POONA: ASHTEKAR & CO.
INTRODUCTION.

As the third volume of the printed text finishes the third and fourth Ashtakas, and commences the fifth, I have thought it advisable to publish, on the present occasion, the translation of the third and fourth Ashtakas,* completing one-half of the entire Rig-Veda.

The third Ashtaka comprehends the conclusion of the third Mandala, the fourth, and the commencement of the fifth; the rest of the fifth, and five of the six sections of the sixth Mandala, are comprised in the fourth Ashtaka.

It was remarked in the Introduction to the first Ashtaka, that the fifth Mandala was ascribed to Atri and his sons, who were of rather equivocal nomenclature; this will be confirmed by the actual translation; and if the authorship of the Suklas be rightly defined, Atri must have had a large family, as the names exceed forty, besides groups, as Prayasanats, Gaupayanas, Laupayanas, and Vasuyus, each consisting of an indefinite number; several of the names, as Pratieshatra, Pratiratha, Pratirhanu, Pratiprabha, are evidently fabrication; we have also, in Archananas and Syavashwa, father and son, who could not both have been sons of Atri:

*I have made a change. I have made the volume end with the fifth Mandala. — H.R.B.
there is likewise the unusual occurrence of a female author of a Sukta, the lady Vishwawara. The common epithet of these persons, Atreyu, does not, however, necessarily imply a son or daughter of Atri, and may be interpreted descendant or disciple; the latter is rendered most probable, as the list includes three Rajas among the Rishis, of Tryaruna, Trasadasyu, and Ashwamedha, who are the joint authors of a Sukta (p. 200); to one of them, Trasadasyu, a preceding Sukta also is ascribed. In all probability, however, there is little or no authority for the authorship of the Suktas of this Mandala, and their ascription to individuals is as arbitrary and unreal as that of any other portion, whether termed Ashtaka or Mandala.

Of the hundred and twenty-one Suktas of the third Ashtaka, those addressed to Agni, either alone, or associated with some other deity, are forty-four; those to Indra, singly or with others, forty-eight; making together ninety-two; of the rest, five are addressed to the Vishwadeyas, five to the Ashwins, five to the Rishus, three to Dadhikra, three to Ushas, two to Savitri, and one each to the Yupa, or sacrificial post, to the Apris, to Mrtra, to the Shyena or Hawk, to Heaven and Earth, to Vayu, and to Kshetrapati, or, the lord of the field, and the implements of agriculture.

The fourth Ashtaka comprehends one hundred and forty Suktas, of which Agni and Indra have a large proportion, although rather less considerable than in the third; the former is the deity of thirty-six Suktas, the latter, singly or in association with others. of forty-six, together eighty-two: of the remainder, the Vishwadevas have twelve Suktras dedicated to them, rather a larger number than usual, besides which, five other hymns are addressed to various divinities, much the same as the Vishwadevas: twelve Suktras have the Maruts for deities, and eleven Mitra and Varuna conjointly, which is something unusual: the Ashwins have six Suktras: Pushan four; the Dawn and Savitri two each; and Parjanya, Prithivi, Varuna, Saraswati, and the Cows have one each.

With very few exceptions, there is little of novel interest in the Suktras of these two divisions, as regards their mythological bearings: the same attributes are ascribed to the same divinities and the same legends are repeated, which have occurred in the preceding Ashtakas; the legendary exploits being sometimes, however, transferred to different actors, as in the case of the death of Vritra being ascribed to Agni, instead of, as usual, to Indra (p. 16, v. 4); and again, where Dadhyanch, the son of Atharvan, is said to have kindled the slayer of Vritra, the destroyer of the cities of the Asuras, the exploits of Indra are obviously assigned to Agni (VI. 2. 1. 14)*: the observation made in the Introduction to the translation of the second Ashtaka may be here repeated, that the Suktras addressed to the principal divinities, especially to Agni and Indra, in these two divisions, deal more in general solicitation and panegyric, and are less rich in legend, than the Suktas of the first Ashtaka, with very rare, though not altogether unimportant exceptions.

In the hymns addressed to Agni the same attributes and allusions occur that are found in preceding Suktas, and enumerated in the Introduction to the first volume. We have perhaps more distinctly asserted his character of creator of the universe (p. 6, v. 5, p. 12, v. 4, p. 90, v. 15), and in his universality, as intimated in one hymn with more than ordinary mysticism (p. 22, v. 7, 8 and note), we have the rudiments probably of the pantheistic notion, which, as the word Vedanta imports, are based upon the Veda: the identification of Agni with other divinities, his being Indra, Vritra, Varuna, Aryaman, Rudra, is of the same tendency (p. 177, v. 1).

In like manner the attributes and exploits of Indra, his slaying of Vritra, his recovery of the stolen cattle, his destruction of various Asuras, and of their cities, and his patronage of individual princes have all been told before, in general more fully: his drinking of the Soma juice is the subject of very many uninteresting stanzas, and most of the hymns of which he is the hero suggest little that is of additional value. In the sixteenth hymn of the first section of the fourth Ashtaka some novel circumstances are narrated of the Asura Namuchi: mention has been made of him in the first and second sections, but here, for the first time, it is said of him, that he sends an army of women against Indra, as if a nation of amazons were alluded to: the passage, however, is obscure, and the explanation imperfect (p. 205, v. 9).
In the sixth Sūkta of the fifth section of the third Ashtaka there is also some additional legend which may be suspected of a historical bearing, however exaggerated, when it is related that Indra was followed by a large host, thousands, in his attack upon the Asura Kuyava; and that, on another occasion, he destroyed fifty thousand Krishnas, or dark-complexioned Rakshasas, according to the Scholiast: one inference from these numbers is, that the Rishis of the time of the Veda were not unfamiliar with the levy of numerous bodies of combatants; and another, which is more important, is the probability that by Asuras and Rakshasas, nothing more is meant than hostile tribes or nations: the mortal Rajas, Kutša, Rishshwan, Sudás, and others, in whose defence or for whose benefit these adversaries are demolished, could scarcely have waged war with superhuman beings, could scarcely have incurred their enmity, except in their character of disturbers of sacrifices offered to the gods, meaning thereby, very possibly, the yet unconverted races of India opposed to Brahmanical rites: that we are to look upon them as principally if not exclusively human beings is most consistent with their being engaged in contests with human princes; and the identity is further established by the appellation of Dasyu being assigned to the Asura, Shamb-bara (VI. 3. 8. 4).

Like Agni, Indra is identified with various persons and divinities; and in one hymn it is intimated that he is the only real object of adoration, to whomsoever else it may be nominally addressed, taking whatever manifestation he pleases, whether that of Agni, Vishnu of Rudra (VI. 4. 4. 13); he is also represented in the same hymn as of a capricious temperament, neglecting those who serve him, and favouring those who pay him no adoration (VI. 4. 4. 17); a notion somewhat at variance with a doctrine previously inculcated, that the ceremonial worship of Indra is able to atone for the most atrocious crimes (note on V. 3. 2. 4).

The Suktas addressed to the other deities propitiated in the third and fourth Ashiukas are for the most part mere repetitions of those which have been given in the first and second; one of the two dedicated in the third Book to Savitri (III. 5. 9. 10) contains the verse that constitutes an essential part of the daily prayers of the Brahmans, and is especially known as the Gayatri; the commentators admit some variety of interpretation, but it probably meant, in its original use, a simple invocation of the sun to shed a benignant influence upon the customary offices of worship, and that it is still employed by the unphilosophical Hindus with merely that significance; later notions, and especially those of the Vedanta, have operated to attach to the text an import it did not at first possess, and have converted it into a mystical propitiation of the spiritual origin and essence of existence, or Brahma.

The hymns addressed to Dadhikra, or Dadhikravan, contemplate the sun under the type of a horse, and in one of them (p. 151, IV. 4. 9. 5) occurs a stanza known as the Hansavati Rik, in which, under various appellations, the sun is considered to be identical with the Supreme

Spirit, or Parabrahma, although it may be questionable how far the terms bore originally the significations which commentators have subsequently assigned them.

In the third Ashtaka are two Sukitas, of which the Shyena, the hawk or kite, is said to be the deity of part of one, and of the whole of the other; the style of the hymns is rather mystical, and one interpretation identifies the bird with the Supreme Spirit; the general tenor, however, merely alludes to a legend told in the Aitareya Brahmana, as mentioned in a note (on III. 4. 5. 7), of the Soma plant having been brought from heaven by the Gayatri, the metre personified, in the form of a hawk; a possible allegory connecting the use of hymns in the Gayatri measure with the early or original offering of the Soma libation at the worship of the gods.

Another novel Sukta in the third Ashtaka has for its object the sanctification of the lord of the field, and of the implements of agriculture; the spirit of mysticism identifies them with divinities, as Agni, Indra, Vayu, but whether the terms be understood literally or typically, the inference will be the same: the great importance attached by the Hindus of the Vaidika era to the operations of agriculture, and the fitness of the means used by them in the cultivation of the land. Of the hymn that follows this it is not easy to understand the purport, but it is chiefly in the praise of clarified butter, or Ghi, and may connect the labours of the herdsman with those of the plough; a Sukta addressed to the Cows (VI. 3. 5.) may be regarded as of a similar class, but it contains nothing peculiarly characteristic: the short hymn to Prithivi, the Earth (V. 6. 12.), might be classed with the agricultural, but it is very general and unmeaning.

In the two Ashtakas the Vishwadevas are the divinities of seventeen Suktas, or, if we add the five addressed to various deities, who are, however, much the same as the Vishwadevas, twenty: they are for the most part the same deities as in their individual capacities elsewhere. Agni, Indra, Varuna, Aditi, the Adityas, the Maruts, and offer only their usual properties, some of the hymns deal in mysticism, are accordingly obscure; and scattered through them are references to circumstances of general interest, but for the most part they add little to what has been elsewhere described. The same may be said of the Suktas to the Maruts, the Ashwins, the Ribhus, whose attributes and exploits are mere repetitions of what has gone before; the Suktas dedicated to Pushan more explicitly describe him as the guardian of roads and protector of travellers, indicating an interchange of domicile and interest; of traffic that could prevail only amongst a people advanced some way in civilization: Pushan appears also in a new character as the patron of conjurors (VI. 5. 5.), especially of those who discover stolen goods, an order of professors still familiar to the peoples of India.

A solitary passage, and one of which the commentator has given no satisfactory explanation, raises the number of the deities to an extent which is wholly incompatible with the ordinary enumeration: it is said at the close of the ninth Sukta of the first chapter of the third Ashtaka (p. 5, v. 9) that three thousand three hundred and thirty-nine deities, devas, have done homage to Agni, and appointed him their ministrant priest. Sayana refers for the confirmation of this statement to the Brihad Aranyaka, where something of the kind is found, but which cannot be regarded as authority for the text of the Veda; the ordinary enumeration of the classes of the subordinate divinities makes at thirty-three, and the Veda is cited as the authority for this enumeration as in the Puranas; Vishnu Pur., p. 123, note.

Although the texts of the Rig-Veda, more or less detached, are extensively employed in the ritual of the Brahmanas, yet the allusions to ceremonial offices are very rare, and not always very explicit: of course commendations of the offering of the juice of the Soma plant are constantly repeated, and its effects upon those who drink it, especially Indra, are described in the usual exaggerated strain: there is also occasionally a palpable confusion of attributes with those of the moon, arising out of identity of name (VI. 3. 16. 3). Clarified butter, or Ghi, is also not unfrequently named or alluded to; and in one instance we have a hymn to the Yupa, or post to which the victim is fastened, as typical of the Vanaspati, the lord of the wood, the tree out of which it has been fabricated. The practice of animal sacrifices on an extensive scale is affirmed in two places, in one of which (p. 202, v. 7) it is said, that three hundred buffaloes have been offered to Indra as a burnt-offering, and in the other it is prayed that one hundred may be so offered: the phrase in both passages is, dressing or cooking, (root: āch); so that the offering, like that of other nations of antiquity, was no doubt partaken of by those presenting the holocaust; another Sukta (p. 17) is considered by the Scholiast as appropriate to an animal sacrifice, as it repeatedly specifies the presentation of the marrow or fat from the interior of the victim to Agni.

There is scarcely any indication of doctrinal or philosophical speculation, no allusion to the later notions of the several schools, except those expressions above noticed suggestive of the identity of all gods and of all beings; nor is there any hint of the metempsychosis, or of the doctrine which is intimately allied to it, of the repeated renovation of the world; on the contrary, there is one remarkable passage which denies this elsewhere unquestioned proposition. It is there emphatically affirmed that the heaven and the earth were generated but once, as was the milk of Prishni, or the nourishment of the winds, that is to say, the rain; and that nothing similar was successively produced (VI. 4. 5. 22).

Various intimations are given, although less frequent or decisive than in the preceding Ashtakas, of the social condition of the Hindus of the Vaidik period: they confirm the conclusions previously drawn of the advanced state of civilization; cities are repeatedly mentioned, and although, as the objects of Indra's hostility, they may be considered as cities in the clouds, the residences of the Asuras, yet the notion of such aggregations of any class of beings could alone have been suggested by actual observation, and the idea of cities in heaven, could have been derived only from familiarity with similar assemblages upon earth: but, as above intimated, it is probable that by Asuras we are to understand, at least occasionally, the anti-vaidik people of India, and that theirs are the cities destroyed. It is also to be observed, that the cities are destroyed on behalf or in defence of mortal princes, who could scarcely have beleaguered celestial towns, even with Indra's assistance: indeed, in one instance (p. 130, v. 3) it is said that, having destroyed ninety and nine out of the hundred cities of the Asura, Shambhara, Indra left the hundredth habitable for his protegé, Divodara, a terrestrial monarch, to whom a metropolis in the firmament would have been of questionable advantage.

That the cities of those days consisted, to a great extent, of mud and mat hovels is very possible: they do so still: Benares, Agra, Delhi, even Calcutta, present numerous constructions of the very humblest class; but that they consisted of these exclusively is contradicted in several places. In one passage (p. 136, v. 20), the cities of Shambhara that have been overturned are said to have consisted of stone: in another, the same cities are indicated by the appellative dchyah, the plastered, intimating the use of lime, mortar, or stucco; in another, we have specified a structure with a thousand columns, which, whether a palace or a temple, must have been something very different from a cottage; and again, a supplication is put up for a large habitation, which could not be intended for a hut; cities with buildings of some pretence must obviously have been no rarities to the authors of the hymns of the \textit{Rig-Veda}.

Notice has already been taken of the large scale upon which, even allowing for exaggeration, wars must have been carried on: a similar passage occurs (p. 136, v. 21), in which it is said that Indra, for the sake of Dabhiti, destroyed thirty thousand \textit{Dasas}, slaves, or anti-vaivakas; the Scholiast says \textit{Rakshasas} and others, but the text has only \textit{dasa}, and Dabhiti is a mortal. It is not, however, only with \textit{Dasas} and \textit{Dasyus} that we find hostilities prevail and the \textit{Aryas} seem to have been equally at variance amongst themselves. Indra is said, in one passage, to have slain two of their leaders on the \textit{Sharayu} river, and in another to have destroyed alike both \textit{Aryas} and \textit{Dasas} (VI. 3, 10, 3): there seems, indeed, to have been considerable animosity prevailing amongst the people, and the gods are not unfrequently solicited to protect the worshipper against his own neighbours and relations. That the religion or the government did not always feel secure may be inferred from a passage in which Indra is requested to protect the worshipper not only in war, but in peace, or amongst or against the people (VI. 3, 18, 5).

Of progress in the useful arts we have, as before, occasional exemplifications. The practice of agriculture has already been noticed; the art of weaving is very particularly mentioned, although in connexion with some mystical reference to creation or sacrifice; the sharpening of the edge of iron weapons makes it likely that steel is intended; and there is nothing surprising in this, as Indian steel was known to the Persians in the days of Ctesias; the melting of metallic substances was practised (V. 5, 1) very possibly of gold, for golden ornaments, golden carasses, are repeatedly mentioned: it might be thought that even coins were current, for amongst the presents made to the Rishi of a Sukta ten purses are specified (VI. 4, 4, 22); the term kosayih may be interpreted, however, bags or chests, and they may have contained only a certain weight of precious metal.

The same familiarity with the sea that has been previously commented on occasionally occurs, with sufficient explicitness to leave no doubt of the meaning of the text: thus, in one place the rivers are said to rush to the ocean eager to mix with it (p. 14, v. 7); and again, the rivers disappear in the ocean, where also it is said that those desirous of profit are engaged in traversing the ocean, clearly indicating maritime traffic; the Maruts, or personified winds, are said to toss the clouds like ships or as the Scholiast amplifies a rather elliptical phrase, as the ocean tosses ships; in another place (VI. 2, 5, 12), although the particular expressions may be equivocal, yet it is undeniable that the passage is intended to convey the crossing of the ocean by certain individuals under the guidance of Indra.

There are one or two curious passages relating to the laws of inheritance, and of simple contract, or buying and selling: they may not be very precise or altogether intelligible, yet they are sufficiently so to show that legislative enactments were in existence, and that, with respect to these two subjects, the law was essentially the same as that which is laid down in the reputed writings of ancient legislators, and, to a certain extent, is still in force. A son, by virtue of holy acts, that is, it may be inferred, the worship of the mæses, although not so specified, is the heir, to the exclusion of a daughter, as she, by marriage, conveys the property into a different family: she is, however, to be enriched with gifts, upon her marriage, it may be supposed by way of dower: in default of a direct male heir, the son of a daughter is to perform the rites, and consequently inherit the property; but this applies to the son of an appointed daughter,* who, according to all the oldest authorities, was considered equal to a son; and the term used in the passage in question evidently comprehends this stipulation or appointment: the Shasadvahini is the transgressor of his daughter to another family, under agreement or stipulation, and thereby proceeds to, or establishes, the affiliation of a grandson; or as the Scholiast, no doubt quite correctly, states it, the father stipulates, I will give you my daughter, who has no brothers, on condition that the son who may be begotten on her may be my son also: now this, although ancient law, is a refinement upon the rules of inheritance, and is an unquestionable evidence of advanced civilization.

The law, that if a person have sold a commodity for less than its value, and repents of having done so.

* "The son of an appointed daughter is equal to the son of the body: he shall inherit as a son the estate of his father and of his maternal grandfather, who leaves no male issue." Demilo: see Colebrooke's Digest, 3, 161, and other texts. Ibid.
he cannot reclaim the commodity sold, from the buyer, is apparently the law of the present day, though there be some difference of opinion: what has been sold, it is said, at a low price by an idiot, or one intemperate or insane, may be resumed compulsorily, if need be, from the buyer; but it is then reasonably inferred, that if it be sold for a low price by a man sound of mind, the sale is valid; this is so far qualified, that if the sale have been made by mistake it may be cancelled; and in general, rescission of the sale or purchase of things not perishable is allowable within ten days, at the will of either of the parties: this is considered by Mill (History of India, Vol. i, p. 232) as altogether incompatible with an age in which the divisions and refinements of industry have multiplied the number of exchanges; and he would, therefore, have looked upon the law, as it is laid down in the text of the Veda, making a sale and purchase, once concluded, unalterable, as a proof of an advanced era in the interchange of marketable commodities.

So far, therefore, the allusions to the social condition of the Hindus are in harmony with those that have been previously noticed; and the same may be said of the references made to the tracts occupied by them, which were in the north-west and west of India, from the Punjab to the mouths of the Indus, their outlet to the ocean; we have the Yamuna mentioned once, the Ganges once: the Saraswati is often named in both her characters as a goddess and a river; and the Drishadanti, is in one place, associated with her as in Manu, along with another river not met with elsewhere, the Apaya: the Vipasha and Shatudri, or Beyah, and Sutlej, are interlocutors in a Sukta with the Rishi Vishvanmitra, in which he entreats them to allow him to ford them with his attendants and waggons, being bound to the north-west, as he states, to collect the Soma plant. Other rivers are named, as the Rasa, Anatabha, Kubha (p. 244, v. 9), Parushni, and the Hariyupiya, or Yavyavati, the positions of which are no longer known, but which were probably in the west, and were feeders of the Indus. On the eastern bank of the Hariyupiya dwelt a people called Vrichivats, or Varasikhus, who were subjugated, with the aid of Indra, by the Raja Abhyavartin and Prastoka (VI. 3. 4. 6), and who we may suppose, therefore, not to have been Hindus.* A people called Rusamara, inhabiting, it is said, a country so called, must have been an orthodox race, presenting valuable gifts to the Rishi of a Sukta in which their liberality is eulogized (p. 206, v. 13): on the other hand it seems to be intimated, that the Hinduism of the Vedas had not spread into South Behar, when it is asked, what do the cattle for thee (Indra), among the Kikatas (p. 65, v. 14), Kikata being the ordinary appellation of that province; and it is not incompatible with the apparent limitation of the Hindus in the time of the Vedas to the

*According to the story, as told in the Niti Manjari, from the Brihad devata, Abhyavartin, the son of Chayamana, and Prastoka, the son of Srinjaya, having been defeated by the Varishikhus, applied to the Rishi, Bharadwaja, to procure his intercession with Indra for his aid: the Rishi complied with their request, and praised Indra with the Sukta which is given, propitiating by which the deity came to the assistance of the princes, and destroyed the Varishikhus.
western countries, that their religion had not extended so far into the interior, especially into a country which is still partly covered by forest, and inhabited by barbarous tribes. Besides the rivers and races thus named, and for the most part peculiar to the Veda, we have a number of names of Rajas which are not met with elsewhere (pp. 200, 212, and VI. 3. 4.); the intermarriage of royal and saivitly races, of which the Puranas afford examples, is of Vaidik authority, and is curiously illustrated by the story of Shyavashwa (p. 256).

A few legends of an interesting description occur in the Ashtakas now translated; thus, in the third (p. 63, III. 4. 15), we have a hymn of some length by Vishwamitra, which is usually regarded as authority for the existence of a violent feud between the author and the Rishi Vasishtha, and their respective descendants, and to be the vehicle of such an imprecation upon the latter, that Brahmanas, who profess to belong to the gotra, the traditional family or school of Vasishtha, will not read or transcribe the passages; the cause of quarrel is not alluded to in the Veda, but it is repeatedly detailed, with some variations, in the heroic poems and Puranas. The oldest form of the legend is, no doubt, that of the Ramayana, repeated in the Mahabharata, Atri Purva, where Vishwamitra, whilst yet in his original or Kshatriya character, attempts to carry off by violence the all-bestowing cow from the hermitage of Vasishtha, typifying, no doubt, a quarrel between the Brahmanical and Kshatriya races for the dominion of the all-yielding earth; in which, however, it is very remarkable that the forces summoned to take the part of the Brahman are all foreigners, Shakas, Yavanas, Pahanvas, and Mlechchhas, or unconverted tribes, as Draviras, Paundras, Kiratas. Vishwamitra afterwards, by the force of penance, becoming a Brahman, appears in the Ramayana, and in the dramas thence derived, on very friendly terms with Vasishtha, as the Purohita or family priest of Dasharatha, but in the Mahabharata, Adi Parva, vol. 1, p. 243, and Shalya Parva, vol 3, p. 361, we have repeated incidents of offence given, especially by Vishwamitra, by which Vasishtha is reduced to despair, and endeavours in vain to destroy himself. Some of these circumstances are subsequently alluded to.

Another legend worthy of notice is that of Vamadeva, who, whilst yet unborn, insists on coming into existence by his mother's side, an incident that may have been suggestive of the subsequent similarly marvellous birth of Buddha. Another incident adverted to is that of Vamadeva having, when hungry, cooked for his food the entrails of a dog, a circumstance repeated in the tenth book of Manu. Several allusions seem to indicate that the followers of the Vedas were not very scrupulous as to the articles of their diet; it appears, for instance, that the flesh of the wild cattle was allowable (p. 122, v. 8); and, in one passage, even that of the cow is said to be the best of food (VI. 3. 16. 1).

The story of the Raja Tryakuna, his Purohita, and the boy over whom the latter drives the former's car, involves a legal argument, which is amongst the subtleties of Hindu legislation; See Law Questions, Ballantyne's
Synopsis of Science, vol. 1, p. x: the consequence, however, the cessation of the use of fire, is more remarkable, intimating possibly a sort of interdict, during which the performance of burnt-sacrifices was suspended: the story is rather obscurely narrated. We may advert to one more legend, as it is more particularly given by Manu (10. 107.) : the Veda merely states the fact that Brahmadwata, the Rishi, accepted presents from a person named Brihu: in Manu and in the Niti Manjari he is said to have been a carpenter or woodcutter; and in both these authorities the moral of the story is the legality of the acceptance of presents from persons of inferior caste, by Brahmanas in time of distress: the latter qualification was probably unknown in the days of the Veda, when questions of impurity, whether of food or of caste, had not come to be entertained.

At the same time it may be doubted whether there are not in these two portions of the Rig Veda, some intimation of the institution of caste, although not yet fully developed; the five classes, which sometimes signify different orders of created beings, can, in one or two passages, apply to human beings alone; whether to the four usual distinctions with the Nishada for the fifth is not explicitly asserted in the text, although it is so understood by the commentator. The designation of Brahmana not infrequently occurs, although its specific application may be questionable: in one passage (p. 153, v. 1) we have the term Kshatriya, as the immediate dependant upon a Raja: Vath, meaning people in general, offers the rudiments of Vaishya, although not precisely the same word; we have not, however, met anywhere with the term Shudra, although the thing may be intended by the words Dasas and Dasih slave and serviles; the absence of the appropriate appellation is, however, a reasonable argument against the recognition of the order to which it belongs; and it must be admitted that the indications of the four recognized castes are imperfect and inconclusive.

Whatever may be the case with the specification of caste, however, the same entire abstinence that has been heretofore observed from all allusion to the objects of worship consecrated by the Puranas and Tantras continues to prevail in the two additional sections now translated; and the personified triad of divine attributes, Brahma, Vishnu, Shiva, in their capacities of creator, preserver, destroyer, with the popular forms of the two latter Krishna and the Linga, and all the manifestations of the bride of Mahadeva, continue to be utterly unknown to the primitive texts of the religion of the Hindus.

NOTE TO THIS EDITION.

The alterations made in this volume follow the lines indicated in the Prefatory Note to Volume I, with the following addition:

The third volume of the original edition is very bulky and contains the third and fourth Ashtakas. The fourth Ashtaka ends with the 61st Sukta of the sixth Mandala. I finish this volume with the fifth Mandala. The Introduction naturally contains some references to the sixth Mandala, and these the reader will find in the next volume.

The deity is Agni; the Rishi is Vishwamitra; the metre is Trisshtubh.

1. The (rays) of the blackbacked, all-sustaining (Agni) have arisen, and pervaded the parents (earth and heaven) and the flowing rivers; the surrounding parents co-operate with him, and bestow long life for the sake of assiduous worship.

2. The sky-traversing steeds of the showerer (of benefits) are the milch kine (of Agni); as he attains the divine (rivers), bearers of sweet (water). One sacred sound glorifies thee (Agni), who art desirous of repose, pacifying (thy flames) in the abode of the water (the firmament).

3. Their lord has mounted on his well-trained mares; the sagacious selector of treasures, the blackbacked, many-limbed (Agni) has granted them a place of rest for the cherishing of (their) rapid speed.

4. The flowing (rivers) invigorating him, bear along the great son of Twashtri, the undecaying upholder (of the

13. Agni who is to be worshipped with praise and with prostration, the disperser of darkness, the beautiful, the showerer (of benefits) is kindled.

14. The offerers of oblations glorify that Agni who is the showerer (of benefits) and is the bearer of the offerings to the gods as a horse (hears his rider to his home).

15. Showerer (of benefits) we profusely offering (oblations) kindle thee, mighty and resplendent Agni, who art the sender of showers.

III. 2. 16.

The deity and Rishi are as before; the metre of the third stanza is Dahak; of the fourth Triklish; of the fifth Jayati, of the rest Gayatri.

1. Agni, by whom all is known, who rewardst pious acts with wealth, accept our cakes offered with butter at the morning worship.

2. The cakes and butter are dressed, Agni, and verily prepared for thee; accept them youngest (of the gods).

3. Eat, Agni, the cakes and butter offered as the day disappears; thou, son of strength, art stationed (by us) at the sacrifice.

4. Wise Jatyvedas accept the cakes and butter offered in this sacrifice at the mid-day rite; prudent (worshippers), withhold not at solemn ceremonies the portion of thee who art mighty.

5. Be pleased, Agni, son of strength, with the cakes and butter offered at the third (daily sacrifice), and do thou (propitiated) by praise convey the precious imperishable and awakening (oblation) to the immortal gods.
6. Agni who art Jatavedas and art thriving upon oblations, accept the cakes and butter as the day disappears.

III. 2. 17.

The deity is Agni, except in the fifth verse, where the officiating priest is supposed to take his place; the Rishi is Vishwamitra; the metre of the first, fourth, tenth, and twelfth stanzas is Anasaktuh; of the eighth, eleventh, fourteenth, and fifteenth, Jagati, and of the rest Tristubh.

1. This, the apparatus of attrition is ready; the generation (of the flame) is ready; take up this (stick) the protectress of mankind, and let us churn the fire as has been done of old.

2. Jatavedas has been deposited in the two sticks as the embryo is deposited in pregnant women: Agni is to be adored day by day by vigilant men laden with oblations.

3. Let the intelligent priest place the lower of the sticks with the face upwards, the upper (with the surface) downwards, so that quickly impregnated it may generate the showerer (of benefits) Agni; then the bright blazing son of Ita whose light dissipates the darkness is born of the wood of attrition.

4. Agni who art Jatavedas, we place thee upon the earth in the centre, in the place of Ita: for the purpose of receiving the oblation.

5. Conductors of the rite, produce by attrition the far-seeing, single-minded, intelligent, immortal, radiant-limbed Agni; generate him, leaders (of the solemnity), in the first place the chief standard of the sacrifice, who is the source of felicity.
6. When they rub (the sticks) with their arms the radiant Agni bursts forth from the wood like a fleet courser, and like the many-coloured car of the Ashvins unresisted in its course, Agni spreads wide around consuming stones and trees.

7. As soon as born Agni, shines intelligent, swift-moving, skilled in rites; praised by the wise, and liberal in gifts; (and it is he) whom the gods have held as the bearer of oblations at sacrifices, adorable and all-knowing.

8. Offerer of oblations sit down in thine own sphere, for thou art cognizant (of holy acts), and station the institutor of the ceremony in the chief place of the sacred rite: cherisher of the gods, worship the gods, Agni, and bestow abundant food on the founder of the sacrifice.

9. Produce, friends, smoke, the showerer (of benefits); indefatigable persist in the contest with (Agni): the heroic Agni is able to encounter hosts, and by him the gods overcome their foes.

10. This in every season, Agni, is thy place, whence, as soon as generated, thou hast ever shone: knowing that to be so, Agni, there abide, and thrive by our praises.

11. When (existing) as an embryo (in the wood), Agni is called Tanunapat; when he is generated (he is called) the Asura-destroying Narashansa; when he has displayed (his energy) in the material firmament, Matarishvas; and the creation of the wind is in his rapid motion.

12. Agni, who art pronounced by reverential attrition, and deposited with reverential care, and who art far-seeing, render our rites (exempt from defects), and worship the gods (on behalf) of the devout worshipper.
13. Mortals have begotten the immortals, the undecaying (Agni), the devourer of oblations, the conveyance (by which they cross over sin), the ten sister fingers intertwined proclaim him born as if it was a male (infant).

14. Agni, who has seven ministering priests, shines eternally; when he has blazed upon the bosom and lap of his mother (earth), he is vociferous (with delight): day by day he never slumbers after he is born from the interior of the (spark) emitting wood.

15. The Kushikas, the first-born of Brahma, armed against enemies like the energies of the Maruts, comprehend the universe; they have uttered the prayer accompanied by the oblation: they have one by one lighted Agni in this dwelling.

16. Agni, offerer of oblations, cognizant of rites, inasmuch as we have recourse to thee to-day in this progressing sacrifice, therefore do thou steadily convey (the offering to the gods), or tranquilly be at rest, and knowing (the purport of our acts), and wise (in all respects), approach (and accept) the Soma libation.

ANUVAKA III.

III. 3. 1.

The deity is Indra; the Rishi Vishwamitra; the mantra Trishtuk.

1. The bearers of the libations desire thee; thy friends pour forth the Soma juice; they offer copious oblations; (supported by thee) they endure patiently the calumny of men, for who is so renowned as thou art.
2. Master of tawny steeds; the remotest regions are not remote for thee; then come quickly with thy horses: to thee, the steady showerer (of benefits), these sacrifices are presented; the stones (for bruising the Soma) are ready, as the fire is being kindled.

3. Showerer (of benefits, who art) Indra, the wearer of the helmet, the professor of opulence, the conveyer (of men beyond evil), the leader of the numerous troop (of the Maruts), the achiever of many great deeds, the devastator of hostile (regions), the terror of thy foes, where are those heroic deeds (which thou hast performed) against the mortal (Asuras) when opposed (by them in battle).

4. Thou alone casting down the firmly-footed (Asuras) proceedest, destroying the Vritras, and obedient to thy command the heaven and earth and the mountains stood as if immovable.

5. Thou alone, when invoked by many, and the slayer of Vritra by thy prowess, didst say firmly (to the gods), fear not! Indra, endowed with opulence, vast is thy grasp, wherewith thou hast seized these unbounded regions, heaven and earth.

6. Let (thy car), Indra, drawn by thy horses (rush) downwards (upon the Asuras); let thy destroying thunderbolt fall upon thine enemies; slay those that assail in front or in rear, or that fly (from the combat); make the universe (the abode of) truth; (let such power) be concentrated in thee.

7. The man to whom thou grantest, lord of power, (thy good-will), enjoys unprecedented domestic (prosperity): Indra, who art invoked by many, thy auspicious favour, which is obtained by oblations, is the giver of unbounded wealth.

8. Indra, who art invoked by many, grind to dust the reviling malevolent Vṛtra opposing thee, dwelling with the mother of the Danavas, and increasing in might, until having deprived him of hand and foot, thou hast destroyed him by thy strength.

9. Thou hast fixed tranquil in its position the vast unbounded and wandering earth: the showerer (of benefits) has upheld the heaven and the firmament: let the waters engendered by thee here descend.

10. The heavy cloud, the receptacle of the water: dreading (thee) its destroyer, opened out before (thou hadst cast thy bolt): then Indra made easily-traversed paths for the waters to issue, and desirable and loud sounding they proceeded to the (waters of the earth) invoked of many.

11. Indra alone has filled the two, both earth and heaven mutually combined, and abounding with wealth: do thou, hero, mounted in thy car, come with thy harnessed horses from the firmament: impatient to be near us.

12. Surya harms not the quarters (of the horizon), set open daily (for his journey), the progeny of Haryashwa: when he has traversed the roads (he is to travel), then he lets loose his horses, for such is his office.

13. All men are anxious to behold the great and variegated host (of the solar rays) at the issuing of the dawn after the night has been displaced: and when the morning has come, they recognize the many great and glorious acts of Indra.
14. A great light has been shed upon the rivers: the cow yet immature grazes, charged with the ripe (milk), for Indra has placed in the cow all this collected sweetness for food.

15. Indra, be firm, for there are obstructors of (thy) path: secure to the worshipper and his friends (the means of completing) the sacrifice: mortal enemies bearing bows, armed with mischievous weapons, and coming with evil intent, must be destroyed (by thee).

16. The sound (of thy bolt) has been heard by the approaching foes: hurl upon them the consuming thunderbolt, cut them up by the root, oppose, Maghavan, overcome, slay the Rakshasas, complete (the sacrifice).

17. Pluck up the Rakshasas, Indra, by the root; cut asunder the middle, blight the summit: to whatever remote (regions) thou hast driven the sinner, cast upon the enemy of the Veda thy consuming weapon.

18. Regulator (of the world provide us) with horses for our welfare, and when thou art seated near to us may we become mighty, enjoying abundant food, and ample riches, and may there be to us wealth accompanied by progeny.

19. Bring to us, Indra, splendid affluence: we rely on the bounty of thee who art fond of giving: our desire is as insatiable as the fire of the ocean: appease it, lord of infinite riches.

