14.4; 19.6; reference to the destroying of ninety-nine cities of Sambara, the Asura.

Traistubhena, by the Tristup metre of 44 syllables. This verse 6, is nicṛt-tristup, with 43 syllables; also by the praise of three varieties (त्रैष्टुभेन त्रिषास्तुतेन—Daya.).

7. Mahisa tri satani, protects three hundred buffaloes or big animals [महिषा महिषाणां महतां पशूनां त्रीं शतानि (रक्षेत्)—Daya].

Dayananda paraphrases the verse thus :

यथाग्निरिन्द्र स्तूयमस्य (जगतो मध्ये) त्रीं (भुवनानि प्रकाशयन्) सरसि पिबद् वृत्रहत्याय सुतं सोममपचत् (तथा) सखा कृत्वा सख्ये साकं मनुषो महिषा त्रीं शतानि (रक्षेत्) ।

Just as Agni (fire) and Indra (the sun) very readily in the midst of these three worlds give light and drink up the water of all the ponds and for the destruction of Vṛtra (the clouds) quaff or ripen the extracted Soma, in the same way, you, the friend, in lieu of friendship offer protection to the three hundred big animals.

8. Here again, we have a similar reference.

Mah, माः, make or create (रचयेः—Daya).

Mahisanam aghah mah, महिषाणां अघः माः, make the animals who are not to be killed (महिषाणां महतां पदार्थानां अघः अहन्तव्यः माः रचयेः—Daya).

Sayana interprets quite contrary to the above; you had eaten the flesh of the three hundred buffaloes (महिषाणां पशूनां माः मांसानि, अघः भक्षितवानसि) ।

Ahim, = vṛtram = clouds; also nescience.

9. For usanas, उशनस्, and Kutsa, कुत्स; see earlier references.

Usana, the one desirous of something (उशना कामयमानः—Daya; उशना काव्यशब्द—Sayana).

Kutsena, by determined and firm actions, like an adamant stone (कुत्सेन बल्येणैव दृढेन कर्मणा—Daya).

10. Anasah dasyun amṛnah, confounded the mouthless (i.e. dumb or voiceless) mischievous persons.

Anasah, (अनासः आस्पर्शरहिताम् । आस्पर्शशब्देन शब्दो लक्ष्यते । अशब्दान् मूकान्—Sayana). Dasyus are perhaps those who are unable to pronounce words properly (cf. mlecha).

11. Gauriviteh, गौरिवीते, of the preceptor (यो गौरं वाचं व्येति सः; गौरीति वाङ्माम्, Nigh. I.11—Daya).

Piprum, egoistic tendency; the pervading (पिप्रं व्यापकम्—Daya).

Vaidathinaya, for the intellectual snob, for the enemies pertaining to a battle (वैदधिनय विदिधिना संग्रामकर्ता निमित्ताय—Daya).

Rjisva, ऋजिष्वा, for the straightforward one; one resembling a dog (ऋजिः सरलश्चासौ श्वा च—Daya).

Hymn-30

1. Haribhyam, by speed and attraction (वेगाकर्षणाभ्याम्—Daya); by ones own car, by two horses; (हरिभ्यां स्व वाहनाभ्यां, द्वश्वाभ्याम्—Sayana).

Sukharatham, an easy chariot, a chariot for composts (सुखाय रथस्तुखरथस्तम्—Daya); a car with pleasant eye-door (सुखरथं शोभनाक्षद्वारः रथो यस्य स सुखरथः—Sayana). Sayana gives an etymology of sukha (सुख) and thence of Sukharatha; the one which in a beautiful way digs, carves or draws lines on ground—a chariot of this type (सुष्ठु खनति लिखति भूमिमिति वा सुखम् । तादृग् रथम्) see Nir. III.13 (सुहितं खेभ्यः खः पुनः खनते). From what root is sukham (happiness) derived? It is so called, because it is useful for the senses (खं, kham, senses). Kham (sense) again is derived from the root khan, to dig).

6. Maruts, cloud-bearing winds; breaths; mortals; and also praises (मरुतः महद् खन्ति वन्दतीति स्तोतारः—Sayana).

7. Namuci ever-clinging evils.

Gatum, happiness (गातुं सुखम्—Sayana); earth and speech (गातुं भूमि वाणी वा—Daya).

Manave, for a righteous man (मननशीलाय धार्मिकाय मनुष्याय—Daya).

Sayana identifies Manu with the Rsi of the Hymn, मनवे नमुचिनाप-हृत गोधनाय मह्यम्—to me whose wealth of cattle has been carried off by Namuci.

For Namuci, see I.53.7; II.14.5; V.30.7; 8; VI.20.6; VII.19.5; VIII.14.13 and X.131.4.

8. Rodesi, from earth to heaven; from body to mind.

10. Gavah, rays (गावः किरणाः—Daya.).

Vatsaih, the separated ones (वत्सैः विपुक्ताः—Daya.; विपुवाः—Sayana).

Indrah—the sun (Daya.).

11. Babhrudhutam, effused by Babhru (बभ्रुणाभिपुताः—Sayana); cleansed by the enlightened ones or by learned persons (बभ्रुभिर्घृतविद्यैर्घृताः पवित्रीकृताः—Daya.).

12. Rusama, रुसमा, brilliant sages; the one who turns out the tormentors (ये रुसान् हिंसकान् मिन्वति—Daya.).

According to Sayana, the Rusamas are the people of the same name, the principality of Rnancaya (ऋणञ्चय).

15. Gharmascit, like the hot one, like the Mahavira pitcher or ewer.

Ayasmayah, golden; shining like gold (हिरण्यमिव तेजोमयः—Daya.). Ayas is usually iron, but here it means gold.

Hymn-31

For verse 2, see Nir. III.21.

2. Amenan cit, those who are without women; mena (मेना)= woman (मेना शब्दः स्त्रीवाची, अपगतस्त्री कश्चित्—Sayana); those who are without alluring women (अविद्यमाना मेना प्रलेपकर्त्र्यः स्त्रियो येषां तान्—Daya.).

Janivatah, one with wife (जनिवतः जायावतः—Sayana); progenitor (जन्मवतः—Daya.).

Menah (मेनाः) and gnah (ग्नाः) are synonyms of women.

Striyah (स्त्रियः) is derived from  $\sqrt{\text{स्र्ये}}$ , meaning to be bashful (स्त्रियः स्त्रियायतेरपत्रपणकर्मणाः)।

Menah (मेनाः) are so called because men honour them (मेना मानयन्त्येनाः).

Gnah (ग्नाः) are so called because men go to them (ग्ना गच्छन्त्येनाः)
—Nir. III.21.

4. For Rbhus and Tvastṛ see earlier notes.

5. For marut and dasyu, see earlier notes.

7. For susna (शुष्ण), see I.11.7; 33.12; 51.6; 56.3; 63.3; 101.2; 103.8; 121.9; 10. II.14.5; 19.6; III.31.8; IV.16.12; 30,13; V.29.9; V.31.7; 32.4; petty tendency; also the name of an Asura—Sayana.

Susnasya, of strength; (बलस्य—Daya).

8. Yadu, a hard working man (यदवे मनुष्याय—Daya); a king of the name Yadu—Sayana.

Turvasu; strong man (सद्योवशकरण समर्थाय, one who can easily take possession—Daya).

Susna, शुष्ण, petty tendency.

Kutsam, intellectual; also the spoiled one (कुत्सितम्—Daya).

Indra, resplendent.

Usanas, men of a genius (उशना कामयमानाः, the one with aspirations —Daya).

9. Karne vehantu, here Sayana interprets karna (कर्ण) as praiser or yajamana (स्तोत्राणि कुशोति करोतीति कर्णः—Sayana); in that by which one does (कुर्वन्ति येन तस्मिन्—Daya).

10. Avasyuh, one desirous of protecting himself (आत्मनोज्ञो रक्षणमिच्छुः—Daya).

Tavisim, army (तविषी सेनाम्—Daya.); strength or force (तविषी बलम्—Sayana).

11. Etasah, एतसः, see earlier notes (अश्वोऽश्विकमिव, as horse to the horse rider—Daya.).

Uparam, like a cloud (उपरं मेघमिव—Daya.; Nigh. I.10; a synonym for cloud).

Jujuvansam, going rapidly or with great speed (जुजुवांसं वेगेन गच्छन्तं, Sayana; प्रतिशयेन वेगवन्तम्—Daya.).

Paritakamyayam; in the battle (परितोगच्छन्त्यस्यां भटाः इति परितक्म्या संग्रामः—Sayana); in the night,—pleasing from all the sides (परितः सर्वतस्तन्मानि भवन्ति यस्यां तस्यां रात्रौ—Daya.).

Bharat cakram etasah, Etasa has borne away the wheel (etasah, एतसः, is used for etasaya, एतसाय; he or Indra has taken wheel for Etasa—Sayana).

Hymn-32

For verses 1 and 6, see Nir. X.9 and VI.3 respectively.

1. Danavana, wicked persons (दुष्टजनम्—Daya.).

Khani, खानि, the holes or interstices of the clouds (मेघस्थोदक निर्गमनद्वाराणि—Sayana; sense-organs (इन्द्रियाणि—Daya.).

3. Sayana refers to an allegory; from the body of Vṛtra sprang the more powerful asura, named Susna (शुष्णः); allegorically, it means that the exhaustion of clouds was followed by a severe draught, which Indra, or the atmosphere had then to remedy.

4. Danavasya bhamam, from the wrath fire of the wicked (दुष्टजनस्य क्रोधम्—Daya.). To Sayana, here the danava is Vṛtra, and bhamam, his wrath (क्रोधवाचि भामशब्देन क्रोधादुत्पन्नः शुष्णामुरो लक्ष्यते), from which arose another demon named as Susna; who was also subsequently killed by Indra.

Miho napatam, mihah is by the rain; or showering; napatam, the one who cannot fall (अपतनशीलम्—Daya.) or the protector of showering cloud. (मेघस्य नपातं पातारं रक्षितारम् । अत्र नपाच्छब्दः पातरि वर्तते;—see “प्राणो वै तनून्पात्स हि तन्वः पाति”—Ait. Br. II.4; the vital air is called the body—preserver, for it preserves the limbs—Sayana).

8. Apadam, footless, atam, measureless, mrđhravacam, speechless or with offensive or evil speech (अत्रम् योजति सर्वं व्याप्नोति तम् । मृध्रवाचं हिसितवाचम्;—Daya.; हिसितवाग्निन्द्रियम्, जृम्भाभिभूतम्—Sayana.).

Hymn-33

1. Samaryyah, associated with the Maruts; the one fond of wars (संग्राममिच्छुः—Daya.); an epithet of Indra.

Sayana gives three interpretations : (i) together with mortals, i.e. with the worshippers (मर्त्यैः स्तोत्रभिः सहितः); (ii) with the Maruts and other combatants (सहप्रियमाणैर्विद्यमानैः मरुदादिभिः), and (iii) fit for or suited to war (समराहः).

3. See also Yv. X.22, with certain variations chiefly in the first hemistich.

5. Ahisusma, the sun or sun-like; who dries up the cloud (योऽहि मेघं शोषयति स सूर्यस्तद्वद् वसन्मानः—Daya.); the one of all pervading strength; all powerful Indra (अहिरयनाद् । सर्वतो व्याप्त बलेन्द्र, त्वदनुग्रहात्—Sayana).

Prabhṛthah is highly acceptable (प्रकर्षेण घट्टव्यः—Daya.); or war or sacrifice (संग्रामः, यज्ञः); bhagah, one with fortunes (ऐश्वर्यं योगः—Daya.).

May a faithful follower or ally (सत्त्वाभूत्यादिः) come like Bhaga, as an associate (वारुः संगन्ता) to be commanded (हव्यः) in sacrifices or deified (प्रतिमद्वैराह्यातव्यः) in battles; as the divine Bhaga comes as our ally, so may followers and others come (Wilson).

6. Nṛtamanah, dancing (नृत्यन्—Daya.), or exulting (Wilson).

Enim rayim, white riches, or riches worth having; brilliant wealth (एनीम् एतवर्णा श्वेतवर्णाम्—Sayana; प्राप्तुं योग्याम्—Daya.; रवि धनम्).

9. Vidathasya, of the one worth having (लब्धं योग्यस्य—Daya.); a king of this name—Sayana.

See V.29.11, a verse in the earlier hymn, vidathin, as the son of Marutasva and father of Rjisvan (रैदधिनाय)—Wilson. But no king of the name of Vidatha is anywhere mentioned even in the subsequent mythological literature.