20. Gratify this our desire (of wealth) with cows, with horses, with shining treasure, and make us renowned: the wise Kushikas, desirous of heaven, offer praise to thee, Indra, with pious (prayers).
21. Indra, lord of cattle, (divide the clouds and send us) rain, whence nutritious food may come to us: showerer (of benefits), thou art spread through the sky, and powerful through truth: Maghavan, consider thyself as our protector.

22. We invoke for our protection the opulent Indra, distinguished in this combat; the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

III. 3. 2.

The deity and Rishi are the same, or the latter may be another Visvamitra, the son of Ishvartha, of the family of Kushika; the mette is Triakthuh.

1. The sonless father, regulating (the contract), refers to his grandson, (the son) of his daughter, and relying on the efficiency of the rite, honours (his son-in-law) with valuable gifts: the father, trusting to the impregnation of the daughter, supports himself with a tranquil mind.

2. (A son) born of the body, does not transfer (paternal) wealth to a sister: he has made (her) the receptacle of the embryo of the husband: if the parents procreate children (of either sex), one is the performer of holy acts, the other is to be enriched (with gifts).

3. For the worship of the resplendent (Indra), Agni, glowing with flame, has begotten mighty sons: great was the germ, and great was their birth, and great was their efficacy, for the worship of Haryashwa.

4. The victorious (Maruts) associated (with Indra when contending with Vritra) perceived a great light issuing from the darkness. The dawns recognizing him (as the sun) arose, and Indra was the sole sovereign of the rays (of light).

5. The seven intelligent sages (the Angirasas) having ascertained that (the cows) were concealed in the strong (cavern), propitiated (Indra) by mental devotion; they recovered them all by the path of sacrifice; for Indra, knowing (their pious acts), and offering them homage, entered (the cave).

6. When Sarama discovered the broken (entrance) of the mountain, then Indra made great and ample (provision) for her young, as previously (promised): then the sure-footed (animal), first recognizing their lowing, proceeded, and came to the presence of the imperishable kine.

7. The most sage (Indra), desirous of the friendship of the (Angirasas), went to the cave, and the mountain yielded its contents to the valiant (deity), aided by the youthful Maruts, equally wishing (to conciliate the sages): the destroyer (of the Asuras) recovered (the cattle), and immediately Angiras became his worshipper.

8. May he who is the type of all that is excellent, the anticipator (of his foes), he who knows all that is born, who destroys Shushna, the far-seeing, the restorer of cattle, may he, a friend coming from heaven, honouring us as his friends, be free from all reproach.

9. The Angirasas, with minds intent on their cattle, (sat down to worship Indra) with hymns, following the road to immortality; great was this their perseverance, by which they sought for months to accomplish (their ends).

10. Contemplating their own (cattle) giving milk to their former progeny (the Angirasas) were delighted; their shouts spread through heaven and earth; they replaced the recovered kine in their places, and stationed guards over the cows.

11. Indra, the slayer of Vritra, let loose the milch kine, assisted by the Maruts, born for his aid, and entitled to praises and oblations, and the excellent (cows) contributing abundantly to sacred offerings, and yielding the butter of libation, milked for him sweet (sacrificial) food.

12. They (the Angirasas) performing pious acts made for their protector a spacious and splendid abode which they celebrated: seated (at the sacrifice) and supporting with the pillar (of the firmament) the parents (of all things heaven and earth), they established the rapid Indra on high (in heaven).

13. Inasmuch as our devout praise has appointed a thriving ruler for the regulation of heaven and earth, to whom faultless and appropriate commendations (are due), therefore are all the energies of Indra spontaneously exerted.

14. I wish, Indra, for thy friendship, and (the exercise of) thy powers: many horses come to the slayer of Vritra; we offer to thee, sage, great praise and oblations: consider thyself, Makaravan as our protector.

15. Wide fields, vast treasure, (spacious) pastures, has the much-knowing (Indra) bestowed upon his friends: the radiant Indra with the leaders (of rites, the Maruts) generated the sun, the dawn, the earth, and fire.

16. This lowly-minded Indra has created the widespread, commingled, all-delighting waters; and they, purifying the sweet (libations) with the sage purifiers, and being benevolent (to all), proceed with (the revolutions) of days and nights.

17. The two adorable (alternations of) day and night, upholding (all things) by the might of the sun, successively revolve: thy sincere and acceptable friends (the Maruts) are ready to encounter (thy foes) and maintain thy greatness.

18. Slayer of Vritra, do thou, who art long lived, the showerer (of benefits), the giver of food, be the lord of our true praises, repairing (to the sacrifice), come to us great, with great, friendly, and auspicious protections.

19. Worshipping him with reverence, like an Angiras, I make the ancient (Indra) renovate to accept the oblation: destroy the many impious oppressors (of thy worshippers), and bestow upon us, Madhavan, thine own (wealth) for our acceptance.

20. Thy purifying waters have been spread abroad: fill their beds for our welfare: riding on thy car, defend us from the malevolent, and make us quickly the conquerors of cattle.

21. Indra, the slayer of Vritra, the lord of herds, has discovered the cattle, and by his radiant effulgence driven away the black (Asuras), and indicating with veracity (to the Angirasas) the honest (kine), be shut the gate upon all their own cattle.

22. We invoke for our protection the opulent Indra, distinguished in this combat, the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.
III. 3. 3.

The deity, Rishi, and metre the same.

1. Indra, lord of the Soma, drink this Soma juice which is grateful to thee at noon-day sacrifice; Maghavan, partaker of the spiritless Soma, unyoke thy horses, and, filling their jaws (with fodder), exhilarate them at this ceremony.

2. Indra, drink the Soma juice mixed with milk, with butter-milk, or fresh; we offer it for thy exhilaration, associated with the devout company of the Maruts and the Rudras: drink it till thou art satisfied.

3. These are the Maruts. Indra, who, worshipping thy prowess, augment thy withering force (by their aid): attended by the Rudras, drink, wielder of the thunderbolt, and handsome-chinned, at the noon-day sacrifice.

4. Those were the Maruts who were the strength of Indra, and gently encouraged him; animated by whom he pierced the vital part of Vritra, fancying himself invulnerable.

5. Phased with the sacrifice, as if it was that of Manu, drink, Indra, the Soma juice, for the sake of perpetual vigour: come, lord of the tawny steeds, with the adorable Maruts, and with the traversers (of the air): send down the waters (of the firmament) to (blend with) the waters of the earth.

6. Inasmuch as thou hast slain with active strife the slumbering, darkling, water-investing Vritra, thou hast let forth the bright waters like horses (rushing) into battle.

7. Therefore we sacrifice with reverence to the vast and mighty Indra, who is adorable, undecaying, young; whose magnitude the unbounded heaven and earth have not measured, nor can measure.

8. All the gods cannot detract from the many glorious exploits, and pious works of Indra: he who has upheld earth, and heaven, and the firmament, and who, the performer of great deeds, has engendered the sun and the dawn.

9. Doer of no wrong, such was thy true greatness, that as soon as born, thou hast quaffed the Soma juice: neither the heavens, nor days, nor months, nor years, resist the force of thee who art mighty.

10. As soon as born in the highest heaven, thou hast quaffed, Indra, the Soma juice for thy exhilaration; and when thou hadst pervaded the heaven and earth, thou becamest the primary artificer (of creation).

11. Indra, from whom many are born; thou who art vigorous hast slain Ahi, enveloping the slumbering water, and confiding in his prowess; yet the heaven apprehended not thy greatness as thou remainedst concealing the earth by one of (thy) flames.

12. This our sacrifice, Indra, is thy augmentation, for the rite in which the Soma is effused is acceptable to thee: do thou who art deserving of worship protect the worshipper by (the efficacy of) the worship, and may this sacrifice strengthen thy thunderbolt for the slaying of Ahi.

13. The worshipper, by his conservatory sacrifice, has made Indra present; may I bring him to my presence to obtain new wealth, him who has been exalted by praises, whether ancient, medieval, or recent.
14. When the thought of glorifying Indra entered my mind, then I gave birth (to his praises): may I laud him before encountering distant (evil) days, whereby he may guide us beyond sin; for those on both sides of us invoke him, as (those on either bank of a river hail) a passenger in a boat.

15. The vase is filled for him (with soma); welcome Indra: I pour it out for thee to drink, as a water-carrier (pours water) from his bag: may the grateful soma juice flow in reverence round Indra for his exhilaration.

16. Invoked of many, the deep ocean arrests thee not, nor do the accompanying mountains (stay thee); and therefore, summoned by thy friends, thou hast repressed the strong flame abiding in the abyss.

17. We invoke for our protection the opulent Indra, distinguished in this combat, the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

III. 3. 4.

As this hymn consists of a dialogue between Vishnu-mitra and the rivers Vipash and Shutudri, they are considered to be respectively the Rishis of the verses ascribed to either: the divinity is Indra; the metre is Trikatab, except in the last verse, in which it is Amashakham.

1. Rushing from the flanks of the mountains, eager (to reach the sea) like two mares with loosened reins contending (with each other in speed), like two fair mother cows (hastening) to caress (their calves), the Vipash and Shutudri, flow rapidly with (united) waters.

2. Impelled by Indra, soliciting (his commands), you go to the ocean like charioteers (to their goal): flowing together, and swelling with (your) waves, bright (rivers), one of you proceeds to the other.

3. I repaired to the most maternal river; I went to the wide auspicious Vipash. flowing together to a common receptacle, like parent cows (hastening to) caress the calf.

4. The rivers speak] Fertilizing (the land) with this
(our) current, we are flowing to the receptacle which has been appointed by the deity (Indra): the course appointed for our going (permits) not of delay: of what is the sage desirous, that he addresses the rivers?

5. Vishwamitra speaks] Rivers, charged with water, rest a moment from your course at my request, who go to gather the Soma (plant): I, the son of Kushika, desirous of protection, address with earnest prayer especially the river before me.

6. The rivers speak] Indra, the wielder of the thunderbolt, dug our channels when he slew Ahī the blocker-up of rivers: the divine and well-handed Savitri has led us (on our path), and obedient to his commands we flow (as) ample (streams).

7. Vishwamitra speaks] Ever is that heroic exploit of Indra to be celebrated when he cut Ahī to pieces, and with his thunderbolt destroyed the surrounding (obstructor of the rain), whence the waters proceed in the direction they desire.

8. The rivers speak] Praisers of Indra, forget not this speech, nor the words that (thou hast addressed to us) for future ages (to reverence); celebrator (of holy rites), be favourable to us in solemn prayers; treat us not after the (arrogant fashion) of men; salutation be to thee!
9. Vishwamitra speaks] Listen, sister (streams), kindly to him who praises you; who has come from afar with a waggon and chariot; bow down lowly; become easily fordable; remain, rivers; lower than the axle (of the wheel) with your currents.

10. The rivers speak] Hymner, we hear thy words, that thou hast come from afar with a waggon and a chariot; we bow down before thee; like a woman nursing (her child), like a maiden bending to embrace a man. (so will we do) for thee.

11. Vishwamitra speaks] Since, rivers, (you have allowed me to cross), so may the Bharatas pass over (your united stream): may the troop desiring to cross the water, permitted (by you), and impelled by Indra, pass; then let the course appointed for your going (be resumed): I have recourse to the favour of you who are worthy of adoration.

12. The Bharatas seeking cattle passed over: the sage enjoyed the favour of the rivers: streams dispensing food, productive of wealth, spread abundance, fill (your beds), flow swiftly.

13. Let your waves (rivers) so flow that the pin of the yoke may be above (their) waters: leave the traces full, and may (the two streams), exempt from misfortune or defect, and uncensured, exhibit no (present) increase.

III. 3. 5.

Indra is the deity; the Rishi is Vishwamitra; the metre Trishtubh.

1. Indra, the destroyer of cities, possessed of wealth, manifesting (his greatness), merciless to his enemies, has overspread the day with his radiance: attracted by prayer, increasing in bulk, and armed with many weapons, he has delighted both heaven and earth.

2. Decorating thee, I address sincere prayers to thee who art adorable and mighty, for the sake of (obtaining) food: thou, INDRA, art the preceptor of men the descendants of MANU, and of the descendants of the gods.

3. INDRA, of glorious deeds, destroyed VRTTRA: resistless in combat, he has overcome the deceivers resolved to consume him: he slew the mutilated (demon lurking) in the woods, and made manifest the (stolen) kine (that had been hidden) in the night.

4. INDRA, the giver of Swarga, generating the days, has subdued victorious with the eager (Angirasas) the hostile hosts, and illumining for man the banner of the days, he obtained light for the great conflict.

5. INDRA entered the confiding hostile (hosts) like a man distributing many (gifts) to (his) leaders; he has animated these dawns for the worshipper, and heightened their bright radiance (by his own).

6. They celebrate many great and glorious exploits of this mighty INDRA: he crushed the strong by his strength, and, of overpowering prowess, he overcame the Dasyus by delusions.

7. Lord of the virtuous, fulfiller of the wishes of men, he gave to the gods the wealth (that had been won) in fierce battle, and therefore far-seeing sages glorify those his exploits with praises in the dwelling of the worshipper.

8. Devout worshippers propitiate INDRA, the victorious, the excellent, the bestower of strength, the enjoyer of heaven and the divine waters, and who was the giver of the earth and heaven and this (firmament to their inhabitants).

9. He gave horses, he gave also the sun, and Indra gave also the many-nourishing cow; he gave golden treasure, and having destroyed the Dasypus, he protected the Aryan tribe.

10. Indra bestowed plants and days, he gave trees and the firmament, he divided the cloud, he scattered opponents, he was the tamer of adversaries.

11. We invoke for our protection the opulent Indra, distinguished in this combat, the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

III. 3. 6. 35

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Stay, Indra, having yoked the horses to the car, as Vayu stops when he has put to his steeds, and come to our presence: solicited by us to drink of the (Somá) beverage, which with reverence we offer for thy exhilarration.

2. I harness for thee, who art invoked by many, the swift gliding horses to the shafts of the car, that they may bear Indra to this sacrifice that is prepared with all (that is required).

3. Showerer (of benefits), giver of food, guide hither thy vigorous horses, defending (us) against foes, and protect (thy worshippers): here unharness the bay steeds, and give them fodder, and do thou eat daily suitable food.
4. I harness with prayer thy horses, who are to be harnessed with prayer, who are allies and swift-paced in battle; arise, and, all-knowing Indra, mounting on thy firm and easy chariot, come to the libation.

5. Let not other sacrifices attract thy vigorous and smooth-backed steeds; disregarding others, come perpetually hither, that we may propitiate thee sufficiently with effused Soma libations.

6. This Soma libation is for thee: come down, and, well disposed, drink of it unceasingly: seated on the sacred grass at this sacrifice, take, Indra, this (libation) into your belly.

7. The sacred grass is strewn for thee; the Soma juice, Indra, is poured forth; the grain wherewith to feed thy horses is prepared; the oblations are offered to thee abiding on the sacred grass, who art praised of many, and (art) the showerer (of benefits), attended by the Maruts.

8. The leaders (of the ceremony) have prepared for thee, Indra, this (libation), sweetened with milk, the stones, the water: beautiful Indra, who art favourably disposed, and who art wise, knowing well (the worship) that is according to thy peculiar paths, come and drink of this libation.

9. Associated, Indra, with those Maruts with whom thou hast shared in the libation, who encouraged thee (in battle), and are thy attendant troop, drink, desirous (of the beverage), the Soma juice, along with them, with the tongue of Agni.

10. Adorable Indra, drink of the effused libation, either by thine own effort, or through the tongue of Agni; drink it, SHAKRA, offered by the hand of the Adhvaryu, or accept the presentation of the oblation (from the hand) of the Hotri.

11. We invoke for our protection the opulent Indra, distinguished in this combat; the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

III. 3. 7

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Indra, who art constantly seeking (association) with your allies (the Maruts) accept this: our offering (made) for the grant (from thee of riches): for thou art one who grows with augmenting energies, through reiterated libations, and hast been renowned for glorious deeds.

2. To Indra have libations been presented in the days of old, whereby he hath become illustrious, the regulator of time, the granter of desires: accept, Indra, these prescribed (offerings), and drink of this auspicious (beverage), expressed by the stones.

3. Drink, Indra, and thrive: thine are these (present) libations, as were the primitive libations: do thou, who art adorable, drink to-day the recent libations, as thou drainedst those of old.

4. The great Indra, the victorious in battle, the defier of foes: his fierce strength and resolute vigour are exerted: verily the earth does not contain him, neither (does the heaven), when the Soma libations exhilarate the lord of the tawny steeds.
5. The mighty, fierce, auspicious Indra, the showerer of benefits, augments (in power) as he is animated for heroic acts by praise: his cattle are generated givers of food: many are his donations.

6. As the rivers pursue their course, the waters rush to the ocean, like the drivers of cars (to a goal), so the vast Indra (hastens) from his dwelling (in the firmament), when the humble Soma libation propitiates him.

7. As the rivers are solicitous (to mix) with the ocean, so (are the priests) bearing the efficient libation to Indra: holding in their hands they milk the Soma plant, and purify the sweet juices (as they fall) in drops through the purifying filters.

8. The stomach of Indra (is) as capacious (a receptacle) of Soma, as a lake, for he has partaken of it at many sacrifices; and inasmuch as he has eaten the first (sacrificial) viands, he has been the slayer of Vritra, and has shared the Soma (with the gods).

9. Quickly, Indra, bring (wealth); let no one impede thee, for we know thee to be the lord of wealth, of all treasures; and since, Indra, thy greatness is munificence, therefore, lord of the tawny steeds, grant us (riches).

10. Opulent Indra, receiver of the spiritless Soma juice, give to us riches in universally desired quantity; grant us to live a hundred years: bestow upon us, Indra, with the handsome chin, numerous posterity.

11. We invoke for our protection the opulent Indra, distinguished in this combat; the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.
Deity and Rishi as before, the metre is Gayatri, except in the last verse, in which it is Avasahubh.

1. We excite thee, Indra, to exert the strength that destroys Vritra, and overpowers hostile armies.

2. May (thy) praisers, Indra, who art worshipped in a hundred rites, direct thy mind and thine eyes towards us.

3. We recite, Indra, who art worshipped in a hundred rites, (thy many) names in all our hymns for strength to resist our foes.

4. We repeat the praise of the many-lauded Indra, the supporter of man, invested with a hundred glories.

5. I invoke thee, Indra, who art invoked of many for the slaying of Vritra, and the granting of food (as the spoil) of battle.

6. Be victorious, Indra, in battles: we solicit thee, object of many rites, to destroy Vritra.

7. Overcome, Indra, those who are adverse to us in riches, in battle, in hostile hosts, in strength.

8. Drink, Indra, object of many rites, for our preservation, the most invigorating, fame-conferring, sleep-dupelling, Soma juice.

3. Comprehending hidden (mysteries) here on earth, they have, through their power, made manifest (the things of) heaven and earth; they have set limits to them by their elements; they connected them both mutually united, wide-spread and vast, and fixed the intermediate (firmament) to sustain them.

4. They all ornamented (Indra) standing (in his car); and, clothed in beauty, he proceeds self-radiant; wonderful are the acts of that showerer (of benefits), the influencer (of consciences), who omniform, presides over the ambrosial (waters).
5. The showerer (of benefits), the precessor and elder (of the gods), generated (the waters): they are the abundant allayers of his thirst: sovereign Indra and Varuna, grandsons of heaven, you possess the wealth (that is to be acquired) by the rites of the splendid sacrifice.

6. Royal Indra and Varuna: embellish the three universal sacrifices (and make them) full (of all requisites) for this celebration: thou hast gone to the rite, for I have beheld in my mind, at this solemnity, the Gandharvas with hair (waving) in the wind.

4. The upholder of heaven and of the firmament, the wind, like a chariot traversing the upper (region) accompanied by the Vasus; the clother of the night (with gloom), the parent of the sun, the distributer of the portion (allotted to the pious), like the words (of the wealthy appropriating to all) the food.

3. Adhunargya: let us two offer praise: do thou concur with me: let us address pleasing praise to Indra: sit down, Indra, on the sacred grass (prepared by) the institutor of the rite; and may our commendations be most acceptable to Indra.

4. A man's wife, Maghavan, is his dwelling: verily she is his place of birth: thither let thy horses, harnessed (to thy car), convey thee: we prepare the Soma juice at the fit season: may Agni come as our messenger before thee.

tector, there is a motive for thee, whether it be standing in thy vast chariot, or liberating thy neighing steed.

7. These (sacrificers) are the Bhojas, of whom the diversified Angirasas (are the priests); and the heroic sons of the expeller (of the foes of the gods) from heaven, bestowing riches upon Vishwamitra at the sacrifice of a thousand (victims), prolong (his) life.

8. Maghavan becomes repeatedly (manifest) in various forms, practising delusions with respect to his own peculiar person; and invoked by his appropriate prayers, he comes in a moment from heaven to the three (daily rites), and, although observant of seasons, is the drinker (of the Soma) irrespective of season.

11. Approach, Kushikas, the steed of Sudas; animate (him), and let him loose to (win) riches (for the raja); for the king (of the gods) has slain Vritra in the East, in the West, in the North, therefore let (Sudas) worship him in the best (regions) of the earth.

and earth, and this prayer of Vishwamitra protects the race of Bharata.

Indra, the wielder of the thunderbolt: may he therefore render us very opulent.
14. What do the cattle for thee among the Kikatás; they yield no milk to mix with the Soma, they need not the wealth of the son of the usurer, and give us, Machavan, (tho possessions) of the low branches (of the community).

pole be not defective, the yoke not be rotten; may Indra preserve the two yoke-pins from decay: car with uninjured fellows, be ready for us.

to our vehicles; (give) strength to our sons and grandsons;
that they may live (long); for thou art the giver of strength.

solidity to the shishu (fello) of the car; strong axle, strongly fixed by us, be strong: cast us not from out of our conveyance.

21. Indra, hero, possessor of wealth, protect us this day against our foes with many and excellent defences: may the vile wretch who hates us fall (before us); may the breath of life depart from him whom we hate.

22. As (the tree) suffers pain from the axe, as the Simal flower is (easily) cut off, as the injured cauldron leaking scatters foam, so may mine enemy perish.

23. Men (the might) of the destroyer is not known to you: regarding him as a mere animal, they lead him away desirous (silently to complete his devotions): the wise condescend not to turn the foolish into ridicule, they do not lead the ass before the horse.

24. These sons of Bharata, Indra, understand severance (from the Vasishthas), not association (with them): they urge their steeds (against them) as against a constant foe: they bear a stout bow (for their destruction) in battle.

3. Heaven and earth, may your truth be ever inviolable: be propitious to us for the due completion of the rite: this adoration (Agni) is offered to heaven and earth: I worship (them) with (sacrificial) food; I solicit of them precious (wealth).

4. Heaven and earth, endowed with truth, they who are the ancient declarers of the truth, have obtained from you (what they desired); and so, earth, men cognizant (of the greatness of you both) have worshipped you for the sake of triumphing over (hostile) heroes in battle.

5. Who knows what is the truth, or who may here declare it! what is the proper path that leads to the gods! their inferior abiding places are beheld, as are those which (are situated) in superior mysterious rites.

6. The far-seeing beholder of mankind (the sun), surveys this heaven and earth, rejoicing when deficient in moisture in the womb of the waters (the firmament), both concurring in community (of function), although they occupy various dwellings, like the diversified nests of a bird.

7. Common (in function), disjoined, of distant termination, they remain vigilant in a permanent station: being, as it were, sisters, and ever young; they therefore address each other by twin appellations.

8. These two keep all born things discrete, and, although comprehending the great divinities, are not distressed:
all moving and stationary beings rest upon one (basis), whether animals, or birds, or creatures of various kinds.

9. I consider at present the eternal and ancient sisterhood to us of thee, our great protectress and progenitrix, within whose vast and separated path thy eulogists, the gods, travel in their chariots.

10. I repeat this hymn, heaven and earth, to you; and may the soft-bellied, fire-tongued Mithra, royal Varuna, the youthful Adityas, all cognizant of the past, and proclaiming (their own acts), hear it.

11. The golden-handed, soft-tongued Savitri is descending from heaven (to be present) thrice (daily) at the sacrifice: accept, Savitri, the praise (recited by) the worshippers, and thereupon grant to us all our desires.

12. May the divine Twashtri, the able artificer, the dextrous-handed, the possessor of wealth, the observer of truth, bestow upon us those things (which are necessary) for our preservation: Ribhus, associated with Pushan, make us joyful, as they (the priests), with uplifted stones, prepare the sacred libation.

13. May the Maruts, whose ears are the lightning, who are armed with spears, resplendent, destroyers of foes, from whom the waters proceed, (who are) unresting and adorable, and may Saraswati hear (my prayer); and may you (Maruts) speedy in your liberality, bestow (upon us) riches and good offspring.

14. May (our) praises and prayers, the causes of good fortune, attain at this sacrifice Vishnu, the object of many rites; he, the wide-stepping; whose commands the many-blending regions of space, the generators (of all beings), do not disobey.

15. INDRA, invested with all energies, has filled both heaven and earth with his greatness: do thou, who art the destroyer of cities, the slayer of Vritra, the leader of a conquering host, collect cattle and bestow them abundantly upon us.

16. NASATYAS, my protectors, inquirers (after the wishes) of your kinsman, beautiful is your cognate appellation of Ashwins: be to us the liberal donors of riches; do you, who are irresistible, protect the offerer (of the oblation) with unblamable (defences).

17. Sages acquainted with the past, excellent is that beautiful appellation under which you have both become gods in (the sphere of) INDRA: do thou, INDRA, the invoked of many, a friend, (associated) with the beloved Rishus, shape this prayer for our benefit.

18. May ARYAMAN, ADITI, the adorable (gods), and the unimpeded functions of VARUNA (protect) us: keep us from (following) the course unpropitious to offspring, and may our dwelling be abundant in progeny and cattle.

19. May the messenger of the gods, engendered in many places, everywhere proclaim us void of offence: may earth and heaven, the waters, the sun, and the vast firmament, with the constellations, hear us.

20. May the (divine) showerers (of benefits), the deities of the mountains, and those abiding in fixed habitations, propitiated by the sacrificial food, hear us: may ADITI, with the Adityas, hear us: may the Maruts grant us auspicious felicity.
21. May our path ever be easy of going, and provided with food: sprinkle, gods, the plants with sweet water: (safe) in thy friendship, Agni, may my fortune never be impaired, but may I occupy a dwelling (abounding) with riches and ample food.

22. Taste (Agni) the oblations; make manifest (for us) abundant food; measure out the viands before us: thou overcomest all those (who are) our enemies in conflict: favourably inclined towards us lighten up all our (ceremonies) day by day.

III. 5. 2.

The deities are the Vishvadevas; the Rishi is Prajapati; the metre Tristubh.

2. Let not the gods, Agni, now do us harm, nor the ancient progenitors, who have come to know the degree (of divinity); nor the manifester of light between the two ancient dwellings (earth and heaven, the sun); for great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

14. The earth wears bodies of many forms: she abides on high cherishing her year and a half old (calf): knowing the abode of the truth (the sun). I offer worship: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

15. Like two (distinguishing) impressions, they (day and night) are placed visible in the midat (between heaven and earth), one hidden, one manifest: the path (of both) is common, and that is universal (for good and evil): great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

16. May the milch kine without their young, abiding (in the heaven), and though unmilked, yet yielding milk; and ever fresh and youthful, be shaken (so as to perform their functions): great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

III. 5. 3.

The deities are the Vishwadevas; the Rishi is Prajapati; the metre Tristubh.

III. 5. 4.

The deities, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. May the discriminating Indra apprehend my glorification (of the gods), which is (free) as a milch cow, grazing alone, without a cowherd, one who is readily milked, yielding abundant nourishment, and of whom Agni and Indra (and we), are the commenders.

2. Indra and Pushan, the showerers (of benefits), and the happy-handed Ashwins, well affected towards us, have milked the (cloud) reposing in heaven; wherefore, Vasus, universal deities, sporting on this (altar), may I here obtain the happiness derived from you.

3. The plants that desire for the showerer (Indra) the power (of sending rain) appreciate, when manifest, the embryo (blossom) deposited in him: the kine desirous of reward come to the presence of the calf, invested with many forms.

The deities are the Ashwins; the Rishi and mantra as before.

1. The milch-cow (the dawn) yields the desired milk to the ancient (Agni); the son of the south passes within (the firmament); the bright-houred (day) brings the illuminative (sun); the praiser awakes (to glorify) the Ashwins preceding the dawn.

2. The well-yoked (horses) bear you both in your truth-preserving car; the offerings proceed towards you as (children to their parents); discard from us the disposition of the niggard; we have made ready for you our offering: come to our presence.

3. Dasras, with well-yoked horses and well-constructed car, hear this praise of the worshipper; for have not the ancient sages declared you, Ashwins, to be most ready to come to the aid of the destitute?

4. If you regard (my prayer), come with your quick steeds: all men, Ashwins, invoke you: to you they offer the sweet (Soma) juice mixed with milk, as friends (give gifts to friends): the sun is in advance; (therefore come to the rite).

9. Ashwins, this most sweet Soma is mixed; drink it: come to (our) dwelling: your car, repeatedly bestowing wealth, is coming to the appointed place of the offerer of the libation.

III. 5. 6.

The deity is Mitra; the Rishi, Vishwamitra; the metre of the first five verses is Trishtubh, of the last four Gayatri.

1. Mitra, when praised, animates men to exertion; Indra sustains both the earth and heaven: Mitra looks upon men with unclosing eyes; offer to Mitra the oblations of clarified butter.

2. May that mortal enjoy abundance, Mitra, who presents thee, Aditya, (with offerings) at the sacred rite; protected by thee he is not harmed; he is not overcome by any one; sin reaches him not, either from afar or nigh.

3. May we, exempt from disease, rejoicing in (abundant) food, roaming free over the wide (expanse) of the earth, diligent in the worship of Aditya, ever be in the good favour of Mitra.

4. This Mitra has been engendered adorable and to be served, the sovereign (over all), endowed with vigour, the creator (of the universe); may we ever be in the good favour, in the auspicious approbation, of this adorable (Aditya).

5. The great Aditya, the animator of men to exertion, is to be approached with reverence; he is the giver of happiness to him who praises him; offer with fire the acceptable libation to that most glorifiable Mitra.

The deities of the first four verses are the Ribhus, of the three last Indra; the Rishi is Vishwamitra; the metre Jagati.

1. Your connexion (with the consequences of acts) Ribhus is here (acknowledged) by the minds of all: desiring their share (of the sacrifice), oh men, they have come with a knowledge (of their claims) to these (rites): the sons of Sudhanwan, with the devices by which they are victorious over foes, you have accepted the share of the sacrifice.

2. With those faculties by which you have divided the ladies; with that intelligence wherewith you have covered the (dead) cow with skin; with that will by which you have fabricated the two horses (of Indra); with those (means), Ribhus, you have attained divinity.

3. The Ribhus, the performers of (good) works, the grandsons of a man, have attained the friendship of Indra: they have perpetuated (existence): the sons of Sudhanwan have attained immortality: performers of pious acts influencing (the result), through their devotion (they have attained divinity) by their works.

4. Go with Indra in his chariot when the libation is poured out, and be (welcomed) with honour by the (worshipper) desiring (your favour): Ribhus, sons of Sudhanwan, bestowers (of the rewards of pious acts), your virtuous deeds, your great faculties, are not to be measured.

5. Indra, along with the food-bestowing Ribhus, accept with both hands the (cup of the) effused Soma libation: excited Magnavan, by worship, rejoice with the human sons of SUDHANWAN in the dwelling of the donor (of the offering).

6. INDRA, the praised of many, associated with Rishus, and with VAJA, exult with SRACHI, at this our sacrifice: these self-revolving (days) are devoted to thee, as well as the ceremonies (addressed) to the gods, and the virtuous acts of man.

7. INDRA, with the food-bestowing Rishus rewarding (worship) with food, come hither to (receive) the reverential praise of the adorer, with a hundred quick-going steeds, the indications (of the Maruts): come to the burnt offering of the sacrifice, yielding a thousand blessings to the sacrificer.

III. 5. 8.

The deity is Ushas, the dawn; the Rishi as before; the metre Trikshish.

1. Affluent Ushas, giver of sustenance, possessed of intelligence, be propitiated by the praise of him who lands thee, (and worships) with (sacrificial) food: divine Ushas, adored by all, who (though) ancient art (still) young, the object of manifold worship, thou art present at the recurring (morning) rite.

2. Ushas, who art divine and immortal, mounted in a golden chariot, do thou shine radiant, causing to be heard the sounds of truth: may thy vigorous and well-trained horses bring thee, who art golden-haired, (hither).

3. Ushas, who spreadest over all the regions, thou abidest on high, the ensign of the immortal (sun), purposing to travel the same road, repeatedly turn back, ever new, (revolving) like a wheel.

4. The opulent Ushas, the bride of the far-darting (sun), throwing off (darkness) like a garment, proceeds: diffusing her own (lustre), auspicious, promoting sacred acts, she is renowned to the ends of the heaven and of the earth.

5. Offer, with your prostrations, due praise to the divine Ushas, shining upon you: the repository of sweetness manifests her brightness aloft in the sky, and, radiant and lovely, lights the regions.

6. The possessor of truth is recognized in the sky by her rays; the possessor of wealth has taken a marvellous station in earth and heaven; Agni, soliciting alms of the radiant advancing Ushas, thou obtainest thy desired treasure (of oblations).

7. The showerer (of rain, the sun), urging on the dawn, at the root of the truthful (day) hast pervaded the vast heaven and earth: the mighty Ushas, the golden light, as it were, of Mitra and Varuna, diffuses her lustre in different directions.

This hymn is divided into six Trikās or triplets, the deities of which are severally, Indra and Varuna, Brāhmaṇi, Pushan, Savitri, Soma, and Mitra and Varuna; Vishvamitra is the Rishi, or, according to some, the last triplet is ascribed to Jamadagni; the metre of the three first alternas is Trikāthā, of the rest Guptārci.

1. Indra and Varuna, may these people who are relying upon you, and wandering about (in alarm), sustain no injury from a youthful (adversary); for where is that reputation (you enjoy) on account that you bestow sustenance on your friends.

2. Most diligent (in pious rites) this (your worshipper). Indra and Varuna, desirous of wealth, incessantly invokes you for protection: associated with the Maruts, with heaven and earth, hear my invocation.

3. May there be to us, Indra and Varuna, such wealth (as we covet): may there be, Maruts: to us wealth (of cattle) and numerous descendants: may the delightful (wives of the gods) shelter us with dwellings: may Hotra and Bharati (enrich) us with gifts.

4. Brihaspati, friend of all the gods, accept our oblations: grant precious treasures to the offerer.

5. Adore the pure Brihaspati at sacrifices with hymns: I solicit of him unsurpassable strength.

6. The showerer (of benefits) on men, the omniform, the irreproachable, the excellent Brihaspati.

7. Divine, resplendent, Pushan, this, thy most recent laudation, is uttered by us to thee.

8. Be pleased by this my praise, and incline to this food-suppliying laudation as an uxorious (husband) to his wife.

9. May that Pushan, who looks upon all the worlds, who thoroughly contemplates them, be our protector.

10. We meditate on that desirable light of the divine Savitri, who influences our pious rites.

11. Desirous of food, we solicit with praise, of the divine Savitri, the gift of affluence.
12. Devout and wise men, impelled by intelligence, adore the divine Savitri with sacrifices and sacred hymns.

13. Soma, knowing the right path, proceeds (by it); he goes to the excellent seat of the gods, the place of sacrifice.

14. May Soma grant to us and to (our) biped and quadruped animals, wholesome food.

15. May Soma, prolonging our lives and overcoming our adversaries, sit down in our place of sacrifice.

16. Mithra and Varuna, sprinkle our cow-stalls with butter; performers of good works (sprinkle) the worlds with honey.

17. Performers of pure rites, glorified by many, exalted by adoration, (celebrated) by prolonged praises, you reign by the greatness of (your) strength.

18. Glorified by Jamadagni, sit down in the place of sacrifice (the altar); drink, augmenters (of the reward) of sacrifice, the Soma libation.
FOURTH MANDALA.

ANUVAKA 1.