Cyavatanah, in the state of being obtained; bestowing upon (प्रापयन् सन्); Dadanah, giving to me,

10. Dhvanyasya, one expert in sounds (ध्वनिषु कुशलस्य—Daya.).

Lasmanyasya, one born with noble indications (सुलक्षणेषु भवस्य—Daya.).

Sayana regards Dhvanya as the son of Laksmāna,—unknown figures.

Hymn-34

For verse 3, see Nir. VI.19.

2. Sahasra-bhṛstim, the one causing thousands of destructions (भृष्टयः भञ्जनानि दहनानि यस्मात्तम्—Daya.); thousand-edged (Wilson); or of unbounded lustre (अपरिमित तेजाः—Sayana).

3. Tatanustim, one who desires an extended race (विस्तार—extension—Daya.; तत्तं धर्मसंततिं नृदतिं वष्टि कामयते कामानिति ततनुष्टिः, he who desires an extended race or santati सन्तति—Sayana).

Tanu-subhram, one whose body is clean (शुभ्राशुद्धा तनूयस्य तम्—Daya.; or is decorated with ornaments etc. शोभनीया अलंकारादिभिः—Sayana).

Both the above terms relate to a self-cherisher not offering sacrifice (तादृशं स्वपोषकं अयज्वानम्—Sayana).

4. Na atah isate (न अतः ईषते), does not turn away; does not destroy (न निषेधे अतः ईषते हिनस्ति—Daya.; does not fear, or does not go from hence—न बिभेति न गच्छति वा—Sayana).

Sayana discusses in the light of this verse the consequences of a man who has committed such crimes as of killing father, mother or brother. Indra does not forsake such a sinner, for verily he desires his offerings. The doctrine enunciated here is that devotional merit compensates for want of moral merit; the converse is also implied by a passage quoted by Sayana where it is mentioned that sanctity (or high moral values) does not compensate for want of devotion. Indra says that he gave to the wolves the Paulomas in the firmament, and the yatis, the kalakanjyas and arunamukhas upon this earth, since these yatis did not worship him or praise him (इन्द्रो यतीन् सालावृकेभ्यः प्रायच्छत् अन्तरिक्षे पौलोमान् पृथिव्यां कालकञ्ज्यान् अरुणमुख्यतीन् सालावृकेभ्यः प्रायच्छत्) ।

9. Satrim, शत्रिम्, dispeller of distress (दुःखविच्छेदकम्—Daya.).

Agnivesim, अग्निवेशिम्, the dynamic one, energetic one, who enters into the fire (योऽग्निं प्रवेशयति तम्—Daya.).

Hymn-35

2. Catasrah, the four behaviours, physical, vital, mental and spiritual realms; on sociopolitical plane, the four policies of the state, sama (साम)—reconciliation, dama (दाम)—allurement of riches and posts, danda (दण्ड), force, terror and brain-washing; and bhada (भेद), i.e. division or divide and rule (Daya.); or four classes of people, the Brahmana, Ksatriya, Vaisya and Sudra.

Tisrah, the behaviours pertaining to three realms physical, vital and mental; three classes in state—assemblies (councils), people and army (सभा, प्रजा, सेना—Daya.); or three classes of people, the dvijas,—the Brahmana, Ksatriya and Vaisya; or three worlds.

Panca, the domain of five organs of senses; the five elements—earth, water, fire, air and ether, or the five classes of men—the Panca janyas or Panca-Ksitinam (the four varnas and the out-caste or unclassified; or Deva, Pitṛ, Manusya, Gandharva and Raksas).

5. Adrivah, like a cloud; like the sun (मेघयुक्तं सूर्यवद् राजमान—Daya.; bolt-like Indra वज्रवद्विन्द्र—Sayana).

Satakrato sarvaratha, सर्वरथा, by the chariot which goes everywhere, (सर्वत्रग्याप्तेन रथेन—Sayana); the one to whom all the chariots belong, such a Satakratu, Indra or one with supreme wisdom (सर्वैरया सर्वैरया यानानि यस्य सः, शतक्रतो अमितप्रज्ञ—Daya.).

7. Ava ratham;—here अवा = अन्, to protect (निपातस्य चेति दीर्घः); protect the chariot (Daya.); here ratham may mean a son also (रथं रंहणस्वभावं वा पुत्रम्—Sayana).

Hymn-36

2. Hanu, हन्, lips, mouth, or jaws; or mouth and nose (मुखनासिके—Daya.).

Sipre, this also means a pair of jaws; since hanu and stpra mean the same, the latter may be taken as qualifying the former and hence Sipre is beautiful (शिप्रे सुशोभिते—Daya.); or hanu means the one assisting in destroying or means of destruction (हनन साधनम्—Sayana).

3. Amateh it; devoid of intelligence (अमतेः निर्बुद्धेः इत् एव—Daya.); also through dread of poverty (दारिद्र्यादस्तोतुर्वाः; अमति=अस्तोतृ, the one who does not praise or worship, also अमति दारिद्र्यम्=poverty).

Hymn-37

For verse 1, see Nir. V.7.

1. Svancāh, स्वञ्चाः, having a good gait, i.e. one whose manner of walking is good. Sacrificed to from all sides, the butter-backed (घृतपृष्ठः) having a good gait (स्वञ्चाः)—Nir. V.7; fire (स्वञ्चाः स्वञ्चनोऽग्निः—Sayana).

Ghṛtapṛsthah, butter-backed, or water-backed; glistening with oblations, (घृतपृष्ठः प्रदीप्तज्वालो घृतयुक्तपृष्ठप्रदेशो वा—Sayana).

Hymn-39

For verses 1 and 2, see Nir. IV.4 and IV.18 respectively.

1. Mehanasti (मेहना + अस्ति; also मे + इह + नास्ति); mehana is rain (वृष्टिः—Daya.); mehana is also praiseworthy (मंहनीयम्—Sayana); tvadatam, to be given to you, radhah, wealth (धनम्).

“O Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt, give us whatever excellent treasure there is, with both hands bring that wealth to us, O treasure-knower.”—Whatever (excellent), glorious and abundant wealth (चायनीयं मंहनीयं धनमस्ति) there is, O Indra, or that which I do not possess here (यन्म इह नास्तीति वा), as consisting of three words (मे + इह + ना), that wealth should be given to us, O wielder of thunderbolt.

Adrih (thunderbolt) is so called because it splits mountains or it may be derived from  $\sqrt{\text{अद}}$ , to eat (Nir. IV.4).

2. Akuparasya davane (अकूपारस्य दावने) in the sence of unlimited food (अकूपारस्य अकुत्सितः पारो यस्य तस्य, दावने दाते—Daya.; दावने दाने—Sayana).

“May we obtain (lit. know) that unlimited gift of thine.”—The Sun is called akupara also, i.e. unlimited, because it is immeasurable; the ocean too is called akupara, i.e. unlimited, because it is boundless. A tortoise is also called akupara (अकूप + अर), because it does not move in a well.—Nir. IV.18.

3. Ditsu, the one anxious to give (दातुमिच्छु—Daya.; दानेच्छु—Sayana); bountiful.

5. Atrayah, free from threefold pains or from evils arising out of the three qualities (satva, rajas and tamas). To Sayana, the sons of Atri.

Hymn-40

For verse 4, see Nir. V.12.

2. Vṛṣa, (वृषा) the showerer, either of happiness or of Soma juices.

Grava, pressing stones, or clouds (Nigh. I.10).

4. Rjisin from rju, straight; straightforward or simple (सरलादि युक्त—Daya.); acceptor of spiritless libation (सवनद्वयेऽभिषुतस्य गतसारस्य सोमस्य, तृतीयं सवने प्राप्यायाभिषुतः योऽस्ति स ऋजीषः सोमः । सोऽस्यास्तीत्यृजीषी—Sayana; i.e. that which has been offered at the morning and midday ceremonies, and of which the residue is now presented at the evening sacrifice—Wilson).

The foaming Soma (ऋजीषी सोमः) : that which remains as residue after Soma is strained is called rjisam, ऋजीषम्, i.e. something, which is thrown away, hence Soma is called r̥jisi, ऋजीषी, i.e. containing the residue. This is also used as an epithet of Indra (अथाप्यैन्द्रो निगमो भवति): r̥jisi, the wielder of thunderbolt (ऋजीषी वज्रो)—Nir. V.12 (see also Av. XX.12.7).

5. Aksetravīt, the one who does not know the place where he is actually standing; one not familiar with geometry (यः क्षेत्रं रेखागणितं न वेत्ति—Daya).

Svarbhanuḥ, one which gets light from the sun; of the form of lightning (यः स्वरादित्यं भाति स विश्वद्रुपः—Daya).

6. Svarbhanoh, of the nescience; of the light of the sun (आदित्य प्रकाशस्य—Daya). In latter literature, it is the name of Rahu also (the shadow), the personified ascending node and the causer of an eclipse.

The word Svarbhanuḥ occurs only in the four verses of the R̥gveda V.40.5; 6; 8; 9).

Turiyena, the fourth innate instinct (चिद्व्यक्ति) beyond physical, mental and intellectual; also by his fourth sacred prayer, i.e. by the four verses of this hymn (5 to 8).

Hymn-41

1. De (दे), = Deva (with an omission of a syllable va, permissible in the Vedic texts—अत्र छान्दसो वर्णलोपो वेति ङ लोपः, सुषां सुसुमिति विभक्तौर्लुक्—(Panini VII.1.39).

2. According to Sayana, the divinities worthy of praise are of two groups: Stotrabhajah (स्तोत्रभाजः) who share praises, and havirbhajah (हविर्भाजः), who share oblations. In this verse, we have the divinities of the first category.

3. Divah Asuraya, of the aspirants for clouds (कामयमानस्य मेघाय—Daya); for the celestial destroyer of life, i.e. Rudra (दिवः द्योतमानाय, असुराय प्राणापहर्त्रे रुद्राय—Sayana); or for the celestial asura, or for the life giver, the sun or air (द्युलोकसम्बन्धिनेऽसुराय प्राणदात्रे सूर्याय वायवे वा—Sayana).

4. Trita, triple bounty (fire on the earth, wind in midspace, and the sun in heaven); or the one present on the earth, in the water, and the midspace (त्रिषु क्षित्युदकान्तरिक्षेषु वर्धमानः—Daya.); also an epithet of vayu pervading in three regions.

9. Parvatah, clouds.

Tuje nah tane, in liberal donations (तुजे दाने अस्मभ्यं तने विस्तीर्णं—Daya.; तने विस्तृते तुजे दाने—Sayana; also tuje may also mean son, and tane grandson—तनेति पुत्रनाम (षष्ठमर्थे चतुर्थी) पुत्रस्य दान इत्यर्थः i.e. donation of a son; नः तुजे पुत्रे तने तत्पुत्रे—Sayana).

Vasavo na virah, the world-like heroes (वसवः जगतो वासवितारः वीराः न वीरा इव—Sayana; वीराः प्रज्ञाशरीरबलपुक्ताः, one accomplished physically and intellectually—Daya.).

10. Bhumyasya, either of earth; or of midspace, and then vr̥ṣṇah bhumyasya garbham, the embryo of the firmamental rain (otherwise earth fertilizing rain).

12. Puru na subhrah, bright as cities (नगराणि इव श्वेताः—Daya.).

14. Girah, praises (स्तुतयः—Sayana); cultured speech (सुविशिता वाचः—Daya.).

Dyavah, धावः, noble aspirations (सरथाः कामाः—Daya.); द्योतमानाः स्वप्रतिपाद्यार्थं प्रकाशिन्यः ।

Candra-agrah, चन्द्रऽग्रहाः, the joy-bestowing, or gold-bestowing (चन्द्र सुवर्णमानन्दो वाञ्छे यासां ताः—Daya.; आह्लादनं हिरण्यं वाञ्छे यासां ताः—Sayana, i.e. candra also means gold, besides joy).

15. Varutri, वरूती, protectress (अस्मदुपद्रव वारयित्री भवति, i.e. what or who keeps off oppression upon us—Sayana; वरसुखप्रदा—Daya.).

16. Ahīrbudhnyah, clouds born in firmament (अहिः मेघः, बुध्न्यः अन्तरिक्षेभव—Nigh. I.3.).

17. Nirṛti, see earlier notes, the earth (Nigh. I.1); mother earth.

19. Ila, mother-earth; adorable speech; urvasi, charming as lightning; or divine speech (उरवो बहवो वसो भवन्ति यया सा बाणी । उर्वशीति पदनाम—Nigh. IV.2).

Nadibhih, नदीभिः, by channels, nerves and veins, or rivers.