IV. 1. 1.

The deity is Agni, or, it may be, Varuna in the second, third, and fourth stanzas: the Rishi is Vasistha: the metre of the first verse is Asht; of the second, Anjagati; of the third, Dhviti; and Tribhuta of the rest.

1. Since the envious gods ever excite thee, Agni, who art a deity swift of motion, (to contest), therefore do (thy worshippers) urge thee by their devotions (to bring the deities to their sacrifices): adorable Agni, they (the deities), have generated thee, immortal, divine, all-wise, as the present divinity among men: they have generated thee as the all-present and all-wise deity.

2. Bring to the presence of the worshippers, Agni, thy brother Varuna, as a participator of the sacrifice, with a willing mind, the elder participator of the sacrifice: the ruler of the water, the Aditya, the supporter of men, the sovereign venerated by mankind.

3. Friendly and beautiful (Agni), bring thy friend (Varuna) to our presence, as two strong horses convey the swift chariot along the road to its goal: thou receivest. Agni, the gratifying (oblation) together with Varuna, and with the all-illumining Maruts: grant, brilliant Agni, happiness to our sons and grandsons: grant, beautiful Agni, happiness to ourselves.

4. Mayest thou, Agni, who art wise, avert from us the wrath of the divine Varuna: do thou, who art the most frequent sacrificer, the most diligent bearer (of oblations), the most resplendent, liberate us from all animosities.

5. Do thou, Agni, our preserver, be most nigh to us with thy protection at the breaking of this dawn: deprecate Varuna for us, and, propitiated (by our praise), feed upon the grateful (oblation), and be to us of auspicious invocation.

6. The glance of this auspicious deity, directed towards men, is most excellent, most wonderful, acceptable (to all), as the pure warm butter (from the milk) of the cow (is acceptable) to the deity: as the gift of a milk-cow (is to a man).

7. These are the supreme, true, and desirable births of this divine Agni, invested (with radiance) in the unbounded (firmament): pure, bright, radiant lord (of all), may he come (to our) sacrifice.

8. The messenger, the invoker (of the gods), riding in a golden chariot with a tongue of flame, he frequents all the chambers (of sacrifice); drawn by red horses, embodied, resplendent, always agreeable, as a dwelling well supplied with food.

9. Associated with sacrifice, and knowing those men (who are engaged in good works), they lead him with the strong cord (of praise): he, the divine Agni, fulfilling (all desires), abides in the dwelling of this mortal, and obtains fellowship in his wealth.

10. May that wise Agni conduct us to that wealth which is desired by the devout; he whom all the immortals have created for (the performance of) sacred rites; of whom heaven is the parent and progenitor, and whom (the priests) verily sprinkle (with oblations).

11. He is first engendered in the habitations (of the sacrificers; then upon his station, (the altar), the base of the vast firmament; without feet, without head, concealing his extremities, combining with smoke in the nest of the rain-cloud.

12. Radiance has first proceeded to thee, (Agni), who art glorified by praise, in the womb of the water, in the nest of the rain-cloud: the seven attached (priests) have engendered (praise) to the showerer (of benefits), who is desirable, ever young, embodied, and resplendent.

13. In this world our mortal forefathers departed after instituting the sacred rite, when, calling upon the dawn, they extricated the milk-yielding kine, concealed among the rocks in the darkness (of the cave).

14. Rending the rocks, they worshipped (Agni), and other (sages) taught everywhere their (acts): unprovided with the means of (extricating) the cattle, they glorified the author of success, whence they found the light, and were thus enabled (to worship him) with holy ceremonies.

15. Devoted (to Agni), those leaders (of sacred rites), with minds intent upon (recovering) the cattle, forced open, by (the power) of divine prayer, the obstructing, compact, solid mountain confining the cows, a cow-pen full of kine.

16. They first have comprehended the name of the kine, knowing the thrice seven excellent (forms) of the maternal (rhythm); then they glorified the conscious dawns, and the purple dawn appeared with the radiance of the sun.

17. The scattered darkness was destroyed; the firmament glowed with radiance; the lustre of the divine dawn arose; then the sun stood above the undecaying mountains, beholding all that was right or wrong among mankind.

18. Thereupon awaking, the (Angirasas) beheld (the cattle set free), and seized upon the precious treasures: the universal gods then came to all (their) dwellings: Mitra and Varuna may your truth be (kept) to him who worships (you).

19. May I glorify the present radiant Agni, the invoker (of the gods), the supporter of the universe, most deserving of adoration, without milking the pure udder (of the cow), without the purified food of the Soma offered in libation.

20. May Agni be the Aditi of all those to whom sacrifice is offered; may he be the guest of all men: receiving the (sacrificial) food of the devout, may he, to whom all is known, be the bestower of felicity.

IV. 1. 2.

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Tristubhi.

1. He who has been placed immortal among the mortals, the observer of truth, a deity triumphant among gods, the invoker of the gods, the most diligent sacrificer, Agni: he has been placed (upon the altar) to lighten (the ceremony) by his (lustre), and for the elevation of the worshipper, through oblations (in heaven).
2. Agni, son of strength, generated to-day at this our rite, as intermediate between both (gods and men) thou proceedest, the invoker (of the gods), harnessing, graceful Agni, thy robust, vigorous, and resplendent steeds.

3. I celebrate the ruddy, food-bestowing, water-shedding, and swifter-than-thought-going, steeds of him who is the truth; harnessing the brilliant pair (to thy chariot), thou passest between the deities of whom thou art, and human worshippers.

4. Possessed, Agni, of good steeds, an excellent car, and abundant wealth, do thou, amidst these (worshippers) bring to the man who offers worthy oblations, Aryaman, Varuna, Mitra, Vishnu, the Maruts, or the Ashvins.

5. May the sacrifice, Agni, be productive of cows, of sheep, of horses, and, celebrated by thy worshipper, aided by the priests, be ever uninterrupted: may it, mighty Agni, be productive of food and progeny, long continued, affluent, wide based, and held in full assembly.

6. Thou art the munificent recompenser of that man who, sweating (with toil), brings thy fuel, and for thy service causes his head to ache: protect him, Agni, from every one that seeks to do him evil.

7. May a son, firm in (devotion) and liberal (in offerings), be born to him who presents (sacrificial) food to thee when needing food, who gives thee constantly the exhilarating (Soma juice), who welcomes thee as a guest, and devoutly kindles thee in his mansion.

8. Preserve from sin the liberal sacrificer who glorifies thee morning and evening, and, presenting oblations, does what is acceptable to thee in his own abode, like a horse with golden caparisons.

9. Let not him who makes offerings to thee, Agni, who art immortal, who with uplifted ladle pours out oblations repeating thy praise, ever want riches, and let not the wickedness of a malevolent foe circumvent him.

10. May that prayer be agreeable to thee, Agni, who art a gracious deity, (which is uttered) by the man with whose well-conducted sacrifice thou art well pleased, youngest (of the gods), of whose (rites) when worshipping thee may we be the promoters.

11. May the wise Agni discriminate between virtue and vice, between (virtuous and wicked) men, as a (groom distinguishes between) the strong and weak backs (of horses); enrich us with wealth accompanied by virtuous offspring; be bountiful to the liberal giver; shun him who gives not.

12. The unreviled sages abiding in the dwellings of man have glorified the sage (Agni); therefore, lord of sacrifice, thou mayest proceed with swift-moving feet to behold the admirable and marvellous deities.

13. Resplendent Agni, youngest of the gods, the satisfier of (the desires of) men, who art easily to be conducted (to the altar); bestow joy-yielding and abundant wealth for his preservation upon the worshipper who praises and worships thee and offers thee libations.

14. Therefore, Agni, when we labour for thee with hands and feet, and all our members, the pious performers of rites, (the Angirasas), exercise their arms in the work (of attrition), as wheelwrights fabricate a car.
15. May we seven priests first in order engender from the maternal dawn the worshippers of the creator (Agni); may we Angirasas be the sons of heaven, and, radiant, divide the wealth-containing mountain.

16. Thus, Agni, our excellent and ancient forefathers, celebrators of holy sacrifice, proceeded to (the region of) pure light, and, reciting prayers and dispersing gloom, they made manifest the purple (kine).

17. Performers of good works, brilliant and devout, the praises of the gods have freed their birth from impurity, as (a smith beats) iron: exciting Agni, elevating Indra, and wandering about (in search), they have gone to the vast (hidden) herd of cattle.

18. Fierce (Agni), when (Indra) proclaimed the near presence of the herd of the kine of the divine (Angirasas) as a herd of cattle in a well-stored stall, the progeny of mortals were thereby enabled (to perform pious acts), and the master of the family rendered competent to (provide for) the increase of posterity and (the support of) dependants.

19. We have worshipped thee (Agni), and have thereby become the performers of a good work, adoring the full and variously delighting Agni, the beautiful lustre of the radiant divinity, when the brilliant dawns have arrayed (themselves) in light.

20. Creator, Agni, we have repeated these thy praises to thee who art all-wise; do thou accept them: blaze aloft; make us opulent; do thou who art worshipped by many bestow upon us ample wealth.
The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Secure Agni, the king of sacrifice, the afflicter (of foes), the invoker (of the gods), the distributor of food through heaven and earth, the golden-formed, for your protection, before (surprised by) sudden death.

2. This is the altar which we have decorated for thee, as a wife attached to her husband puts on elegant garments (to gratify him); maturer of good works, sit down in our presence invested (with radiance), while thy flames incline towards thee.

3. Repeat, oh priest, the praise, the prayer, to the attentive, the affable Agni, the beholder of man, the giver of felicity, the divine, the immortal; to him whom the effuser of the libation, like the (bruising) stone, adores aloud.

4. Thou, Agni, presidest over this our rite; do thou, who art cognizant of truth, and the author of good works, recognize this our adoration, whenever these exhilarating prayers (are addressed) to thee, whenever friendly relations with thee are (established) in our dwelling.

5. Why, Agni dost thou reproach us (for our sin) to Varuna, why to the heaven? what is our offence? why repeat it to the bountiful Mithra, to earth, to Aryaman, or to Bhaga?

6. Why repeat it when exalted in holy ceremonies? why tell it to the mighty, benevolent, circumambient, truthful wind? why, Agni, to earth, why to man-destroying Rudra?
7. Why to the great and nutriment-conveying Pushan? why to Rudra, the object of worship, the giver of the oblation (to the gods)? why to the many-hymned Vishnu? why tell our sin to the extensive year?

8. Why tell it to the veracious company of the Maruts? why, even when asked, to the mighty sun? why repeat it to Aditi, or to the swift wind? fulfil, all-knowing Jatavedas, (the worship) of heaven.

9. I solicit, Agni, the milk of the cow, essential for the sacrifice; yet immature, (she possesses) the sweet and ripe (fluid); black though she be, yet with her white nutritious milk she maintains mankind in existence.

10. The male Agni, the showerer (of benefits), has been sprinkled by the genuine sustaining milk; the giver of food proceeds unswerving (from his course), and the sun, the shedder of rain, has milked the white (fluid) of the udder (of the firmament).

11. By the sacrifice, the Angirasas, rending the mountain asunder, have thrown it open, and returned with the cows; the leaders (of holy rites) have arrived happily at the dawn, and the sun was manifest as Agni was engendered.

12. By sacrifice, Agni, the divine rivers, immortal, unobstructed, continue perpetually to flow with sweet waters, like a horse that is being urged in his speed.

13. Go not ever, Agni, to the sacrifice of any one who injures us; nor to that of a malevolent neighbour; nor to that of an (unnatural) relation: accept not the due (oblation) from an insincere brother; let us not derive enjoyment from the enemy of a friend.
14. Agni, worthily worshipped, conservator, conciliated (by our offerings), protect us with thy protections: enlighten us: entirely extirpate our sin; overcome the great and exulting Rakshasas.

15. Be propitiated, Agni, by these hymns: accept, hero, these (sacrificial) viands (presented) with praises: be pleased, Angiras, by our prayers: may the adoration addressed to the gods exalt thee.

16. Agni, creator, to thee who art wise, acquainted with the past, I address, oh sage, these soliciting mysterious words, (these) ever-to-be-recited poems, together with praises and prayers.

IV. 1. 4.

The deity is Agni, the Rakshas-slayer; the Hāshi and metre as before.

1. Put forth thy strength, Agni, as a lover spreads a capacious snare: proceed like a king attended by his followers on his elephant: thou art the scatterer (of thy foes): following the swift-moving host consume the Rakshasas with thy fiercest flames.

2. Thy swift and errant flames descend (on every side): fierce-shining with vigour consume (the foe): scatter, Agni, with the ladle (of oblation), scorching flames, and sparks, and brands.

3. Do thou, who art most rapid, direct thy (flames) against opposing (rays), and, unreasted, become the protector of this thy people against the calumniator who is remote or who is nigh: let no malevolent (foe) prevail against us (who are) thy worshippers.
4. Sharp-weaponed Agni, rise up; spread wide (thy flames) against (the Rakshasas); entirely consume the foes: blazing Agni, burn down him who acts as an enemy towards us like a piece of dry timber.

5. Rise up, Agni, chastise those who overpower us; manifest thy divine energies; slacken the strong (bow strings) of the malignant kings; destroy those (who are hostile), whether kindred or unallied.

6. He experiences thy good favour, youngest (of the gods), who offers praise to thee, a Brahman, coming quickly (to bestow felicity): to him are all prosperous days and wealth (of cattle) and treasures: do thou, as the lord of sacrifice, shine upon his dwelling.

7. May the liberal man ever be prosperous who propitiates thee with constant oblations and praises; may all the days in his arduous life be prosperous, and may this (his) sacrifice be (productive of reward).

8. I reverence thy good favour, Agni: may this reiterated and resounding hymn convey due praise to thy presence: may we be possessed of good horses and good cars, that we may pay thee homage; and do thou daily bestow upon us riches.

9. May every one of his own accord diligently worship thee, shining in the (holy) morning and evening, every day: thus, sporting in our dwellings, (enjoying) the wealth of (hostile) man, may we with happy hearts worship thee.

10. Thou, Agni, art the protector of him who, possessed of good horses and a golden car, approaches thee with a chariot laden with wealth: thou art the friend of him who gratifies thee by the due performance of hospitality to thee.
11. Invoker (of the gods), youngest (of the deities): possessed of excellent wisdom, through the alliance (with thee produced) by holy texts, which came to me from my father Gotama, I demolish the powerful (demons): do thou, who art the humbler (of foes), be cognizant of our praises.

12. All-wise Agni, may thy protecting (rays), unslumbering, alert, propitious, unslothful, benignant, unwearied, co-operating, having taken their place (at this sacrifice), preserve us.

13. Those thy protecting (rays), Agni, which, beholding (what had chanced), preserved the blind son of Mamata from misfortune: he, knowing all things, cherished those benevolent (rays), and his enemies, intending to destroy him, wrought him no harm.

14. Agni, who art freed from shame, by thee we are made opulent; by thee we are protected; may we, through thy guidance, attain abundant food: cherisher of truth, destroy both (sorts of calumniators), those who are nigh, those who are far off, and in due course fulfil (our desires).

15. May we propitiate thee, Agni, by this fuel: accept the praise that is recited by us: consume the unadoring Rakshasas; thou who art to be honoured by (thy) friends, preserve us from the reproach of the oppressor and the reviler.

IV. 1. 5.

The deity is Agni as Vaishvanara; the Rishi Vamadeva; the metre Tribhakti.

1. How may we present rejoicing (fit offerings) to Agni, the showerer (of benefits) to Vaishwanara, he, who, bright with great lustre, sustains the heaven, with his entire vast and insupportable (bulk), as a pillar (sustains a roof).

2. Reproach not the divine (Agni), who, accepting the oblation, has given this wealth to me, his mortal (worshipper) of mature (intellect); Agni, who is wise; immortal, discriminating, (who is) Vaisrwanara, chief conductor (of rites), the mighty.

3. May Agni, filling both (the middling and most excellent condition), bright shining, of manifold vigour, the showerer of (benefits), the possessor of affluence, (who comprehends) by (his) wisdom the mysterious sacred hymn, as (they track) the footsteps of a (missing) cow, reveal (the sense) to me.

4. May the sharp-toothed Agni, possessed of excellent wealth, consume with his fierce radiance those (adversaries) who injure the firm and valued glories of the sapient Varuna and Mitra.

5. Like women who have no brethren, going (about from their own to their father’s house), women adverse to their lords going astray, so the wicked, false (in thought), false (in speech), they give birth to this deep abyss (of hell).

6. Purifier, Agni, bestow on me, not neglecting thy worship, this acceptable and vast (wealth), like a heavy load on a feeble (bearer), together with invigorating food; (wealth), secure, abundant, tangible, and consisting of the seven elements.

7. May our (self)-purifying praise, suited to his glory, and accompanied by worship, quickly attain to that omniform (Vaishwanara) whose swift-ascending brilliant (orb) is stationed on the east of the earth, to mount, like the sun, above the immovable heaven.

8. What objection (can be offered) to this my assertion, that they affirm that the milk of the kine, which (the milkers) obtain like water, is placed in concealment (by Vaishwanara), and cherishes the excellent and valued expanse of the wide earth.

9. I recognize this adorable assemblage of the great (deities), which from of old the milk-shedding cow affects, shining above the region of water, (the firmament), in secret; swift gliding, swift moving.

10. Then, radiant in association with the parents, (heaven and earth), he is awakened (to drink) the agreeable secretion of the cow, and the tongue of the assiduous (performer of holy rites), the resplendent showerer (of benefits), approaching the excellent station of the maternal (cow), seeks to drink the milk.

11. Interrogated with respect, I declare the truth, that this (wealth is acquired), Jatavedas, by the praise of thee: thou rupest over it, (over) all that (it may be), the wealth that is in heaven or on earth.

12. What is the value of this (wealth) to us? what is its advantage? inform us, Jatavedas, for thou knowest; (tell us) what is the best (course) for us on this secret path, so that we may follow unreckoned the direct road.

13. What is the limit, what are the objects, which is the desirable (end) to which we rush like swift (chargers) to the battle? when for us will the divine dawns, the brides of the immortal (sun), overspread (the world) with light.
14. (Men are) not satisfied by unproductive, frivolous, inconclusive, scanty speech; then what, Agni, do they here say to thee? devoid of the implements (of worship), let them suffer from distress.

15. For the prosperity of this (institutor of the rite), the host (of the flames) of the kindled (Agni), the showerer (of benefits), the giver of dwellings, has blazed in the hall (of sacrifice); clothed in radiance, beautiful in semblance, and glorified by many, he shines like a man with opulence.

IV. 1. 6.

The deity is Agni, the Rishi and metre as below.

1. Agni, ministrant of the sacrifice, do thou who art entitled to worship, be above us in this offering to the gods; for thou prevailest over all that is desirable; thou inspirest the praise of the worshipper.

2. The unperplexed, the sagacious, exhilarating Agni, the ministrant priest, has been placed amongst men for (the celebration of) sacrifices: like the sun, he spreads light above, and props the smoke above the sky like a pillar.

3. The ladle filled (with butter) is prepared; prompt (in act), opulent (with the oblation), the multiplying (priest), conducting (the worship) of the gods, circumambulates (the fire): the newly-trimmed post is set up, the impending shining axe falls upon the victims.

4. When the sacred grass is strewn and the fire is kindled, the Adhucaryu risca, propitiating (the gods), and Agni, the offerer of the oblation, ancient and multiplying (the offering), thrice circumambulates (the victim) like a keeper of cattle.
5. Agni, the sacrificer, the exhilarator, the sweet-spoken, the object of sacrifice, moving measuredly, circumambulates (the victim) of his own (accord); the bright (rays) of him (fed) with (sacrificial) food, spread around; all the regions are alarmed when he blazes.

6. Bright-shining Agni, beautiful and auspicious is the semblance of thee, who art terrible and wide-spreading, for (the nights) hide not thy splendour with darkness, nor do the malignant (spirits) inflict any injury on thy person.

7. Of whom, progenitor (of mankind), the benevolence is never checked; whose parents need not urge him to exertion; so that the well-satisfied, purifying Agni shines like a friend amongst men, the descendants of Manu.

8. Agni, whom the twice five sisters dwelling amongst men, the descendants of Manu, have engendered, like females, (awaking) him at dawn, feeding on oblations, brilliant, of goodly aspect, and sharp as an axe.

9. Thy horses, Agni, breathing foam, red-coloured, straight-going, well-paced, bright-shining, vigorous, well-membered, and of graceful form, are summoned to the worship of the gods.

10. Those, thy rays, Agni, triumphant, wide-spreading, radiant, adorable, go like hawk-faced horses (to their goal), loud-sounding like the company of the Maruts.

11. Well-kindled Agni, for thee the prayer has been composed: may (the priest) propitiate (thee) by (his) praise: the (sacrificer) offers worship: bestow upon us manifold (wealth): desiring (riches), men sit down adoring Agni, the invoker of the gods, the glorifier of mankind.
IV. 1. 7.

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre of the first stanza is Jagati, of the five following Anushtubh, and of the rest Trishtubh.

1. This invoker of the gods and minister of frequent worship, who is to be glorified at sacrifices, has been placed first (of the gods) by the performers of the rite; the Agni whom Apsavana and other Brihgs lighted in the woods for the sake of all men, marvellous (in his acts), and sovereign (over all).

2. When, Agni, is the light of thee, bright-shining, to be manifested; for therefore have mortals accepted thee as to be worshipped amongst mankind.

3. Contemplating thee in every dwelling, truthful, intelligent, (brilliant with sparks) like the sky with stars, the perfecter of all sacrifices.

4. Men have brought, for the sake of all people, the swift messenger of the worshipper (to the gods), who (rules) over all mankind, the manifestor, the resplendent.

5. They (the worshippers) have seated him in his due order, the invoker (of the gods), the intelligent, the agreeable, the purifyingly-radiant, the performer of frequent sacrifice, (brilliant) with seven flames.

6. Him, abiding in the maternal (waters) and in the woods, loved, yet unapproached, wonderful, hidden in a cave, endowed with knowledge, seeking (oblations) from any quarter.

7. Whom, when they desist from slumber, the devout propitiate in the abode of water at every sacrifice: the mighty Agni, to whom oblations are to be offered with reverence, who, truthful always, accepts the sacrifice.
8. Thou who art all-knowing understandest the functions of a messenger (of the gods) at the sacrifice: well informed of both heaven and earth, and the intermediate (firmament), and a most intelligent, ancient, and amplifying envoy, thou goest up the ascents of heaven.

9. Dark is the path of thee who art bright; the light is before thee; thy moving radiance is the chief of (all luminous) bodies: when the present (worshippers) take up the germ (in the sticks of attrition) thou art speedily generated, and becomest indeed the messenger (of the sacrifice).

10. The light of the speedily-generated is visible, and when the wind fans the flame, he (Agni) spreads his blazing tongue amongst the trees, and with his (glowing) teeth consumes the standing (fuel his) food.

11. When quickly, with rapid (radiance), he has carried off his food, the mighty Agni makes (himself) the fleet messenger (of the worshipper); consuming (the fuel), he allies himself with the force of the wind, and as (a horseman) urges his fast steed, so the rapid-going Agni invigorates and urges (his flames).

3. He, the divine (Agni), knows how the gods are to be revered; to the sincere (worshipper) in his dwelling he gives the wealth that is desired.

4. He is the invoker (of the gods), comprehending the deity of (their) messenger; and, knowing the ascent of the sky, he travels between earth and heaven.

5. May we be they who propitiate Agni with gifts of oblations, and who, cherishing him, feed him with fuel.

6. They are renowned for riches and for progeny, who, venerating Agni, offer him oblations.

7. May riches, envied by many, devolve upon us day by day, and (abundant) food await us.

8. May the wise Agni entirely obviate by his power the removable (ills) of men the descendants of Manu.

2. May that Agni, who is difficult to overcome, who is immortal, who is pre-eminent among men the descendants of Manu, become the messenger of all the gods.

3. He is conveyed into the sacrificial hall as the Hotri to be adored at sacrifices, or as the Potri he sits down (on the sacred grass).

4. Agni may be the officiating priest at the sacrifice, or the master of the house in the sacrificial chamber, or he sits down as the Brahman.
5. Thou, who art the director (of the ceremonial), acceptest the oblations of devoutly-worshipping men, the descendants of Manu.

IV. 1. 10.

The deity and Rishi as before, the metre is Padapakhti.

2. Be now the conveyer, Agni, of our auspicious, powerful, efficacious, truthful, and great sacrifice.

3. Agni, who like the sun art light, propitiated by these our hymns, come to our presence with all thy hosts (of radiance).

4. Glorifying thee, Agni, to-day, with these our praises, may we offer thee (oblations): thy (flames), bright as those of the sun, roar aloud.

5. Thy lovely radiance, Agni, whether by day or by night, shines upon (all objects) like an ornament (to give them) beauty.

6. Giver of sustenance, (Agni), thy favour is free from fault, like clarified butter: thy pure and golden lustre shines like an ornament.
7. Truthful Agni, verily thou removest from the mortal who institutes (thy) worship, whatever sin has been committed (by him) of old.

8. May our friendly and fraternal attentions to you deities prove fortunate; for such (attentions shewn) in every sacrifice (form) our security in the sphere (of the gods).

ANUVAKA II.

IV. 2. 1.

The deity and Rishi as before, the metre is Trishtubh.

2. Agni, who art engendered repeatedly, and glorified by sacrifice, set open heaven to him who offers thee adoration: resplendent (Agni). Bestow upon us that ample and acceptable (wealth), which, radiant (deity), thou with all the gods, hast given (to other worshippers).

3. The offerings (to the gods) are engendered, Agni of thee; from thee (proceed) praises; from thee effective prayers; from thee come a vigorous frame and wealth to the man who worships with sincerity and offers oblations.

4. From thee, who art vigorous, the conveyer of oblations, the vast, the granter of what is desired, is born (a son) of real strength; from thee comes wealth approved of by the gods, the source of happiness; from thee, Agni, (is obtained) a swift unarrested home.
5. Immortal Agni, devout mortals worship with holy rites thee the first deity (of the gods), whose tongue exhilarates (them), the dissipator of sin, the humilator (of the demons), the lord of the mansion, the unperplexed.

6. Agni, son of strength, since thou protectest (thy worshippers), far (remove) from us all iniquity; far (remove from us) sin; far (from us) all evil thoughts; for prosperous is he of whom thou, who art radiant by night, promotest the well-being.

IV. 2. 2.

Deity, Riiki, and metre as before.

1. May he who with uplifted ladle kindles thee, and thrice every day presents to thee the (sacrificial) food, knowing thy glory, Jatavedas, to be invigorated by the act, surpass (all others) in riches.

2. He who, labouring diligently, brings thee fuel, honouring Agni, thy great glory; he who kindles thee in the evening and at dawn; he, prosperous and destroying his enemies, acquires riches.

5. Let not us, Agni, who are thy friends, ever suffer harm from any great or comprehensive offence against either gods or men: bestow forgiveness upon our sons and grandsons, the reward of what has been well done.

6. Adorable Vasus, in like manner as you have liberated the cow bound by the foot, so set us free entirely from sin; and may our existence, Agni, be prolonged.

IV. 2. 3.

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before; or the deities may be considered as those specified or alluded to in each stanza.

1. Favourably-minded, Agni has manifested (his might) in regard to the wealth-bestowing procession of the resplendent dawns: proceed, Ashwins, to the dwelling of the pious (worshipper): the divine sun rises with splendour.

2. The divine Savitri diffuses his light on high, dispersing the dew, and like a vigorous (bull) ardent for the cow: then Varuna, and Mitra, and other (divinities), hasten to (fulfil) their offices when they elevate the sun in the sky.

3. Seven great couriers convey that sun, whom the (deities), occupants of enduring mansions, and not heedless (of their offices), have formed for the driving away of darkness, (and who is) the animator of the whole world.

4. Divine (sun), thou proceedest with most powerful (horses), spreading thy web (of raya), and cutting down the black abode (of night): the tremulous rays of the sun throw off the darkness which is spread like a skin over the firmament.

5. This sun, not far removed, and unobstructed, whether (looking) downwards or looking upwards, is harmed by no one: what is the power by which he travels? who has (truly) beheld him who, as the collective pillar of heaven, sustains the sky?
IV. 2. 4.

The deity or deities, the Rishi, and metre as before.

1. The resplendent Agni, by whom all is known, has manifested (his might) in regard to the dawns radiant with lustre: far-going Nasatyas, come with your ear to this our sacrifice.

3. The great and intelligent dawn, variegated with (many-coloured) rays of purple tint, bringing opulence, has come with (her) lustre: the divine Ushas, arousing (the sleepers), proceeds with her well-harnessed car (to distribute) felicity.

4. May those robust and active horses bring you, (Ashwins), hither at the breaking of the dawn, and may these Soma juices prepared, showerers (of benefits), for your drinking, exhilarate you at this (our sacrifice).

5. This sun, not far removed and unobstructed, whether looking downwards or looking upwards, is harmed by no one: what is the power by which he travels? who has (truly) beheld him who, as the collective pillar of heaven, sustains the sky.

IV. 2. 5.

The deity of the first six stanzas is Agni; of the two next Soma; of the two last the Ashwins; the Rishi is Vamadeva, the metre Gayatri.

1. Agni, the invoker (of the gods), like a horse (that bears a burden), is brought to our sacrifice; a deity adorable amongst deities.

3. The sage, Agni, the lord of food, has encompassed the oblation, giving precious things to the donor.

4. Radiant is this Agni, the subduer of foes, who is kindled on the (altar) of the east as (he was kindled) for Shrinjaya, the son of Devayata.

5. May the mortal who is strenuous (in worship) acquire authority over this Agni, the sharp-rayed, the showerer (of benefits).

6. They diligently worship him daily who is like a horse (to convey oblations), who is liberal and resplendent, is the son of heaven, (the sun).

7. When the prince, the son of Sahadeva, promised (to present) me with two horses, I withdrew not when called before him.

8. But immediately accepted those two excellent and well-trained horses from the prince, the son of Sahadeva.

10. Divine Ashwins: do you two make the prince, the son of Sahadeva, long-lived.

IV. 2. 6.

The deity is Indra; the Eishi as before; the metre is Tristubh.

1. May the truthful Magravan, the acceptor of the spiritless Soma, come to us; may his horses hasten to us; to him we offer this sacrifice, the very potent beverage: may he grant the fulfilment of our desires.
2. Hero, Indra, set us free to-day to give thee exhalation at this sacrifice, as (they let loose a horse) at the end of the road: may the worshipper, like Ushanás, repeat an acceptable prayer to thee, the knower (of all things), the destroyer of the Asuras.

3. Like a sage (knowing) what is hidden, and fulfilling sacred rites, so the showerer (of benefits), quaffing copiously the effused (libation), exults (in the draught), and this generates the seven efficient (rays) from heaven, which, being glorified, have made (manifest) the objects of (human) perception by day.

4. When the vast luminous heaven manifested by the rays (of light) is displayed, then are (the deities) resplendent according to (their heavenly) abode; the chief of leaders, (Indra), in his approach has scattered the thick glooms so that men may see.

5. Indra, the accepter of the stale Soma, sustains infinite greatness, and has filled both heaven and earth by his magnitude: therefore has the vastness of him who has surpassed all the regions, exceeded (the world).

6. Knowing all things profitable for men, Shakra has, with his willing friends (the Maruts), sent forth the waters, for they, with (loud) shouts, divided the clouds, and, desiring (to fulfil) their office, set open the pasturage of the cows (of the Angirasas).

7. Thy protecting thunderbolt has slain Vritra, obstructing the (issue of the waters), the conscious earth (co-operating) with (thee); valiant hero, preserver (of the regions), send down by thy strength the waters of the firmament.
8. Invoked of many, when thou hadst divided the cloud for (the escape of) the waters, Sarama appeared before thee; and thou, the bringer of abundant food, hast shewn us favour, dividing the clouds and glorified by the Angirasas.

9. Maghavan, who art honoured by men, thou hast repaired to the presence of the sage for (the sake of) bestowing (upon him) wealth, and when soliciting (thee) in his need (for aid); defending (him) with thy protection, the guileful, impious Dasyu has been destroyed in the contest for the spoil.

10. With a mind resolved on killing the Dasyu, thou camest (to his dwelling), and Kutsa was eager for thy friendship; now have you two slighted in his (Indra’s), habitation, and, being entirely similar in form, the truthful woman has been perplexed (to discriminate between you).

11. Thou goest with Kutsa in the same chariot, determined to defend him; (thou who art) the tormentor (of foes), the lord of horses (of the speed) of the wind; on the same day wherein, yoking (to the car) the straight-going steeds, as if to receive food, the sage (Kutsa) has been enabled to cross over (the sea) of calamity.

12. For Kutsa, thou hast slain the unhappy Shushna, and, in the forepart of the day, attended by thousands, (thou hast slain) Kuyava with the thunderbolt; thou hast swiftly destroyed the Dasyus, and thou hast cut them to pieces in the battle, with the wheel (of the chariot of) the sun.

13. Thou hast subjugated Pirru and the mighty Mrigaya for the sake of Rijishwan, the son of Vidathin; thou hast slain the fifty thousand Krishnus; and, as old age (destroys) life, thou hast demolished the cities (of Shambhala).

14. While having (thy) person in the proximity of the sun, thy form becomes redolent of ambrosia, and thou art like the cervine elephant, consuming the strength (of the strong), and art like a terrible lion when wielding thy weapons.

15. Relying (upon Indra) for protection, and desirous of riches, (pious men) repair to him soliciting his presence in the sacrifice, as if in the battle; asking for food, celebrating his praise with hymns, for he is the refuge (of his worshippers), and resembles the grateful and lovely (goddess) of nutrition.

16. Let us invoke that gracious Indra who has made so many things good for man; who, bestowing enviable opulence, quickly brings acceptable food to a worshipper like me.

17. Hero, Indra, when in any conflict of men the sharp thunderbolt falls in the midst (of them), and when, lord, there is a terrible battle, then the defender of our persons is made known.

18. Be thou the protector of the pious acts of Vamadeva, be thou in battle an unfailing friend: we come to thee, eminent in wisdom; mayest thou be ever benignant to thy praiser.

19. In every battle, Maghavan, may we, along with those men who trust in thee and offer rich gifts, like those who are resplendent with riches, triumphing over their foes, glorify thee many nights and years.
20. Therefore we offer to the vigorous Indra, the showerer (of benefits), holy adoration, that he may never withdraw his friendly (actions) from us, and that he may be our powerful protector, the defender of (our) persons, as the Brighus (fabricate) a car (for use).

21. Glorified (in the past), glorified, Indra, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): Lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever delighted in (thy) praise.

IV. 2. 7.

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is also the same, except in the fifteenth verse, in which it is Vist.

1. Thou, Indra, art mighty; the vast earth confesses to thee (thy) strength, as doth the heaven: thou hast slain Vritra by thy vigour, thou hast set free the rivers arrested by Ahi.

2. At the birth of thee who art resplendent, trembled the heaven (and) trembled the earth through fear of thy wrath; the mighty clouds were confined; they destroyed (the distress of drought), spreading the waters over the dry places.

3. The subduer of foes, manifesting his energy and hurling his thunderbolt, shattered the mountain by his strength; he slew Vritra with the thunderbolt, exulting, and the waters whose obstructor was destroyed rushed forth with rapidity.

4. Heaven, thy progenitor, conceived (I have obtained) a worthy son; the maker of Indra was the accomplisher of a most excellent work: he who begot the adorable (Indra), armed with the thunderbolt, irremovable from his station, and endowed with greatness.

5. All men, praising the munificence of the divine Maghavan, verily glorify him who alone casts down many, Indra, the king of men, the adored of many.

6. Truly are all libations his; the inebriating draughts are truly most exhilarating to the mighty Indra: truly art thou the lord of wealth, of (all sorts of) treasures: thou, Indra, supportest all people by the gift (of riches).

7. (We praise) the slayer of many foes, the courageous, the discomfiter (of enemies), the great, the unbounded, the showerer (of benefits), the wielder of the bright thunderbolt, him who is the destroyer of Vritra, the bestower of food, the giver of wealth, Maghavan the possessor of riches.