20. A verse of 10 syllables, known as yajust-pankti (याजुषी पंक्तिः); also known as viraja of one hemistich.

Hymn-42

3. Kavitamam kavinam, most wise amongst the wise.

Kavi is Kranta-darshin (क्रान्तदर्शिनः); a seer (or shewer) of the secret realms (Wilson translates the word as prophet, as if he can forecast the future too).

4. See Yv. II.15 with slight variations.

5. Rbhuksah, the same as Rbhus, here, though the term usually stands for Indra; enlightened sages (ऋषयः महान्—Daya.).

Purandhih, the same as vibhu, which completes the triad in this verse (Rbhu, vibhu and vaja) along with vaja (पुरन्धिः पूर्वी बह्वी धीर्यस्य सः, the one with immense wisdom—Daya.).

6. Marutvatah, lord of vital principles (the one in the company of the distinguished wise persons, प्रसंसित विद्वद्भुक्तस्य—Daya.).

9. Suryat yavayasva, put apart from the sun (सूर्यात् सवितुः यावयस्व अमिश्रितान् कुर्व—Daya.); i.e. condemn them to darkness.

Brahma-dvisah, the adversaries of prayers, mantras, of the Veda, of the supreme God, or of the Brahmanas (the intellectual class).

15. Marutasya, (मारुतस्य), of cloud-bearing rain.

Rudrasya, Cosmic vitality (प्राणादि रूपस्य वायोः, the vital breathings—Daya.).

17. A fragmentary verse, याजूषी पंक्तिच्छन्दः; the same repeated in Hymn 43.16; a verse of 10 syllables.

Hymn-43

1. Sapte, sapta means seven from its sarpana (सप्त सर्पणस्वभावाः सप्तसृप्ता संख्या—Nir. IV.26).

Sapta viprah—Divine speech in seven metres (Gayatri usnik etc.); wise in seven disciplines (the Veda and its six upangas (सप्तविधः मेधावी—Daya.; seven rivers इमं मे गंगे, X.75.5—Sayana).

2. Dhenavah, the milch kine, or rivers (Sayana); speeches like kine (गाव इव वाचः—Daya.).

4. Duduhe sukram amsuh, Soma yields its pure juice (Wilson); the Soma has milked the pure juice (शुक्रं निर्मलं रसं दुदुहे दुग्धे—Sayana; दुदुहे-दोग्धि, milched, शुक्रं—उदकम् water, प्रभुः—किरणः (ray)—Daya.).

6. Gnam, ग्नाम्, a synonym of stri, woman; to Sayana, the proper name of a Devata; queen of knowledge (गच्छन्ति ज्ञानं यया the one through which knowledge is attained—Daya.); menah (मेनाः) and gnah (ग्नाः) are synonym of women; striyah (स्त्रियः), women, is derived from root styai, स्तृयै, meaning to be bashful; menah (मेनाः) are so called because men honour them (मानयन्ति, manayantī).

Gnah (ग्नाः) are so called because men go to them. (Nir.III.21); Sayana's derivation is “ग्नां देवीं सर्वैर्गन्तव्यामेतन्नामिकां देवताम्” ।

7. Gharma, see also V.30.15; ewer; sacrifice or austerity (यज्ञस्तापो वा—Daya.); gharmah, cauldron known as Mahavira (धर्मः महावीरः) in sacrifices. Sayana interprets the verse in the light of animal sacrifice: “The vessel which the priests celebrating, supply with butter, as if roasting a marrow-yielding animal with fire.”—(Wilson).

Vapavantam, encouraging the seed of knowledge to grow (विद्या बीजं विस्तरन्तम्—Daya.).

Agnina, by fire; by austerity and celibacy (पावकेनेव ब्रह्मचर्येण—Daya.).

Tapantah, roasting or heating; enduring or penancing for forebearance (सन्तापदुःखं सहमानाः—Daya).

8. Dhuram, the axle (नाभिः; धुरं यानाधारकाष्ठम्—Daya); anih, pin, bolt (भ्राणिः कीलकम्—Daya); nabhim, axle of the wheel. As the cart cannot move if the axle of the wheel is not fixed by the pin or bolt, so the offering of the Soma is without efficacy unless the Asvins be present (Wilson).

9. Pusna, the nourishing bounty; (पुष्टिकरस्य—Daya).

Vayoh, of the wind divine.

12. Nila-pr̥stham, the one whose back is darkblue. (नीलसंवृतं पृष्ठं यस्य तम्—Daya); Agni is Br̥haspati and Br̥haspati is Agni;—so infers Sayana from such epithets.

13. Tridhatu Sringah, the horns of three colours or three elements, white, red and smoky or black (शुक्लरक्तकृष्णगुणाः त्र्युगवत्यस्य सः—Daya).

Gna, speech (Nigh. I.11).

14. Raspirasah, one equipped with all accessories of the fire-ritual, (रास्विरासः ये रा धनानि स्पृणन्ति ते, they who liberally give and distribute gifts and alms—Daya).

15. Mithunasah, with wife (पत्नीभिः सहिता); secante (सेचन्ते सेचते—Sayana); vayah, food (sacrificial); one should jointly (i.e. husband and wife) offer sacrificial food, i.e. wife should participate with husband in sacred rituals (जायापती अग्निमादधीयाताम्—and similarly in the Purva Mimamsa (V. I.26) (अधिकाराध्याये षष्ठे स्त्रिया अप्यधिकारः स च पत्या सह, इति हि प्रतिपादितम्—Sayana). From देवोदेवः to दुर्मतौघात् the same as the latter half of verse 16 of Hymn 42.

16. The same as the verse 17 of the Hymn 42.

Hymn-44

For verses 1 and 8, see Nir. III.16 and VI.15 respectively.

The hymn refers to the glory of the sun, known as Indra, Surya, Agni, Aditya and various names. He is accompanied by his bride, the dawn (जनिवान् वै); the verses 10-13 refer to the allusive terms as क्षत्र, मनस, भवद, यजत, सध्रि, भवत्सार, विश्ववार, मायिन्, सदापूण, बाहुवृक्त, श्रुतवित्, सुयं and सुतम्भर which need elucidations. According to Sayana, most of them are the names of the Ṛsis. They are the humanly attributes of a man.

Ksatra, voluntary assistance (royal family or a State, राजकुलस्य राष्ट्रस्य वा—Daya).

Manasa, goodwill (यन्मन्यते तस्य—Daya).

Evavada, pleasing nature. Dayananda explains eva-vadasya (एववदस्य) as by which the attained qualities are told (एवान् प्राप्तान् गुणान् वदन्ति येन तस्य)।

(Evah, aspiring—कामयमानाः—Daya., गन्तव्यैः कामैर्गमनसाधनैरस्वैर्वा, by the means of transport, horses etc. V.41.5; एवाः गन्तारो युष्मान् भजमानाः—V.41.13—Sayana).

Yajata, reverence (यजतस्य यजन्ति संगच्छन्ते ये तस्य from √यज्, to unite. to go together—Daya).

Sadhri, the spirit of coexistence (सध्रेः सहस्थानस्य—Daya).

Avatsara, safety and protection (भवत्सारस्य योजितो रक्षकान् सरति प्राप्नोति तस्य—Daya).

Visvavara, acceptable in totality (विश्ववारस्य समग्रस्वीकरणीयस्य—Daya); see I.30.10; 48.13; 123.12; V.4.7; 28.1; 44.11; 80.3; and other references also for various other shades of meanings, विश्ववारं आविवरपदार्थयुक्तां—V.4.7; विश्ववारा या विश्वं वृणोति सा—V.28.1—Daya).

Bahuvṛkta, destroyer of the crooked by both hands (यो बाहुभ्यां वृष्टान् वृद्धते छिनक्ति—Daya).

Srutavit, fully learned (श्रुतवित्—यः श्रुतं वेत्ति, one who knows all that has been heard—Daya).

Taryyah, skilful (यस्तीर्यते तस्ति योम्यः—one, worth going across, or worth crossing—Daya).

Sutambhara, the sustainer of the created world (य उत्पन्नं जगद् बिभ्रति—Daya).

1. See Yv. VII.12.

Tam pratna-tha purva-tha visva-tha ima-tha, प्रतनञ्जा पूर्वञ्जा विश्वञ्जा इमञ्जा, Him (thou milkest, like the ancient, like the farmer, like all; like the present (sacrificers), i.e. just as the ancient, as the former, as all, as these (sacrificers) milk. This, it is nearer than that. That, it is farther than this (Nir. III.16 on the Chapter of Similies, their various ways of expressing).

5. Wilson gives the literal translation thus : It is seizing with the trees the seized in the effused, the produce of the branching, in the embryos of the mind, well-moving (or) well-praised, among the speechholders, straight-sung, thou shinest; augment the protectresses, the life in the sacrifice. Wilson regards this verse as an obscure one, and Sayana's interpretation is also not intelligible.

8. Yadṛsmin dhayi tam apasyaya vidat,

By his skill, he won everything or all that on which the stake was laid, Nir. VI.15; यादृशे व्यवहारे ध्रियते तमपस्यया धात्मनः कर्मच्छया लभते—Daya. He obtains that blessing by his devotion, on whatsoever his desire has been fixed—यादृश्मिन् यादृशे कामे धायि धत्ते सामर्थ्यान् मनो गम्यते तम् । यथा निर्दोशे प्रतिनिर्दोष्ट व्यत्वात् तादृशमित्यर्थो ज्ञातव्यः । तादृशं कार्यम् अपस्यया कर्मणा हविः स्तुत्यादिलक्षणेन विदत् बिन्दते—Sayana).

Hymn-45

3. Parvatasya, of the cloud (मेघस्य—Sayana, Daya).

Mahinam janse purvyaya, for the lives taken before the creation of earths (महीनां) and cloud (पर्वतस्य)—Daya; to an ancient author of sacred songs (महोनां महतीनां स्तुतीनां जनुये उत्पादयित्वे पूर्याय प्रत्नाय, to an ancient begetter or producer of praise, Sayana).

6. Visi-sipram, to the one attractive in appearance, to the one having attractive nose and chin (विशी शिप्रे शोभने हनुनासिके तम्—Daya.); to an enemy without a chin (विगत हनुं शत्रुम्—Sayana): Manu conquered the enemy without action, or as sipra (शिप्र) means also a nose, it might mean noseless; Manu is Indra and visisipra is Vṛtra (Sayana).

For Vanik vankuh apa purisam, see also I.112.11—याभिः सुदान् शोशिताय वणिजे दीर्घश्वसे मघुकोष्ठः; a merchant always desires to exploit maximum in exchange of a little investment; according to Sayana, this refers to Kaksivan, who was such an aspirant.

7. Dasa maso navagvah, for priests adept in a nine-month sacrifice continuing for ten months (नवम्याः नवमासपर्यन्तं गवार्थमनुतिष्ठन्तोऽङ्गिरसो नवम्याः; it might refer to an occasion when priests of both nine and ten months rites offer worship. (cf. नवम्यासः सूतसोमास इन्द्र दशम्यासो, V.29.12).

Sarama, flowing, eulogistic or sacred speech (सरणशीला स्तुतिरूपा वाङ्मयसां गवार्थमिन्द्रेण प्रहिता देवशुनी वा; may also refer to the bitch of Indra—Sayana; the responsive enjoyer, स-रमा, समानरमणा—Daya.).

10. Suryah arhat sukram arnah, the sun has mounted the bright waters, i.e. he has become visible everywhere (सर्वतः प्रादुर्भवति—Sayana); or it alludes to the sun's rising apparently out of the waters.

11. Dasa maso navagvah, see verse 7.

Hymn-46

For verse 8. see Nir. XII.46.

The verses 2 and 3 also occur in Yv. XXXIII. 48; 49.

3. Svar, one of the names of Aditya (स्वः वादित्यं—Daya.); स्वरादित्य उच्यते स्वरणात्—Sayana).

The fourteen names invoked here are Indragñi, Mitra-varuna, Aditi, Svah, Pṛthivi, Dyau, Marut, Parvata, Apah, Visnu, Pusan, Brahmanaspati, Bhaga, and Savitṛ.

4. R̥bhavah, the spiritual preceptors (मिधाविनः—Daya.).

Asvina, the pair of surgeons and physicians.

Tvasta, architects.

Vibhva, by capability (विभुना—Daya.); or one of the R̥bhus (ऋभूणामन्यतमो देवः—Sayana).

8. May the divine women (देवपत्न्यः), wives of gods, Indrani, Agnayi, Asvini, Rat enjoy themselves. May Rodasi and Varunani hear us. May the goddesses enjoy that which is the proper season of consorts.

Indrani is Indra's wife (इन्द्राणीन्द्रस्यपत्नी); Agnayi is the wife of Agni (अग्नायी, अग्नेः पत्नी); Asvini, wife of the Asvins (अश्विनी, अश्विनोः पत्नी); Rat (राट्), she who shines (राट् राजते); Rodasi, wife of Rudra (रोदसी, रुद्रस्य पत्नी); Varunani, wife of Varuna (वरुणानी, वरुणस्य पत्नी). May the goddesses enjoy, i.e. long for that, the proper season of consorts (ऋतुकालो जायानाम्)—Nir. XII.46.

Dayananda's interpretation of these terms is : Rat Indrani, wife of a resplended and reputed person (परमैश्वर्ययुक्तस्य पत्नी या राजते); Agnayi, wife of a person, vigorous as fire (पावकवद् वर्तमानस्य पत्नी); Asvini, wife of a person, moving with speed (आशुगामिनः स्त्री); Rodasi varunani, wife of a venerable person generous like earth and heaven (द्यावापृथिव्याविव वरस्य भार्या).

In the cosmic creation, each and every Nature's bounty is considered as a pair, and for the fruitfulness, the consort is expected to wait for the proper season of mating, the R̥tukala (ऋतुकाल), the universal function in the organic and inorganic worlds both.

Hymn-47

1. Divah, from heaven; from light (प्रकाशात्—Daya.).

Mahi or the adorable (पूजनीया—Daya.; महती—Sayana) is used for dawn (Wilson).

Mata, the adorable mother (मातृकारिणी जननी—Daya.; the creator of light or deities (प्रकाशस्य देवानां वा निर्मात्री—Sayana).

Duhitur bodhayanti, making the awaking of the daughter i.e. of the earth. Usa or dawn is the daughter of heaven, the bride of the earth (अच्छा दुहितृदिवः—I.48.1; दिवो दुहिता भुवनस्य पत्नी VII.75.4; प्रजापतिर्वै स्वां दुहितरमम्यध्यायद्विदबमित्यन्य आहुरसमित्यन्ये Ait. Br. III.33). The relations between the heaven, the dawn and the earth have been elucidated by Dayananda in respect to the relations between a daughter, her parents and teacher and the husband, to whom she is married.

3. Prsniḥ asma vi cakrame rajasah pati antao—(See also Yv. XVII.10). Asma (अस्मा), cloud (मेघः—Nigh. I.10); all-pervading (सर्वत्र व्याप्तः) or like a stone (Sayana).

Prsniḥ, sky or midspace (तमः—Nigh. I.4); the sun (प्रास्तुत एनं वर्ण इति पृथ्वादित्यः—Sayana); rajasah (रजसः) of midspace (Sayana); of the one born in the Loka (लोकजातस्य—Daya.).

4. Catvarah, the four (the four priests, चत्वारः ऋत्विजः—Sayana); the four elements—earth, water, fire and air (Daya.).

Tridhatavah, the possessor of three characteristics (त्रयः सत्वरजस्तमांसि घातबो धारका येवान्ते); or three weatherseasons—cold, hot and rainy (त्रिघातवः त्रिप्रकाराः शीतोष्णवर्षभेदेन त्रिविधाः—Sayana).

5. Iha-ihā jate yamyā sambandhu, here yamyā is the pair of night and day (यम्या रात्रिदिने—Daya.); The firmament is supported or maintained in its place by the various changes of times and seasons which it may be considered to generate (Sayana and Wilson).

Yat im vibhṛtam (यत् + ईम् + विभृतः), associated and equally allied (this refers to vapuh, the form or body, or firmament, मण्डलम्). Also im (ईम्) means water (ईम् उदकम्—Daya.; Nigh. I.12).

Hymn-48

For verse 1, see Nir. V.5.

1. अध्रौ अपः = अध्रे वा अपः = अध्रा वा प्रपोऽध्रेऽप्यय इति—Waters in the cloud, i.e. waters on the clouds [waters in the cloud, i.e. waters resting on the cloud, प्रपोऽध्रेऽपीति]—Nir. V.5.

— Mayini, cosmic intelligence (माया प्रज्ञा विद्यते यस्यां सा—Daya.); delusive (energy of Agni or lightning)—Wilson; also Sayana; the same as Maya or divine wisdom (मायेति प्रज्ञानाम् । प्रज्ञावती सती—यत् यस्य सम्बन्धिनी माध्यमिकी वागिति वा योग्यम्) ।

2. Apacih apara apejate, here apacih, अपाचीः, one with the downward flow (या अधोऽञ्चन्ति—Daya.); dawns which have turned back (अपाचीः अपाञ्चनाः प्रतिनिवृत्तमुखीः, अपराः अन्या आगामिनीः उषसः—Sayana).

Apejate, causes to go away (अपचालयति—Sayana); causes to shake (अपकम्पते—Daya.).

Devayur janah, the devout person (देवान् विदुषः कामयमानः जनः—Daya.).

4. Parasoh iva, परशोः इव, like a parasu; parasu, a deputy (परशोरिव प्रतिपरशोः प्रतिनिधिमिव पश्यामि । परशूर्यथा स्वस्वामिनोऽभिमतं साधयति तद्बदित्वर्थः—Sayana).

Tam asya ritim parasoh iva, the text has no verb; Sayana supplies the verb pasyami, and interprets parasu by pratnidhi, a deputy, a substitute : in like manner as a deputy fulfils the will of his master, so the functions of Agni make him the deputy, or representative of yajamana; or parasu may imply an axe, as usual, which accomplishes the object of the wood-cutter as Agni does that of a sacrificer. (Wilson)

Hymn-49

1. Bhagam Vibhajantam, similar to bhagah vibhakta (V.46.6); Bhaga is the distributor of wealth (धनं विभागकर्ता—Sayana; भगं ऐश्वर्यं च रत्नं रमणीयं धनं विभजन्तं विभागं कुर्वन्तम्—Daya.); see also IV.17.11 (राशो विभक्ता संभरश्च वत्सः) ।

3. Adatraya dayate varyani, i.e. the fire consumes excellent consumable timbers (अदत्रया वरणीयानि काष्ठानि दहते); or as epithet to Agni, the nourishing, the desirable, the uninjurable Agni (अदत्रया अतुं योग्यान्वन्नादीनि दयते ददाति वाय्यानि वरितुमर्हन्निषूया पुष्टिकर्ता भजः भजनीयः—gives nourishing and desirable food—Daya.).

5. Pra ye vasubhyah ivat-a namah, presented to the rich people (the Vasus) the moving and sustaining food; by moving food (वसनवदनम्—Sayana), the dairy products, as milk, butter and honey and others are intended, obtained from cattle or other creatures;—Sayana unnecessarily interprets it as animal flesh (नमः अन्नं पशवात्मकम्) used as food.

Hymn-50

1. See Yv. IV.8.

2. Te hi raya te hi a—prce sacemahi sacathyaih—Here raya (राया), by wealth; a-prce (आप्पूचे), for the relation on all sides, sacathyaih, in the company of all close relations (सचचेषु समवायेषु भवैः—Daya.). We seek to unite with our desires (Wilson); ते उभवे राया धनेन सचेमहि, संगच्छेमहि, आप्पूचे आपर्चनीयाः, सचर्ध्यः सर्वैः कामैः—Sayana; also ये च राया सर्वान् रक्षन्ति, ते प्रीतिमन्तो जायन्ते ये हि आपूचे समन्तात् सम्पर्काय सचेमहि संयुञ्जमहि सचर्ध्यः सचचेषु समवायेषु भवैः i.e. those who serve others with wealth, they are blessed with happiness. We should unite with them, who care to maintain good relations with all (Daya.).

3. Nrn Atithin, the righteous guests who lead on good paths (अधर्माद्विद्योऽय धर्मपथं गमयितुं अनियततिथीन्—Daya.). An invocation for male descendents, guests and wives (नृन् अतिथीन्, पत्नी)—Wilson.

4. Yatra vahnih abhi-hitah, where the fire is placed or established. Sayana misinterprets the words as sacrificial post and victim, on the basis of the word dronyah pasuh (द्रोण्यः पशुः—द्रोणेषु शीघ्रगामेषु भवः, पशुः यो दृश्यते—यत्र द्रोण्यः पशुरिवाऽभिहितो वह्निर्दृश्यते—Daya.). Here pasuh stands for cow, from which flows milk collected in a pot of wood (द्रोण्यः).

Hymn-51

1. Umebbih, with all protecting Nature's forces (रक्षणादिकत्<sup>१</sup>भिस्तद् —Daya.; रक्षकैः—Sayana). For ऊमाः see III.6.8; IV.19.1; V.52.12; VII.39.4; X.6.7; 31.3; 77.8; 120.1; 3; ऊमासः I.66.3; ऊमेभिः V.51.1; ऊमेभ्यः X.32.5 and ऊमै I.169.7. Being protectors, they are identified as Pitṛs also.

5. Piba sutasya andhasah abhi prayah, enjoy the extracts of food and herbal drinks (सुतस्य निष्पन्नस्य अन्धसः अन्नस्य रसान् अभि प्रयः कमनीयं जलम् —Daya.; प्रयः अन्नं सोमाख्यं; सुतस्यान्धसः अभिषुतमन्धोज्जनं सोमलक्षणं पिब—Sayana).

6. Arepasau, benevolent (दयानु—Daya.).

8. Atri-vat, like atri; atri, one free from threefold pains or vices, physical, mental and spiritual; also like the one pervading (व्यापकवत्—Daya.).

11. Aditih, the mother Infinity; the indivisible one (अवच्छिन्ना —Daya.).

Anarvanah, unyoked (अप्रत्युतः—Sayana; अनश्वस्य—Daya.); one whom none resists.

Pusa, the giver of strength, the nourishing (पुष्टिकरः दुग्धादि —Daya.).

Asurah, cloud (मेघः).

12. Adityasah, suns and other luminary bodies; a brahmacarin of the first grade; months of a year (Daya.).

13. अद्या = अद्य (निपातस्य चेति दीर्घः) ।

Rbhavah, men of wisdom; the architects.

Rudrah, Lord of terror.

Hymn-52

For verses 6 and 9, see Nir. VI.16 and V.5 respectively.

The hymn is devoted to The Maruts. On the physical plane, The maruts are the cloud-bearing winds, with occasional lightning resembling highly polished javelins of soldiers. On the social plane, The Maruts are the dedicated leaders of a well-developed society, deserving our admiration and appreciation. Dayananda interprets the hymn in this light. On the metaphysical plane, The Maruts are those human impulses, which help us in dispelling darkness, and ultimately bring forth the divine bliss. All invocations, offerings, libations and drinks are to feed these impulses.

6. Marutah jajjhatih iva, The Maruts like the waters, winds accompanying roaring clouds. Jajjhatih means waters so called because they produce a sound (Nir. VI.16).

9. Parusnyam urna etc. the cumulus (or woollen) clouds along the sustaining river (परुष्ण्यां पालनकव्याम्—Daya.).

For Parusni, see IV.22.2; V.52.9; VII.18.8; 9; VIII.74.15; 93.13; X.75.5.

Uta pavya rathanam adrim bhindanti ojasa

Lo, with the rim of their chariots, they rend the mountains with their might. Here pavi means the rim of a wheel because it brushes away the earth. (पवी रथनेमिर्भवति; यद् विपुनाति भूमिम्—Nir. V.5.)

10. On the basis of this verse, The maruts have been postulated to be classified under four heads :

(i) apathayah (आपथयः), those following the path forwards or onwards (those impulses which lead a person onwards to a better spiritual life; or the clouds moving upwards):—समन्तादर्धभूम्बः पन्था वेधान्ते;

(ii) vipathayah (विपथयः); those following an opposite or contrary path (impulses which lead to a lower trend of life; clouds moving in a downward direction):—विविधा विरुद्धा वा पन्थानो वेधान्ते;

(iii) antah patha (अन्तःपथाः); those following the paths leading into the hollowness (impulses leading to the disclosure of inner mysteries of consciousness; the clouds sinking into the hollowness of mountains);—अन्तराभ्यन्तरे पन्था येषान्ते; and

(iv) anupathah (अनुपथाः), those following the path of smoothness; only treading on the paths shown by others; clouds which spread smoothly—अनुकूलः पन्था येषान्ते—(Daya.).

17. Sakinah, potent persons (शक्तिमन्तः—Daya.).

Sapta me sapta, seven and seven or seven into seven i.e. 49 (seven vital elements, five breaths, mind and the soul; seven classes of men; the five of the Pancajanyah, the Sanyasins of the universal brotherhood, and the criminals the seventh; The Maruts are of seven groups (सप्तगणा वै मरुतः—Tai.S. II.2.11.1—अदितिर्बर्ध्ने वर्तमानं वायुमिन्द्रः प्रविश्य सप्तधाविदार्यं पुनरेकैकं सप्तधा व्यदारयत् ते एकोनपञ्चाशत्मरुद्गणा अभवन्निनि पुराणेषु प्रसिद्धम्—Sayana). This is how, in mythology, from one became seven and the each one again split up into seven and thus 49 classes of The Maruts—Sayana).