9. This Maghavan, who destroys assembled hosts, is he who is renowned as chief in battles: he brings the food which he bestows (upon the worshipper): may we be held dear in his friendship.

10. This (Indra), is renowned, whether conquering or slaying (his foes), or whether in conflict he recovers the cattle: when Indra truly entertains anger, all that is stationary or moveable is in fear of him.

11. Indra, the lord of opulence, who has overcome many (enemies), has completely won (their) cattle, (their) gold, (their) horses; chief leader by his energies, praised by these his worshippers, he is the distributor of riches, the bestower of wealth.
12. Some portion (of his strength) Indra derives from his mother, some portion from his father: he who, though his progenitor, has begotten (the world), and animates its vigour repeatedly, as the wind is driven by thundering clouds.

13. Thou art the Maghavan who makes one man destitute, another prosperous, who (scatters from his worshipper) the accumulated dust (of sin), the destroyer (of foes), like the heaven with the thunderbolt, Maghavan conducts his worshipper to wealth.

14. He has hurled the wheel (of the chariot) of the sun, and has stopped Etasa going forth to (battle): the dark undulating cloud bedews him, (staying) at the root of radiance in the regions of its waters;

15. As the sacrificer (pours the oblation) at night upon the fire.

16. May we (who are) wishing for cattle, for horses, for food, for wives, through his friendship induce Indra, the showerer (of benefits), the giver of wives, the unwearied granter of protection, to come down, as a bucket (is lowered) into a well.

17. Be our preserver, thou who art looking (benevolently upon) all: a kinsman (to us); a supervisor (of all things), a bestower of felicity on those who are worthy (to offer) libations: a friend, a protector, a defender in the highest degree amongst defenders, a creator: (be thou, who bestowest) the world of heaven upon him who desires it, the giver to us of food.

18. Regard thyself as a protector of those who desire thy friendship; be a friend deserving of commendation:
grant. Indra, food to him who praises (thee): suffering difficulties, we make our supplications to thee: worshipping thee with these holy rites.

19. When Indra, the possessor of opulence, is glorified, he singly destroys many unyielding foes: the worshipper is dear to him (who relies) on his protection, and neither gods nor men molest him.

20. The many-voiced Indra, the possessor of opulence, the supporter of men, the irresistible, bestows upon us, when praised by us, assured (rewards); thou. (Indra), art the king of men: grant to us abundantly that great fame which (is due) to (thy) worshipper.

21. Glorified (in the past), glorified. Indra, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever diligent in thy praise.

IV. 2. 8.

Indra, Aditi, and Vamadeva are both the deities and Nishka of the Sutra, as it consists of a dialogue amongst them: the metre is Tristubh.

1. Indra speaks.] This is the old and recognized path by which all the gods are born; so, when full-grown, let him be born in the same manner; let him not cause the loss of this his mother.

2. Vamadeva speaks.] Let me not come forth by this path, for it is difficult (of issue); let me come forth obliquely from the side: many acts unperformed by others are to be accomplished by me: let me contend (in war) with one (enemy), in controversy with one opponent, 3. He (Indra); has asserted (that it will) cause the death of my mother: let me not proceed by the usual way, but proceed quickly, according (to my will): in the dwelling of Twasrtrir Indra drank the costly Soma from the vessels of the offerers.

4. Adtrri speaks.] What irregular act has he committed whom (I, his mother) bore for a thousand months and for many years! there is no analogy between him and those who have been or will be born.

5. Deeming it disreputable (that he should be brought forth) in secret, his mother endowed (Indra) with (extraordinary) vigour; therefore, as soon as born he sprung up of his own accord, invested with splendour, and filled both heaven and earth.

6. These (rivers) flew murmuring as if, being filled with water, they were uttering sounds (of joy): ask them what is this they say; what is the encompassing cloud that the waters break through!

7. What do the sacred expiatory streams declare to me? the waters receive the reproach of Indra: my son has slain Vritra with the mighty thunderbolt; he has set those rivers free.

8. Vamadeva speaks.] Exulting, the youthful mother brought thee forth: exulting, Kushava swallowed thee; exulting, the waters gave delight to the infant: Indra, exulting, rose up by his strength.

9. Vyansa, exulting and striking (hard blows), smote thee, Maghavan, upon the jaw; whereupon, being so smitten, thou provedst the stronger, and didst crush the head of the slave with the thunderbolt.
10. As a heifer bears a calf, his mother, (Aditi), bore Indra, mature (in years), strong, irresistible, vigorous, energetic, invincible, (destined) to follow his own course, heedful of his person.

11. His mother inquired of the mighty Indra, have these deities deserted thee, my son? then Indra said, Vishnu, my friend, (if thou) purpose slaying Vritra, exert thy greatest prowess.

12. Who has made thy mother a widow! who has sought to slay the sleeping and the waking? what deity has been more gracious than thou, since thou hast slain the father, having seized him by the foot?

13. In extreme destitution I have cooked the entrails of a dog: I have not found a comforter among the gods: I have beheld my wife disrespected: then the falcon, (Indra), has brought to me sweet water.

IV. 2. 9.

The deity is Indra; the Rishi Vasmadeya; the metre Trishtubh.

1. Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt, all the protecting deities who are reverently invoked, and both the heaven and the earth, glorify thee who art verily one alone, mighty, vast, and pleasing of aspect, for the destruction of Vritra.

2. As elders (send forth their young), so the gods have sent thee (against Vritra): thence thou becamest, Indra who art the abode of truth, the sovereign of the world: thou hast slain the slumbering Ahi for (the release of) the water, and hast marked out (the channels of) the all delighting rivers.
3. On the day of full moon thou hast slain with the thunderbolt the insatiable, unnerved, ignorant, un-apprehending, slumbering AHI, obstructing the gliding-downward-flowing (streams).

4. Indra, by his strength, has agitated the exhausted firmament, as wind, by its violent (gusts, agitates) the water: exulting in his strength, he has divided the solid (clouds), and has shattered the peaks of the mountains.

5. The Maruts have hastened to thee like mothers to their young: like chariots they have rushed in along (with thes); thou, Indra, hast satisfied the flowing streams; thou hast shattered the clouds: thou hast set free the obstructed rivers.

6. Thou hast made the vast, all-cherishing, and exuberant earth, delighted with (abundant) food, and tremulous water, for (the sake of) Turviti and Vayya: thou hast made the rivers easy to be crossed.

7. Indra has filled the youthful rivers, the parents of plenty, the corroders (of their banks), like armies destructive (of their foes): he has inundated the dry lands: and (satisfied) the thirsty travellers: he has milked the barren cows whom the Asuras had become the lords of.

8. Having slain Vritra, he has liberated many mornings and years (that had been) swallowed up by darkness, and has set the rivers free: Indra has released the imprisoned rivers, encompassed (by the cloud): to flow upon the earth.

9. Lord of horses, thou hast brought the son of AGRU from his dwelling, where he was being devoured by the ants: when extricated, although blind, he distinguished the serpent; and when he came forth the joints that had been sundered in the ant-hill were restrung.

10. The sage, (Vamadeva), knowing, royal Indra, the ancient deeds of thee who art all-wise, has proclaimed the actions, such as thou hast performed them, generative of rain, self-evolved, and beneficial to man.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, Indra, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever diligent in thy praise.

IV. 2. 10.

The deity, Rishis, and metre as before.

1. May the illustrious Indra, the granter of desires, come to us, whether from afar or nigh, for our protection: he who is the lord of men, armed with the thunderbolt, overcoming his foes in conflict and in combats, (attended) by the most illustrious (Maruts).

2. May Indra, looking down upon us, come with his steeds to our presence for our protection and enrichment; may the mighty thunderer, the possessor of wealth, (aiding us) in battle, be present at this our sacrifice.

3. Thou, Indra, placing us before thee, shalt receive this sacrifice, our holy offering; and as the huntsman (kills his game), may we, thy worshippers, holder of the thunderbolt, for the acquirement of riches through thee, be victorious in battle.

4. Indra, the giver of food, be near to us, favourably disposed; and, anxious for our (good), drink of the effused, prepared, exhilarating Soma, and be pleased by the (sacrificial) food (offered) with the noon-day hymn.

5. Like a man boasting of his wife, I glorify that Indra who is invoked of many, who is hymned by recent sages, (who is) like a tree with ripe fruit, like a victorious (warrior), skilful in arms.

6. He who is vast and self-sustained like a mountain, the radiant and formidable Indra, born of old for the destruction (of the foes of the gods), the wielder of the ancient thunderbolt, charged with splendour, like a jar (filled) with water.

7. Of whom there is no opposer by (reason of) his birth, nor any destroyer of the wealth that accomplishes (pious works): powerful and resplendent (Indra), the invoked of many, do thou who art the showerer (of benefits) bestow upon us riches.

8. Thou rulest over the riches and the dwellings of men; thou art the rescuer of the herd of cattle; thou art the giver of instruction, the smiter in battles, and the distributor of great heaps of riches.

9. By what wisdom is he who is most wise renowned? by that wherewith the mighty Indra repeatedly does (great things): he is the especial effacer of the manifold sin of the worshipper, and bestows wealth upon his adorer.

10. Harm us not, but cherish us, Indra: bestow upon us that abundant wealth which it is thine to give to the donor (of the oblation): praising thee, we celebrate thee at this sacred rite, which is new and excellent, and (at which the oblation) is proper to be presented.
11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, INDRA, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water); lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee; may we, possessed of chariots, be ever delighted in (thy) praise.

IV. 2. II.

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. May INDRA come to us for our protection, and being praised (by us), may the mighty hero be exhilarated along with (us) at this rite; he whose energies are many; may he, like the radiant sun, recruit his own overpowering vigour.

2. Glorify the powerful leaders of that renowned and opulent (INDRA), whose victorious and protecting energy rules over men, like a universal sovereign entitled to veneration.

3. May INDRA, accompanied by the MARUTS, come quickly for our protection, from the heaven, from the earth, from the firmament, or from the waters; from the sphere of the sun, from (any) distant region, from the abode of the rains.

4. We glorify, in solemn rites, this INDRA who rules over substantial, abundant riches; who by his prowess is victor over (hostile) hosts; who by his munificence brings excellent (wealth) to the presence (of his worshippers).

5. Let the invoking priest bring to our dwellings that (INDRA) who, firmly fixing the (world), returns food for (sacrificial food); and (utters) a voice enjoining (men) to worship; he who is to be propitiated by praises, who is adored by many.

6. When the repeaters of (his) commendations, abiding in the dwelling of the worshipper, approach Indra with praise, may he who is our (great) sustainer in conflicts, whose wrath is difficult to be (appeased), become the ministering priest of the master of the house.

7. True it is that this might of the son of the protector of the world, the showerer (of benefits), affects for his advantage the offerer of praise: it (prevails) in the secret (thoughts) of the worshipper, and in his dwelling. for (the accomplishment of his) pious acts, (the attainment of his) desires, and his delight.

8. Inasmuch as he has opened the doors of the cloud, and has supplied the rapid courses of the waters with (additional) torrents, so when the pious have recourse to Indra for food, he finds (it) in the haunt of the Gāura and Gavaya.

9. Thy auspicious hands, Indra, are the doers of good deeds: thy two hands, Indra, are the extenders of wealth to him who praises thee: what, Indra, is this delay! why dost thou not exhilarate us? why art thou not delighted to make us gifts?

10. Thus (glorified), Indra, who is faithful (to his word), the lord of wealth, the slayer of Vṛitra, bestows riches on man; so thou, the praised of many, give us riches for our pious acts, that I may eat of thy divine food.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, Indra, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever delighted in (thy) praise.

ANUVĀKA III.

IV. 3. 1.

The deity, Ṛṣa, and metre as before.

1. Since the great and mighty INDRA is propitiated by our (oblations), since he desires (them) from us, may he, the possessor of opulence, who comes wielding the thunderbolt by his strength, accept the (sacrificial) food, the hymn, the Soma libation, and the prayers.

2. The showerer (of benefits): casting with his hands the quadrangular bolt that causes rain, fierce, the chief of leaders, the achiever of (glorious) acts, is desirous of the prosperity of the investing Parushā (river), whose (bordering) districts he has frequented through regard.

3. Who divine, most divine, as soon as born (was endowed) with abundant viands, and great energies, holding in his arms the willing thunderbolt, and causing by his strength (both) heaven and earth to tremble.

4. All the high places, and the many low places, the heaven and the earth, trembled (through fear) of the mighty (INDRA) at his birth: the strong (INDRA) cherishes the parents of the moving (sun), and the winds, like men, make a noise in their peregrination.

5. Of thee, INDRA, who art mighty, great are the deeds, and to be proclaimed at all sacrifices, inasmuch as, high-minded hero, thou, sustaining (the world), hast by thy strength slain Ahi with the resistless thunderbolt.
6. Most powerful Indra, all these, thy exploits, are verily true: (through fear of thee), the showerer (of benefits), the cows shed (milk) from their udders: then, benevolent-minded (Indra), the rivers, fearing thee, flow with rapidity.

7. Then, Indra, lord of horses, the divine sister (rivers) praise (thee) for thy protection when thou didst set them free to flow, after having been impeded (by Vritra) through a long confinement.

8. The exhilarating Soma juice has been expressed: now may the current flow to thee, and may the expiatory power of the illustrious utterer of praise be directed towards us, as the quick rider holds firmly the reins of the steed.

9. Enduring Indra, bestow upon us energies, excellent, superior, powerful; bring under subjection to us enemies deserving of death; demolish the weapon of the malevolent man.

10. Hear our praises, Indra. and bestow upon us many kinds of food; fulfil all our desires, and know thyself, Maghavan, to be to us the donor of cattle.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, Indra, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee; may we, possessed of chariots, be ever diligent in (thy) praise.
The deity, Rishi and metre as before; or the deity of the third, ninth, and tenth verses may be Rita.

1. In what manner may (any one) extol the mighty Indra? at the sacrifice of what worshipper may he, propitiated, be present, drinking the sacrificial soma beverage, desirous of the (sacred) food, and pleased (by the oblation)? the mighty Indra is borne (to the rite) for the purpose of bestowing brilliant wealth.

2. What hero has enjoyed his fellowship (in battle)? who has been a sharer in his benevolent thoughts? when does any one appreciate his wonderful bounty? when is he (present) for the promotion of the prosperity of the man who glorifies and worships him?

3. How is it that Indra hears (the worshipper) who invokes him? and, hearing, how does he know his necessities? what are his gifts of old; why have they termed him the fulfiller (of the desires) of him who offers praise?

4. How does he who glorifies Indra, and is diligent in his worship, although encountering opposition, obtain from him wealth? may the divine Indra be the appreciator of my praises, when accepting the sacrificial food he is propitiated towards me.

5. When, in what manner, at the dawning of this morning, has the divine Indra accepted the friendship of a mortal? when, and in what manner, (is) his friendship (manifested) to the friends who have spread out the desirable and suitable (offering) before him?

6. May we in any manner proclaim thy friendship for thy friends? when may (we make known) thy fraternal regard! the efforts of the well-looking Indra are for the happiness of all; the wonderful form of the moving (Indra) is, like the sun, ever wished for.

7. Resolving to kill the oppressing, malevolent (Rakshasi), not acknowledging Indra, he sharpened his sharp weapons for (her) destruction, and the fierce (Indra), the canceller of debts, has kept afar the unknown dawns in which the debts (are to be paid).

8. Many are the waters of Rita: the adoration of Rita destroys iniquities; the intelligent and brilliant praise of Rita has opened the deaf (ears) of man.

9. Many are the stable, sustaining, delightful forms of the embodied Rita: by Rita are (the pious) expectant of food; by Rita have the kine entered into the sacrifice.

10. The (worshipper) subjecting Rita (to his will) verily enjoys Rita: the strength of Rita is (developed) with speed, and is desirous of (possessing) water; to Rita belong the wide and profound heaven and earth; supreme milk kine, they yield their milk to Rita.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, Indra, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water); lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever diligent in thy praise.

IV. 3. 3.

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. What suitable praise may bring the son of strength, Indra, before us, to give us wealth: the hero, the lord of cattle, is the donor, oh man, of the wealth of his adversaries to him who glorifies him.

2. He, INDRA, is to be invoked for the destruction of Vritra; he, the deservedly praised, is to be worshipped; the real donor of wealth, he, Maghavan, gives wealth, (acquired) in battle, to the mortal who offers him prayer and libations.

3. Men verily call upon him in battle: the (devout) inflicters of austerity upon their persons constitute him their preserver: when both (the worshipper and the priest) approach together the bountiful INDRA, men (succeed) in (obtaining) the gift of sons and grandsons.

4. Powerful INDRA, men variously dispersed, come mutually together to celebrate sacred rites for the sake of obtaining rain; when men who are combatants assemble in battle, there are some of them who rely upon INDRA.

5. Thereupon some verily worship the powerful (INDRA); thereupon one man prepares the buttered cake that he may offer it to (INDRA); thereupon the offerer of the Soma he distinguishes from him who presents no libation; thereupon some one rejoices to worship the showerer (of benefits).

6. INDRA bestows wealth upon him who offers a libation to him, desiring it, though in another sphere; and, with an humble mind, makes him who is devoted to him his friend in combat.

7. INDRA accepting graciously the praises of his devoted (worshipper), who to-day pours out the libation to him, who toasts the buttered cakes, or fries the barley for INDRA, exercises towards him the power that grants his desires.
8. When the destroyer (of enemies) distinguishes a mortal foe; when the lord is engaged in the long (continued) battle, (his) bride summons to the dwelling the showerer (of benefits), encompassed by the offerers of the libation.

9. A man has realized a small price for an article of great value, and again coming (to the buyer he says) this has not been sold; I require the full price; but he does not recover a small price by a large (equivalent); whether helpless or clever they adhere to their bargain.

10. Who buys this, my Indra, with ten milch kine? when he shall have slain (your) foes, then let (the purchaser) give him again to me.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, Indra, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee; may we, possessed of chariots, be ever diligent in thy praise.

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. What friend of man, or worshipper of the gods, deserving the friendship of Indra, has to-day enjoyed (it)? or what offerer of the libation on the kindled fire praises him (sufficiently) for his great and unbounded protection?

2. Who has reverenced with (suitable) words the (deity) worthy of the libation? who is devoted (to him)? who supports the cattle (given by him)? who desires the society of Indra! who his friendship? who his fraternity? who (has recourse) to the sage Indra for protection?

3. Who solicits to-day the protection of the gods? who glorifies the Adityas, Aditi, light? of whose effused libation do the Ashwins, Indra, Agni, drink at will, propitiated by his praise?

1. May Agni, the bearer of oblations, grant him felicity, and long behold the rising sun (in the dwelling of him) who says, let us offer libations to Indra, leader (of rites), the friend of man, the chief leader amongst leaders.

5. Him neither many nor few can molest: may Aditi grant him infinite happiness: the performer of pious acts is dear (to Indra): dear to Indra is he whose mind is intent upon him; dear is he who approaches him with homage; dear to him is the offerer of the libation.

6. This hero, Indra, the prompt discomfiter (of foes), who is to be approached with homage, grants special maturity to the presenter of the libation: he is not the kinsman, nor friend, nor relative, of him who offers no oblation (to him): he is difficult of access, and the punisher of him who repeats not (his) praise.

7. (Indra), the drinker of the effused Soma, contracts no friendship with the wealthy trader who offers not any libation; he takes away his wealth; destroys him when destitute; but he is a special (friend) to him who presents the libation and oblation.

8. The most exalted, the most humble, (invoke) Indra; the middle (classes) invoke Indra; those going, those stopping, (invoke) Indra; those dwelling at home, those going to battle, (invoke) Indra; men needing food invoke Indra.

IV. 3. 5.

The deity of the three first stanzas is said to be either Indra or Paramatma; in the first case the Rishi is Vamadeva; in the second Indra; the deity of the other verses is the Śgraiva or Hawk; Vamadeva is the Rishi; the metre is Tristubh.

1. I have been Manu and Surya; I am the wise Rishi, Kakshivat; I have befriended Kutsa, the son of Arjuni; I am the far-seeing Ushanas; so behold me.

2. I gave the earth to the venerable (Manu); I have bestowed rain upon the mortal who presents (oblations); I have let forth the sounding waters; the gods obey my will.

3. Exhilarated (by the Soma beverage) I have destroyed the ninety and nine cities of Samba; the hundredth I gave to be occupied by Divodasa when I protected him, Ātithiga, at his sacrifice.

4. May this bird, Maruts, be pre-eminent over (other) hawks, since with a wheelless car the swift-winged bore the Soma, accepted by the gods, to Manu.

5. When the bird, intimidating (its guardians), carried off from hence (the Soma) it was at large; (flying) swift as thought along the vast path (of the firmament), it went rapidly with the sweet Soma plant, and the hawks thence acquired celebrity in this world.

6. The straight-flying hawk, conveying the Soma plant from afar; the bird, attended by the gods, brought, resolute of purpose, the adorable, exhilarating Soma, having taken it from that lofty heaven.

7. Having taken it, the hawk brought the Soma with him to a thousand and ten thousand sacrifices, and this being provided, the performer of many (great) deeds, the unbewildered (Indra) destroyed, in the exhilaration of the Soma, (his) bewildered foes.

IV. 3. 6.

The deity is the Hawk, or Purabrahma under that personification; the Rishi is Yamadeva; the metre is Trishtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Shakunti.

1. Being still in the germ, I have known all the births of these divinities in their order: a hundred bodies of iron confined me, but as a hawk I came forth with speed.

2. That embryo did not beguile me into satisfaction, but by the keen energy (of divine wisdom), I triumphed over it: the impeller of all, the sustainer of many, abandoned the foes (of knowledge), and, expanding, passed beyond the winds (of worldly troubles).

3. When the hawk screamed (with exultation) on his descent from heaven, and (the guardians of the Soma) perceived that the Soma was (carried away) by it, then, the archer Krishanu, pursuing with the speed of thought, and stringing his bow, let fly an arrow against it.

4. The straight-flying hawk carried off the Soma from above the vast heaven, as (the Ashvins carried off) Bhujyu from the region of Indra, and a falling feather from the middle of the bird dropped from him wounded in the conflict.
5. Now may Maghavan accept the pure nutritious (sacrificial) food in a white pitcher, mixed with milk and curds, offered by the priests; the upper part of the sweet (beverage) to drink for his exhilaration: may the hero accept (it) to drink for (his) exhilaration.

The deities are Indra and Soma; Bissi and metre as before.

1. Through that friendship, Soma, which has united thee with thy (friend) Indra, he has made the waters flow for man; he has slain Ahi; he has sent forth the seven rivers, and has opened the shut-up sources (of the streams).

2. With thee, Soma, for his ally, Indra has quickly taken off by force the wheel of the chariot of the sun, abiding above with the vast and stationary (firmament); the everywhere-going wheel (of the car) of the great oppressor has been taken away.

3. Indra has slain the Dasyus. Soma, in battle: Agni has consumed them before the noon: he (Indra) has destroyed the whole of many thousands, as (robbers are the destroyers of those) going upon (their own) business, in a difficult and dangerous (place).

4. Indra, thou hast made these Dasyus devoid of all (good qualities); thou hast made the servile races abject: may you, (Soma and Indra), repel (and) destroy (your) enemies: accept (our) homage for their destruction.

5. Possessors of wealth, destroyers of foes, Indra and Soma, it is indeed true that you have distributed great numbers of horses, and of the cattle which had been concealed, and the land which you had recovered by your strength.

IV. 3. 8.

The deity is Indra, the

1. Honoured with accepted (sacrificial) viands, come, Indra, exulting, with thy steeds, to our many rites for our protection; thou who art the lord, glorified by hymns, whose wealth is truth.

2. May Indra, the friend of man, the omniscient, come to the sacrifice when invoked by the offerers of libations; he who is possessed of good horses, who is fearless, honoured by the effusers of libations, who rejoices with the heroes (the Maruts).

3. Let (his worshipper) cause his ears to listen so as to invigorate him (by praise), and to give him pleasure in every acceptable place; and being well moistened with the Soma juice, may the vigorous Indra render the holy places (conducive) to our wealth, and free from danger.

4. (That Indra), who repairs to the suppliant for (his) protection, to the sage in this manner invoking and praising him; he who, armed with the thunderbolt, places, of his own accord, hundreds and thousands of swift-going (horses) in the shafts (of their cars).

5. Opulent Indra, may we, who are protected by thee, who are intelligent, devout, and offerers of praise, be participant with thee for the sake of distributing brilliant wealth, and abundant food, entitled to (our) commendation.

IV. 3. 9. 30

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Gayatri, except in the last stanza, in which it is Anushasana.

1. There is no one, Indra, superior to thee; no one more excellent (than thou); slayer of Vritra there is no one, verily, such as thou art.

2. Verily men are attached to thee as are all the wheels (to the body of the waggon): in truth thou art great and renowned.

3. Verily all the gods, with thee (for) their strength, have warred (with the Asuras); wherefore thou hast destroyed by day and by night.

4. In which (contests), for the sake of Kutsa and his allies, thou hast stolen, Indra, the (wheel of the car) of the sun.

5. In which (contests), thou singly indeed hast warred with all those opposing the gods: thou, Indra, hast slain the malignant.

6. In which (contests), Indra, thou hast, for the sake of a mortal, discomfited the sun, and hast protected Etasa by (thine) exploits.

7. Wherefore, slayer of Vritra, opulent Indra, hast thou thereupon become most incensed, and, in consequence, hast slain the son of Danu (Vritra) in this firmament.

8. Inasmuch, Indra, as thou hast displayed such manly prowess, thou hast slain the woman, the daughter of the sky, when meditating mischief.

9. Thou, Indra, who art mighty, hast enriched the glorious dawn, the daughter of heaven.

10. The terrified Ushas descended from the broken waggon when the (showerer of benefits) had smashed it.

11. Then her shattered waggon reposed (on the bank) of the Vipash (river), and she departed from afar.

12. Thou hast spread abroad upon the earth, by thy contrivance, the swollen Sindhu when arrested (on its course).

13. By valour thou hast carried off the wealth of Shushna, when thou hadst demolished his cities.

14. Thou hast slain the slave Shambara, the son Kulitara, hurling him from off the huge mountain.

15. Thou hast slain the five hundreds and thousands (of the followers) of the slave Varchin, (surrounding) him like the fellies (round the spokes of the wheel).

16. Thou, Indra, who art Shukrakrutu, hast made Paravri, the son of Agru, participant in sacred hymns.

17. The lord of arts, the wise Indra, has borne across (their difficulties), Turvasas and Yadu, when denied inauguration.

18. Thou hast slain at once those two Arjas, Arna and Chitraratha, (dwelling) on the opposite (bank) of the Sarayu.

19. Slayer of Vritra, thou hast restored the (one who was) blind, the (other who was) lame, both abandoned (by their kin): (it is not possible) to exceed the happiness that is given by thee.
20. Indra has overturned a hundred stone-built cities for Divodas, the donor of oblations.

21. He put to sleep, by delusion, with his destructive (weapons), thirty thousand of the servile (races), for the sake of Dvariti.

22. Slayer of Vritra, thou art the same (to all thy worshippers), the lord of cattle, who castest down all these (thine enemies).

23. When, indeed, Indra, thou excitest thy vigorous manhood, there is no one at the present time who may resist it.

24. Destroyer of foes, may the divine Aryaman distribute thy precious wealth; (may) Pushan (bestow it), (may) Bhaga (bestow it); may the toothless deity bestow the desired wealth.

IV. 3. 10.

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before; but verses three, four, and five are in a variety of Gapatri, termed Padanivrit, having seven instead of eight syllables in each of the three divisions.

1. By what means may he who is ever augmenting, who is wonderful, who is our friend, be present with us, by what most effective rite ?

2. What genuine and most esteemed of the exhilarating juices of the (sacrificial) beverage may inspirit thee to demolish the substantial treasures (of the foe).

3. Do thou, the protector of us thy friends and praisers, be present with a hundred protections.

4. (Induced) by the praises of men, return like a revolving wheel to us, dependent (upon thy favour).
5. Thou comest in a downward (direction) to sacred rites, as if to thine own station: I glorify thee together with the sun.

6. When thy praises, and these sacred rites, Indra, are addressed to thee, they first belong to thee, and next to Surya.

7. Lord of holy acts, they call thee Maghavan, the munificent, the resplendent.

8. And verily thou givest promptly abundant wealth to him who praises thee and offers thee libations.

9. Adversaries diminish not thy hundred-fold opulence, nor resist the energies of thee opposing (them).

10. May thy hundred, thy thousand, protections preserve us; may all (thy) desires (be for our defence).

11. Select us, Indra, on this occasion, for thy friendship, for (our) welfare, for vast and splendid riches.

12. Favour us, Indra, daily with infinite riches; (protect) us with all protections.

13. With fresh protections, Indra, like a warrior, open for us those pastures filled with cattle.

14. May our chariot, Indra, foe-repelling, brilliant, unfailing, proceed (everywhere), possessing us of cattle and of horses.

15. Surya, make our fame exalted among the gods, as (thou hast placed) the sky, the shedder of most copious rain, above (all other regions).
IV. 3. 11.

The deity, Rishi, and metro as before.

1. Indra, slayer of Vritra, come to us quickly: thou who art mighty, (come) with mighty protections.

2. Wonderful Indra, wanderer at times (through space), thou art verily the granter of (our) desires, and doest what is marvellous for the protection (of those who are engaged) in wondrous works.

3. Thou destroyest by thy might the fierce assailing foe, associated with the humble friends who are along with thee.

4. We, Indra, are along with thee; we zealously glorify thee: do verily protect us all.

5. Wielder of the thunderbolt, do thou come to us with wondrous, irreproachable, irresistible protections.

6. May we, Indra, be the friends of one like thee, possessed of cattle, allied (to him) for (the sake of) abundant food.

7. For thou alone, Indra, art lord over food combined with cattle; therefore do thou grant us ample food.

8. None change thy purpose, Indra, object of laudation, when, being praised, thou desirest to bestow wealth upon the praisers.

9. The Gotamas glorify thee, Indra, with praise, that thou mayest grant wealth, and for the sake of abundant food.

10. We proclaim thy prowess, whereby exhilarated (by the Soma), and having gone against them, thou hast demolished the servile cities.
11. The pious celebrate thy manly exploits, Indra, object of laudation, when the juices (of the Soma) are effused.

12. The Gotamas, offerers of praise, exalt thee, Indra; bestow upon them food and posterity.

13. Although, Indra, thou art the common property of (all) worshippers, we invoke thee (such) as thou art (for ourselves).

14. Giver of dwellings; be present with us; drinker of the Soma, be exhilarated by the beverage of the juices.

15. May the praise (of us) who are devoted (to thee), Indra, give thee to us: guide thy horses towards us.

16. Eat (Indra) our cakes and butter; be pleased by our praises as a libertine (by the caresses) of a woman.

17. We solicit, Indra for a thousand well-trained, swift-going horses, for a hundred jars of Soma juice.

18. We seek to bring down from thee, thousands and hundreds of cattle; may riches come to us from thee.

19. May we obtain from thee, ten golden ewers, for thou, slayer of Vritra, art a bountiful giver.

20. A bountiful giver art thou, Indra; give bountifully to us; (give) not little; bring much; for verily thou desirest to give much.

21. Verily thou art renowned amongst many as a bountiful giver; hero, slayer of Vritra, make us sharers in wealth.

22. Wise Indra, I praise thy brown (horses); bestower of kine, (who art) not regardless (of thy worshippers); with those two steeds terrify not our cattle.
23. Like two puppets on an arranged, new, and slender stage, thy two brown (steeds) are brilliant at sacrifices.

24. Thy two innocuous brown (steeds) are sufficient at sacrifices for me, whether going (to them) in (a waggon drawn by) oxen, or going without (such) a conveyance.

ANUVAKA IV.

IV. 4. 1.

The deities are the Rishus; the Rishi is Yamadnya; the metre is Prishthi.

1. I send my prayer as a messenger to the Rishus; I solicit (of them) the milch cow, the yielder of the white milk, for the dilution (of the Soma libation); for they, as swift as the wind, the doers of good works, were borne quickly across the firmament by rapid steeds.

2. When the Rishus, by honouring their parents with renovated (youth), and by other works, had achieved enough, they thereupon proceeded to the society of the gods, and, considerate, they bring nourishment to the devout (worshipper).

3. May they who rendered their decrepit and dropsy parents, when, like two dry posts, again perpetually young, Vaja, Viharwan, and Rishu associated with Indra, drinkers of the Soma juice, protect our sacrifice.

4. Inasmuch as for a year the Rishus preserved the (dead) cow, inasmuch as for a year they invested it with flesh, inasmuch as for a year they continued its beauty, they obtained by their acts immortality.

5. The eldest said, let us make two ladles; the youngest, said, let us make three: Twashtri, Ribhus, has applauded your proposal.

6. The men, (the Ribhus), spake the truth, for such (ladies) they made, and thereupon the Ribhus partook of that libation: Twashtri, beholding the four ladies, brilliant as day, was content.

7. When the Ribhus, reposing for twelve days, remained in the hospitality of the unconcealable (sun), they rendered the fields fertile, they led forth the rivers, plants sprung upon the waste, and waters (spread over) the low (places).

8. May those Ribhus who constructed the firm-abiding, wheel-conducting car; who formed the all-impelling multi-form milch cow; they who are the bestowers of food, the doers of great deeds, and dexterous of hand, fabricate for us riches.

9. The gods were pleased by their works, illustrious in act and in thought: Vaja was the artificer of the gods, Ribhukshin of Indra, Vibhwan of Varuna.

10. May those Ribhus who gratified the horses (of Indra) by pious praise, who constructed for Indra his two docile steeds, bestow upon us satiety of riches, and wealth (of cattle), like those who devise prosperity for a friend.

11. The gods verily have given you the beverage at the (third sacrifice of the) day, and its exhilaration, not through regard, but (as the gift of one) wearied out (by penance): Ribhus, who are so (eminent), grant us, verily, wealth at this third (diurnal) sacrifice.
IV. 4. 2.

The deities, Rībi, and matsya as before.

1. Rīhu, Vibhwan, Vaīja, and Indra, do you come to this our sacrifice, to distribute precious things, for the divine work has indeed now desired the drinking (of the Soma) on the (appointed hours of the) days; therefore the exhilarating draughts are collected for you.

2. Resplendent with (sacrificial) food, prescient of your (celestial) birth, be exhilarated. Rīhus along with the Rīhus: the inebriating draughts are collected for you as well as pious praise: do you confer upon us riches with excellent posterity.

3. This sacrifice, Rīhus, has been instituted for you, the which you, who are eminently resplendent, have accepted after the manner of men: before you have the propitiatory (libations) been placed, for Vaījas, you are all entitled to precedence.

4. Now, leaders (of rites), the treasure that ought to be presented is to be given to the mortal performing (the sacred rite), the offerer (of the libation): drink, Vaījas, (drink), Rīhus; I present it to you at the third solemn (diurnal) ceremony for your exhilaration.

5. Vaījas, Rībhuksans, leaders (of rites), come to us eulogizing exceeding wealth: these draughts (of Soma) proceed to you at the decline of day, like newly-delivered cows to their stalls.

6. Sons of strength, come to this sacrifice, invoked with veneration: givers of precious things, associated with Indra, with whom you are intelligent, participate in being gratified (by the libation), drink of the sweet Soma-juice.
7. Sympathizing in satisfaction with Varuna, drink Indra, the Soma juice; drink it, thou who are entitled to praise, sympathizing with the Maruts; drink, sympathizing with the first drinkers, with the drinkers (at the sacrifices) of the Ritus; sympathizing with the protectresses of the wives (of the gods), the giver of wealth.

8. Ribhus, be exhilarated, sympathizing with the Adityas, sympathizing with the Parvatas, sympathizing with the divine Savitri, sympathizing with the wealth bestowing (deities of the) rivers.

9. Ribhus, who by your assistance (gratified) the Ashwins, who (renovated your) parents, who (restored) the cow, who fabricated the horses, who made armour (for the gods), who separated earth and heaven, and who, the all-pervading leaders (of rites), accomplished (acts productive of) good results.

10. Ribhus, who possess wealth, comprising cattle, food, progeny, dwellings, and abundant sustenance, do you, who are the first drinkers (of the Soma), bestow upon us, when exhilarated, (that wealth, and upon those) who land your liberality.

11. Ribhus go not away; let us not leave you (thirsting); (be present) unproached at this sacrifice; be exhilarated, deities, along with Indra, with the Maruts, and with (other) brilliant (divinities), for the distribution of wealth.

IV. 4. 3.

Dolties, Rihti, and metre as before.

I. Come hither, sons of strength, sons of Subhanwan; Ribhus, keep not away; may the exhilarating juices proceed to you at this sacrifice, after the munificent Indra.
2. May the munificence of the Ribhus come to me on this occasion, (since) there has been the drinking of the effused Soma, in consequence of one ladle having been made fourfold by their dexterous and excellent work.

3. You have made the ladle fourfold, and have said (to Agni), assent (to the division) ; therefore have you gone, Vajas, the path of the immortals; dexterous-handed Ribhus (you have joined) the company of the gods.

4. What sort of ladle was that which by skill you have made four? now pour forth the Soma for their exhilaration; drink, Ribhus, of the sweet Soma libation.

5. By your (marvellous) deeds you have made your parents young; by your deeds you have made the ladle (fit) for the drinking of the gods; by your deeds you have made the two horses, the bearers of Indra, swifter than (an arrow from) a bow, Ribhus, who are rich in (sacrificial) food.

6. Distributors of food, Ribhus, showerers (of benefits), exhilarated (by the Soma draught), fabricate wealth, comprising all posterity for him who pours out for your exultation, the acrid libation at the decline of day.

7. Drink, lord of horses, Indra, the libation offered at dawn; the noon-day libation is alone for thee; but (in the evening) drink with the munificent Ribhus, whom, Indra, thou hast made thy friends by good deeds.

8. Do you, sons of strength, who have become gods by (your good deeds), soaring aloft in the sky like falcons, bestow upon us riches: sons of Sudhanwan, you have become immortals.
9. Dexterous-handed, since you have instituted, through desire of good works, the third sacrifice, which is the bestower of wealth, therefore, Ribhus, drink this effused Soma with exhilarated senses.

IV. 4. 4.

The deities and Rishi as before: the metre is Jagati, in the last verse Trishtubh.

1. The glorious three-wheeled car (of the Ashwins made, Ribhus, by you), traverses the firmament without horses, without reins: great was that proclamation of your divine (power), by which, Ribhus, you cherish heaven and earth.

2. We invoke you respectfully, Vajas and Ribhus, to drink of this libation, for you are the wise sages who, by mental meditation, made the well-constructed un-deviating car (of the Ashwins).

3. Therefore, Vaja, Ribhu, Vihwan, was your greatness proclaimed amongst the gods, that you made your aged and infirm parents again young (and able) to go (where they would).

4. You have made the single ladle four-fold: by your (marvellous) acts you have clothed the cow with a (new) hide; therefore you have obtained immortality amongst the gods: such acts, Vajas and Ribhus, are to be eagerly glorified.

5. From the Ribhus may wealth, the best and most productive of food, (come to me); that which the leaders (of rites) renowned together, with the Vajas, have engendered; that which has been fabricated by Virhwan and is to be celebrated at sacrifices; that which, deities, you protect, that is to be beheld.

6. He is vigorous and skilled in war, he is a Rishi worthy of homage, he is a hero, the discomfitter of foes, invincible in battles, he is possessed of ample wealth, and (is blessed) with excellent posterity, whom Vaja and Virhwan, whom the Ribhus protect.

7. An excellent and agreeable form has been assumed by you: (this is our own) praise: Vajas and Ribhus be gratified (thereby), for you are wise, experienced, and intelligent: such we make you known (to be) by this (our) prayer.

8. Do you who are wise, (bestow) upon us, in requital of our praises, all enjoyments that are good for man, and fabricate for us, Ribhus, riches and food, resplendent, invigorating, overpowering (foes), and most excellent.

9. Gratified (by our worship), fabricate for us, on this occasion, progeny, and wealth, and reputation, with numerous adherents; grant to us, Ribhus, abundant sustenance wherewith we may greatly excel others.

IV. 4. 5.

Deities and Rishi, as before; the metm of the first four verses is Frischhbk, of the rest Anschihtbh.

1. Divine Vajas, Ribhus, come to our sacrifice by the path travelled by the gods, inasmuch as you, gracious (Ribhus), have maintained sacrifice amongst the people, (the progeny) of Manu, for (the sake of) securing the prosperous course of days.
2. May these sacrifices be (acceptable) to you in heart and mind: may to-day the sufficient juices mixed with butter flow to you; the full libations are prepared for you: may they, when drank, animate you for glorious deeds.

3. As the offering suited to the gods at the third (daily) sacrifice supports you, Vajas, Ribhuksahans; as the praise (then recited supports you): therefore, like Manu, I offer you the Soma juice, along with the very radiant (deities) among the people assembled at the solemnity.

4. Vajins, you are borne by stout horses mounted on a brilliant car, have jaws of iron, and are possessed of treasures: sons of Indra, grandsons of strength, this last sacrifice is for your exhilaration.

5. We invoke you, Ribhuksahans, for splendid wealth, mutually co-operating, most invigorating in war, affecting the senses, ever munificent, and comprehending horses.

6. May the man whom you, Ribhus and Indra, favour, be ever liberal by his acts, and possessed of a horse at the sacrifice.

7. Vajas, Ribhuksahans, direct us in the way to sacrifice; for you, who are intelligent, being glorified (by us), are able to traverse all the quarters (of space).

8. Vajas, Ribhuksahans. Indra. Nasatyas, command that ample wealth with horses be sent to men for their enrichment.

The deities of the first verse are Heaven and Earth, of the rest Dadhi, the Rishi is Vamadeva; the metre Triksuttuk.

1. Trasadanyu has bestowed upon many the ancient (gifts) which were obtained by the liberal (prince) through your (favour, Heaven and Earth) you two have given a horse, a son, a weapon (for the destruction) of the Dasayus, fierce and foe-subduing.

2. And you two have given the swift Daalhikra, the repeller of many (foes), the defender of all men, the straight-going, the graceful-moving, the resplendent, the rapid; the destroyet of enemies like a heroic prince.

3. Whom all men, rejoicing, praise, rushing everywhere, as if down a precipice, springing with his feet like a hero eager for war, drawing a car, and going as swift as the wind.

4. Who, opposing the mingled multitude in battles, rushes eager, passing through the regions, whose vigour is manifest, who, understanding what is to be known, puts to shame the adversary of the (pious) man.

5. Whom men call after in battles, as after a thief carrying off a garment, or as (after) a hungry hawk pouncing (upon his prey); they call after him, hastening to obtain food, or a herd of cattle.

6. And who, issuing forth the first in those encounters, rushes in various directions with rows of chariots; like an elegant (courser), friendly to man, decorated with a garland, raising the dust, and clamping his bit.

7. And that swift (horse) enduring in battle, bestowing food, and doing service with his limbs, rushing swiftly upon the quick-moving (host of the enemy), going straight onward, and tossing up the dust, throws it above his brows.

8. And the adversaries of that foe-destroying steed, like (those) of the brilliant thunderbolt, are alarmed; for when he contends, even against thousands on every side, then, rousing (his spirit), he is fearful and irresistible.

9. Men praise the overpowering rapidity of that fleet (steed), who is the accomplisher (of the desires) of mankind, and, following him to battle, they have said, Dadhikra with (his) thousands has gone forth against the foe.

10. Dadhikra has spread abroad the five classes of beings by his strength, as the sun (diffuses) the waters by his radiance: may he, the giver of hundred thousands, associate these praises with agreeable (rewards).

IV. 4. 7.

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre the same, except in the last verse, in which it is Avashtabh.

1. Verily we praise that swift Dadhikra and scatter (provender before him) from heaven and earth: may the gloom-dispelling dawns preserve for me (all good things), and bear me beyond all evils.

2. Fulfiller of religious rites, I reiterate the praise of the great Dadhikra, the liberal, many-honoured showerer (of benefits), whom Mitrā and Varuna gave for the good of many, the transporter (beyond calamity), as brilliant as Agni.

3. May Atri, consenting with Mitrā and Varuna, render him free from sin who has performed the worship of the steed Dadhikra, when the fire has been kindled at the opening of the dawn.

4. Whilst we glorify the name of the great Dadhikra, the means of sustenance and of strength, the prosperity of those who praise (him), let us invoke (also) for our welfare VARUNA, MITRA, AGNI, and INDRA, the bearer of the thunderbolt.

5. Those who are preparing for battle, those who are proceeding to sacrifice, both invoke (Dadhikra) as if (he was) INDRA: MITRA and VARUNA have given to us the horse Dadhikra as an encourager to man.

6. I have celebrated the praise of Dadhikra, the rapid and victorious steed; may he make our mouths fragrant, may he prolong our lives.

IV. 4, 8.

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre of the first verse is Prabhâ, of the rest Jagati.

1. May we repeatedly recite (the praise) of Dadhikravan; may all rising dawns excite me (to the adoration) of the waters, of AGNI, of USHAS, of SURYA, of BRHASPATI, and of JISHNU, the son of ANGIRAS.

2. May Dadhikravan, the active, the cherisher, the giver of cattle, who abides with the devout, the swift-going, be willing to accept (the sacrificial) food at the time of the desirable dawn; may he who is true, moving, rapid, and leaping like a grasshopper, produce (for us) food, strength, heaven.

3. And after him who is quick-going, hastening, eager (to arrive at his goal, men) follow (as other birds pursue) the flight of a swift (bird) striving together to keep up by the side of Dadhikravan the transporter (of others) as swift as a hawk.
4. And that horse bound by his neck, his flanks, his mouth, accelerates his paces: Dudhikra increasing in vigour after the (sacred rite), following the windings of the roads, goes still more rapidly.

5. He is Hansa, (the sun), dwelling in light; Vasu, (the wind), dwelling in the firmament; the invoker of the gods (Agni), dwelling on the altar; the guest (of the worshipper), dwelling in the house (as the culinary fire); the dweller amongst men, (as consciousness), the dweller in the most excellent (orb, the sun), the dweller in truth, the dweller in the sky (the air), born in the waters, in the rays of light, in the verity (of manifestation) in the (eastern) mountain, the truth (itself).

IV. 4. 9.

Indra and Varuna are the deities; the Rishi is Vamadeva; the mater Trishtuba.

1. Indra (and Varuna), Varuna (and Indra), what praise of you accompanied by oblations may obtain for us felicity, (such as) the immortal invoker of the gods, (Agni, may bestow): may (the praise) which is addressed by us to you both, Indra and Varuna, sanctified by acts and prompted by veneration, touch your hearts.

2. Divine Indra and Varuna, the mortal diligent in offering (you) sacrificial food, who has through friendship made you his kinsmen, destroys (his own) sins, and his enemies in battle; and by your great favours he becomes renowned.

3. Indra and Varuna (you are) most liberal givers of wealth to men praising you in various ways, when as friends well plied with (sacrificial) food, you are exhilarated by the Soma juice effused through friendship.

4. Fierce Indra and Varuna you hurled the bright-shining and most mighty thunderbolt against this (our foe), who is difficult to be resisted by us; (who is) rapacious, malevolent: grant us strength to overcome him.

5. Indra and Varuna, be the exciters of this our praise, as the bull is of the milk cows: may that cow (of praise) yield us (reward), like a large cow that has gone forth to pasture, whose thousand channels (are filled) with milk.

6. May Indra and Varuna, the overthrowers (of foes), be around us with (their) protections; (that thereby we may have) good sons and grandsons, and fertile lands, and long life, and virility.

7. Desirous of (possessing) cattle, we have recourse to you, Indra and Varuna, for full protection, you who are powerful and kind as (kinsmen); we have recourse to you, adorable heroes, for (your) friendship and affection, (to you who are), like parents, givers of happiness.

8. Liberal givers, those (our) praises soliciting (abundant) food have proceeded to you for (your) protection: longing for you as (soldiers long) for battle, and as cattle approach the Soma for (its) advantage, so my heartfelt hymns (approach) Indra and Varuna.

9. These my earnest praises approach Indra and Varuna, desirous to obtain wealth, as dependants attend (upon an opulent man) for the sake of riches, like humble (females) begging for food.

10. May we of our own (right) be the masters of permanent riches, comprising horses, chariots, and nourishment:
may those two, traversing (the regions), direct their Neya\nsteeds towards us; associating (them) with riches and with (recent protections.

11. Mighty Indra and Varuna, come to us in battle (your) powerful protections, and where the bright (weapons) play amidst the (hostile) hosts, may we be triumphant in that conflict (through) your (favour).

IV. 4. 10.

The Rashi is the royal sage Tamasasyu; as the first six verseti are in his own praise, he is considered to be the divinity also: of the other four stanzas the deities are Indra and Varuna; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. Twofold is my empire, that of the whole Kshatriya race, and all the immortals are ours; the gods associate me with the acts of Varuna: I rule over (those) of the proximate form of man.

2. I am the king Varuna; on me (the gods) bestow those principal energies (that are) destructive of the Asuras; (they) associate me with the worship of Varuna: I rule over (the acts) of the proximate form of man.

3. I am Indra, I am Varuna, I am those two in greatness; (I am) the vast, profound, beautiful, heaven and earth: intelligent, I give like Twashtri animation to all beings: I uphold earth and heaven.

4. I have distributed the moisture-shedding waters; I have upheld the sky as the abode of the water; by the water I have become the preserver of the water, the son of Aditi, illustrating the threefold elementary space.

5. Warriors well mounted, ardent for contest, invoke, me: selected (combatants invoke) me in battle: I, the affluent Indra, instigate the conflict, and, endowed with victorious prowess, I raise up the dust (in the battle).

6. I have done all these (deeds): no one resists my divine, unsurpassed vigour; and when the Soma juices, when sacred songs, exhilarate me, then the unbounded heaven and earth are both alarmed.

7. All beings recognize thee (Varuna), and thou, worshipper, addressest these (encomiums) to Varuna: thou, Indra, art renowned as slaying Vritra; thou hast set the obstructed rivers free to flow.

8. The seven Rishis were the protectors of this our (kingdom) when the son of Durga was in bonds: performing worship they obtained for (his queen) from the favour of Indra and Varuna, Trasadasyu, like Indra the slayer of foes, dwelling near the gods.

9. The wife of Purukutsa propitiated you two, Indra and Varuna, with oblations and prostrations, and therefore you gave her the king Trasadasyu, the slayer of foes, dwelling near the gods.

10. May we, glorifying you both, be delighted by riches; may the gods be pleased by oblations, the cows by pasture: and do you, Indra and Varuna, daily grant us that same milch cow, (riches), free from any imperfection.

IV. 4. 11.

The deities are the Ashwina, the Rishis are Purusartha and Asvini, sons of Sunotra; the metre is TriSpatha.

1. Which of those who are entitled to sacrifice will listen (to our prayers)? which of the gods will hear our praise, which will be propitiated (by it) upon the heart of whom among the immortals may we impress the devout affectionate adoration, accompanied by sacred oblations?

2. Who will make us happy? which of the gods is the most prompt to come to our sacrifice? which the most willing to grant us felicity? what chariot do they say is quick and drawn by rapid steeds? that which the daughter of Surya selected.

3. Moving, you proceed rapidly by day, as Indra, at the end of the night, (manifests his) power: descended from heaven, divine, of graceful motion, (Ashwins), by which of (your) acts are you most distinguished?

4. What may be the fit measure (of your merits)? invoked by what praises do you come to us? who (can exist as) the object of your great wrath! Daksas, dispensers of sweet (water), defend us with your protection.

5. Your chariot travels widely round the heaven until it places you beyond the firmament: dispensers of sweet (water, the priests) are diluting the Soma juice with milk, that the boiled (barley) may be united with the libation offered to you.

6. The flowing (stream) has sprinkled your steeds with moisture; the radiant horses (like) birds (in swiftness) pass on, bright with lustre; well known is that quick-moving charriot, whereby you became the lords of Surya.

7. May the earnest praise, distributors of food, whereby I associate you both like-minded at this sacrifice, be (beneficial) to us: do you protect your worshipper: my desire, Nasatyas, directed towards you is gratified.
IV. 4. 12.

The deities, Riishi, and metre as before.

1. We invoke, Ashwins, to-day, your rapid car, the associator of the solar ray: the banked car which bears Surya, vast, wealthy, and laden with praises.

2. Ashwins, grandsons of heaven, divinities, you enjoy that glory by your actions, that (sacrificial) food is administered to your persons, and powerful horses draw you in your chariot.

3. What offerer of oblations addresses you to-day with hymns for the sake (of obtaining) protection, for the drinking of the Soma, or for the ancient fulfilment of the sacrifice? What offerer of adoration may bring you Ashwins (to this rite).

4. Nasatyas, who are manifold, come with your golden chariot to this sacrifice; drink of the sweet Soma beverage, and give precious things to the man who celebrates (your worship).

5. Come to our presence, whether from heaven or earth, with your well-constructed golden chariot: let not other devout worshippers detain you, for a prior attraction awaits you (here).

6. Daskas, mete out for us both great opulence, comprising many descendants, since the leaders of the rite (the Purumilhas), have addressed to you, Ashwins, their praise, and the Ajamilhas have united with it their laudation.

7. May the earnest praise wherewith, distributors of food, I associate you both like-minded at this sacrifice.
be (beneficial) to us: do you protect your worshipper: my desire, Nasatyas, directed towards you is gratified.

IV. 4. 13.

The deities as before; the Rishi is Yamadeya; the metre of the last verse is Triśṭutih, of the rest Jujati.

1. The sun rises: your chariot, (Ashwins), traversing (the regions), is associated with the divine (orb) on the summit (of the eastern mountain): in it are the three analogous kinds of food, and the leather vessel of the sweet Soma juice appears as the fourth.

2. Your food-bearing, Soma-laden, well-horsed chariots, appear at the opening of the dawn, scattering the surrounding darkness like the sun, and spreading bright radiance over the firmament.

3. Drink of the Soma juice with mouths (fit for) imbibing the beverage: harness your beloved chariot for the Soma juice: (come to the dwelling) of the sacrificer: enliven the path with the Soma: bring, Ashwins, the leather vessels filled with the Soma juice.

4. Come to sacrifices as flies to honey, (with those horses) that are swift of speed, gentle, unrefractory, golden-winged, bearers (of burtihens), wakers at dawn, dispensers of water, exulting and sipping the Soma juice.

5. The sacred fires, the instruments of holy sacrifice, the conveyers of libations, praise the associated Ashwins at the break of day; when the observant (priest) the conductor of the rite, with washed hands has expressed by the (grinding) stones the sweet-favoured Soma juice.
6. The near-advancing (rays), dispersing (the darkness) by the (light of day), are overspreading the firmament with lustre like the sun: the sun, harnessing his horses, (proceeds on his way): do you make known all his paths by (following) after (him) with sacrificial food.

7. Celebrating (sacred) rites, I glorify you, Ashwins: well-horsed and undercasing is that chariot, whereby you quickly traverse the regions (of space), and come to (our sacrifice) abounding in oblations: promptly passing away, and the yielder of enjoyment.

ANUVAKA V.

IV. 5. 1.

The deities are Indra and Vayu, except in the first verse, which is addressed to Vayu alone; the Rishi is Vamadeva: the metre Gayatri.

1. Drink first, Vayu, the effused libation of the Soma at the rites that secure heaven, for thou verily art the first drinker.

2. Vayu, who art drawn by the Niyuts, and hast Indra for charioteer, come (for the fulfilment) of our numerous wishes, and do thou (and Indra) drink of the libation.

3. Indra and Vayu, may a thousand steeds, eager for food, bring you to drink the Soma.

4. Mount, Indra and Vayu, the golden-seated chariot, propitious to sacrifice, soaring to heaven.

5. Indra and Vayu, come with your very strong chariot to the sacrifice: come hither.

6. Indra and Vayu, this (libation) is poured out: sympathizing with the gods, drink it in the dwelling of the donor.
7. Hither be your course; here, Indra and Vayu, be the letting of your horses loose, for your drinking of the Soma.

IV. 5. 2.

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Anushasana.

1. Purified (by holy acts) I bring to thee, Vayu, the Soma, first (offered to thee at sacrifices) that seek to gain heaven: deity, who art ever longed for, come with thy Niyut steeds to drink the Soma juice.

2. Indra and Vayu, you are fit for the drinking of these Soma libations, for the drops flow towards you as waters (run) together into a deep place.

3. Indra and Vayu who are lords of strength, vigorous, and drawn by the Niyut steeds, come (riding in) the same car: drink the Soma for our protection.

4. Leaders (of rites), conveyers of sacrifices, Indra and Vayu, give to us for the offerer (of the oblation), those Niyuts which are your (steeds), and are desired of many.

IV. 5. 3.

The deity is VAYU; the Rishi and metre are the same as in the last.

1. Drink, VAYU, the oblations yet untasted, like (a prince) the terrifier of foes; (bestow) upon the worshipper wealth: come with thy brilliant car to drink the Soma juice.

2. VAYU, who art the represser of calamities, who art drawn by the Niyuts, and hast Indra for thy charioteer, come with thy brilliant car to drink the Soma juice.
3. The dark nurses of wealth, the universal forms (heaven and earth), attend upon thee: come VAYU with thy brilliant car to drink the Soma juice.

4. May the ninety-nine steeds harnessed together, that are as swift as thought, convey thee: come, VAYU, with thy brilliant car, to drink the Soma juice.

5. Harness, VAYU, a hundred plump steeds, or even a thousand, and let thy chariot come with rapidity (hither).

IV. 5. 4.

The deities are INDIRA and BRHASPATI; the Rishi is VAMADEVA; the metre Gayatri.

1. (I present) the agreeable oblation to your mouths, INDIRA and BRHASPATI, and the hymn and the exhilarating beverage are offered.

2. This delicious Soma is effused, INDIRA and BRHASPATI, for you, for (your) drinking and exhilaration.

3. INDIRA and BRHASPATI, come to our dwelling, drinkers of Soma, to drink the Soma juice.

4. Grant to us, INDIRA and BRHASPATI, riches comprising a hundred (cattle), a thousand horses.

5. INDIRA and BRHASPATI, we invoke you with praises, when the libation is effused, to drink of this Soma juice.

6. Drink, INDIRA and BRHASPATI, the Soma, in the dwelling of the donor, and be exhilarated in his abode.
IV. 5. 5.

The deity of the first nine verses is Brihaspati alone, and of the last two conjointly with Indra; the Rishi is as before; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. The ancient sages, illustrious, intelligent, have placed before (them) the pleasing-tongued Brihaspati, who propped up by (his) strength the ends of the earth, and who abides with noise in the three regions.

2. Brihaspati, protect the fruit-yielding, progressive, uninjured, ample sacrifice of this (thy worshipper, at which) they who are the terrifiers (of foes), the delighters of thee who art possessed of great wisdom, glorify (thee) in our behalf.

3. Those (steeds), Brihaspati, which had come from that distant (region), the best (of all), have sat down in connection with the ceremony, and to thee the Soma juices expressed by the stones flow copiously, (accompanies) by the sounds of praise, like deep wells that supply water.

4. Brihaspati, when first being born in the highest heaven of supreme light, seven-mouthed, multiform, (combined) with sound, and seven-rayed, has subdued the darkness.

5. (Aided) by the praised and brilliant troop (of the Angirasas), he destroyed with sound the mischievous Bala; Brihaspati, shouting aloud, set free the boon-bestowing, oblation-supplying kine.

6. Thus may we offer worship with sacrifices, with oblations, with praise, to the paternal, universal deity, the showerer (of benefits); and may we, Brihaspati, become possessed of riches, and be blessed with excellent progeny and valiant descendants.
7. That prince overcomes by his strength and prowess all hostile people, who cherishes liberally Brihaspati, and glorifies and honours him as the first sharer (of the offering).

8. Verily he abides prosperous in his own abode; for him the earth bears fruit at all seasons; to him (his) subjects willingly pay homage, the prince, to whom the Brahmana first, (duly reverenced), repairs.

9. Unopposed he is the master of the riches of hostile people, and of his own subjects: the Raja who bestows riches upon the Brahmana seeking his protection, him the gods protect.

10. Brihaspati, do thou and Indra, both exulting and showering riches, drink the Soma at this sacrifice: may the all-pervading drops enter you: bestow upon us riches comprising all male descendants.

11. Brihaspati, Indra, elevate us: may the favourable disposition of you both be combined for us: protect our rites: be awake to our laudations, confound the arrogant (foes) of us who are the donors (of oblations).

IV. 5. 6.

The deity is the Dawn: the Rishi is Vamadeva; the metre Tristubh.

1. This widely-spread and sense-bestowing light has sprung up in the east from out the darkness; verily the brilliant Dawns, the daughters of heaven, are giving to man (the faculty to act).

2. The many-limbed Dawns rise up in the east, like the pillars planted at sacrifices (round the altar); radiant and purifying, they are manifested, opening the gates of the obstructing gloom.

3. The gloom-dispelling, affluent Dawns animate the pious worshippers to offer (sacrificial) treasure; may the churlish (trafficlers) sleep on unawakened, in the unlovely depth of darkness.

4. Divine Dawns, may your chariot, whether old or new, be frequent at this day's (worship), wherewith, affluent Dawns, possessing riches, (you shine) upon the seven-mouthed (troop of the) Angirasas, the observers of the nine or ten days' rite.

5. Divine Dawns, with horses that frequent sacrifices you quickly travel round the regions (of space): awake the sleeping being, whether biped or quadruped, to pursue (his functions).

6. Where is that ancient one of those (Dawns), through whom the works of the Raurus were accomplished? For as the bright Dawns happily proceed, they are not distinguished, being alike and undecaying.

7. Verily those auspicious Dawns have been of old, rich with desired blessings, truthful (bestowers) of the results of sacrifice; at which the sacrificer, adoring with (silent) praise, glorifying (with hymns), has quickly obtained wealth.

8. They spread around of similar form, (coming) from the east, (coming) from the same region alike renowned:
the divine Dawns, arousing the assembly of the sacrifice, are glorified like the (rays) creative of the waters.

9. Those Dawns proceed verily all alike, of similar form.
of infinite hues, pure, bright, illumining, concealing by their radiant persons the very great gloom.

10. Divine, resplendent daughters of heaven, bestow upon us wealth, comprehending progeny: awaking you for our benefit, may we be the lords of excellent descendants.

11. Daughters of heaven, resplendent Dawns, I address you (as) the announcer of the sacrifice: may we be (the possessors) of celebrity amongst men, and may heaven and the divine earth perpetuate (it).

IV. 5. 7.

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Gayatri.

1. The daughter of heaven has been seen; the kind conductress (of men), the parent (of benefits,) shedding radiance upon (the departure of her) sister night.

2. Like a beautiful mare, the radiant mother of the rays of light, the object of sacrifice, (she) is the friend of the Ashwins.

3. Thou art the friend of the Ashwins: thou art the mother of the rays of light: thou, Ushas, rulest over riches.

4. With praises we awaken thee, thou who art endowed with truth; thee, baffler of animosities, the restorer of consciousness.

5. The auspicious rays are visible like showers of rain, the dawn has filled (the world) with ample light.

6. Brilliant Ushas, filling (the world with light), thou dispersest the darkness with radiance: thereafter protect the oblation.
7. Thou overspreadest, Ushas, the heaven with rays, as well as the vast and beloved firmament with pure lustre.

IV. 5. 8.

The deity is Savitri; the Rishi Vamadeva; the metro Jagati.

1. We solicit of the divine, powerful, and intelligent Savitri that desirable and ample (wealth), along with which he grants a dwelling to the offerer of the oblation of his own accord: may the great deity grant us such every day.

2. The supporter of heaven, the protector of the world, the wise (Savitri) puts on his golden armour: discriminator (of objects), filling (the world with light). Savitri has engendered great and laudable felicity.

3. The divine (Savitri) fills (with radiance) the celestial and terrestrial regions, and boasts of his own function: Savitri puts forth his arms for (the work of) production, regulating the world, and animating it with light.

4. The divine Savitri unrestrained, illuminating the regions, protects the righteous acts (of men); he extends his arms for (the direction of) the people of the earth: observant of obligations, he rules over the wide world.

5. Savitri, encompassing them by his magnitude, pervades the three (divisions of the) firmament, the three worlds, the three brilliant spheres, the three heavens, the threefold earth: may he, by his three functions, of his own (pleasure) protect us.

6. May that divine Savitri, who is the source of great happiness, the engenderer (of good works), the comprehender (of all beings), the regulator of both the moveable and the stationary, grant us happiness in the three worlds, and (be) to us for the destruction of sin.

7. May the divine Savitri approach along with the Ritus, prosper our dwelling, and bestow upon us good progeny and food: may he be favourable to us by night and by day: may he heap upon us wealth comprehending offspring.

IV. 5. 9.

The deity and Rishi are the same; the metre is also Jagati, except in the last verse, in which it is Trishtubh.

1. The divine Savitri has been manifested: he is at once to be glorified by us: he is to be praised by the priests at the present (rite), and at the close (of the day), in order that he who apportions precious things to the descendants of Manu may bestow upon us, on this occasion, most excellent wealth.

2. First thou engenderest for the adorable gods the best portion, immortality: then, Savitri, thou settest open (the day) to the donor (of the oblation), and (grantest) successive existences to men.

3. If, Savitri, through ignorance, through pride in feeble or powerful (dependants), or through human infirmity, we have committed (offence) against thy divine person, or against gods or men, do thou on this occasion hold us to be unoffending.

4. (It is) not (fit) to obstruct (the acts) of the divine Savitri, since by them he upholds the whole world, whereby his gracious hand spreads fertility over the extent of the earth, and the magnitude of the heaven: such is his true (power).

5. Thou elevatest those, of whom INDRA is chief, above the vast clouds: for these, (thy worshippers), thou providest dwelling (places) filled with habitations: as when advancing they detained thee, so in like manner at thy command they stayed.

6. May INDRA, heaven and earth, Sindhu with the waters, and ADITI with the ADITYAS, bestow happiness upon us, who, offering libations, SAVITRI, pour out the auspicious Soma, day by day, thrice a day.

IV. 5. 10.

The deities are the VISHWADITYAS; the Rishi as before; the metre of the first seven verses is Trishtubh, of the last three GAYATRI.

1. Which of you, VASUS, is a defender? which is a protector? heaven and earth and ADITI preserve us; defend us, MITRA and VARUNA, from the strong man: who is it, gods, that offers you wealth at the sacrifice?

2. The (deities) who bestow ancient places (of enjoyment on their worshippers), and (with minds) unperplexed, are the separators of light (from darkness); they, the eternal distributors (of rewards), grant (what is desired), and shine of pleasing aspect, the true (recompensers) of pious acts.

3. I adore the venerated ADITI, the Sindhu and the divine Svaasti for their friendship: (I praise you) both. Day and Night, that you may protect us unimpeded; night and morning do (what we desire).
4. Aryaman and Varuna instruct us in the path (of worship): Agni, the lord of food, points out the way to happiness; Indra and Vishnu, being glorified, bestow upon us desirable prosperity comprehending descendants and strength.

5. I have recourse to the protection of Parvata, of the Maruts, and of the divine protector, Bhaga: may the lord (Varuna) preserve us from human wretchedness, and may Mitra defend us with a friendly regard.

6. Divine Heaven and Earth. I praise you together with Arihodbhunya for those (good things that are) desired, as those desirous of acquiring (riches) praise the ocean on traversing it (in which) the sounding rivers disappear.

7. May the divine Aditi, with the gods, preserve us: may the ever-attentive protecting (deity, Indra,) protect us: we are not able to withhold the elevated (sacrificial) food of Mitra, of Varuna, of Agni.

8. Agni is lord over treasure: Agni (is lord) over great good fortune: may he bestow them upon us.

10. May Savitri, Bhaga, Varuna, Mitra, Aryaman, Indra, come to us with the wealth (that each bestows).

IV. 5. 11.

The deities are Heaven and Earth; the Rishi as before; the metre of the three last stanzas is Gayatri, of the rest Trishtubh.

1. Vast and most excellent Heaven and Earth, be present with splendour at this (sacrifice, attracted) by sanctifying hymns; since that the showerer sounds everywhere with (his) heralds, the rapid (winds), passing through the two spacious and mighty (regions).

2. May the divine, adorable, benevolent, fertilizing, truthful, unoppressive Heaven and Earth, the leaders of sacrifice, whose sons are the gods, be present with the adorable gods, (attracted) by sanctifying hymns.

3. Verily he was the doer of a good work in the regions, who generated these two, Heaven and Earth, and, firm of purpose, gave an impulse by his deed to the two vast, immovable, beautiful, unsupported worlds.

4. May Heaven and Earth, vast, universal, adorable, united in satisfaction, and disposed to give us food, protect us with our spacious dwellings, inhabited by our wives, and may we for our (pious) acts be possessed of chariots and slaves.

5. We offer earnest praise to you both, resplendent (Heaven and Earth); we approach you who are pure, to offer adoration.

6. Mutually sanctifying (each other) of your own substance, you shine by your own power, and ever bear away the offering.

7. Mighty (Heaven and Earth), you fulfil the desires of your friend: distributing food and giving sustenance, you have sat down at the sacrifice.
IV. 5. 12.

The deities, as will appear from the hymn, are so only in relation to the stanzas referring to them, being, in fact, personifications of circumstances connected with agriculture; and accordingly it is said in the Grihya Sutras that each verse is to be silently repeated, with an obligation to fix, at the commencement of ploughing: the deity then of the first three verses is termed Kshetrapati; of the fourth, Shuna; of the fifth and eighth, Shnasakha; of the sixth and seventh, Sila; the Rishi is, as before, Vamadeva; the metre of the first, fourth, sixth, and seventh verses is Anushthubh, of the rest Trishtubh.

1. With the master of the field, our friend, we triumph; may he bestow upon us cattle, horses, nourishment, for by such (gifts) he makes us happy.

2. Lord of the field, bestow upon us sweet abundant (water), as the milch cow (yields her) milk, dropping like honey, bland as butter: may the lords of the water make us happy.

3. May the herbs (of the field) be sweet for us; may the heavens, the waters, the firmament, be kind to us; may the lord of the field be gracious to us; let us, undeterred (by toes), have recourse to him.

4. May the oxen (draw) happily, the men (labour) happily; the plough furrow happily; may the traces bind happily; wield the goad happily.

5. Shuna and Shira be pleased by this our praise, and consequently sprinkle this (earth) with the water which you have created in heaven.

6. Auspicious Sila, be present, we glorify thee; that thou mayest be propitious to us, that thou mayest yield us abundant fruit.
7. May Indra take hold of Sita; may Pushan guide her; may she, well stored with water, yield it as milk, year after year.

8. May the ploughshares break up our land happily; may the ploughman go happily with the oxen; may Parjanya (water the earth) with sweet showers happily: grant, Shuna and Shira, prosperity to us.

IV. 5. 13.

A choice of deities is proposed, either Agni, Surya, Water, the Cow, or Clarified Butter (Ghrita); the Rishi is as before; the metre Trishtubha, of the last verse Jagati.

1. The sweet water swells up from the firmament: by the (solar) ray (man) obtains immortality: that which is the secret name of clarified butter is the tongue of the gods, the navel of ambrosia.

2. We celebrate the name Ghrita at this sacrifice, we offer it with adoration: may the four-horned Brahma listen to its being glorified: the fair-complexioned deity perfects this rite.

3. Four are his horns; three are his feet; his heads are two, his hands are seven: the triple-bound showerer (of benefits) roars aloud: the mighty deity has entered amongst men.

4. The gods discovered the Ghī concealed by the Paus; placed three-fold in the cow: Indra generated one (portion), Surya another, the (other gods) fabricated one from the resplendent (Agni), for the sake of the oblation.

5. These hundred-channelled showers fall from the heart-delighting firmament, unobserved by the hostile (cloud): I look upon these showers of Ghi, (and behold) the golden Vetasu in the midst of them.

6. They flow uninterruptedly like pleasing rivers, purified by the mind that is seated in the heart; these streams of Ghi descend (upon the fire), like deer flying from the hunter.

7. The streams of Ghi fall copious, swift as the wind and rapid as the waters of a river down a declivity, breaking through the confining banks, and hurrying on with their waves, like a high-spirited steed.