Yamunayam, in the actions associated with the pair of Yama and Niyama (see the Yogasutras)—यमनियमान्वितायां क्रियायाम्—Daya.; for the word yamuna, see V.52.17; VII.18.19 and X.75.5. The Nadyah hymn of the Rgveda (X.75) quotes a series of terms, which have been explained by the Nirukta (IX.26) Ganga, Yamuna, Sarasvati, Sutudri Parusni, Marudvṛdha, Asikni, Arjikiya, Vitasta and Susoma. The Ganga is so called from going (√ गम्). The Yamuna, she flows, joining herself, or she flows gently. Every confluent river is thus the Yamuna; every confluent channel or nerve in our human system is the Yamuna. On the Adhyatma plane, every confluent impulse is the Yamuna. In an army, the array of marching troops is a river (nadi).

Hymn-53

In this hymn also, The Maruts have been invoked. The Marut is a mortal man (मरुत् = मर्त्य) in human society; some of the Maruts are leaders, the devoted workers in the society.

According to Dayananda, such persons have been invoked in this hymn. The bands of Maruts, with weapons, bows, helmets, and breastplates, represent the troops of soldiers. On the adhidaivata plane, the Maruts are the rain-bearing clouds, with occasional lightning and thunder, marching with speed, as if in chariots yoked with spotted deers, horses or mares; they are the nimbus, cumulus, cirrus and stratus, and rising high in the heaven, silent and thundering, occasionally pour down on our dry lands, and thus contribute to the land fertility and harvest. The entire poetry with sublimity and fervour is depicted in the present and the following hymns. Such cloud-bearing winds are also present in our conscious, sub-conscious and supraconscious realms, with impulses dark, deceptive and even disheartening; in the midst of such frustrations, we have occasional flashes of divine enlightenment, and finally a shower of bliss, knowledge and supreme beatitude.

3. Arepasah, free from sins and blemishes (दोषलेपरहिताः—Daya.); also formless; intangible. (See I.64.2; 124.26; 181.4; V.51.6; 53.3; 57.4; 61.14; 63.6; 73.4; 6; IX.70.8; 101.10; X.78.1; 91.4). (अरेपसः = अलेपसः = अलिप्ताः; अलेपास्ते—non-entangled—Sayana).

4. Khadisu, खादिषु; in anklets or bracelets; rings (kataka) for hands and feet; khadi is a hasta-tranaka (हस्त-त्राणक), that is, a guard for the hand, or arm. For words, connected with khadi, see खादयः—I.166.9; V.54.11; VII.56.13; खादिः I.168.3; खादिनः II.34.2; खादिनम् VI.16.40; खादिषु V.53.4; X.38.1; and खादिहस्तम् V.58.2.

According to Sayana, खादिनः शत्रूणां खादका मरुतः स्वकीयैराभरणैर्जायन्ते, यद्वा खादः कटकम् । II.34.2; खादिषु हस्तपादस्थित कटकेषु; हस्तेषु खादिश्च कृतिश्च I.168.3; यत्सु खादयः (V.54.11).

Dayananda translates खादिषु as in foods etc. (भक्षणखादिषु); खादयः as the consumers (भोक्तारः, V. 54.11.)

9. Rasa, anitabha and kubha (रसा, अनितभा, कुभा); the nuclei of dust (रसा—पृथिवी—Daya.); indefinite or variable light or heat, causing fluctuations of pressure or absence of light; अनितभा—अप्राप्तदीप्तिः—Daya.); and the rotatory motion of the earth (कु=earth), or the undesirable or unfavourable light (कुस्मित प्रकाशाः—Daya.)—these are the causes for the flow and precipitation of cloud-bearing winds. Sayana regards these three terms as denoting three Indian rivers of these names, not identified.

Anitabha, that which is not itabha, इतभा, इता प्राप्ता वा यस्या सा इतभा—Sayana). According to some authorities, the Rasa is a river, whilst anitabha and kubha are the adjectival nouns to qualify the Rasa.

Kramuh sindhuh, the wide-roaring ocean or river (कमिता नदी समुद्रो वा—Daya), or the everywhere-going ocean (सर्वत्र-क्रमणः समुद्रः—Sayana).

Purisini, = Pura-isini (पुर इषिणी), the one desirous of the possession of cities—Daya; the one full of water (पुरीषमुदकम्, तद्वती—Sayana; Nigh. I.12).

Sarayuh, a river in general (यः सरति—Daya); later on, a river of this name in the Uttar Pradesh.

13. Dhanyam bijam aksitam, imperishable grainseed, the grain or seed of rice etc. (तच्छुलादिकं वपनार्हम्, the grain which can be used for sowing;—Daya); or in a copulative sense, grain and seed; of course, the grain is seed.

Hymn-54

For the verse 6, see Nir. VI.4.

2. Tritah, the combination of three : here wind, cloud and lightning (त्रिभ्यः—Daya); triple-stationed company (त्रितः त्रिषु स्थानेषु तायमानो मेघो मरुद्गणो वा—Sayana).

9. Pravadvati prthivi, the wide-extended earth, प्र — वत् + वत्, having extent or extension + again possessing i.e. extensive (प्रवन्तः प्रकर्षवन्तो विस्तीर्णाः प्रदेशा यस्यां सा प्रवत्वती । तादृशी भवति । कृत्स्नापि भूमिः मरुत्वरं भवतीत्यर्थः; another meaning is given to it, tat-para, being subject to it, as the earth is subject to the Maruts, or they pervade the whole earth, तां सर्वमपि व्याप्नुवन्ति—Sayana); the inclined, or slopy land (प्रवत्वती निम्न देशमुक्ता or प्रवणवती or निम्नगामिनी; similarly, प्रवत्वन्तः प्रवतशीलाः—Daya).

10. Svarnarabha, leaders of all (सर्वस्य नेतारः—Sayana) or स्वःशरः, those who bring happiness (ये स्वः सुखं नयन्ति ते—Daya).

Divonarah, leaders of heaven; or those who lead to the desired goal of righteousness (कामयमानाः सत्ये धर्मे नेतारः—Daya).

11. Siprah, शिप्राः, the head-dresses, turbans or tiaras (उष्णिहः—Daya).

12. Rusat pippalam, water of bright colour (pippalam=water Nigh. I.12; शुभ्रवर्णमुदकम्—Sayana); good-looking enjoyable fruit, सुस्वरूपं फलभोगम्—Daya); or firmament.

13. Tisya, the sun or the eighth lunar mansion, the Pusya (आदित्यः पुष्य नक्षत्रं वा—Daya).

14. Sama-vipram, the authorities on the Saman chants (सामसु मेधाविनम्—Daya); साम्नां विविधं प्रेरयितारं यद् वा सामसहिता विप्रा यस्य तादृशम्—Sayana).

Hymn-55

2. Tavisim, well-equipped strong army (बलेनयुक्तां सेनाम्—Daya).

4. Abhusenyam, adorned, rather adored, or to be glorified.

5. Samudratah, from midspace or firmament (अन्तरिक्षात्—Daya);

Purisinah, charged with waters (पुरीषं जलम्—Nigh. I.12); charged with numerous types of sustenance (पुरीषं बहुविधपोषणं विद्यते येषु ते—Daya).

6. Asvan dhursu, horses to the poles of chariots; asvan, fire etc. (अग्न्यादीनि; dhuh-su, in the cells of aeroplanes and other vehicles, धूर्ध्वविमानादियानावयव कोष्ठेषु—Daya).

10. अण्डा = अण्ड ।

Hymn-56

For the verse 8, see Nir. XI.50.

3. Millhusmati-iva, like the one possessing powerful or virile husband (मीलु हृष्यतीव मीलुः सेक्तावीर्यप्रदः प्रशस्तः पतिविद्यते यस्यास्तत्—Daya); here in the context of our earth (पृथिवी), one possessing a powerful master or ruler, particularly when oppressed by others (पराहतः). Earth (पृथिवी) may, in fact, represent the inhabitants, or praja, the subjects of the State. (Sayana).

4. Gavah, cattle, cows, but here horses also (Sayana).

5. Gavam sargam iva, like a herd of cattle; but sargam also means water (सर्गः उदकनाम—Nigh. I.12; सर्गमिव उदकमिव—Daya.; like a heap of waters (Wilson); gavam also means of waters (सर्गं संघम्, गवां उदकानां प्रसिद्धानां गवां वा सर्गं संघम्—Sayana).

8. Rodasi, heaven and earth; the sun and earth (भूमिसूयो—Daya.); the wife of Rudra, and the mother of The Maruts in mythology (रोदसी रुद्रस्य पत्नी मरुतां माता, यद्वा रुद्रो वायुः, तत्पत्नी माध्यमिका देवी—Sayana).

We invoke the swift famous chariot of The Maruts i.e. the cloud, wherein has stood, Rodasi, bearing delightful waters in the company of i.e. together with The Maruts (Nir. XI.50).

9. Milhusi, मीलुषी, the virile woman (सेचनकर्त्री—Daya.); in mythology another name for Rodasi, the wife of Midhvat (मीलुहवत), which is an appellation of Rudra. Phrases like Milhustama sivatama (मीलुहवतम शिवतम) show that Midhvān (मीद्वान्) is Rudra; also the same in the Apastambe Sutras (उत्तरया दक्षिणस्यामीशानमावाहति लोकित्वा वाचोत्तरस्यां मीलुहवी मध्ये जयन्तम्—Ap. Gr. XX.1.3).

Hymn-57

For verse 1, see Nir. XI.15.

1. Iyam vah asmat prati etc., this our praise is addressed to you as to the thirsty; from heaven, rushing waters to the water-wishing. Sayana alludes these lines to the legend of the well brought by The Maruts to the thirsty Gotama (उदम्यवे उदकेच्छवे तृष्णजे गौतमाय—Sayana; see also I.85.11).

Come, O Rudras, with Indra, accordant for the action of bringing prosperity. This thought from us yearns strongly for you, as the thirsty for the divine springs of water.

Trṣṇaj is derived from √तृष्, to be thirsty.

Udanyuh (one who seeks water) is derived from the verb उदन्य्, to moisten (Nir. XI.15).

8. Bṛhad uksamanah, with profuse services (महत् सेवमानाः—Daya.); with copious oblations; or may also mean sprinkling much water (उदकं वा सिञ्चते यूयं मृत—Sayana).

The same verse is repeated as the last verse of the succeeding hymn (V.58.8).

Hymn-58

4. Vibhvatastam, modelled by vibhvan, a particular class of architects, who have specialized in transport vehicles (Rbhu, vibhvan and Vajins); fabricated by vibhvan, very perfect and handsome (तेन निर्मितं अत्यन्त रूपवन्तम्—Sayana); one particularly intelligent among wise persons (विभूनां मेधाविनां मध्ये तष्ट—तीव्रप्रज्ञम्—Daya.).

जनयथा = जनयथ (permissible in the Vedic Texts).

6. Ava usriyah vṛsabhah krandatu dyauh, may emit a downward sound; again here dyauh means pleasing (कामयमानः—Daya.); or dyauh vṛsabhah may mean the shining showerer, i.e. Parjanya or Indra; usra means the ray of the sun.

Hymn-59

1. Spat, स्पद्, one who touches, the priest (स्पर्ष्टा—Daya.; स्पर्ष्टा होत, i.e. the priest or hota who touches the fire or oblation—Sayana).

For Spat, see also VIII.61.15; and X.35.8.

2. Emabhih, by attainable qualities (प्रापकैः गुणैः—Daya.).

3. वेतथा = वेतथ ।

4. Kavya, the contributions of wise people (कवीनां मेधाविनां कर्माणि—Daya.).

6. Udbhidah, those who sprout forth out of ground (ये पृथिवी भित्त्वा प्ररोहन्ति—Daya.).

Prsnimatarah, those whose mother is the mid-space or heaven; clouds (पृश्निरन्तरिक्षं माता येवान्ते—Daya. ; पृश्निः नभः, heaven Nigh. I.4).

7. Ubhaye yatha viduh, as both know; here both stands for gods and mortals; both according to Sayana, mortals or men, of course, know by perception the setting in of the rains; the gods know it by the agrayana (आग्रयण) and other sacrifices which are offered at that season—देवाश्च वृष्टौ सत्यामाग्रयणादौ हविष्प्रदानेन जानन्ति—Sayana. Dayananda relates ubhaye with asvasah, i.e., two types of moving bodies or transports.