8. The streams of Ghi incline to Agni as devoted wives, auspicious and smiling, to a husband: they feed (the flame) like fuel, and Jatavedas, propitiated, accepts them.

9. I contemplate these streams of Ghi as they flow from where the Soma is effused, where the sacrifice (is solemnized), as maidens decorating themselves with ungents to go to the bridegroom.

10. (Priests) address the pious praise, (the source) of herds of cattle: bestow upon us auspicious riches: convey this our sacrifice to the gods, (whereat) the streams of Ghi with sweetness descend.

11. The whole world, (Agni), finds an asylum in thine effulgence, whether it be in the ocean, in the heart (of man), in the life (of living beings), in the assemblage of the waters, or in warfare: may we attain that sweet-flavoured wave which is established in thy (essence).
FIFTH MANDALA

ANUVAKA I.

V. 1. 1.

The deity is Agni; the Rishis are Bunna and Ganihamtira, of the race of Agni; the metre is Triśṭubh.

1. Agni is awakened by the fuel (supplied by) the priests at the dawn, approaching like a cow (to pasture); his flames rise up to the sky like stately (trees) throwing aloft their branches.

2. The offerer of the oblation is awakened for the worship of the gods: favourably minded, Agni has risen up with the dawn: the radiant vigour of the kindled (fire) is manifested; the great deity has been liberated from the darkness.

3. When Agni has seized upon the (confining) girdle of the aggregated (world), then, bright-shining, he makes all manifest with brilliant rays: thereupon the precious food-desiring (oblation) is added (to the flame), and Agni, soaring aloft, drinks it as it is (spread out) recumbent by the ladies.

4. The minds of the devout turn to Agni, as the eyes (of men) look towards the sun: when the multiform (heaven and earth) bring him forth along with the dawn, he is born as a white counser in the beginning of the days.

5. (Agni), capable of birth, is born in the beginning of the days; radiant, he is deposited in the friendly woods, and then the adorable Agni, the offerer of the oblation, displaying seven precious (rays), is seated in every house.
6. The adorable Agni, the offerer of the oblation, has sat down in a fragrant place on the top of his mother (earth): youthful, wise, many-stationed, the celebrator of sacrifice, the sustainer (of all), kindled (he abides) amongst men.

7. They glorify at present with hymns that Agni, who is intelligent, the fulfiller (of desires) at sacrifices, the offerer of oblations, who has charged heaven and earth with water, and whom they always worship with clarified butter as the bestower of food.

8. Entitled to worship, he is worshipped in his own (abode): humble-minded, eminent amongst sages, our auspicious guest, the thousand-rayed, the showerer (of benefits), of well-known might, thou, Agni, surpassest all others in strength.

9. (Too) quickly, Agni, dost thou pass to others from him to whom thou hast been manifest: most beautiful, adorable, radiant, many-shining, the loved of people, the guest of men.

10. To thee, youngest (of the gods), men present oblations, whether nigh or from far: accept the praise of him who most extols thee; for the felicity (which thou conferrest), Agni, is great, vast, auspicious.

11. Ascend to-day, radiant Agni, thy resplendent, well-conducted chariot, together with the adorable (gods): cognizant of the ways (of worship), bring hither, by the vast firmament, the gods to partake of the oblation.

12. We have uttered aloud this encomiastic praise to the wise, holy, vigorous (Agni), the showerer (of benefits):
GAVISHTHIRA offers with reverence (this) praise to AONI, like the wide-sojourn the sun, effulgent in the sky.

V. 1. 2.

The deity is AONI; the Rishi is KUMARA, the son of ARM, or VARSHA, the son of JARA, or both; the metre is Triśṭhatā, except in the last verse, in which it is Shakvāri.

1. The young mother cherishes her mutilated boy in secret, and gives him not up to the father: men behold not his mutilated form, but (see him) when placed before (them) in an unresting (position).

2. Young mother, what boy is this whom thou, (become) a malevolent spirit, fosterest? the mighty (queen) has given him birth; the embryo has thriven through many years: I have seen him born as the mother brought him forth.

3. I have seen him from a near place, golden-toothed, bright-coloured, wielding (flames like) weapons, (when) offering to him the ambrosial, all-diffusing (oblation): what can those who acknowledge not INDRA, who repeat not his praise, do unto me.

4. I have seen him passing secretly from place (to place) like a herd (of cattle), shining brightly of his own accord: they apprehended not those (flames of his), but he has (again) been born, and they which had become grey-haired are (once more) young.

5. Who have disunited my people from the cattle? was there not for them an invincible protector? may they who have seized upon that (people) perish, for he who knows (our wishes) approaches to (protect) the cattle.
6. Enemies have secreted amongst mortals, the king of living beings, the asylum of men: may the prayers of Atri set him free; may those who revile be reviled.

7. Thou hast liberated the fettered Shunahshepa from a thousand stakes, for he was patient in endurance; so, Agni, free us from our bonds, having sat down here (at our sacrifice), intelligent offerer of oblations.

8. When angered, (Agni), depart from me: the protector of the worship of the gods, (Indra), has spoken to me: the wise Indra has looked upon thee, and, instructed by him, I have come, Agni, to thee.

9. Agni shines with great and varied radiance; he makes all things manifest by his might; he overcomes undivine malignant delusions; he sharpens his horns for the destruction of the Rakshasas.

10. May thy roaring (flames), Agni, be manifest in the sky as sharp weapons wherewith to slay the Rakshasas: in his exhilaration his shining (rays) inflict (destruction), and undivine opposing (hosts) arrest him not.

11. This praise have I, a devout worshipper, composed for thee, (Agni), who art born with many (faculties), as a steady dexterous (artisan fabricates) a car: if, divine Agni, thou approve of it, then may we obtain abundant flowing water.

4. Agni shines amongst the gods; Agni is present amongst mortals; Agni is the bearer of our oblations; glorify Agni with praises.

5. May Agni bestow upon the donor (of the oblation) a son, abounding in food, abounding in devotion, excellent, unharmed, conferring honour upon his progenitors.

6. May Agni bestow a son, the protector of the good, who, with his followers, may be victorious in battle: may he bestow a swift-footed steed, conquering, unconquered.

7. That (praise) which best conveys (our venation, is due) to Agni: affluent in splendour, grant us, (Agni), great (wealth), for from thee vast riches and ample food proceed.
8. Brilliant, Agni, are thy rays; mighty art thou termed, like the stone (that bruises the Soma), and thy voice spontaneously spreads through the sky like thunder.

9. Thus we, Vasayus, glorify the vigorous Agni: may he, the performer of great deeds, enable us to pass over all our enemies as (we cross a river) with a boat.

V. 2. 12.

The deity and Rishis as before; the metre is Gajatri.

1. Divine purifier, Agni, with thy radiant and pleasing tongue, bring hither and worship the gods.

2. Feeder upon butter, bright and variegated radiance we solicit thee, the beholder of heaven, to (partake of) the (sacrificial) food.

3. We kindle thee at the sacrifice, wise Agni, whose food is the oblation, who art brilliant and vast.

4. Come, Agni, with all the gods, to the donor (of the oblation): we have recourse to thee as their invoker.

5. To the institutor of the rite, pouring out the libation, bring excellent vigour; sit down with the gods upon the sacred grass.

6. Victor over thousands, thou favourest, when kindled, our holy rites, the honoured messenger of the gods.

7. Reverence Agni, by whom all that is, is known, the bearer of oblations, the youngest of the gods, the divine, the ministrant priest.

8. May the sacrifice most solemnly offered by the devout duly proceed to-day (to the gods): spread the sacred grass for their seat.
9. May the Maruts, the Ashwins, Mitra, Varuna, the gods, with all their attendants, sit down upon this grass.

V. 2. 13.

The deity as before, but in the sixth stanza Indra is associated with Agni; the Rishi are three Rajas, Tryaruna, the son of Trivrishna, Trasadasyu, the son of Purukusha, and Ashwamedha, the son of Bharata; or Agni alone may be the Rishi; the metre of the three first stanzas is Trishtubh, of the last three Anushtubh.

1. Agni, who art the protector of the good, most wise, powerful, and opulent; Tryaruna, the son of Trivrishna, has become renowned, Vaishwanara, in that he has bestowed upon me a pair of cattle with a waggion, and with ten thousands of treasure.

2. Agni, Vaishwanara, who art deservedly praised and exalted (by us), bestow happiness upon Tryaruna, who gives me hundreds (of Svarnas), twenty cattle, and a pair of burden-bearing horses.

3. As Tryaruna, pleased by the eulogies of me who have many children, presses with earnest (mind, gifts upon me), so does Trasadasyu, desirous, Agni, of thy valued favour through thine exceeding praise.

4. When Ashwamedha gives to him who solicits of him as a benefactor, saying (bestow wealth) upon me, and comes (to him) with a verse (in thy praise), do thou, Agni, grant intelligence to (the Raja) who wishes to offer sacrifice (to thee).

5. Whose hundred robust oxen yield me delight, as the triple-mixed Soma, the offering of Ashwamedha (gratifies thee).
6. Indra and Agni, bestow upon the munificent Ashwamedha infinite wealth with excellent posterity; undecaying as the sun in heaven.

V. 2. 14.

The deity as before; the Rishi is Vishwavara, a lady of the family of Arur; the metre of the first and third stanzas is Trishtubh, of the second Jagati, of the fourth Anuashtubh, and of the two last Gayatri.

1. Agni, when kindled, spreads luster through the firmament, and shines widely in the presence of the dawn; Vishwavara, facing the east, glorifying the gods with praises and bearing the ladle with the oblation, proceeds (to the sacred fire).

2. When about to be kindled, Agni, thou rulest over ambrosial (water); thou art present with the offerer of the oblation for his welfare; he to whom thou repairest acquires universal wealth; he places before thee, Agni, the dues of hospitality.

3. Repress, Agni, (our foes to ensure our) exceeding prosperity; may thy riches ever be excellent; preserve in concord the relation of man and wife, and overpower the energies of the hostile.

4. I praise the glory, Agni, of thee when kindled and blazing fiercely; thou art the affluent showerer (of benefits), thou art fitly lighted at sacrifices.

5. Agni, who art kindled and invoked, worship the gods at the holy rite, for thou art the bearer of the oblation.

6. Offer worship and adoration to Agni when the sacrifice is solemnized; select the bearer of the oblation to the gods.
The deity is Indra, but one hemistich may be assigned to Ushvana; the Rishi is Gaurivita, of the race of Shakti; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. In the adoration of the gods by Manu there are three effulgences, and they, (the Maruts), uphold three luminaries in heaven: the Maruts of pure energy worship thee, for thou, Indra, art their intelligent Rishi.

2. When the Maruts worship Indra, exulting and drinking of the effused libation, he grasps the thunderbolt wherewith he destroys Ahi, and sets the abundant waters free to flow.

3. Or, mighty Maruts, and thou also, Indra, drink of this my copiously-effused libation: then the offered libation obtains cattle for the offerer, and Indra, drinking of it, kills Ahi.

4. Thereupon he fixed firmly heaven and earth, and, resolutely advancing, filled (Vritra), like a deer, with terror: stripping off his covering, Indra slew the Danava, endeavouring to hide, and panting with affright.

5. Then, for this exploit, all the gods gave thee, Maghavan, in succession, the Soma beverage: whence thou hast retarded, for the sake of Etasa, the advancing horses of the sun.

6. Whereupon Maghavan has destroyed, with his thunderbolt at once his (Shambara's) ninety and nine cities: the Maruts glorifying Indra in a common dwelling with the Trishtubh hymn, he destroyed the bright (city of the Aurna).

7. To aid (the undertaking of) his friend, Agni, the friend (of Indra), has quickly consumed three hundred buffaloes; and Indra, for the destruction of Vritra, has at once quaffed three vessels of Soma, offered by Manu.

8. When thou hadst eaten the flesh of the three hundred buffaloes, when thou who art Mahavani hadst drunk the three vessels of Soma, when he had slain Ahir, then all the gods summoned Indra, full of food, as if he had been a servant, to the battle.

9. When, Indra, thou and Ushanas, with vigorous and rapid courses went to the dwelling of Kutsa, then, destroying his foes, you went in one chariot with Kutsa and the gods, and verily thou hast slain Shushna.

10. Thou hast formerly detached one wheel (of the car) of Surya; another thou hast given to Kutsa wherewith to acquire wealth: with the thunderbolt thou hast confounded the voiceless Dasys, thou hast destroyed in battle the speech-bereft (foes).

11. May the praises of Gauriviti exalt thee: thou hast humbled Pebru for the son of Vidathin: Rajishwan preparing dressed viands, has, through thy friendship, brought thee (to his presence), and thou hast drunk of his libation.

12. The observers of the nine month's celebration, those of the ten months, pouring out libations, worship Indra with hymns: the leaders (of rites), glorifying him, have set open the cave (concealing the cattle).

13. Although, knowing the heroic acts which, Mahavani, thou hast performed, how may I adequately offer thee adoration: most mighty Indra, we ever celebrate at sacred rites the recent exploits which thou hast achieved.
14. Unmatched (by any), thou hast done, Indra, all these many (deeds) by thine innate energy; wielder of the thunderbolt, whatever thou, the humbler of (foes), hast undertaken, there is no one the arrester of this thy prowess.

15. Most mighty Indra, be pleased to accept the prayers which we are about to offer, and the present praises which we repeat: firm, doing pious acts, and desirous of wealth, I have fabricated acceptable and pious works like (rich) garments, and like a chariot.

V. 2. 16.

The deity as before, or it may be the Raja Rishichaya, who is occasionally praised; the Rishi is Baruna; the metre Tristubh.

1. Where is that hero who has seen Indra seated in his easy chariot, travelling with his horses, the thunderer, the invoked of many, who desires of the libation, proceeding with riches to the habitation (of his worshipper) for his preservation?

2. I have looked down upon the secret and fearful place of his abiding; I have repaired, desiring him, (to the place of) the self-sustainer; I have inquired (of him) from others: they, the leaders (of rites), the searchers after wisdom, have said to me, let us have recourse to Indra.

3. When the libation is offered, Indra, we celebrate thy exploits; those (exploits) which thou hast been pleased (to achieve) for us, let him who is ignorant acquire knowledge (of them); let him who is acquainted (with them) make them known: this Maghavan (is) the lord of hosts,
4. As soon as generated, Indra, thou hast made thy mind resolved: thou hast gone alone to contend against numerous (foes): thou hast rent asunder the rock by thy strength: thou hast rescued the herd of milk-yielding kine.

5. When thou hast been born most excellent and supreme, bearing a name widely renowned, then the gods have been in dread of Indra, and he has subjugated all the waters, the brides of the slave (Vritra).

6. These devoted Maruts eulogise thee with pious praise, and pour out to thee the sacrificial food: Indra has overcome by his devices the guileful Ahi, harassing the gods and arresting the waters.

7. Maghavan, who art glorified by us, assailing with the thunderbolt the antagonist (of the gods), thou hast slain those who were ever hostile (to thee) from thy birth desiring to do good to Manu, thou hast bruised the head of the slave Namuchi.

8. Verily thou hast made me, Indra, thy associate when grinding the head of the slave Namuchi like a sounding and rolling cloud; and the heaven and earth (have been caused) by the Maruts (to revolve like a wheel).

9. The slave (Namuchi) made women his weapons: what will his female hosts do unto me? the two his best beloved, (Indra) confined in the inner apartments, and then went forth to combat against the Dasyu.

10. When the cows were separated from their calves, they wandered about hither and thither; but when the well-offered libations had exhilarated him, then Indra, with his vigorous (Maruts), reunited them (with their calves).
11. When the libations effused by Bāhrū had exhilarated him, the showerer (of benefits) shouted aloud in the combats: Indra, the destroyer of cities, quaffing (the Soma), restored to him his milk-yielding cattle.

12. The Rusanas giving me four thousand cows. Agni, have done well: we have accepted the wealth, the donation of the leader of leaders Rinanchoyā.

13. The Rusanas, Agni, have presented to me a beautiful abode, with thousands of cattle: the sharp libations have exhilarated Indra upon the breaking up of the (gloom-)investing night.

14. The (gloom-)investing night has dispersed with the dawn (upon the appearance of) Rinanchoyā, the Rāja of the Rusanas: Bāhrū being summoned, going like a fleet courser, has received the four thousand (cattle).

15. We have accepted, Agni, the four thousand cattle from the Rusanas: and the glowing, the golden euer prepared for the solemnity, we who are wise have accepted it.

V. 2. 17.

The deity is Indra; the Rishi is Avāstu, of the race of Aytri; the metre is Tristubh.

1. Indra, the possessor of opulence, directs downwards the car over which, intended (to receive sacrificial) viands, he presides: he proceeds unimpeded, the first of the gods, driving (his enemies before him), as a herdsman drives the herds of cattle.

2. Hasten to us, lord of horses: be not indifferent to us: distributor of manifold wealth, befriend us; for there is nothing else that is better, Indra, than thou: thou hast given wives to those who were without women.

3. When the light (of the sun) overpowers the light (of the dawn) Indra grants all (sorts of) wealth (to the worshipper): he has liberated the milk-kine from the interior of the obstructing (mountain): he dissipates the enveloping darkness with light.

4. The Ribhus have fabricated thy car, Indra: the invoked of many, adapted to its horses: Twashtri (has made) thy radiant thunderbolt: the venerable (Angirasas), praising Indra with hymns, have given him vigour for the destruction of Ahi.

5. When the Maruts, the showerers (of benefits), glorify thee, Indra, the showerer (of desires), with praises, and the exulting stones delight (to bruise the Soma), then, without horses, without chariots, they, the purifying (Maruts), dispatched by Indra, have overcome the Dasyus.

6. I celebrate, Maghavan, thine ancient exploits, and those which thou hast newly achieved: wielder of the thunderbolt, subjugating both heaven and earth, thou hast distributed the wonderfully bountiful waters to man.

7. Handsome and sagacious Indra, this is thy deed, that, slaying Ahi, thou hast here displayed thy vigour: thou hast arrested the devices of Shushna urging the combat: thou hast overcome the Dasyus.

8. Thou, Indra, (abiding on the further bank), hast rendered the fertilizing waters agreeable to Yadu and Turvasu: you two, (Indra and Kutsa), have assailed the fierce (Shushna), and, (having slain him), thou hast conveyed Kutsa (to his dwelling), and Ushanas and the gods have therefore honoured you both.

9. May your steeds bring you both, Indra and Kutsa, ruling in one chariot, to the worshipper: you have expelled him (Shushna) from the waters, from his proper abode; you have driven the glooms (of ignorance) from the heart of the affluent (adorer).

10. The sage Avasyu has obtained docile horses, endowed (with the speed) of the wind; all thine adorers, Indra, in this world, thy friends, augment thy vigour by their praises.

11. He, (Indra), has formerly arrested in battle the rapid chariot of the sun; Etasa has borne away the wheel, and (with it Indra) demolishes (his foes); may he, giving us precedence, be propitiated by our rite.

12. Indra, oh people, has come to see you, wishing to behold his friend the offerer of the libation; let the creaking stones, for whose rotation the priests hasten, supply the altar.

13. Immortal (Indra), let not the mortals who are wishing, anxiously wishing for thee, fall into sin; be indeed pleased with the sacrificers, and grant vigour to those men amongst whom may we be (especially) thine.

V. 2. 18.

The deity is the same; the Rishi is Garu; the metre Trishikha.

1. Thou, Indra, hast rent the cloud asunder, thou hast set open the flood-gates, thou hast liberated the obstructed streams, thou hast opened the vast cloud, and hast given vent to the showers, having slain the Duna.
2. Thou, thunderer, (hast set free) the obstructed clouds in their seasons: thou hast invigorated the strength of the cloud: fierce Indra, destroying the mighty Ahi when slumbering (in the waters), thou hast established the reputation of thy prowess.

3. Indra, by his prowess, has annihilated the weapon of that mighty beast, from whom another more powerful, conceiving himself one and unmatched, was generated.

4. The wielder of the thunderbolt, the render of the rain-cloud, has destroyed with his bolt the mighty Shubena, the wrath-born (son) of the Danaea, the walker in darkness, the protector of the showering cloud, exhilarating himself with the food of these (living creatures).

5. Thou hast discovered, Indra, by his acts, the secret vital part of him who thought himself invulnerable, when, powerful Indra, in the exhilaration of the Soma, thou hast detected him preparing for combat in his dark abode.

6. Indra, the showerer (of benefits) exhilarated by the effused juices, uplifting (his thunderbolt), has slain him enjoying the dews of the firmament, sleeping (amidst the waters), and thriving in sunless darkness.

7. When Indra roused his powerful irresistible weapon against the mighty Danaea, when he struck him with the blow of the thunderbolt, he made him the lowest of all creatures.

8. The fierce Indra seized upon him, that vast moving (Vritra), when slumbering, (after) having drunk the Soma, subduing (his foes), and enveloping (the world), and then slew him with his great weapon in battle, footless, measureless, speechless.
9. Who may resist the withering might of that Indra: he, single and irresistible, carries off the riches (of the enemy): these two divine (beings, heaven and earth), proceed swiftly through fear of the strength of the quick-moving Indra.

10. The divine, self-sustaining (heaven) comes to him; the moving (earth), like a loving (wife), resigns herself to Indra: when he shares all his vigour with these (his people), then, in due succession, men offer reverence to the potent Indra.

11. Verily I hear of thee as chief amongst men, the protector of the good, friendly to the five classes of beings, the begotten, the renowned; may my (progeny), representing (their wishes), and uttering his praises night and day, propitiate the glorified Indra.

12. I hear of thee influencing (creatures) according to the season, and giving riches to the pious; but what do thy devoted friends (obtain), who have entrusted their desires, Indra, to thee.

ANUVAKA III.

V. 3. 1.

The deity is Indra; the Rishi is Samvarana, the son of Praya-pati; the metre is Trishtati.

1. Feeble as I am, I offer praise to the great and vigorous Indra, for this purpose, (that he may grant) strength to (our) people: he who, associated with the Maruts, shews favour to this person when praised for the sake of sustenance.
2. Thou, Indra, meditating upon us, fastenest the traces of thy horses, (incited), showerer (of benefits), by those praises in which thou takest suitable delight, and do thou therefore overcome (for us) hostile men.

3. Since, mighty Indra, those who, differing from us, and not united with thee through their lack of devotion, are not thine; therefore, divine holder of the thunderbolt, who art possessed of excellent horses, ascend the car, whose reins thou guidest, (to come to our sacrifice).

4. Inasmuch, Indra, as many praises are thine, therefore, combating for the sake of (shedding) water on fertile (lands), thou hast effected (the discomfort of its obstructors); thou, who art the showerer (of benefits), hast, on behalf of the sun, destroyed in his own dwelling the very name of (the Asura), Dasa, in battle.

5. We, Indra, are thine, and thine are they who are the leaders (of rites), promoters of (thy) strength, and willing applicants (to thee): all-powerful Indra, may adherents worthy of commendation, and faithful, come to us, like Braga, in battles.

6. Glorious, Indra, is thy strength, exulting, immortal, and clothing (the world with light): do thou give us riches, and brilliant wealth, and I will greatly praise the munificence of the opulent lord.

7. Hero, Indra, with thy protection defend us, praising and worshipping (thee), and be propitiated (by drinking) of the well-effused and agreeable Soma juice that yields (a defensive) covering in combat.

8. May those ten bright horses, the gift to me of the pious gold-possessing Trasadasyu, the son of Purukutsa, of the race of Girikshita, convey me (to the sacrifice), and may I proceed quickly with the rites.

9. Or may those bay, well-actioned horses, the donation of Vidatha, the son of Marutashwa, (convey me); or (may) the thousands (of treasure) which he was bestowing upon and giving to me, entitled to respect, and the ornaments which he presented (to decorate) the person, (contribute to the ceremony).

10. Or may the bright and active steeds bestowed upon me by Dwanya, the son of Lakshmana (bear me): the riches, endowed with greatness, that have been presented, have passed (to the dwelling) of the Rishi Samvarana, like cows to their stalls.

V. 3. 2.

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Jagati, except in the last verse, in which it is Tristubh.

1. The undecaying, heaven-conferring, unlimited (sacrificial) food, goes to the tamer (of enemies), whose adversaries are unborn: therefore (priests) pour out (the libation), dress (the cakes and butter), diligently discharge (your offices) to him who is the accepter of prayer, who is glorified by many.

2. Maghavan, who fills his belly with the Soma, is exhilarated (by drinking) of the sweet-savourd beverage, whereupon he has lifted up his destructive thousand-edged weapon, desiring to slay (the Asura) Mriga.

3. He who pours out the libation to that Indra, by day or by night, undoubtedly becomes illustrious: Shakra disregards the man who is proud of his descendants and vain of his person, and who, though wealthy, is the friend of the base.

4. Shakra does not turn away from him whose father, whose mother, whose brother he has slain; but is willing to accept his offerings: the regulator (of acts), the bestower of riches, does not turn away from iniquity.

5. He desires not (association in) enterprises with five or with ten; he associates not with the man who does not present libations; and cherishes not (his dependants): nay, the terrier (of foes) punishes him or slays him, but he places the devout man in a pasturage stocked with cattle.

6. Thinning (his enemies) in battle, and accelerating the wheels (of his car), he turns away from him who offers no libation, and augments (the prosperity of) the offerer: Indra, the subduer of all, the formidable, the lord, conducts the Dasa at his pleasure.

7. He proceeds to plunder the wealth of the (avaricious), and bestows the riches that are prized by man upon the donor (of the libation): every man is involved in great difficulty who provokes the might of Indra to wrath.

8. When Indra, the possessor of opulence, discriminates between two men, both wealthy, and exerting themselves (against each other) for the sake of valuable cattle, he takes one of them as his associate, causing (his adversaries) to tremble, and the agitator (of the clouds), together with the Maruts, bestows upon him herds of cattle.

9. I, Arya, Agni, praise Shatri, the son of Agniverta, the bestower of thousands, a type for comparison: may the collected waters yield him abundance; may wealth and strength, and glory be upon him.

V. 3. 3.

The deity as before; the Rishi is Prabhuvasu, of the race of Anuhras; the metre is Anushtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Pankhi.

1. Perfect for our protection, Indra, that thine act which is most effective; which is the subduer of men; holy, and difficult to be encountered in battles.

2. Whatever protections, Indra, may be thine, whether four, or, hero, three, or those accorded to the five (classes) of men, bestow them freely upon us.

3. We invoke the desirable protection of thee, the most liberal showerer (of benefits); that (protection) which thou, the distributor of rain, the quick destroyer (of foes), grantest, (associated) with the present (Maruts).

4. Thou art the showerer (of benefits); thou art born to (bestow) riches; thy strength rains (blessings); thy self-invigorated mind is the restrainer (of adversaries); thy manhood, Indra, is the destroyer of multitudes.

5. Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt, rider in an all-pervading car, object of many rites, and lord of strength, proceed against the mortal who entertains hostility towards thee.

6. Slayer of Varuna, men with clipped sacred grass invoke thee, who art fierce and foremost among many, for aid in battle.
7. Defend, Indra, our chariot, difficult (to be stopped), mingling foremost in combats, followed by attendants, and eagerly striving for repeated spoil.

8. Come, Indra, to us; defend by thy providence our car: we contemplate in thee who, most mighty one, art divine, all desirable vigour: (to thee), who art divine, we offer praise.

V. 3. 4.

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. May that Indra who is the donor of wealth, who knows (how) to distribute riches, come (to our sacrifice) marching boldly like a warrior: and may he, being thirsty, and desirous (of the draught), drink of the effused Soma juice.

2. Hero, lord of horses, may the Soma ascend to thy destructive jaw, as if to the summit of a mountain: may we all, royal Indra, who art invoked of many, give pleasure to thee with our hymns, as to horses with fodder.

3. Wielder of the thunderbolt, the invoked of many, my mind trembles through dread of poverty like a whirling wheel: Maghavan, ever prosperous, may thy worshipper, Puruvasu, praise thee promptly and abundantly, seated in thy chariot.

4. Thus thine adorer, Indra, like the stone (that expresses the Soma juice), urges praise to thee, participating in the great (reward): thou bestowest. Maghavan, riches with thy left hand, thou bestowest them, lord of horses, with the right: be not reluctant.
5. May the effective eulogium melt thee, the showerer (of benefits): thou, the showerer, art borne (to the sacrifice) by vigorous steeds; sender of rain, thou of the handsome chin, wielder of the thunderbolt, showerer, whose ear showers down (blessings), do thou defend us in battle.

6. Maruts, may all men bow in obedience to that youthful Shrutarathya, the possessor of abundance, who has bestowed (upon us) two bay steeds accompanied by three hundred (cattle).

V. 3. 5.

The deity and metre as before; the Rishi is Aru.

1. The piously worshipped (Agni), when invoked, glistening with the oblation, vies with the splendour of the sun: may the dawns rise innocuous to him who says, let us offer oblations to Indra.

2. He whose fire is kindled, whose sacred grass is strewn, offers worship: he whose stone is uplifted, whose Soma juice is effused, offers praise: the priest, of whom the stones utter the sounds of bruising, descends with the oblation (for previous ablution) to the stream.

3. The bride (of Indra), devoted to her lord, attends him (to the rite), who thus brings (with him) his accompanying queen: may his car convey to us ample food; may it sound loudly; may it scatter around many thousands (of riches).

4. That prince suffers no evil in whose realm Indra drinks the sharp Soma juice mixed with milk; attended by faithful (followers), he moves (in all directions); he destroys his enemy, he protects his subjects; enjoying prosperity, he cherishes the name of (INDRA):

5. He cherishes (his kin); he (reigns) in welfare and prosperity; he is victorious in present and continuous (time); dear is he to the sun, dear to Agni, who, with prepared libation, offers it to INDRA.

V. 3. 6.

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Anushtubh.

1. INDRA of many exploits, liberal is the distribution of thine abundant riches; therefore, all-beholder, possessor of excellent wealth, bestow upon us opulence.

2. Although, most mighty INDRA, thou possessest well-known abundance (of food), yet golden-hued (deity) it is most notoriously reported as difficult (to be procured).

3. Wielder of the thunderbolt, thine are the strong (MARUTS), who are adorable, and whose exploits are renowned; both divinities, (thou and they), rule at pleasure over heaven and earth.

4. Slayer of VRITRA, bring to us, thy (worshippers), the wealth of any powerful (man) whatsoever, for thou art disposed to enrich us.

5. May we, SHATAKRAI, speedily (partake of) thy felicity through these our prayers; may we be well secured, INDRA, (by thee); may we be carefully protected, hero, by thee.
V. 3. 7.

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre also is the same, except in the last verse, in which it is Paukti.

1. Wonderful Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt, since precious treasure is to be distributed by thee, bestow it, possessor of riches, with both hands, upon us.

2. Whatever food thou considerest desirable, Indra, bestow it: let us be to thee (in the relation of thy) gift of unlimited sustenance.

3. Since thy bountiful and praiseworthy will is notorious and vast, therefore, thunderer, thou hast made ready for bestowing upon us substantial food.

4. With ancient (hymns) the pious approach Indra, to laud him who is most worthy of the beverage (the offering) of you who are opulent; (him) who is the king of men.

5. To that Indra is the poetical and articulate prayer to be recited: to him the conveyers of pious praise, the sons of Atri, raise their hymns: the sons of Atri illumine their hymns.

V. 3. 8.

Indra is the divinity of the first four verses, Surya of the fifth, Atri of the last four, but he is also the Rishi of the whole; the metre of the three first stanzas in Usnias, of the fifth and ninth Anuvahus, of the rest Tristahus.

1. Come, Indra, (to our sacrifice); drink, lord of the Soma, of the juice expressed by the stones; showerer (of benefits), utter destroyer of Vritra, (come) with the showering (Maruts).
2. The stone is the showerer, the imbibition is the showerer, this effused. Soma is the showerer; showerer (of benefits), Indra, utter destroyer of Vritra, come with the showering (Maruts).

3. Effusing the libation, I invoke thee, the showerer (of benefits), for thy marvellous protections: showerer (of benefits), Indra, utter destroyer of Vritra, come with the showering (Maruts).

4. May the accepter of the spiritless libation, the wielder of the thunderbolt, the showerer (of benefits), the overcomer of quick-(flying foes), the mighty, the monarch, the slayer of Vritra, the drinker of the Soma, having harnessed his horses, come down (to us): may Indra be exhilarated at the mid-day sacrifice.

5. When, Surya, the son of the Asura Swarbhana, overspread thee with darkness, the worlds were beheld like one bewildered, knowing not his place.

6. When, Indra, thou wast dissipating those illusions of Swarbhana which were spread below the sun, then Atri, by his fourth sacred prayer, discovered the sun concealed by the darkness impeding his functions.

7. Surya speaks: Let not the violator, Atri, through hunger, swallow with fearful (darkness) me who am thine: thou art Mitra, whose wealth is truth: do thou and the royal Varuna both protect me.

8. Then the Brahman (Atri), applying the stones together, propitiating the gods with praise, and adoring them with reverence, placed the eye of Surya in the sky: he dispersed the delusions of Swarbhana.
9. The sun, whom the Åṣura, Swarbhanu, had enveloped with darkness, the sons of Atri subsequently recovered; no others were able (to effect his release).

V. 3. 9.

The deities are the Vishvadeyas; the Rishi is Bhauma; the metre is Trishtubh, except in the sixteenth and seventeenth verses, in which it is Aitijogati, and in the twentieth, in which it is Vivas, and of one hemistich.

1. Who, Mitra and Varuna, desiring to sacrifice to you, (is able to do so) ? do you, whether (abiding) in the region of heaven, or of the vast earth, or of the firmament, protect us, and give to the donor (of the oblation), and to the sacrificer, cattle and food.

2. May those divinities, Mitra, Varuna, Aryaman, Ayu, Indra, Ribhuśkins, the Maruts who accept pious praise, be pleased by our adorations, partaking of the gratification afforded to Rudra, the showerer (of benefits).

3. I invoke you, Ashwins, the restrainers (of desire), for the acceleration of your chariot with the swiftness of the wind: (priests) offer praise and oblations to the celestial destroyer of life, to the accomplisher of the sacrifice.

4. May the divine accepter of sacrifice, of whom the Kañwas are the priests, Trīta, Vayu, and Agni, concurring in satisfaction with (the ruler of) heaven, or (Surya and) Pushan, and Bhaga, and they who are the protectors of the universe, (come quickly) to the sacrifice, as the fleetest coursers rush to battle.

5. Maruts, do you bring wealth comprising horses: to acquire and preserve riches the wise man offers you praise:
may the ministrant priest, (Atri), of the son of Ushna (Kāshivat), be made happy by those swift-going (horses) which are the swift-going (horses), Maruts, of you who are rapid in motion.

6. Prevail, (priests), by your prayers, on Vayu, the divine, the fulfilling of desires, the adorable, to harness his chariot; may the light-moving accepters of sacrifice, the lovely and excellent wives (of the gods), come hither to our rite.

7. Mighty Day and Night, to you, along with the adorable (deities) of heaven, I present (the oblation) with prayers delighting and explicit: knowing, like two sages, all (that is required), do you bring (it) to the worshipper for his sacrifice.

8. I glorify you, leaders (of rites), cherishers (of many), gratifying (with oblations, you) Twashtri the lord of foundations, and the goddess of speech, bestower of opulence, and sharer in the satisfaction (of the other divinities); also the lords of the forest, and the herbs, that I may obtain riches.

9. May the Parvataś be (bountiful) to us in liberal donations; may they be favourable (to us) who are the establishers (of the world) like heroes; may the adored and adorable (deity), who is accessible (to all), who is friendly to man, ever grant us increase, being propitiated by our praise.

10. I glorify with unqualified praise the embryo of the earth-fertilizing rain, the grandson of the waters, Aeni, who is threefold, who rages (upon me) not, when travelling.
with (his) withering rays, but, bright-haired, consumes the forests.

11. How can we offer (fit praise) to the mighty posterity of Rudra, or to the all-knowing Bhaga, for (the sake of obtaining) riches: may the waters, may the plants, protect us, and the heaven, the woods, and the mountains, whose tresses are trees.