Hymn-60

For verse 8, see Nir. VIII.2.

1. Pradaksinit, one who carries the pradaksina (यः प्रदक्षिणो नवति—Daya.); the divinely blessed; circumbulating (प्रादक्षिण्येन गच्छन्—Sayana).

4. Raivatasah, rich in animals (रेवतीषु पशुषु श्रवाः—Daya.); persons rich in wealth (धनवन्तः—Sayana).

8. Vaishvanara, the leader of common folk; the universal leader (विश्वेषु सर्वेषु नायक—Daya.).

Somam piba mandasano ganasribhih, accompanied by associating troops, and rejoicing, drink Soma. This in the Nirukta (VIII.2) is referred to in connection with similar functions or assignments to Indra, Agni, Vayu and others. It is not only Indra that accepts Soma, Agni and others are also equally entitled. Agni, Indra, Vayu etc. are the names of one and the same Supreme Lord.

Hymn-61

Sayana narrates a queer mythological story along with this hymn, which is neither appropriate nor necessary. It merely speaks of the ingenuity of the mythological period of the Vedic history. The story runs thus : A priest of the family of Atri, named Arcanṅas (अर्चनानः), having been employed as hotr by the Raja Rathaviti (रथवीति), the son of Darbhya (i.e. a दाम्प्य), saw at the ceremonial the daughter of the Raja, and being pleased by her appearance, asked her as a wife for his son Syavasva (स्यावासव); Rathaviti was disposed to assent, but he thought it proper to consult his queen, who objected to the match that Syavasva was not a Rsi, no maiden of their house having ever been given in marriage to a less saintly personage: to qualify himself, therefore, as a Rsi, Syavasva engaged in a course of rigorous austerity, and wandered about soliciting alms; among others, he begged alms of Sasiyasi (शसीयसी), the queen of Taranta (तरन्त) Raja, who conducting him to her husband, said, a Rsi has arrived: the Raja replied, treat him with reverence; and Sasiyasi, with her husband's permission, gave him a herd of cattle and costly ornaments: the Raja also bestowed upon him whatever he asked for, and then sent him onwards to his younger brother, Purumilha (पुरुमील्ह): on his way, Syavasva met the Maruts, whom he hymned, and was by them acknowledged to be a Rsi; he was also made the Seer (द्रष्टा) of the hymns of the Veda: Rathaviti then, with concurrence of his wife, gave him his daughter: this hymn (61) was, as if, composed, in honour of the benefactors of Rsi.

Thus according to Sayana, the word सा (5) or she refers to Sasiyasi, Viraya (वीराय) or hero to Taranta (5). The same verse has the word Syavasva (स्यावासव); the word Sasiyasi occurs in verse 6. Syavaya in verse 9 is the same as Syavasva according to Sayana; this verse has the word Purumilha (पुरुमील्ह) also; in verse 10, we have the word Vaidadasvi (the son of Vidadasva, विददस्व) which stands for Purumilha; and we have the term Taranta (तरन्त) also, and a reference to the gift of wealth and hundred cattle.

5. Sa, सा, a wise and learned lady (विदुषी स्त्री—Daya).

Syavasva, स्यावासव, brown speedy horses; Syavasvastutaya, by one equipped or accomplished with brown speedy horses or vehicles.

Doh, arms (पुत्रस्य बलम्—Daya).

Viraya, by brave youths (वीराय—Daya).

6. Sasiyasi, a lady, the accomplisher of praiseworthy deeds; (प्रतिशयेन दुःखं प्नायन्ती, the helper at the time of excessive troubles and miseries—Daya.).

9. Syavaya, श्यावाय, the possessor of brown speedy horses (श्याववर्णयुक्तायाश्वाय—Daya.).

Purumilhaya, (पुरुष्मील्हाय), for a person widely reputed for virility (बहुवीर्येक्षे—Daya.).

10. Vaidat-asvih (वैदत्सविः), the knower of cosmic mystery (योऽज्वान् विन्दति स विददस्वस्तस्यापत्यं वैददस्वि, an expert in the knowledge of horses is vldadasva, and his son would be vaidadasvi—Daya.).

Tarantah-iva, तरन्तःश्नव, like a swimmer (Daya.).

17. Urmye (ऊर्म्ये), On night (रात्रीय वसंतमाने—Daya.). Sayana refers to the mythology here; upon concluding the praises of the Maruts, and thus having attained the rank of a Rsi, Syavasva summons the night (ऊर्म्ये), to convey the intelligence to Rathaviti, who gives him his daughter along with many valuable presents, but at the end of the ceremony, the Rsi departed for the woods to resume his austerities. It is, however, not said if he took his wife with him.

19. Gomatih, a flooded river, rich in radiations (गवां किरणा विद्यन्ते यासु गतिषु तः—Daya.). According to Sayana, gomatih means, having water; rivers being in the plural (गोमतीरन् उदकवतीर्नदीरन् घनसूतस्य नदीनां तीरे—Sayana.).

Hymn-62

For verse 8, see Nir. III.5.

Mitra-Varuna are usually associated with the sun:—one represents the sun as the giver of energy (light and heat), whilst the other provides plasma, matter or dravya to the solar system. For the relation of Mitra-Varuna with the sun, see चित्रं देवानामुदगादनीकं चक्षुर्मित्रस्यवरुणस्याग्नेः, I.115.1; उद्गां चक्षुर्वरुण सुप्रतीकं देवयोः VII.61.1, and चक्षुर्मित्रस्य वरुणस्य, VII.63.1.

The Supreme Lord is also Mitra, since He is of supreme friendly nature, or since He is the giver of enlightenment. He is side by side Varunu also, since He is venerable, and the giver of bliss. When both the aspects (enlightenment and bliss) of Lord are expressed simultaneously, He is also known as Mitra-Varuna (मित्रावरुण), or a twin-Lord, and then He is invoked in dual number (द्विवचन). This type of twinning of varied functions is also found in several other combinations as Indra-agni (इन्द्राग्नी, I.121.1-4), Indra-pusana (इन्द्रापूषण, I.162.2); Indra-Bṛhaspati (इन्द्राबृहस्पती IV.49.1-6); Indra-Brahmanaspati (इन्द्रा ब्रह्मणस्पती II.24.12); Indra-Varuna (इन्द्रावरुणा I.17.7-9); Indra-Visnu (इन्द्राविष्णु, IV.2.4), and Indra-soma (इन्द्रासोम; इन्द्रासोमा II.30.6). In the Vedic verses, these terms, used in the sense of the twin-Lord, take the dual number, though representing one and the same Lord. For these pairings, see Nir. VII.10. For triple-Lord, Mitra-Varuna and Aryaman—see V.67.3.

1. Devanam srestham vapusam, most excellent of the forms of gods; the divine bodies; the embodied forms of Nature's bounties; the best of the embodied or light-possessing deities.

Rtena, by cosmic vapours; rtam, eternal orb.

2. Mitra, cosmic energy; Varuna; cosmic plasma.

Pavīh, the felly of the chariot wheel (पवी रथनेमिर्भवति—Sayana); righteous behaviour (पविः पवित्रोव्यवहारः—Daya.); also circumference of a wheel, put by metonymy for the chariot.

Vam ekah pavīh a vavarta, the one chariot of you two goes round. See also V.73.3. The two wheels of the Sun's chariot has to play two different roles. One causes the radiations to emit, it causes days and nights; the other wheel apparently moves the sun round an orbit to cause the seasons and year, the TIME CYCLE, Kala-cakra. It must be remembered that in the Vedic poetry, while we speak of the rise of the sun and the sunset, or the sun causing the seasons, we refer to the apparent movements of the sun in relation to our earth. It is, in fact, the earth and other planets, which revolve round the sun.

5. Garthe mitra asatha etc., here gartha means the seat on the chariot, the car itself. See also the verse 8 (गर्ते गृहे—Daya.; अघिरथे—Sayana).

8. Garttam, the chariot or car. Chariot is called gartta, being derived from  $\sqrt{g}$ , meaning to praise; it is the most praised vehicle; "ascend the chariot, O Mitra and Varuna", (Nir.III.5, गृणातेः स्तुतिकर्मणः; स्तुतितमं यानम्)।

Aditim, the indivisible earth (अखण्डनीया भूमि, इति खण्डितां प्रजादिकाम्—Sayana; ditim refers to people etc. who are divisible). To Dayananda, aditim is everlasting causal state (अविनाशि कारणम्), whilst ditim is ending effect (नाशवत्कार्यम्).

Compare the verse with Yv. X.16. To Mahidhara ditim is an infidel (दीनं, नास्तिकवृत्तिम्), whilst aditim is one who follows what is prescribed and performs religious rites (अदितिमदीनं बिहितानुष्ठितारं इति दीनं नास्तिक वृत्तिम्—Mahidhara).

Hymn-63

For verse 5, see Nir. IV.19.

2. Dyava-prthivi vi caranti tanyavah—Your bodies or forms traverse earth and heaven; this refers to expanding rays. The lightnings (तन्ववः) traverse earth and the celestial region (प्रकाशभूमी विविधे गच्छन्ति विद्युतः—Daya).

3. Asurasya mayaya, by the power of parjanya, the easter forth of water (असुरस्य उदकनिरसितुः; पर्जन्यस्य मायया प्रज्ञया सामर्थ्येन—Sayana). Here asura is cloud, and maya, the skill or potentiality (मेघस्य मायया आच्छादनादिना प्रज्ञया वा—Daya).

5. Rajansi citra vi caranti tanyavah, here rajas (रजस्) is derived from  $\sqrt{r}$ , to glow. The two lights are called rajas; water is called rajas, worlds are called rajas; blood and day are called rajas.—Variegated and thundering worlds move in different directions.—Nir. IV.19.

Hymn-64

3. Mitrasya yayam patha, may I proceed by the path of Mitra; see also I.90.1 (मित्रस्य मित्रभूतस्य पथा मार्गेण मित्रप्रापकेण मार्गेण यायां गच्छेयम्; मित्रस्येष्टदेशं गमयितुत्वं प्रसिद्धम्—"मित्रो नयतु विद्वान्"—Sayana).

Sharmani, in the happiness, in the house, in the place (मुखे गृहे स्थाने वा—Sayana; गृहे, in the house—Daya.).

7. Hastibhih a pat-bhih (pat-bhih, पटभिः = पद्भिः), with hands, with feet; i.e. with those having four feet, i.e. horses; also with elephants (इमैः—Daya.) and with feet; also with speedy (हस्तिभिः) legs.

Deva-ksetre, place of divine worship.

Sutam somam na, where devotional love is being expressed.

Arcananasam, the one with an adorable or fine nose (प्रविता श्रेष्ठा नासिका यस्य तम्—Daya.); name of a Rsi (Sayana), Arcanana being the seer of this hymn (V.64). This word does not occur anywhere else in the Rgveda.

Hymn-65

5. Varuna-sesasah, वरुणशेषसः, the children of Varuna (शेष इत्यपत्यनाम, वारकाः पुत्रा येषां ते—Sayana); children of venerable persons (वरुण उतमोजनः शेषो येषान्ते—Daya.)—शेषः,—अपत्यनाम, Nigh. II.2.

Hymn-66

1. Rta-pesase, of whom the form is verily water. Pesah, पेशः = रूपनाम = form (Nigh. III.7); rta = water, Nigh. I.12; also whose the form is truth (सत्यस्वरूप नाम—Daya.).

Hymn-67

4. Amboh-cit, even of the sinner (पापिनोऽपि—Sayana; here cit means also, or even of).

Hymn-68

4. Rtam rtena sapanta, rewarding with rain the holy rite (ऋतेन उदकेन निमित्तेन ऋतं यज्ञं सपन्ता स्पृशन्ती—Sayana); invoking truth with truth (सत्यं सत्येनाक्रोशन्ती—Daya.).

Hymn-69

1. Vavrdhanau amatim ksatriyasya, augmenting the force of the vigorous (प्रमति = रूपनामैतत्—Nigh.; क्षत्रियस्य = क्षत्रं बलं, तद्वत् इन्द्रस्य; vigorous, i.e. here it refers to Indra—Sayana; the son of a king क्षत्रापत्यस्य राज्ञः i.e. a king himself—Daya).

2. Trayah tasthuh vṛsabhasah tismam dhisananam, the three radiant receptacles and showers of rain stand severally in their three spheres (Wilson). The three here are Agni, Vayu and Aditya, i.e. fire on this earth, wind in the midspace, and the sun in heaven.