12. May the lord of vigour, (Vayu), hear our prayers; he who traverses the firmament, the circumambient: may the waters hear, bright as cities, flowing round the towering mountains.

13. Mighty Maruts, of goodly aspect, quickly hear (the praises) that we who repair to you repeat, offering acceptable (oblations): (the Maruts) coming hither, well disposed, come down to us; (destroying) with their weapons the mortals opposed to them, (overcome) by agitation.

14. I offer adoration to the company of the Maruts deserving of sacred sacrifice, to obtain the waters, whether born of heaven or earth: may my praises prosper: may the joy-bestowing heavens (flourish): may the rivers cherished (by the Maruts) be filled with water.

15. My praise has been continually proffered as a protectress, powerful with (the means of) preservation: may the maternal and venerable earth accept our (praises), and, (pleased) with her pious (worshippers) be (to us) straight-handed, and the giver of good.

16. How may we (duly) worship the liberal (Maruts) with praise, how adore the Maruts with present praise in a fitting manner, the glorious Maruts with present praise? may AHIRBUDHYA contrive not for our harm; may he be the destroyer (of our enemies).

17. The mortal (sacrificer) worships you, gods, at all times for progeny and cattle: verily, gods, the mortal worships you: may NIKRITTI, on this occasion, sustain my body with salutary food, and keep off decay.

18. Divine Vasus, may we obtain from the adorable cow, invigorating and mind-sustaining food: may that liberal and benignant goddess, hastening (hither), come for our felicity.

19. May ILA, the mother of the herd, and Urvashi, with the rivers, be favourable to us: may the bright-shining Urvashi (come), commanding our devotion, and investing the worshipper with light.

20. May she cherish us (as the servants) of our patron Urjavya.

V. 3. 10. 42

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Tristubhi.

1. May our most animating praise, together with our offerings, successfully attain Varuna, Mitra, Bhaga, and Aditi: may the ministrant of the five (vital airs, Vayu), the dweller in the dappled (firmament), he whose path is unimpeded, who is the giver of life, the bestower of happiness, hear.

2. May Aditi accept my affectionate and devoted praise; as a mother (the endearments of) a son: the pleasing, delightful prayer that is approved of by the gods I address to Varuna and Mitra.
3. Celebrate, (priests), the most prophetic of the prophets; imbue him with the sweet libation, and may the divine Savitri bestow upon us ample, beneficial, and delightful riches.

4. With a (willing) mind, Indra, thou associatest us with cattle, with pious (priests) and, lord of steeds, with prosperity, with (sacrificial) food that is agreeable to the gods, and with the favour of the adorable deities.

5. May the divine Bhaga, Savitri, the lord of wealth, Ansha, Indra (the slayer) of Vritra, (all) the conquerors of riches, Ribhukshin, Vaia, and also Purandhi, immortals, hastening (to our sacrifice) preserve us.

6. We celebrate the exploits of Marutwat, the unrecoiling, the victorious, the undecaying; neither the ancients, Mahavan, nor their successors, have attained thy prowess, nor has any one recent attained it.

7. Glorify the first donor of precious treasure, Brihaspati, the distributor of riches, the bestower of great happiness upon him who recites or chants (his praise), who comes laden with ample wealth to his invoker.

8. Associated, Brihaspati, with thy protections, (men) are unharmed (by foes), and become opulent and blessed with descendants: may wealth devolve on those who are generous, and givers of horses, of cows, of clothes.

9. Render transitory the riches of those who partake of enjoyment without giving satisfaction (to those who are eminent) by holy hymns; put apart from the sun those who perform not sacred rites, and who, though prospering in their posterity, are the adversaries of prayer.
10. Send, Maruts, into darkness, with (cars) devoid of wheels, the man who invites the Rakshasas to the food of the gods; (him also) who reviles me when offering praise to you: whilst sweating, he toils (to realize) vain desires.

11. Praise him who has the sure arrow, the strong bow, who presides over all sanitary drugs: worship Rudra for a comprehensive and sound understanding; adore the powerful divinity with prostrations.

12. May the dexterous-handed, humble-minded artisana (of the gods, the Ribhus); may the wives of the showerer (Indra); may the rivers carved out by Vijnati; may Saraswati and the brilliant Raka, the illustrious granters of desires, be willing to grant us riches.

13. To the great protector, (Indra), I offer devoutly pious praise, new and originated (at this time): to him, the showerer, who, for his daughter (earth), giving form to the rivers, has provided this water for our (use).

14. May thy pious praise, oh worshipper, assuredly reach the thundering, roaring lord of IlA, who, impelling the clouds and distributing the rain, proceeds, illuminating the heaven and earth with lightning.

15. May this hymn reach up to the presence of the might of the Maruts, the youthful sons of Rudra: the desire of riches incites me to holiness: glorify those who go to sacrifice on spotted steeds.

16. May this hymn attain (the divinities) of earth and heaven, the trees, the herbs, for (the sake of) wealth: may each individual deity be successfully invoked by me: let not mother earth take us into unfavourable thought.
17. May we ever, gods, enjoy great and uninterrupted felicity.

18. May we ever be participant of the unprecedented, joy-conferring, and well-guided protection of the Ashwins; bring to us, immortal (Ashwins), riches, male progeny, and all good things.

V. 3. 11.

The deities as before; The Rishi is Arnt; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. May the milch kine, quick-moving, doing no harm, come to us, (laden) with their sweet fluid; the wise worshipper invokes the seven vast and joy-diffusing (rivers) for the sake of ample riches.

2. (I purpose) to approach with pious praise, and with oblations, for (the sake of) the uninjured heaven and earth: may the paternal (heaven), and the sweet-spoken, free-handed, maternal (earth), both enjoying renown, defend us in every battle.

3. Priests, who are preparing (the libation), first offer to Vayu the delightful and brilliant (Soma); and do thou, divine Vayu, like the Hotri, first drink of this sweet juice, which we offer for thine exhilaration.

4. The ten expressers of the juice, (the fingers), and the two arms of the priest, which are the dexterous im-molators of the Soma, take hold of the stone: the exulting, skilful-fingered (priest) milks the mountain-born juice of the sweet Soma, and that Soma (yields its) pure juice.

5. The Soma has been effused. (Indra), for thy gratification, for (giving thee) strength in action, and for thy great exhilaration: therefore, Indra, when invoked by us, put to thy two beloved, docile, well-trained horses in thy car, and come down.

6. Agni, being well pleased with us, bring to us, by paths frequented by the gods, the divine (female) Gña, mighty and omnipresent, to whom oblations are offered with reverence, who is vast and cognizant of rites, to partake of the exhilaration of the sweet Soma.

7. The vessel which the priests, celebrating (it), supply with butter, as if roasting a marrow-yielding animal with fire, has been placed, desirous of the sacrifice, upon the fire, like a son upon the lap of his father.

8. May this adoring, earnest, and gratifying praise go like a messenger to summon the Ashwins hither: come, Ashwins, givers of happiness, riding in one chariot, come down to the deposited (Soma), as the bolt (is essential) to the axle of the waggon.

9. I offer adoration to the powerful and rapid Pushan, and to (the powerful and rapid) Vayu, who are both instigators of the desire of wealth and of food. (who are both) distributors of riches.

10. Bring hither Jatavedas, who art invoked by us all, the Maruts, under their several names and forms: come, all ye Maruts, with all your protecting faculties, to the sacrifice, the praises, and the adoration of the worshipper.

11. May the radiant Saraswati come to the sacrifice from the heavens or the spacious firmament: may the goddess, the showerer of water, propitiated by our invocation, and desirous of our gratifying praises, hear.
12. (Priests) place the mighty Brihaspati, the creator, whose back is dark blue, in the chamber (of sacrifice): let us worship him who is seated in the interior of the mansion, everywhere shining, golden-hued, resplendent.

13. May the sustainer of all, (Agni), the greatly radiant, the delighter, come, with all his protecting (faculties), when invoked; he who is clothed with flames and with plants; who is irresistible; who has horns of three colours; the showerer (of benefits), the accepter of oblations.

14. The holders of the (sacrificial) ladles, the ministrant priests of the man (who institutes the rite), have repaired to the bright and most excellent place of the maternal (earth); offerers of the oblation, they foster the tender infant, (Agni), with worship, as people rub (the limbs of a child to promote his) existence.

15. Married pairs, worn by devout rites, jointly offer abundant sacrificial food, Agni, to thee who art mighty: may each individual divinity be successfully invoked by me: let them not take us into unfavourable thought.

16. May we ever, gods, enjoy great and uninterrupted felicity.

17. May we ever be participant of the unprecedented, joy-conferring, and well-guiding protection of the Ashwins: bring to us, immortal (Ashwins), riches, male progeny, and all good things.
The deities are the same; the Rishi is Atathara of the race of Kashyapa; the meter of the fourteenth and fifteenth verses is Trishtubh, of the rest Jagati.

1. In like manner as the ancient (sages), those our predecessors, as all sages, and those of the present period, (have obtained their wishes by his praise), so do thou by praise extract (my desires) from him who is the oldest and best (of the gods), who is seated on the sacred grass, who is cognizant of heaven, coming to our presence, vigorous, swift, victorious, for by such praises thou exaltest him.

2. Do thou, (Indra), who art radiant in heaven, spread through the regions, for the good (of mankind), those the beautiful (waters) of the unyielding cloud: doer of good deeds, thou art the preserver (of men), not (destined) for their detriment: thou art superior to all delusions; thy name abides in the world of truth.

3. He, (Agni), is associated with the perpetual oblation that is the true (source of good); the sustainer of all, he is of unrestricted movement, the offerer (of burnt-offerings), the cherisher of strength: gliding especially over the sacred grass, the showerer (of benefits); an infant, a youth, exempt from decay, whose place is among plants.

4. These well-combined rays (of the sun) are descending with intent to proceed on the path (of the sacrifice), amplifiers of the ceremony for this (its institutor): operating with these swift-moving, all-regulating rays, he, (Aditya), steals the waters (that flow) in low places.

5. Object of honest eulogium, (Agni), thou shiniest amongst the reciters of thy praises when the Soma is received at its effusion by the wooden (cups), and thou, accepting (the beverage), art animated by the heart-affecting (praises); giver of life, increase in the sacrifices thy protecting flames.

6. Such as (the deity) is beheld, such is he said (to be): they abide with concentrated splendour in the waters: (may they bestow) upon us honourable and ample (riches), great energy, numerous male offspring, and undecaying vigour.

7. The sage Sūrya, advancing, accompanied by his bride, (the dawn), proceeds boldly, intent on combat with his enemies: may he on whom riches are dependent, secure our entire felicity, (and grant) a brilliant and everywhere protecting mansion.

8. The (pious man) proceeds to thee, most excellent (of the gods, who art indicated) by the sign of this moving (revolution); who art hymned by the Rishis in whose praises thy name (is glorified); he obtains that blessing by his devotion, on whatsoever (his desire) has been fixed: and he also, who of his own accord offers (worship), acquires abundant (reward).

9. The chiefest of these (our praises) proceed to the ocean-like sun: that chamber of sacrifice fails not in which (his praises) are prolonged: there the heart's desire of the worshipper is not disappointed where the mind is known to be attached to the pure (sun).

10. He verily (is to be glorified): let us, with the pleasant thoughts of Kṣatriya, Manasa, Avāda, Yajata, Sādhu, and Avatthara, fill up the invigorating food, (the portion) to be shared by the wise.
11. Swift is the excessive and girth-distending inebriation of Vishwavara, Yajata, and Mayin: (by drinking) of these (juices) they urge one another to drink: they find the copious draught the prompt giver of intoxication.

12. May Sadaprīna, Yajata, Bahuvrikta, Shrutavit, Taryā, associated with you, destroy your foes: the Rishi obtains his desires in both (worlds), and shines brightly, whenever he adores with well-mingled (offerings and praises) the host (of heaven).

13. Sutambhara is the ministrant priest of the institutor of the sacrifice, the causer of the upward ascent of all holy rites: the milch-cow offers juicy (milk); the milk is distributed: announcing this in order, (Avatsara) studies (the holy texts) without repose.

14. Him who is ever vigilant, holy verses desire: to him who is ever vigilant sacred songs proceed: him who is ever vigilant the Soma thus addresses: I am always abiding in thy fellowship.

15. Agni is ever vigilant, and him holy verses desire: Agni is ever vigilant, and to him sacred songs proceed: Agni is ever vigilant, and him the Soma thus addresses: I am ever abiding in thy fellowship.

ANUVAKA IV.

V. 4. 1.

The deities are the Vishwadevas: the Rishi is Sadaprīna: the metre is Triśtabh.

1. (Indra) recovered (the hidden cattle), hurling his thunderbolt from heaven at the prayers of the Angirāsas:
the rays of the approaching dawn are spread around:
the divine sun, scattering the clustered gloom, has risen and set open the doors of (the habitations of) men.

2. The sun distributes his radiance as if it was a substance: the parent of the rays of light, (the dawn), knowing his approach, comes from the spacious (firmament):
the rivers with running waters flow, breaking down their banks: the heaven is stable like a well-constructed pillar.

3. To me, when offering praise, as to an ancient author of sacred songs, the burden of the cloud (descends): the cloud parts (with its burden): the sky performs (its office): the assiduously worshipping ANGIRASAS are exhausted by much (adoration).

4. INDRA and AGNI, I invoke you for my salvation with well-uttered words, agreeable to the gods; for verily, sages excelling in sacrifice, and diligently adoring, worship you with sacred songs, prompt as the MARUTS (in devotion).

5. Come to-day quickly: let us be engaged in pious acts: let us entirely annihilate the hostile: let us keep off all sacred enemies: let us hasten to the presence of the institutor of the rite.

6. Come, friends, let us celebrate that solemn rite which was effectual in setting open the (secret) stalls of the (stolen) cattle; by which MANU overcame Vishvishvapra; by which the merchant, going to the wood (for it), obtained the water.

7. At this sacrifice the stone (set in motion) by the hands (of the priests) makes a noise, whereby the nine-months ministrants celebrated the ten-months worship:
when Sākam, going to the ceremony, discovered the cattle, and Angirās rendered all the rites effective.

8. When all the Angirāsas, on the opening of this adorable dawn, came in contact with the (discovered) cattle, then milk and the rest were offered in the august assembly, for Sākam had found cows, by the path of truth.

9. May Sūrya, lord of seven steeds, arrive, for he has a distant goal (to reach) by a tedious route: fleet as a hawk he pounces upon the offered (sacrificial) food:
ever young and far-seeing, he shines, moving amidst rays of light.

10. Sūrya has ascended above the glistening water, as soon as he has put to his bright-backed steeds: sage (worshippers) have drawn him, like a ship, across the sea: the waters, hearing his commands, have come down.

11. I offer to you, (gods), for the sake of water, an allbestowing sacrifice, whereby the nine-months ministrants have completed the ten-months rite: may we, by this sacrifice, be the protected of the gods: may we, by this sacrifice, cross over the boundaries of sin.

The deities of the first six stanzas are the Vīrvareyas, of the last two the wives of the gods: the Rishi is Pratikshatrā; the metre of the second and eighth stanzas is Trishtubh, of the rest Jaugūti.

1. The sage, (Pratikshatrā), has, of his own accord, attached himself to the burthen (of sacrifice), like a horse (to a chariot): I support that transcendent and proservative load: I do not desire release from it, nor yet its reiterated imposition; the sage, going first, conducts (men) by the right path.

2. Agni, Indra, Varuna, Mitra, gods, confer (upon us) strength; or, company of the Maruts, or Vishnu, (bestow it); and may both the Nasatyas, Rudra, the wives of the gods, Pushan, Bhaga, Saraswati, be pleased (by our adoration).

3. I invoke for protection Indra and Agni, Mitra and Varuna, Aditi, Swar, Earth, Heaven, the Maruts, the clouds, the waters, Vishnu, Pushan, Brahma-\napasti, and Savitri.

4. Or may Vishnu grant us felicity, or the innoxious wind, or Soma the bestower of riches; or may the Ribhus, the Ashwins, Twashtri, or Virahvan be favourably disposed to our enrichment.

5. Or may the adorable, heaven-abiding company of the Maruts, come to us to take their seats on the sacred grass; or may Brihaspati, Pushan, Varuna, Mitra, Aryaman, bestow upon us domestic happiness.

6. Or may the glorious mountains, the beneficent rivers, be to us for our preservation; may Bhaga, the apportioner of wealth, come with abundance and protection; may this wide-pervading Aditi hear my invocration.

7. May the wives of the gods, desiring (our homage), defend us; may they so protect us that (we may obtain) vigorous (offspring) and abundant food: whether terrestrial, or those in charge of the waters (in the firmament), do you, goddesses, earnestly invoked, bestow upon us felicity.
8. Or may the goddesses, the wives of the gods, accept (the offering): INDRA, AGNA, the radiant ASHWINI, ROOASI, VARUNA, may each hear (our prayer): may the goddesses partake (of the oblation): may the (personified) season of the wives of the gods, accept it.

V. 4, 3.

The deities are the Virswamay: the Hishi is Prathitha: the metre is Triptakha.

1. Arousing (men to their labours), the adorable (Dawn) comes from the heaven, a mighty mother, the awakener of her daughter (earth); pious, ever young, and glorified, (she comes), when invoked, to the chamber of sacrifice with the protecting (gods).

2. The rays (of light) extending round, fulfilling their duty (of bringing on the day), abiding in contact with the orb of the immortal (sun), unlimited and diffusive, spread everywhere through heaven and earth.

3. The showerer (of rain), the shedder of dew, the radiant and quick-going (car) has entered the region of the paternal east: the many-tinted and pervading (lumin-ary) proceeds to both extremities of the firmament, (and) so preserves (the world).

4. The four (chief priests) sustain him (with oblations and praises), seeking their own welfare; the ten (regions of space) invigorate him, their embryo, to travel (his daily course): his three elementary rays swiftly traverse the boundaries of the sky.

5. (Behold), men, the indescribable form from which the rivers (spring), and where the waters dwell; which (form, the firmament), the two, (day and night), associated and equally allied, as well as other (seasons), born (of it, as of a parent), here and there remain.

6. To him (worshippers) multiply praises and acts of adoration: for (him as for) a son, the (divine) mothers weave garments (of light): rejoicing in the contact of their impregnation, the wives of the sun, (the solar rays), come to our presence by the path of the sky.

7. May this (hymn), Mitra and Varuna, be valued (by you): may it, Agni, be valued (by thee) as the means to us of happiness unmixed: may we (thence) obtain stability and permanence: reverence be to thee, radiant:
and mighty asylum (of the universe).

V. 4. 4.

The deities as before; the Rishi is Prashrmanu; the metre Jagati.

1. When may we offer adoration to the benevolent splendour, strong in its own (strength), self-sustaining with food, deserving of worship: when the delusive (energy of Agni), investing (the heavens), spreads the waters above the clouds over the unbounded firmament.

2. These dawns diffuse the consciousness that is apprehended by pious men, and (overspread) the whole world with uniform, investing (light): the devout man disregards the dawns which have turned back, and (those which) are to come, and improves (his understanding) by those which have proceeded.

3. (Animated) by the libations offered by day and by night, (Indra) sharpens his vast thunderbolt against the beguiler (Vritra): he whose hundred (rays) attend him in his own abode, sending away, and bringing back (revolving) days.

4. (I behold) the practice of that (Angi) as of a deputy:
I celebrate the host (of rays) of that (resplendent) form, designed) for the enjoyment (of mankind): if he be with (the worshipper), he bestows upon the man who invokes him at a sacrifice such opulence as a mansion abounding with food.

5. Blazing with his (fiery) tongue in the four quarters (of the horizon) he proceeds (to the sacrifice), wearing beautiful (lustre), the disperser of darkness, extirpating foes: we know him not (as endowed) with manhood, whereby this adorable Savitri bestows desirable (wealth).

V. 4. 5.

The deities are the same: the Rishi is Prativrampa; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. For you, (worshippers), I approach to-day the divine Savitri and Bhaga, the distributors of precious (wealth) amongst men: Ashwins, (leaders of rites), enjoyers of many (good things), desiring your friendship, I solicit your daily presence.

2. Knowing the approach of the expeller (of the foes of the gods from heaven), worship the divine Savitri with holy hymns: praise him with reverence, distinguishing him as distributing precious (treasures) amongst men.

3. Pushan, Bhaga, Aditi, bestow (severally) excellent viands: the fierce (sun) robes (himself with radiance):
the good-looking (deities). Indra, Vishnu, Varuna, Mitra, Agni, give birth to happy days.

4. May the irreproachable Savitri (grant) us that desirable (wealth): may the flowing rivers hasten to (convey) it to us; for which purpose I, the ministering priest of the sacrifice, repeat (pious praises); affluent in food, may we be the lords of (manifold) riches.

5. May ample wealth devolve upon those who have presented victims to the Vasis, and upon those who have repeated praises to Mitra and Varuna: confer upon them, (gods), felicity, and may we rejoice in the protection of heaven and earth.

V. 4. 6.

The deities as before: the Rishi is Swasti: the metre is Anush-tubha, except in the fifth stanza, in which it is Pancha.

1. Let every man solicit the friendship of the divine leader (of heaven, the sun): let every man desire (of him) riches: let him request affluence (wherewith) to nourish (his descendants).

2. Divine (leader of heaven), these (worshippers) are thine, and (so are they) who praise these (other gods): these (both) we associate with opulence: we (seek) to unite with (our) desires.

3. Worship, therefore, the leaders (of our rites), our guests, (the gods), and the wives (of the deities): may the (divine) discriminator drive to a distance every adversary, (and all our) enemies.

4. Whence the victim fit to be bound, the subject (of the sacrifice), has been stationed (at the sacrificial post): he, (Sāvitrī), with mind well disposed towards the worshipper, the donor of dwellings and descendants is like a clever wife, the bestower (of wealth).

5. Leader (of heaven), may this thy protecting chariot, laden with riches, (come for our) happiness: praisers of the honoured (Sāvitrī), we glorify him for felicity through well-being: praisers of the gods, we glorify (them).

V. 4. 7.

The deities and Rishi as before: the metre of the first four stanzas is Gayatri, of the next six Ushṇī, of the next three Triśūlaḥ, and of the last Anusṭubh.

1. Come, Agni, with all the protecting deities, to drink the libation: come with the gods.

2. (Gods who are) devoutly praised and worshipped in truth, come to the sacrifice, and drink the libation with the tongue of Agni.

3. Sage and adorable Agni, come with the wise and early-stirring divinities to drink the Soma libation.

4. This Soma juice, effused into the ladles, is poured out into the vase, acceptable to Indra and Vayu.

5. Come, Vayu, propitious to the offerer of the libation, to partake of the sacrificial food, and drink of the effused juice.

6. Indra and Vayu, you ought to drink of these libations: be gratified by them, benevolent (divinities), and partake of the sacrificial food.

7. The Soma juices mixed with curds are poured out to Indra and to Vayu: the sacrificial viands proceed to you as rivers flow downwards.
8. Accompanied by all the gods, accompanied by the Ashwins, and by Ushas, come, Agni, and, like Atri, delight in the libation.

9. Accompanied by Mithra and Varuna, accompanied by Soma and Vishnu, come, Agni, and, like Atri, delight in the libation.

10. Accompanied by Aditi and the Vasus, accompanied by Indra and by Vayu, come, Agni, and, like Atri, delight in the libation.

11. May the Ashwins contribute to our prosperity; may Braga, and the divine Aditi (contribute) to (our) prosperity; may the irresistible Vishnu, the scatterer (of foes), bestow upon us prosperity; may the conscious Heaven and Earth (bestow upon us) prosperity.

12. We glorify Vayu for prosperity, Soma for prosperity, he who is the protector of the world: (we praise) Brihaspati (attended by) all the companies (of the deities), for prosperity, and for our prosperity may the Adityas be ours.

13. May all the gods be with us to-day for our prosperity; may Agni, the benefactor of all men, and giver of dwellings, (be with us) for (our) prosperity; may the divine Ribhus protect us for (our) prosperity; may Rudra preserve us from iniquity for (our) prosperity.

14. Mithra and Varuna, grant us prosperity; Path (of the firmament), and Goddess of riches, (grant us) prosperity; may Indra and Agni (grant us) prosperity; Aditi, bestow prosperity upon us.
15. May we ever follow prosperously our path, like the sun and the moon: may we be associated with requiting, grateful, and recognisant (kunaman).

V. 4. 8.

The deities are the Maruts; the Rishi is Shyavashwa; the metre of the sixth and seventh stanzas is Panshi, of the rest Anushatabh.

1. Offer worship with perseverance, Shyavashwa, to the praise-deserving Maruts, they who are adorable and delight in the daily offered and inoffensive sacrificial food.

2. They are the firm friends of steady vigour, who, proceeding resolute on their way, willingly protect (our) numerous (descendants).

3. Gliding along, and shedding moisture, they pass through the nights: therefore we now celebrate the might of the Maruts, manifested in both heaven and earth.

4. We enjoin you, (priests), to offer earnestly praise and sacrifice to the Maruts, who, through all human ages, protect the mortal worshipper from harm.

5. Offer sacrifice to the adorable Maruts, who (have come) from heaven, who are worthy of worship, munificent leaders (of rites), and possessors of unequalled strength.

6. Leaders (of the rains), the mighty Maruts shine with brilliant ornaments and weapons, and hurl javelins (at their foes, the clouds): the lightnings, like roaring (torrents), daily follow the Maruts: the radiance of the resplendent (cohort) spontaneously breaks forth.

7. The Maruts, who are of the earth are augmented, so are those in the vast firmament: they increase in the force of the rivers, and in the aggregate of the spacious heaven.

8. Glorify the truth-invigorated and infinite strength of the Maruts; for they, the leaders (of the rains), gliding along, are labouring voluntarily for (our) good.

9. Whether they (abide) on the Parshni (river), or, purifying (all), they clothe themselves with light, or whether they break through the clouds with strength by the wheels of their chariots.

10. (Whether), following the paths that lead (to us), or that spread diversely, or those that sink into the hollows (of the mountain), or those that extend smoothly, they, (however) scattered, accept the sacrifice for my benefit, (when invoked by these appellations).

11. Now, leaders (of the rains), they support (the world): now, blending together, they bear (the oblation): now, situated remote, (they uphold distant objects): so may their manifold forms be manifest.

12. The reciters of sacred metres, desirous of water, and celebrating (the Maruts), have drawn them to (provide) a well (for Gotama): some of them, (invisible) as thieves, have been my defenders: some have been (obvious) to view through the light (of life).

13. Glorify, Rishi, with grateful praise, the company of the Maruts, who are manifest, bright with lightning lances, who are wise, and the creators (of all things).

14. Approach, Rishi, with offerings and with praise, the company of the Maruts like a friend: come, sustaining (Maruts), with your strength, from heaven or (any other region), glorified by our hymns.
15. Glorifying them promptly, desiring not to bring (other) deities to (his) presence, let (the worshipper) associate his gifts with those wise (divinities) renowned for their velocity, and distributors (of rewards).

16. To me, inquiring of their kindred, the sage (Maruts) have uttered a reply: they have declared Prishni (to be their) mother; the mighty ones have declared the food-beswoing Rudra (to be their) father.

17. May the seven times seven all-potent (Maruts, aggregated as) a single troop, bestow upon me hundreds (of cattle): may I possess wealth of cows, renowned upon the (banks of) the Yamuna: may I possess wealth of horses.

6. Leaders (of the rain), munificent givers, they cause that which is the treasury (of water) to fall from the sky. fer (the benefit of) the donor (of the offering): they let loose the rain cloud, and the shedders of rain spread (everywhere) with (abundant) water.

7. The gliding (torrents), issuing (from the clouds), overspread the firmament with water, as milk-cows (yield milk), and like rapid horses let loose upon the road, the rivers rush in various directions.

9. Let not the Rasa, the Anitabha, the Kubha, or the wide-roving ocean delay you: let not the watery Sarayus oppose you: may the happiness of your (approach) be ours.

10. I praise that brilliant company of the Maruts, who have your strength of recent chariots, you whom the rains attend.

11. Let us wait with sacred praises and holy rites upon your several strength, and separate troop, and individual company.

12. To what well-born and oblation-giving (worshipper) will the Maruts proceed to-day in this their ear?

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Jagati; in the fourteen stanzas Tristubh.

4. Powerful Rudras, you urge on the nights and days, the firmament and the worlds: agitators (of all things), you toss the clouds like ships (in the sea), so (you throw down) the strong places (of the enemy): but, Maruts, you do no harm.

5. Your prowess, Maruts, has spread wide your glory as the sun (sends afar his) radiance, or the white (horses of the gods travel far) in their course: of unbounded lustre, you clove the cloud withholding the waters.

6. Maruts, dispensers of rain, your strength is manifested when, shaking the water-laden cloud, you let loose the shower; conjointly propitiated, conduct us by an easy path leading to prosperity, as the eye (shows the way).

8. Lords of the Niyut steeds, overcomers of multitudes, leaders (of rites), radiant as the Adityas, are the dispensers of water: when sovereign lords, they fill the clouds, and loud sounding, moisten the earth with sweet (watery) sustenance.

9. This wide-extended earth is for the Maruts; the spacious heaven is for the spreading winds; the paths of the firmament are provided (for their course); for them the expanding clouds quickly bestow (their gifts).

10. MARUTS of combined strength, leaders of the universe, guides of heaven, when the sun has risen you rejoice (in the Soma beverage), then your rapid steeds know no relaxation, but quickly you reach the limits of this road (to the sacrifice).

11. Lances (gleam), MARUTS, upon your shoulders, anklets on your feet, golden cuirasses on your breasts, and pure (waters shine) in your chariots; lightnings blazing with fire glow in your hands, and golden tiaras are towering on your heads.

12. MARUTS, when moving, you agitate the heaven of unchecked radiance, and (stir) the bright water: when you combine your energies and are shining brilliantly, and when purposing to send down rain, you utter a loud-shout.

13. May we, who are possessed of chariots, intelligent MARUTS, become (proprietors) of wealth, comprising food bestowed by you: of wealth that vanishes not, as THERYA (declines not) from the sky: therefore, MARUTS, gratify us with infinite (riches).

14. You bestow, MARUTS, wealth and enviable posterity:
you protect the sage learned in the Soma: you grant horses and food to (me) the ministrant priest: you render a prince prosperous.

15. Therefore do I solicit wealth of you, who are prompt to grant protection, whereby we may multiply our descendants, as the sun (spreads wide his rays): be propitiated, Maruts, by this my praise, by the efficacy whereof may we pass over a hundred winters.

6. When you yoke your spotted mares to the poles (of your chariots), you lay aside your golden breast-plates, for you dissipate all hostility: may the cars of the quick-moving (Maruts) arrive for our good.

9. Send us felicity, Maruts; harm us not: bestow upon us exceeding happiness: reward our adoration by your friendship: may the cars of the quick-moving (Maruts) arrive for our good.

10. Do you, Maruts, conduct us to opulence: propitiated by our praises, extricate us from sin: accept, adorable (Maruts), our offered oblation, and may we be the possessors of riches.

The deities and Rishi as before; the third and eleventh verses are in the Satobrihati, the rest in the Brihati metre.

1. I invoke, Agni, the victorious company (of the Maruts) decorated with brilliant ornaments: (I invoke them), the people of the Maruts, to descend to-day from above the shining heaven.

2. In whatever manner thou honourest the (Maruts Agni), in thy heart, may they come to me as benefactors:
gratify, (by oblations), those fierce-looking Maruts, who most promptly come to thy invocations.

3. As the (people of the) earth having a powerful lord have recourse to him when oppressed (by others), so comes (the host of the Maruts) exulting to us: your company, Maruts, active as fire, is as difficult to be resisted as a formidable ox.

4. They who with ease destroy (their foes) by their prowess, like horses difficult to be restrained, they send down by their movements the vast and sounding water-laden cloud.

5. Rise up (Maruts) : verily by my praises I invoke the mighty and unprecedented (troop) of these exalted (Maruts) like a heap of waters.

6. Yoke the bright steeds to the car; yoke the red steeds to the cars; yoke the swift pair of horses to bear the burthen; the strong bearing to bear the burthen.

7. And let not that horse, bright-shining, loud-neighing, of graceful form, who has been placed (in harness), delay you, Maruts, on your journey: urge him on in the car.

8. We invoke the food-laden chariot of the Maruts, in which Rodasi stood with the Maruts, bearing the delicious (waters).

9. I invoke that, your cohort, gracing the chariot, brilliant and adorable, amidst which the rain-bestowing (goddess), of goodly origin, and auspicious, is worshipped together with the Maruts.
The deities and Rishi as before: the metre of the first six verses is Japati, of the two last Tristubh.

1. Rudras, servants of Indra: mutually kind, riding in golden cars, come to the accessible (sacrifice): this our praise is addressed to you: (come to us as you came) from heaven, (bringing) oozing water to the thirsty (Gotama), longing for moisture.

2. Intelligent Maruts, you are armed with swords, with lances, with bows, with arrows, with quivers; you are well mounted and have handsome chariots: sons of Prishni, you are well armed: come for our good.

3. You agitate the clouds in the sky: (you give) wealth to the donor (of oblations): through fear of your approach, the forests bow down: sons of Prishni, you incense the earth when, for the purpose of (sending) water, you, fierce (Maruts), yoke your spotted steeds.

4. The Maruts, radiant with light, purifiers of the rain, like twins of goodly aspect and graceful form, masters of tawny and of ruddy steeds, devoid of guile, thinners (of foes), and vast in magnitude as the sky.

5. Shedders of abundant showers, wearers of ornaments, munificent, of brilliant aspect, of inexhaustible wealth, well descended by birth, wearing golden breast-plates, entitled to adoration, (coming) from heaven, accept the ambrosial oblation.

6. Lances rest, Maruts, upon your shoulders: strength (of) foe-destroying power is seated in your arms: golden (tiaras) are on your heads, weapons are placed in your chariots: all glory is assembled in your limbs.

7. Maruts, bestow upon us affluence, comprehending cattle, horses, cars, treasure, and male descendants: sons of Rudra, grant us distinction: may I ever enjoy your divine protection.

8. Ho. Maruts, leaders (of rites), be propitious to us, you who are infinitely opulent, immortal, shedders of rain, renowned for truth, wise, young, greatly glorified, and worshipped with copious oblations.

V. 5. 2.

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. I praise to-day that brilliant company of the adorable Maruts, lords of swift horses, who pass along in strength, who, self-radiant, preside over the ambrosial rain.

2. Adore, priest, the resplendent and powerful company, whose arms (are decorated) with bracelets, whose function is the agitation (of the trees), who are wise, and by whom wealth is conferred: they who are bestowers of felicity, whose greatness is unbounded: glorify the opulent leaders (of rites).

3. May the universal Maruts, who urge on the rain, come to you to-day laden with water: Maruts, who are wise and young, be pleased by this fire which is kindled for you.

4. Adorable Maruts, you cause (a son) to be born to the man (who worships you), a ruler, an over-comer of foes, and modelled by Vishwan: from you, Maruts, comes a valiant descendant, strong-fisted, mighty-armed: from you (he acquires) an excellent steed.

5. Like the spokes of a wheel, none (of you) are inferior (to the rest), but equal as days (of like duration): the sons of Prāshnī are born all alike, none inferior in splendour: rapid in speed, the Maruts, of their own free favour, send down (the rains).

6. When, Maruts, you come with stout-axed cars drawn by spotted steeds, then the waters descend, the forests are damaged, and the bright showerer (of the rain), influenced by the solar rays, may emit a downward sound.

7. On their approach the earth becomes capable of fertility, and they deposit in her water as their germ, as the husband generates the embryo of the child: they have harnessed their horses fleet as the wind: the sons of Rudra have emitted their perspiration, (the rain).

8. Ho, Maruts, leaders (of rites), be propitious to us, you who are infinitely opulent, immortal, shedders of rain, renowned for truth, wise, young, greatly glorified, and worshipped with copious oblations.

V. 5. 3.

Deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Jagati, except in the last verse, in which it is Trishtubh.