Iravati, full of milk (इरावतीः, इरा क्षीरलक्षणा, तद्वत्सो भवन्ति—Sayana); full of food and requisites (बहुं वस्त्रादि सामग्रीस्ताः —Daya).

3. Sam yoh (सं योः); here सं (Sam) is the prevention of calamity and misfortune (अरिष्टशमनाय), and योः (yoh) for the association of happiness (सुखस्य मिश्रणाय; also सं योः = सुखं संयुक्तम्—Daya).

Hymn-73

1. Paravati, परावति, in distant lands; arvavati, अर्वावति, in near places (दूरदेशे, निकटदेशे—Daya).

3. Irma anyat vapuse vapuh cakram rathasya yemathuh—see I.30.19 also, (त्यध्वस्य मूर्धनि चक्रं रथस्य येमथुः), you have arrested one wheel of car for illumining the form of the sun (Wilson); the verse refers to different functions of the two wheels of the sun-chariot; one is for the illumination purposes (nights and days) and the other is for apparent revolution of the Sun round the orbit, to furnish the Year-Cycle (कालचक्र). See also V.62.2.

Nahusa yuga, the ages of mankind (Wilson); the human yuga, the human time-cycle, for the division of time in general, as morning, noon, night, season, and year.

5. Arusah vayah, the red birds (रक्त भास्वर गुणाः पक्षिणः—Daya); bright horses (अरुषाः आरौचमानाः वयः अश्वाः—Sayana).

Ghr̥na, घृणा, bright, scorchers (दीप्तिः—Daya; दीप्ताः—Sayana).

Atapah, of enemies, of the teasing ones (समन्तात्प्रतापकः—Daya.; आतापनाः शत्रूणां—Sayana).

6. See also I.116.8 and X.39.9.

8. Madhuyuva, the mixers of Soma juices etc. (मधुरस्य सोमादि-मिश्रयितारो—Sayana; यो मधूनि यावय यत तस्तो—Daya.).

Hymn-74

1. Kusthabh, कूष्ठः, the one, resting on the earth (यः को पृथिव्यां तिष्ठति—Daya.; derived from ku, the earth); the singular used for the plural; or ku may be the same as kva, क्व, meaning where; where are you two abiding?

2. Nadinam, of rivers; of the supplicants, of the praises (कः स्तोता वां युवयोः नदीनां स्तुतीनाम्—Sayana).

4. Pauram, citizen (पुरिभव मनुष्य—Daya.); cloud (पोरेण वृष्टयश्च प्रार्थ्यमानत्वेन सम्बन्धात् मेघोऽपि पोरः from its being solicited by the Rsi for the fall of rain—Sayana).

Paura, a vocative, O Asvins, O twin-divines (हे पौर ! इदमश्विनोः सम्बोधनम् । पोरेण स्तुत्यत्वेन सम्बन्धात् अश्विनावपि पौरो ।—Asvins are also called Pauras, because they are in relation with Paura (which is also the name of a Rsi—Sayana) as the author of the hymn.

Pauraya, to me the Rsi of this name (पौराय ऋषये मह्यम्); the city-seers.

Ud-prutam, fully loaded with water (उदकयुक्तम्—Daya.).

Simham iva druhaspade, as heroes hurl down a lion by their strength out of a place of difficult access (i.e. out of a thicket, द्रुहः द्रोहस्य पदे स्थानेऽरण्यदेशे सिंहमिव गर्जन्तं प्रबलं सिंहं यथा वलात्—Sayana; सिंहवत् द्रुहः शत्रो पदे प्राप्तव्ये—Daya.).

5. Cyavanat, च्यवानात्, from being worn out, from a change (यमनात्—Daya.).

Jujurusah, decipit, worn out by age.

9. Vibhih, with the help of birds (पक्षिभिः सह —Daya.); by speedy horses (गन्तुभिरश्वैः—Sayana).

Hymn-75

For verse 7, see Nir. III.20.

1. Madhvi mama srutam havam, O lovers of sweetness, hear my invocation; masters of mystic lore, hear my invocation (Wilson); मधुविद्यावेदिता रौ ममाह्वानं शृणुतम्—Sayana). This is the burthen of the verses of this entire hymn.

2. Dasras, the destroyer of enemies; the dispeller of pain (दुःखनिवारको—Daya.).

Hiranya-varittani, possessors of gold or golden chariots; shining like gold (यो हिरण्यं ज्योतिः सुवर्णं वा वर्तयस्तौ—Daya.).

4. Kakuhah, great, distinguished (महान्—Daya. and Sayana).

Mṛgah, the purifier (यो मार्ष्टि सः—Daya.); searcher (मृगयिता—Sayana); devoted (Wilson).

Vapusah (वापुषः), embodied (वपुषि भवः—Daya.; वपुष्मान् यजमानः—Sayana.; perhaps, the sacrificer).

Prksah, food (Nigh. II.7; अन्नं हविः—Sayana).

5. Cyavanam, च्यवानम्, to the inquiring one; to the inquisitive (sage) (पृच्छन्तम्—Daya.; name of a worn out sage—Sayana).

For Cyavana, च्यवन, see II.12.4; 21.3; VI.18.2; VIII.33.6; 96.4; X.69.5; 6.

For च्यवान, see I.116.10; 117.13; 118.6; V.74.5; 75.5; VI.62.7; VII.71.5; 68.6; 71.5; X.39.4; 59.1; 61.2; 115.6.

Cyavana (च्यवन) word means a seer, a ṛṣi, since he is the collector of hymns (च्यवन ऋषिर्भवति । च्यावयिता स्तोमानाम्). In several Vedic passages it occurs as च्यवान (च्यवानमित्यपस्य निगमा भवन्ति, Nir. IV.19; X.39.4).

7. Tirah cit arya-ya pari vartih yatam adabhya. This has been quoted by the Nirukta (III.20).

Tiras (तिरस्) and satas (सतस्) are synonyms of attained (प्राप्तस्व). Tiras, i.e. it has crossed over, from √त्. Sadas, it is moved together; from √सृ—O undeceived ones, come round quickly across the turn. For Satas, see VII.104.21.

8. Avasyu, the person who longs for protection (प्राप्तमनोज्ञं रक्षणमिच्छुं कामयमानं वा—Daya.).

The earlier references for this word are I.14.5; 25.19; 101.1; 114.11; 131.3; II.6.6; 11.12; 13; 19.8; 21.5; III.33.5; 42.9; IV.16.11; 50.9; V.31.10.

9. Rusat-pasuh, the one who takes good care of an animal (पालितः पशुर्येन सः—Daya. Rusat, रुशत्=animal, Nigh. IV.3); blazing animal; also blazing oblation—दीप्तपशुमान् प्रकाशित हविः—Sayana).

To Sayana, pasu is ray (पशवः किरणाः), and rusat is a beam of light (रुशद् रश्मिः).

Hymn-76

1. Agnih, fire or the sun; it lights up the face of dawns (प्राभाति अग्निः उषसं अनीकम्; anikam may be face, (मुखम् or army सैन्यम्—Daya.; the phrase may also mean—Agni, the face or beginning of the dawns, shines—Wilson).

Pipivansam, पीपिवांसम्, growing or evolving in the most proper way (सम्यग्बर्धमानम्—Daya.); one developed with all its members—पीपिवांसं स्वाङ्गैः परिवृढं or nourished with soma juice or with clarified butter—प्राप्यापितं वसती वरीभिः शरदूपं सोमरसम् । अथवा घृतादिना पीपिवांसम्—Sayana).

Gharma, the duties of a household life, which by themselves constitute the sacrifice (घर्मं गृहस्थाथमकृत्याथं यज्ञम्—Daya.). The word in the ritualistic period meant the vessel so called, or the Pravargya ceremony, at which it was used, being fed or nourished (पीपिवांसं) with butter and curds it contains.

3. The entire day is divided into several parts 1, 2, 3, 5 or 15. In this verse, the five divisions are enumerated (i) pratah (morning), (ii) madhyandina (midday), (iii) udita suryasya (afternoon, अपराह्ण, the high sun), (iv) diva (day) and (v) naktam (night).

Hymn-77

For verse 2, see Nir. XII.5.

1. Kavayah purva bhajah, the ancient seers or sages of yore; one learned in the Vedic lore is Kavi (पूर्वभाजः पूर्वकालीनाः; कवयः अनुचाना ऋषयः; cf Ait. Br. II.38—ये वा अनुचानास्ते कवयः).

2. Pratah yajadhvam, na sayam asti devaya ajutam, worship at early dawn,—the evening is not for the gods. There is a text : “पूर्वाह्णो वै देवानाम्”, the forenoon verily is for the gods.

See Nir. XII.5. Offer sacrifice and impel the Asvins early morning; there is not an oblation offered to the gods in the evening; that is not enjoyed, another than us should sacrifice and give satisfaction. The earlier one sacrifices, the more he wins; i.e. he is the best winner. Their time is upto the rising of the sun; during the period, other deities are invoked.

The Nirukta gives the derivation of the word usas (उषस्) from √ वृश्, meaning to desire. There is another derivation from √ वृश् to shine; the usas belongs to the middle region (I.92.13).

Hymn-78

(For verse 8, see Nir. III.15).

1. Nasatya, another name or epithet of Asvins. See earlier references.

2. Harinau, two deers; gaurau, two wild animals (Bos Goraeus); hansau, two swans.

5. Vanaspati, Lord of forests.

Susyan(ī)ya-iva, सुषन्त्याऽइव, of a parturient female (प्रसवन्त्याः स्त्रिया इव —Daya. lady expecting to give birth to a child).

Sapta vadhṛim, sinful impulses of seven organs (five sense organs, mind and intellect) (इत सप्तेन्द्रियम्—Daya.; the one whose seven organs have been polluted). See also V.78.6; VIII.73.9 and X.39.9.

There is a fantastic story concocted in this connection and narrated by Sayana : The sons of the brothers of Saptavadhṛi being determined to prevent his having intercourse with his wife, shut him up every night in a cage or large basket, which they locked and sealed, letting him out in the morning : in this dilemma, the Rṣi prayed to the Asvins, who came to his succour and enabled him to get out of his cage during the night, he returning to it at day-break. (In this verse, he addresses to Vanaspati, because the cage is of forest-wood, —the basket). Of course, this is an absurd story.

8. A line of this verse is quoted in Nir. III.15 (यथा वातो यथा वनं यथा समुद्र एतत्ति), in connection of यथा, yatha, as a particle, denoting similies (यथेति कर्मोपमा). This verse is recited at the time of delivery: O child, ten months old, दशमस्य, just as the wind, the forest and the ocean move freely without any difficulty, so come forth from the womb of the mother without injuring her. (Durga on the Nirukta).

See Yv. VIII.28 also.

Hymn-79

1. Sujate asva-sunrte (सुजाते अश्वजन्तृते) is the burthen of all the verses of this hymn, meaning “nobly-born, and sincerely praised for the gift of vigour (bright-born, and praised sincerely for the gift of horses —Wilson).

Satya sravasī, in the seeker of truth (in hearer of truths, सत्यानां श्रवणे, सत्येऽन्ने वा = anna, food, Nigh. II.7; in the food, in the truth,—Daya.); the son of Vayya of this name (Sayana).

The term also occurs in the next two verses and nowhere else in the R̥gveda. For Satyasrutah, सत्यश्रुतः, see V.57.8; 58.8; VI.49.6.

Vayya, वाय्य, the son of Vayya, the weaver of knowledge. See also verses 2 and 3 of this hymn; the word occurs nowhere else in the R̥gveda.

For वाय्य, see I.54.6; 112.6; II.3.6; II.13.12; IV.19.6; and IX.68.8. (तन्तु सदृशे सन्ताननीये विस्तारणीये सन्ततिरूपे, extension or weaving like thread, propagation etc.—Daya.).

Asva-sunrte, sincerely praised for the gift of vigour (or horses) (अश्वाश्च प्रिय सत्यात्मिका स्तुतिवाक् यस्याः सा, vocative;—Sayana); asva is a synonym of big, excessive, or large, महद्—Nigh. VI.1, and therefore, a lady whose speech is very much or excessively sweet, अश्वा महती सूनृता प्रिया वाग्यस्यास्तत्सम्बुद्धौ—Daya).

8. Gomatih, the possessor of cows (गोभिः उपेतानि—Sayana; गावो विद्यन्ते यासु ताः—Daya.).

Hymn-80

1. Dyutat-yamanam, illumination of parameters (ayama) of space and time; illuminator of prahara, the unit of time—Daya.).

Aruna-psum, red-tinted in appearance (अरुण रूपां; प्सु, psu = form रूप—Nigh. III.7).

Hymn-81

For verse 2, See Nir. XII.13.

1. Viprah, the wise; here the yogins (the one engaged in the practice of Yoga, the science of communion with the Supreme).

Viprasya, of the omnipresent Lord (वि=विशेदण, प्र=प्राप्ति व्याप्नोति तस्य—Daya.).

Br̥hatah, of the great.

Vipascitah, of the omniscient Lord (अनन्तविद्यस्य—Daya.; स्तुत्यस्य ज्ञानवतो वा सवितुः अनुज्ञयेति—Sayana).

See also Yv. V.14.

2. Visva rupani prati muncate, comprehends all forms (all the luminary bodies—सूर्यादीनि) in himself; he binds or holds in himself (विश्वं सर्वाणि रूपाणि आत्मनि प्रतिमुञ्चते बध्नाति धारयति—Sayana). See also Yv. XII.3.

“The wise one puts on all forms, He has generated bliss for the biped and quadruped. Noble Savitṛ has looked on heaven. He shines bright after the departure of dawn”.—The discreet one (the prudent) puts on all the brilliant lights. Wise (कवि, kavi) is so called because his presence is desired (derived from √ कम्) or the word is derived from √ क्व्, to praise. He generates bliss for bipeds and quadrupeds (कविः मेधावी; कविः कान्तदर्शनो भवति, कवतेर्वा—Nir. XII.13).

3. See Yv. XI.6.

Parthivani, the scenes in the midspace (पृथिवी = midspace or antariksa, Nigh. I.3).

Etasah, एतन्, widely present (सर्वत्रव्याप्त—Daya).

Rajansi, राजंसि, worlds; regions. He by his greatness has measured out the midspace or heavenly regions (विममे measures; also specially creates, विशेषेण विमीते विधत्ते—Daya).

4. Sayana distinguishes between the words Savitṛ and Surya; Savitṛ is specially the Sun before rising; Surya is the Sun in general (also सवितः सकलजगदुत्पादकः, the creator of the world, and hence Savitṛ—Daya).

In fact, Mitra, Surya, Savitṛ and Pusan are all one—the names of the Supreme Creator, and of the sun too, representing different functions or attributes.

Hymn-82

1. This is known as the anustup Savitri, as sacred as the well-reputed Gayatri (तत्सवितुर्वरेण्यं • III.62.10), the Savitri in the Gayatri metre; see Bṛhad. up. V.14.5.

Bhojanam, normally food, but here anything enjoyable, (पासनं भोक्तव्यं वा—Daya;; भोग्यं घनं—Sayana).

Turam, all that is destructive of evils, or evil foes (तुरं सविद्यादि दोषनाशकं सामर्थ्यम्—Daya).

3. Savita bhagah, that Savita is Bhaga, or bhage is bhajantiye, भजनीय, to be worshipped (सविता प्रसन्नकर्ता, भगः ऐश्वर्यवान्—, the creator and the possessor of fame and glory—Daya).

4. Duh-Svapnyam, the evil dreams, or the pain caused by the evil dreams, or evils arising out of dreams (दुष्टेषु स्वप्नेषु भवं दुःखम्—Daya).

5. Bhadram, all that is good and conducive, as opposed to durita, the pain, vice, or evil. Bhadram also includes progeny, cattle, dwelling etc. (प्रजा वै भद्रं, पशवो भद्रं, गृहं भद्रमिति—Wilson, Sayana).

7. Visvadevam, all the gods, representative of all the noble qualities, attributes and actions (see I.164.46, इन्द्रं मित्रं वरुणमग्निमाहुः). Compare the verse with the lines of the Asvalayana Srauta Sutra—आ विश्वदेवं सत्यति वाममघु सवितः (II.16); आ विश्वदेवं सत्यति य इमा विश्वानि जातानि (IV.3); and आ विश्वदेवं सत्यति न प्रमिये सवितुर्देवस्य तत् (IV.11).

Hymn-83

For verse 2, see Nir. X.II.

The deity of this hymn is Parjanya; in normal usage, parjanya means cloud; in glossary given by the Nirukta (I.10), it is not included amongst the 30 synonyms of cloud or megha.

Parjanya causes the clouds to rain; it is thus the functional deity, as if, behind the clouds; the non-bursting cloud in an asura, or vrtra, since it covers the sun, it causes darkness; it is Nescience. But Parjanya causes the clouds to discharge their rain; in Parjanya is another name of Indra too. For the etymology of the word, see Nir. X.10. (Our note on verse 2).

2. Parjanyah, the discharging force behind the clouds, is derived from the verb तृप् (√ तृप्) to be satisfied; by reversing the first and the last letters: one who gives satisfaction and is favourable to men (तृप् + janyah = पृत् + janyah, तृप् + जन्वः = पृत् + जन्वः = parj + janyah = par + janyah; = पर्ज + जन्वः = पर् + जन्वः); or he is so called because he is the best conquerer (परः + जिन्); or he is the best progenitor (परः + जन) or he is the bestower of juices; (प्र + √ ऋञ्) —Nir. X.10.

He strikes down the trees and he strikes down the demons (wicked). All beings are afraid of this great slaughter. Great indeed is his slaughter. Even the innocent, being afraid, run away from him whose function is to rain, when Parjanya thundering strikes the evil-doers i.e. men who commit sinful acts. (Nir. X.11).

3. Dutan, दूतान्, messenger; also warriors (भटान्—Sayana).

6. Vṛsno asvasya, of the rainy charger (horse); or of the pervading rain (वृषस्य = व्यापकस्य, of the pervader); and asva is also a synonym of great (Nigh. III.3); of the large raining cloud (वर्षकस्य महतः —Daya).

9. Hansi duskṛtah, destroys the wicked; here wicked stands for the clouds not yielding their water.

Hymn-84

Prthivi is the subject of this hymn. Normally, the word means the earth, but so often, it has the double meaning, when it includes the midspace or antariksa also (पृथिवी = अन्तरिक्ष—Nigh. I.3).

1. Parvatanam, of clouds (पर्वतानां मेघानाम्—Daya).

Bat, बत्, synonym of truth (Nigh. III.10).

Khidram, rending tool.

Khidram bibharsi, you sustain the fracture or opening of the clouds (Wilson).

Prthivi, in the midspace.

Bhumim, earth.

3. Dṛlha, दृढहा, solid, rigid.

Ksmaya, by earth, by rock, rocky.

Hymn-85

For verses 3 and 6, see Nir. X.4 and VI.13 respectively.

2. Apsu agnim, has placed fire in waters (water is supposed to be the source of Agni, apam napat is Agni, the grand child of water—water helps in the growth of plant, and plant or wood, by attrition furnishes fire, or it may mean lightning in rains or submarine fire. (cf. Yv. IV.31, viksu agnim he placed in people or human beings, the digestive fire); also fire in the firmament (अप्सु आकाशप्रदेशेषु अग्निं पावकम्—Daya.).

Somam adrau, Soma plant in the mountains; the sap in clouds (सोमं रसं अद्रौ मेघे—Daya.).

3. Kabandham, cloud (मेघम्—Daya.); water (Nigh. I.12).

Antariksam, water (जलम्—Daya.).

Varuna sent forth the cloud, whose door opens downwards (नीचीन वारम्). A cloud, कबन्धं, (Kabandham) is so called because Kavanam, which means water, is deposited into it. Water is called Kabandham also—the verb √ बन्ध् is used to denote an unfixed state—it is comfortable and unrestrained. He creates heaven, earth and the intermediate space (प्र सप्तर्जं रोदसो अन्तरिक्षम्); with that greatness, the king of the entire universe moistens earth as rain does barley (तेन सर्वस्य भुवनस्य राजा यवं न वृष्टिर्वृणोति भूमिम्)—Nir. X.4.

4. Abhrena, by cloud (अभ्रम् = cloud, Nigh. I.10).

Parvatasah, clouds (Nigh. I.10).

5. Mahi, reverential speech (पूज्यां वाणीम्—Daya.; मही = वाङ् Nigh. I.11).

Mame, ममे, metes, measures; also creates (सृजति—Daya.).

Mayam, skill, accomplishment (प्रज्ञाम्, Nigh. III.9).

See Nir. VI.13.—in connection with the word पुरन्धिम् (VII.39.4), meaning very wise, used for Varuna, who is praised with regard to his intelligence (तं प्रजया स्तौति); the word mayam is used for this intelligence in इमाम् नु कवितमस्य मायाम् ।

Prthivim, midspace.

Manena, by a measure (by honour, सत्कारेण—Daya).

6. Avanayah, rivers (Nigh. 1.13).

Enih, एनीः, running like she-deers (एव्यः मृगस्त्रिय एव धावन्त्यः—Daya); lucid, watershedding (एव्यः शुभ्राः गमनशीला वा—Sayana).

7. Aryamyam, benefactor, one amongst the people of justice (अयंमत्तु न्यायाधीशेषु भवम्—Daya); to Sayana Aryamyam and Mitryam are the same as Aryaman and Mitra with the final ya (यत्) being pleonastic; aryamayam meaning giver (दातृ) or spiritual preceptor (गुरु).

(अयंम्यम्—अयंमैवायंम्यः । स्वाधिको यत् । अर्तोरिदं रूपम् । प्रदातामित्यर्थः । अथवा ईरणात् मननात् च शास्तीत्ययंमा गुरुः । तम्—Sayana).

Mitryam, the attacked (अनुरक्तम्); the word Mitra is derived thus : मिमिदा स्नेहेते—इत्यस्मात् मित्रम् । स्वाधिको यत्—Sayana.

The word Mitra is also so called because he preserves (ब्राम्हे) from destruction (प्र-मी-ति), or because he runs (द्रवति), measuring things together (√ मि), or the word is derived from the causal of √ मिद्, to be fat (Nir. X.21).

Varunaranam, वरुणारणम् = वरुण + अरणम्; aranam means one not having a sound or speech (अरणं वा अशब्दमित्यर्थः, or one not giving i.e. niggardly—अथवा अरणमादातारं वा नित्यं निरन्तरम्—Sayana); a dumb man—Wilson. Dayananda translates अरण as water (उदकम्, the same perhaps as अर्णः Nigh. 1.12).

Hymn-86

Indragni = Indra (Lord of celestial fire i.e. lightning) + Agni (Lord of terrestrial fire) = The twin-Lord of celestial and terrestrial fires.

1. Trita, the sage or seer of threefold excellences (in attributes, गुण, in accomplishments, कर्म and in temperament, (स्वभाव). Trita is also fire in the three regions. In mythology, the name of a R̥si who refutes controversial arguments.

Driha, strongly guarded.

Dyumna, treasures (द्युम्नं धनं—Nigh. II.10).

2. Panca carsanih, पञ्च चरणीः, five classes of people (the same as pancajanya, पञ्चजन्यः; see I.100.12; 117.3; III.53.16; V.32.11; VIII.63.7; IX.66.20); or five vital breaths (चरणीः प्राणान् मनुष्यान् वा—Daya).

5. Ansa-iva, अंसाश्च, like the shining ones (like the parts, भागमिव —Daya.); Ansa is also the name of one of the twelve Adityas; here the word is put in dual, and therefore, may mean any two of these Adityas.

6. Aha-vi, or Ahavi (अहा वि or अहावि). Dayananda prefers the pada-patha (पद-पाठ), as अहा + वि where अहा, aha means days (अहानि); Sayana considers ahavi as one term meaning, has been offered; (हव्यं हविः अहावि परित्यक्तमासीत्).

In this verse, we have the repetition in मृणत्सु दिधृतम् for the sake of respect पुनरुक्ति आदरार्था—Sayana.

Hymn-87

In this hymn, the word Evayamarut (एवयामरुत) remains unaltered in its case termination. This word occurs only in this hymn and nowhere else in the R̥gveda. The word marut means a mortal, the dexterous mortal is the evayamarut, a person which is skilful, active, efficient and experienced (Sturmvoll Marut, Benfey), Sayana regards Evayamarut as a R̥si or seer, or muni of the race of Atri.

1. Visnave, for the one pervading (व्याप्ताय—Sayana; व्यापकाय —Daya.); to Visnu.

Marutvat is usually the designation of Indra: for the Indra, for the group in which a man (a mortal) is honoured and respected (प्रशंसिता मनुष्या यस्मिंस्तस्मै).

9. Araksa, unprotected (not worthy of protection, अरक्षणीयं—Daya.; undeterred by Raksasas (Wilson).

Nidah, the reviler; wicked impulse.

Durdharttarah, cruel, fierce, or those who strike down without compassion; the intolerant (दुःखेन घर्त्तारः—Daya.; दुर्धराः—Sayana).