1. The priest glorifies you, Maruts, for the good of the donor of the oblation: offer worship to the shining (heaven): I bring offerings to the earth: they, the Maruts, scatter the rapid (rain); they traverse the firmament; they combine their own radiance with (that of) the clouds.
2. From their approach the earth trembles with fear, as a crowded boat goes quivering (through the water): visible from afar, they are recognized by their movements: the Maruts, leaders (of rites), pass between (heaven and earth) to the solemn sacrifice.

3. You bear, for your decoration, an excellent (diadem) like the horn of cattle: as the sun, the eye (of day, dispenses light), so (are you diligent) in the distribution of the rains: graceful are you, and rapid as horses, and, like (pious) mortals, you, leaders (of rites), consider (holy ceremonies) for their glory.

4. Who may exalt the great excellencies of you who are adorable? who may (offer you fitting) praises? who (glorify your) manly (deeds)? for you make the earth tremble like a ray (of light) when you confer the gift (of rain) for (the diffusion of) fertility.

5. Resplendent as steeds, of one kindred, they engage in combat like valiant heroes: like (prosperous) men, they, the leaders (of rites), have increased (in power), and cover the eye of the sun with showers.

6. None of them are older, none younger (than the others): the destroyers of (foes), none hold a middle (rank), but all excel in glory: honourable by birth, having Prishni for your mother, do you, Maruts, favourable to man, come from heaven to our presence.

7. Like birds (that fly) in rows they pass along in their strength above the vast summit (of the sky) to the ends of the firmament: their horses have caused the waters of the cloud to descend, as both (gods and mortals) know.
8. May the heaven and the earth yield (rain) for our sustenance: may the wonderfully bounteously dawns exert themselves (for our good): may these sons of Rudra, lauded, Rishi, (by thee), send down the celestial rain.

V. 5. 4.

The deities are the Maruts, especially as associated with Agni; the Rishi is as before; the metre of the seventh and eighth verses is Jagati; of the rest Trishtubh.

1. I adore the protecting Agni with hymns: may he, propitiated on this occasion, approve of our acts: I offer (worship with praises), intended to obtain food, as if (proceeding) with cars (to the goal), circumambulating (the fire): may I exalt the praise of the Maruts.

2. Fierce Maruts, sons of Rudra, who ride in easy chariots (drawn by) celebrated steeds, (at your coming) the woods bow down with fear, the earth trembles, and the mountains (shake).

3. The mountain, vast and lofty (though it be), is alarmed at your noise, and the summit of the firmament trembles when, lance-armed Maruts, you are sporting: you rush along together like waters.

4. Like wealthy bridegrooms who have decorated their persons with golden (ornaments) and purifying waters, so the noble and powerful Maruts, associated together in their chariots, have made great (preparation) in their several persons for their embellishment.

5. They are brothers, of whom no one is the elder, no one the younger, but who grew up together for their mutual prosperity: may their father, Rudra, ever youthful, the doer of good deeds, and Prishti, (their mother), easy to be milked, grant favourable days for (the sake of) the Maruts.

6. Auspicious Maruts, whether you abide in the upper, the middle, or the lower heaven, (come), Rudras, to us from thence; and do thou, Agni, accept the oblation which this day we offer.

7. Maruts, who are omniscient, since you and Agni abide above the summits of the upper (region) of the sky, do you who cause (your enemies) to tremble, and are the consumers of (our) foes, do you, being pleased, bestow upon the sacrificer who offers you oblations desirable wealth.

8. Agni, drink the Soma-juice, rejoicing, along with the Maruts, resplendent, adorable, associated in troops, purifying all, animating and long-lived: drink, Vaishwanara, who art identified with the ancient emblem (of flame).

V. 5. 5.

The deities are various: those of the first four, and the eleventh to the sixteenth verses are the Maruts; the several persons whose names occur in the other stanzas are considered to be their divinities; the Rishi is Shyavashwa; the metre of the fifth stanza is Anuvrtta, of the ninth Sambhidhi, of the rest Gayatri; the occasion of the hymn, according to the Scholiast, is a wonderful old story, related by those learned in sacred lore: a priest of the family of Atri, named Archananas, having been employed as Hotri by the Raja, Rathaviti, the son of Darshya, saw at the ceremonial the daughter of the Raja, and, being pleased by her appearance, asked her as a wife for his son Shyavashwa: Rathaviti was disposed to assent, but thought it proper first to consult his queen, who objected to the match that SHYAVASHWA was not a Rishi, no maiden of their house having ever been given in marriage to a less saintly personage: to qualify himself, therefore, as a Rishi, SHYAVASHWA engaged in a course of rigorous austerity, and wandered about soliciting alms: among others, he begged alms of SHASHIYASI, the queen of TARANTA Raja, who, conducting him to her husband, said, a Rishi has arrived: the Raja replied, treat him with reverence: and SHASHIYASI, with her husband’s permission, gave him a herd of cattle and costly ornaments: the Raja also bestowed upon him whatever he asked for, and then sent him onwards to his younger brother, PUSUMILHA: on his way SHYAVASHWA met the MARUTS, whom he hymned, and was by them acknowledged to be a Rishi; he was also made the Seer (draskha) or author of Sulbas of the Veda: RATAVITH then, with the concurrence of his wife, gave him his daughter to wife: this hymn was composed in honour of the benefactors of the Rishi.

1. Who are you, most excellent leaders (of rites), who come one by one from a region exceedingly remote?

2. Where are your horses? where your reins? what is your capability? where are you going? the saddle is on the back (of the steeds), the bridle in their nostrils.

3. The goad is (applied) to their flanks: the drivers force them to spread their thighs apart, like women in bringing forth children.

4. Heroes, friendly to man, of honourable birth, you are as if blazing with fire.

5. She, (SHASHIYASI), who has thrown her arms round the hero TARANTA, who was eulogized by SHYAVASHWA, has given me cattle comprising horses, and cows, and hundreds of sheep.

6. SHASHIYASI, though a female, is more excellent than a man who reverences not the gods, nor bestows wealth.
7. For she discerns one who suffers pain, one who is in want, or one desirous (of any thing), and directs her mind towards the gods.

8. And, eulogizing (him), I proclaim that the man, her (other) half is, (as it were), uncommended, for he is ever the same in munificent donations.

9. Young and affable, she has explained to me, Shyavashwa, the road, and two ruddy horses have borne me to the valiant and renowned Purumilka.

10. Who, the son of Viradashwa, has given me a hundred (head) of cattle, and, like Taranta, many precious gifts.

11. Those (Maruts) who are brought hither by swift horses, drinking the inebriating juice, receive here glorification.

12. They by whose glory heaven and earth are surpassed: who shine splendid in their chariots like the radiant (sun) in the heaven above.

13. That company of Maruts, ever young, riding in bright chariots, irreproachable, auspicious, motive, unobstructed.

14. Who knows of a certainty their (abode), where the intimidators (of their foes) rejoice? born for (the distribution of) water, exempt from defects.

15. Desirous of praise, you are the guides (to happiness) of the man who propitiates (you) by this pious rite: you are bearers of invocations to the sacrifice.

16. Do you, who are destroyers of the malevolent, abounding in wealth, and entitled to adoration, bestow upon us desirable riches.
17. Bear to Dānghya, oh night, turning away (from me to him), this my eulogy (of the Maruts); convey my praises, goddess, as a charioteer (conveys the contents of his vehicle to their destination).

18. And say on my behalf to Rathaviti, when the libation is poured out, my love (for your daughter) does not depart.

19. This opulent Rathaviti dwells upon the (banks of the) Gomati (river), and has his home on (the skirts of) the (Himulaya) mountains.

The deities are Mitra and Varuna; the Hiti is Shrutsavid; the metre Tristubh.

1. I have beheld the permanent orb of the sun, your (dwelling place), concealed by water, where (the hymns of the pious) liberate (his) steeds; where a thousand rays abide together; the one most excellent of the (embodied) forms of the gods.

2. Exceeding is that your greatness, Mitra and Varuna, whereby the ever-moving sun has, through (succeeding) days, milked forth the stationary waters: you augment all the (world-illumining) rays of the self-revolving (sun): the one chariot of you two (perpetually) goes round.

3. Royal Mitra and Varuna, you uphold, by your energies, earth and heaven: prompt benefactors, cause the plants to grow, give nourishment to the cattle, send down the rain.

4. May your easily-harnessed horses bear you both (hither), and with well-guided reins come down; the embodied form of water follows you, the rivers flow as of old.

5. Augmenting the well-known and ample form (of man), in like manner as the sacred grass is preserved by prayer, do you, Mitra and Varuna, who are invigorated by (sacrificial) viands, and abound in food, ascend your car in the midst of the place of sacrifice.

6. Be open-handed and benignant to the performer of pious acts, whom you protect in the midst of the place of sacrifice; for you two, who are sovereigns, and free from wrath, uphold together a mansion of a thousand columns.

7. The substance (of their chariot) is of gold; its pillars are of iron, and it shines in the firmament like lightning:
may we load the vehicle with the libation in an auspicious place, or in the sacrificial hall, (where the columns) are erected.

8. At the break of dawn, at the rising of the sun, ascend, Mitra and Varuna, your golden-bodied, iron-pillared car, and thence behold the earth and its inhabitants.

9. Munificent Mitra and Varuna, protectors of the universe, (it is yours to grant) exceeding and perfect felicity, such as it is impossible to disturb: bless us with that (felicity), and may we ever be (possessed) of the riches we desire, and be confident of victory (over our enemies).

The deities are Mitra and Varuna; the Rishi is Archananas;
the metre is Jagati.

1. Guardians of water, observers of truth, you ascend your car in the highest heaven: to him whom you, Mitra, and VARUNA, protect, the rain sends down the sweet (shower) from the sky.

2. Imperial rulers of this world, you shine, MITRA and VARUNA, at this sacrifice, the beholders of heaven: we ask of you the wealth (that is) rain, and immortality, for your forms traverse earth and heaven.

3. Imperial and mighty showerers, lords of heaven and earth, beholders of the universe, you approach, MITRA and VARUNA, with variegated clouds to hear the sound (of your praises), and cause the sky to (send down) rain by the power of the emitter of showers.

4. Your device, MITRA and VARUNA, is manifested in heaven, when the light (that is) the sun, your wonderful weapon, moves (in the firmament): him you invest in the sky with the cloud (and) with rain; and (thy) sweet drops, PARJANYA, fall (at their desire).

5. The MARUTS harness their easy-going chariot, MITRA and VARUNA, for (the emission of) water, as a hero (harnesses his war-car): their forms traverse the different spheres to distribute the rain: do you, therefore, supreme rulers, shed upon us water from heaven.

6. The cloud, (through your will), MITRA and VARUNA, utters a wonderful sound, indicative of radiance, and announcing (abundant) food: the MARUTS thoroughly invest the clouds with (their) devices, and, (along with them), you two cause the purple and faultless sky to send down rain.

7. Sapient MITRA and VARUNA, by your office you protect pious rites, through the power of the emitter of showers: you illumine the whole world with water: you sustain the sun, the adorable chariot in the sky.

V. 5. 8.

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Amsha, except in the last verse, in which it is Pancha.

1. We invoke you, Mitra and Varuna, with this hymn; each the discomfiter of foes, the conductor to heaven, like (two herdsmen) driving, by (the strength of their arms, the herd of cattle before them.

2. Do you two, with discriminating hand, bestow upon me, your worshipper, (what I desire): for the desirable felicity (that is given by you) spreads through all lands.

3. That I may now pursue the (right) direction, may I proceed by the path of Mitra, for all (good things) are aggregated in the happiness, (the gift) of that beloved and benignant (deity).

4. May I obtain from you, Mitra and Varuna, by my praise, such wealth as to excite envy in the dwellings of the rich and the devout.

5. Come, Mitra, (come), Varuna, with your splendour to our assembly, and augment (the prosperity) of the affluent (worshipper), and of (those who are) your friends in their respective abodes.

6. You, Mitra and Varuna, bring us strength and abundant (food) for (those praises) which (we offer): be largely bountiful to us in food, in riches, in prosperity.

4. Lucidly white is she, occupying the two (regions, the upper and middle firmament), and manifesting her person from the east: she traverses the path of the sun as if knowing (his course), and harms not the quarters of the horizon.

5. Exhibiting her person like a well-attired female, she stands before our eyes, (gracefully) inclining like (a woman who has been) bathing: dispersing the hostile glooms, USHAS, the daughter of heaven, comes with radiance.

V. 6. 9.

The deity is SAVITRI; the Rishi SHYAVASHWA; the mother Jagati.

2. The wise SAVITRI comprehends all forms (in himself): he has engendered what is good for biped and quadruped: the adorable SAVITRI has illumined the heaven, and shines in sequence to the passage of the Dawn.

3. After the passage of which divine (being) the other deities proceed to (obtain) majesty with power: he who by his greatness has measured out the terrestrial regions, the divine Savitri, (is) resplendent.

4. Either thou traversest, Savitri, the three regions, or combinest with the rays of Surya; or thou passest, between the night on either hand; or thou divine Savitri, art Mitra, through thy (benevolent) functions.

5. Thou alone rulest over (the actions of) living beings: thou art Pushan, divine (Savitri), by thy movements: thou art sovereign over the whole world: Shyavashwa offers praise, Savitri, to thee.

V. 6. 10.

6. Let us be void of offence towards Aditi, according to the will of the divine Savitri: may we be possessed of all-desired (riches).
7. We glorify to-day with hymns Savitri, the protector of the good, the observer of truth, (identical with) all the gods.

8. The divine object of meditation, Savitri, who, ever vigilant, precedes both night and day.

9. Savitri, who proclaims his glory to all these living beings, and gives them life.

1. I address the mighty Parjanya who is present: praise him with these hymns; worship him with reverence, him who is the thunderer, the showerer, the bountiful, who impregnates the plants with rain.

2. He strikes down the trees, he destroys the Rakshasas, he terrifies the whole world by his mighty weapon: even the innocent man flies from the sender of rain, when Parjanya, thundering, slays the wicked.

3. As a charioteer, urging his horses with his whip, brings into view the messenger (of war), so Parjanya, (driving the clouds before him), makes manifest the messengers of the rain: the roaring of the lion-(like cloud) proclaims from afar that Parjanya overspreads the sky with rainy clouds.

4. The winds blow strong, the lightnings flash, the plants spring up, the firmament dissolves: earth becomes (fit) for all creatures when Parjanya fertilizes the soil with showers.
5. Do thou, Parjanya, through whose function the earth is bowed down; through whose function hoofed cattle thrive; through whose function plants assume all kinds of forms, grant us great felicity.

6. Send down for us, Maruts, the rain from heaven; drops of the rainy charger descend; come down Parjanya, sprinkling water by this thundering (cloud); thou who art the sender of rain, our protector.

7. Cry aloud over (the earth); thunder; impregnate the plants; traverse (the sky) with thy water-laden chariot, draw open the tight-fastened, downward-turned water bag, and may the high and low places be made level.

8. Raise on high the mighty sheath (of rain), pour down (its contents); let the rivers flow unimpeded to the east; saturate with water both heaven and earth, and let there be abundant beverage for the kine.

9. When, Parjanya, sounding loud and thundering, thou destroyest the wicked (clouds), this whole (world) rejoices, and all that is upon the earth.

10. Thou hast rained: now check well the rain: thou hast made the deserts capable of being crossed: thou hast given birth to plans for (man’s) enjoyment: verily thou hast obtained laudation from the people.

V. 6. 12.

The deity is VARUNA; the Rishi Athi; the metre Trishtubh.

2. He has extended the firmament over the tops of the trees, has given strength to horses, milk to cows, determination to the heart: he has placed fire in the waters, the sun in heaven, the Soma-plant in the mountain.

3. VARUNA has set free the (water of the) downward opening cloud for the (benefit of the) heaven, the earth, and the firmament; thence is he monarch of all the world, watering the soil as the rain bedews the barley.

4. VARUNA waters earth, mid-air, and heaven, when he pleases (to send forth) the milk (of the cloud): thereupon the mountains clothe (their summits) with the rain-cloud, and the hero (M大咖), exulting in their strength, compel (the clouds) to relax.

5. I proclaim this great device of the renowned VARUNA, the destroyer of the Asuras, who, abiding in the mid-heaven, has meted the firmament by the sun, as if by a measure.
6. No one has counteracted the device of the most sagacious divinity, whereby the lucid water-shedding rivers do not fill the ocean with water.

7. If, VARUNA, we have ever committed an offence against a benefactor, a friend, a companion, a brother, a near neighbour, or, VARUNA, a dumb man, remove it from us.

8. If, like gamesters, who cheat at play, (we commit offences) knowingly, or (those) of which we know not, do thou, divine VARUNA, extricate us from them all, as if from loosened (bonds), so that we may be dear, VARUNA, to thee.

The deities are INDRA and AGNI; the Rishi is ATAT; the metre is Annabhdhi, except in the last verse, in which it is Virat-pares.

1. INDRA and AGNI, the mortal whom you both protect scatters the substantial treasures (of his enemies), as TRITA (confutes) the words (of his opponents).

2. We invoke the two, INDRA and AGNI, who are irresistible in conflicts, who are renowned in battles, who protect the five (classes of) men.

3. Overpowering is the might of these two: the bright (lightning) is shining in the hands of MAGHAVAN, as they go together in one chariot for the (recovery of the) cows, and the destruction of VRTRA.

4. We invoke you both, INDRA and AGNI, for (sending) your chariots to the combat, lords of moveable wealth, all-knowing, most deserving of praise.

5. I adore you, irresistible deities, for (the sake of obtaining) horses: you who are increasing day by day like mortals, who are worthy of worship, like two Adityas.

6. The invigorating oblation has been offered, like the Soma-juice expressed by the sounding stones: do you bestow food upon the pious; great riches upon those who praise you; bestow food also upon those who praise you.

V. 6. 15.

The deities are the Maruts: the Rishi is Evayamarut, of the race of Athi: the metre is Adijapati.

1. May the voice-born praises of Evayamarut reach you, Vishnu, attended by the Maruts: (may they reach) the strong, the adorable, the brilliantly-armed, the vigorous, praise-loving, cloud-scattering, quick-moving company of the Maruts.

2. Evayamarut glorifies those who are manifested with the great (Indra), who appear spontaneously and speedily with the knowledge (that the sacrifice is prepared): your strength in action, Maruts, is not to be resisted, (though qualified) by (your) infinite liberality: you are immoveable as mountains.

3. Evayamarut glorifies with praise those who, (coming) brilliant and happy from the vast heaven, hear (his invocation): in whose dwelling there is no one able to disturb them, and who, like self-radiant fires, are the impellers of the rivers.

4. That wide-spreading troop (of Maruts) has issued from a spacious common dwelling-place (where) Evayamarut (awaits them) when their car has been spontaneously harnessed with its rapid horses; and, emulous, vigorous, and conferring happiness, they sally forth.

5. Let not the sound (of your approach, Maruts), which is mighty, the announcer of rain, the shedder of light, diffusive, loud, alarm Evayamarut: that sound wherewith, overcoming (your foes), you who are self-irradiating, lasting-rayed, ornamented with golden ornaments, self-weaponed, bestowing food, accomplish your functions.

6. Possessors of vast strength, may your unbounded greatness, your brilliant vigour, protect Evayamarut: for you are regulators for overseeing (what is fit for) the limits of the sacrifice: preserve us from those who revile us, you, who are like blazing fires.

7. May those Rudras, the objects of worship, like resplendent fires, protect Evayamarut: they, whose ethereal dwelling, extended and wide, has been made illustrious (by them), and of whom, exempt from blame, the mighty energies (are manifested) in their courses.

8. Maruts, devoid of enmity, come to our proffered praise, hear the invocation of your adorer, Evayamarut: do you, who are associated in the worship of Vishnu, drive away, as warriors (scatter their enemies), our secret foes.

9. Adorable Maruts come to our sacrifice, so that it may be prosperous; hear, undeterred by Rakshasas, the invocation of Evayamarut: abiding like lofty mountains in mid-heaven, do you, who are profoundly wise, be ever-intolerant of the reviler.

END OF THE FIFTH MANDALA.
NOTES ON VOLUME III.
NOTES ON VOLUME III.

1. Shitiprishthasya dhasah; Agni is understood, so is rashmayah, rays, according to Sayana: he explains dhasi by sarvasya dharayitri.

Sapta canah the commentator explains by sarpanasaabhava nadih; otherwise sapta might be thought to mean seven, its more usual acceptation.

3. The Milch Kine.—Dhenavah; but Sayana considers it as an adjective equivalent to prinayitryah, propitiators, pleasers.

3. Atasasya dhasah is explained sutasagamanasya poshanartham, for the sake of cherishing of the perpetual going.

Page 2.

4. One Only Wife.—We have in the text nothing more than Ekam tee, like one, the pronoun being feminine. The commentator adds, yathu yamante ekam pravishati, as a man cohabits with one woman.

7. Five Ministering Priests.—Adhivaryaubhir panchabhih sapta ciprah; this excludes, according to the scholiast, the Udgatri and his class.

Page 3.

11. This verse is the burden of several Suktas in the preceding Ashtaka, see vol. ii, pp. 196, 204, 206. Sayana rather varies his interpretation in some respects upon this recurrence of the verse: thus he translates in the former, Ho, by Bhumi, earth; here he calls her a female divinity in the form of a cow, gorupam devatam, and he connects vijaya with anumati, good-will, explaining it avandhya, may it be not barren, productive; see Introduction, vol. ii, p. xx.

1. Vanaspati, lit. forest lord, is here said to mean the post of wood to which the victim is tied; the verse is quoted in the Aitareya Brahmana, ii. 2, and is similarly expounded in the Nirukta, 8, 18.

2. (In A Moment) Thou art, etc.—That is, according to the Scholiast, although not yet kindled, yet as soon as the attrition of the touchwood takes place Agni appears.

3. Some precede whilst others, etc.—According to Sayana allusion is made to the sixteen priests, of whom the Adhvaryu and eleven others take an active part in the ceremonial, whilst the Udgatri and other three are sitting by, engaged in the recital of the prayers and hymns.

5. A Fugitive (Son).—The text has only sasricsam iwa, like one going; the scholiast supplies the father and son; or it might be thought to indicate master and slave.

7. Animals.—Pushavah; according to the comment, bipeds as well as quadrupeds.

9. Three Thousand, etc.—Sayana quotes the Brhad Aranyaka for this enumeration, Adhyaya v. Brahmana, but that work gives apparently 3333, or according to the gloss of Anandagiri 3336, but in the following verses the number is, as usual, specified as thirty-three; the eight Vasus, eleven Rudras, and twelve Adityas, with Indra and Prajapati; the verse occurs in the Yajush, xxxiii. 7, where Mahidhara explains part of the increase by multiplying the thirty-three by ten for the gimus of the deities, making not very correctly 333; and repeating this number twice, once for their multiplication by Brahma, Vishnu, and Rudra, and again by their Shaktis:

\text{sva nityas aikas-trivriddha sug-Devam dasa-avr-ganvish te Brahma Vishnu Rudranam shaktinam varnasveda-tah iti te cha 333, 333, 333, etavanto bhavanti, the explanation is not very clear.}

5. Sama-Veda, i. 98.
6. Sama-Veda, i. 100.

2. Is associated with Understanding.—Dhaga samriniuatii, that is, according to Sayana, Agni is fully aware of the objects of the ceremony, and a wish is implied that he may communicate similar knowledge to its performers, tan tadrik prajnancitan kuroto: Mahidhara understands it somewhat differently in form, though the same in substance, as through knowledge Agni associates with the gods, for the purpose of conveying the oblations to them.—Yajush, xxii. 16.

3. Travellers (the Darkness).—Artham hyanta tarani, his meaning or object is crossing, or that which crosses; his light or radiance is the end or object of Agni, which passes over or through, darkness understood.

5. Visham Manushinam, according to Sayana, means the descendants of Manu, Manor jatanam.
7. This and the two preceding occur in the Sama-Veda, ii. 306—308.

1. Girbhir nabho streyam; sambojanitam samam prati uamadiyabhik stutirupabhir, ragbhir, akshau, nabho, nabhasah neyaghsthanad saysam; called by our praises, come you two from the place of Soma to this enjoyable Soma, in Sayana's explanation: the verse occurs both in the Sama-Veda, ii. 19, and Yajur-Veda, vii. 31: Mahidhara tries to give a different sense to Nabha, which he identifies with Aditya, and conjectures a comparison understood, as, come to the Soma which is like the desirable sun or it may mean, he says, those dwelling in heaven: Nabha hastah the gods: Come to the Soma that is sought for by the gods.

5. Jaritah sucha yajno jagati chetana: the expression is rather obscure: yajna and chetana are both applied by Sayana to the Soma, as the material of the sacrifice, yajna-sadhanaam, and the animator or giver of consciousness to the organs of perception: indriyanam chetayita, and the co-operator with the worshipper in obtaining heaven or other benefits—jaritah sucha svargadiphalaprapate sahaya bhutah: this and the next stanza occur in the Soma, ii. 20, 21: Professor Benley has understood it differently.

4. Sama-Veda, ii. 1052. 5. Ibid., ii. 925, 1053.
6. Ibid., ii. 926, 1054: Dasas-patnih purah, cities of which Dasas were the lords, probably the same as Dasyas, infidels, enemies of the gods.
7. Sama-Veda, ii. 927, 1044. 8. Ibid., ii. 928, 1045.
9. Sama-Veda, ii. 1043: all the verses of this Sutra are found in the Sama-Veda in different places.

Page 9.

7. Pushi-mat, dgyumat: the first, according to the comment, implies cattle from whose milk and the like, support is derived: the second intends the precious metals and jewels.

Page 10.

3. Preceding.—Puruyam—the Scholiast explains sayam pratah kalayoh puruyam, that is, Agni is worshipped at dawn before the day, and in the evening before the night.
4. Thou standest a Sun.—Tishah surya: the latter is variously explained by the Scholiast as, su, good, and sruya, master; or as, urger, impeller, preraka, or vigour, energy, sruya.

5. With Uplifted Hands.—Yajur-Veda, xviii. 75: Mahidhara explains Uttanahastah, with open hands, not niggardly.

Oblation.—Kamsam: both commentators consider this synonymous here with oblation, purodasha-dahovis, as that which is desirable to the gods, kamsamiyam.

7. Be Cognizant, Etc.—Vishwanya surathanya bodhi: the scholiast explains the verb, know that. I am his protector, gopayita bhasami-iti buddhyasa: Suratka is literally one who has a good chariot, and is so rendered in the commentary shobhanayazapetah.

1. Dwisko rakshasa anicath: Sayana explains amiva either as an epithet of the Rakshasar, free from sickness, vigorous, strong; or it may be a synonome of Pishachika, as hovering about the sacrifice in order to interrupt it: Mahidhara, Yajur-Veda, ii. 49, gives it the sense of vyadhii, sickness, keep off diseases, vyadhamscha bodhasuca.

2. When the Sun has Risen.—Some, says the Scholiast, perform the worship of fire before sun-rise, some after the sun has risen.

With (Embodied) Form.—Tanwa sujatah, well-born with a body, that is, with flames; or it may mean self-born, samyambhu, according to the comment.

As a Father, Etc.—Janmava taurawya, yosha pita putram. senate, janma, being put for janaha.
4. THE FIRST GREAT PRESERVING SACRIFICE.—Of the Jyotishtoma, which, according to another text, is the first and most important of sacrifices.

7. See above, Suka vii. v. II (III. 1. 7. 11) and note thereon.

1. LORD OF THE SLAYERS OF VRITA.—Vritrahathanam ishe, but Vritra may here imply an enemy, or impiety, as by another text, tvayi samarpitakarmanam asmakam tvaat prasadat papakshaye bhave, through thy favour is the destruction of the sins of us whose good works have been delivered to thee; also Sama-Veda. i. 60.

PAGE 13.

1. THE RIGHTEOUS (AGNI).—Prathamanudharma: dharma may be considered as a synonyme of Agni; or the construction may be anudharma, according to law or religion.

2. See NEYE on the Deuge.

3. THREE EXISTENCES.—Trigayunshi, three lives, as supported by butter, by fuel, and by the Soma plant.

PARENT DAWNS.—Tism ajantrushamé. Agni may mean sisters, or mothers: the dawns personified as the parents or sisters of Agni, as prior or subsequent to the lighting of the sacrificial fire in early morning; why “three” does not appear, unless the three diurnal fires are alluded to: as sisters; a text is quoted by Sayana assigning them separate offices: Prajam eka rakshaty-urjam eka, rashtram eka rakshati, one preserves the people, one vigour, one the kingdom.

5. This stanza is rather obscure.
4. Upon the Descendants of Vishwamitra. — Vishwamitreshu on the Vishwamitrás, or the plural may be used honorifically in the sense of the singular.

1. Dadhikra. — This ordinarily means a horse; in this place, according to Sayana, it implies a certain divinity, Kaschid-devah.

2. Three Váṇḍos. — Buter, yudh, and the Soma.

3. Three Abiding Places. — Three altars, or the three daily sacrifices, or the three worlds.

4. Three Tongues. — The three fires, Garbhapatya, Ahaśmya, and Dakshina.

5. Three Forms. — The three fires termed Pānaka, Prajapapi, Sūkra, and Schuchi.

3. Many Are the Names of These. — Rhrinam saha, for namani; the commentator explains the substantive by tejanai, splendours.

1. Stokah, commonly meaning any small portion, is explained throughout by bindama, drops; the hymn, according to Sayana, is proper to animal sacrifices, puṣhuvajnah.

2. Ojushtham to madhyato meda ubhirītum. — The meda or wpa is described as the fatty matter that lubricates the abdomen like coagulated butter; it is evidently the same that is described in the Old Testament as "the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards." Levit. iv: 9, etc.

Ill. 2. 10. — Panchachitrarupa aṣayā devata, each verse it is said being separately recited as the Adhuvartya constructs a pit or an altar, ishtaka, for collecting chayana or chitta, a sacrificial fire: the hymn occurs in the same order in the Yajush, xii. 47. 51.

1. Placed.—Dadhe jathare, sudare dadhare; but the verb is also applied to yasmin, the fire in which the Soma was placed.

Sahasrinam sojam utgam na saptim sastran, enjoying a thousand-fold food like a quick-going horse: like a horse that enjoys various properties in battle, is Sayana’s explanation. sahasram nanarupatam yuddhe yo bhojati sa sahasri, tam uchisamiva; which does not much illustrate the comparison: Mahidhara gives the words an entirely different sense: Sahasrinam, he attaches to somam, worthy or fit for a thousand libations, somam sahasarham; utgam and saptim to sojam, food, exhilarating, madakaram, and satisfying; triptikarvan: sa, meaning ‘now,’ samprati.

2. In the Heaven, etc.—Agni, severally, as the sun, as sacrificial fire, as the fire that is illuminated by attrition from wood, as submersed fire and as wind.

Overlooking Man (Vast as) the Ocean.—Tuesha sa bhanur arnavo srichakshoh, is explained by Sayana, diptiman eva bhamane arinam drashta samudravan mahan, shining verily and resplendent the beholder of men great like the ocean: Mahidham does not differ materially but explains arnavah by arnavi, udakani yatra sati, the place where the waters are: after this verse the priest adds, idrisko yaste bhanus, tam eveshtakarupam upadadhami, such being thy lustré, I place it in the form of the Ishtaka.

3. Vapour in Heaven.—That is, in the form of smoke.

Congregatest the Divinities.—Devam uchishe dhishnya ye: Mahidhara agrees with Sayana in explaining dhishnya by prana, or the deus presiding over the vital airs, pranabhirminino devah: uchishe the latter renders, samavetan karoshi.

The Bright Region above the Sun.—Rochana parastat surya-priti: Rochana is said to be the loka or region where the fiery radiances burn, Rochana namayam loko yatra ogneyam jyotis tapati, above the sun, suryasoparisthit.

4. Purishta.—Purishyas ugnayah: Sayana explains the term, sikata samnishala, mixed with sand: Mahidhara, parvulhyo hitah, good for animals: Purisham occurs in the Nirukta amongst the synonyms of water, and is elsewhere explained as that which pleases or which fills—Nir. ii. 22.

With the Instruments.—Pravanchih sajoshaah, the first, Sayana explains, mritkhananamadhanabhutav abhryadibhi: abhrya and others, which are the implements for digging the earth: Mahidhara explains it by manansi, minds, being pleased in mind, manasa pritiyuktabh: his interpretation, however, seems to rest on a fancied etymology, pra-prakarsthena mananti-sambhajanati visayam, what especially appreheend objects of sense.

5. Sukta vii. v. 11 (III. 1. 7. 11).

3. His Parents.—The two pieces of stick that have been rubbed together by Devamana.

4. In an Excellent Spot of Earth.—Prithyag lalayaspahe, in the foot-mark of the earth in the form of a cow, according to Sayana, that is, on the northern altar.

Frequented Banks.—Manushi, relating to man or to Manu, is said to imply manushyasaancharavishayito tihe, on a bank, a place frequented by men; the Drishadvati and Saraswati rivers are well known; the Apaya has not occurred before.

1. Yajur-Veda, ix. 37.
3. Vigilant.—Dyumena jagrice, is explained svatejasa sarvanap jagarvanopeta, always endowed with his vigilance by own lustre or energy, loka-raksharthatam, for the preservation of the world.

Page 20.

5. Thou art Kindled in the Dwelling of the Waters.—That is as lightning in the firmament.

Page 21.

1. Observer of Truth.—Anushatya, from anus and satya; in this and similar compounds which are of frequent recurrence, the notion, at least according to the Scholiast, is not that of observing truth in the abstract, but of keeping faith with the sacrificer, by giving him the desired recompense to which he is justly entitled.

2. The Adorable Lord of Sacred Rites.—Brahmapatit, explained here Brihato yajnasya patim, the lord of the great sacrifice; tutpalakatya swaminam, lord through protecting it.

7. 1. Agni, am by Birth, etc.—Agni usmr jatismana jataveda; or it may mean, 1. Agni, am by birth Jataveda.

Clarified Butter is my Eye, etc.—This is a somewhat mystical description of the universality of Agni in the double capacity of the enjoyer and enjoyed, the food and the feeder, and in the three forms of fire, sun, and the sun, presiding over earth, mid-heaven, and heaven: the eye of Agni is the light of all, which light is fed by oblations of butter: ambrosia is the reward of pious acts or enjoyment of heaven and the like, which is procurable through oblations to fire, as if through his mouth or countenance, amritam me asan: arkastridhatuh; arka is explained jagatsraksha prasah, world-creating vital air.
which, becoming threefold, is Vayu, in the firmament, Agni, on earth, and Aditya as the source of eternal warmth and life. Sayana furnishes another and more simple illustration of some of the phraseology, or, as the eye lights up the world, so ghee thrown upon the fire causes it to burn fiercer and dispense more light: amrita he explains also by prabha, light, light is in my countenance: tridhata he refers to the three vital airs termed prana, apana, and vyana: the identity with the air and the sun is similarly explained: the verse occurs in the Yajush xviii. 66, where Mahidhara interprets it differently: according to him, it is the yajamana who identifies himself with Agni, saying, I am by birth, Agni, or of the form of Agni, Agni-rupa, the lord of all that is born, the sacrifice (artha), the three Vedas, the measure of the water: the eternal sun: ghee is the eye; that is, I behold the offerer of ghee on the fire: I convert the oblation that is put into my mouth into ambrosia: thus there is no duality between Agni and the individual, evamatmanyagneyadwaitam.

8. Having by self-contemplation recognized his identity with the three manifestations, Agni, Vayu, and Aditya, he comes to know his identity with the universe, as by the text, atma nitte sarvam idam vijnate bhavati, the self being known, all this (universe) is known.

9. THAT SAGE.—That is, Vishwamitra himself: in consequence of his discovery that Vaishvanara is Purna-brahma the supreme spirit: as it would be scarcely decorous to say so much in his own commendation this stanza may be ascribed to Brahma.

1. THE MONTHS, ETC.—Pra sa ro vaje abhidyutva havishmanto hrityachya: the Scholiast explains vaje by maahah, months, and abhidyutva by ardhamahah, half-months: havishmantu: literally, having the havis: or oblation of butter, he considers an epithet of devah, gods, upon the authority of the Taittiriya; but they also explain it by pashavah, animals yielding milk, of which the havis is made, in which the Vajasaneya's concur: Ghritachi he renders Gou, but the Vajasaneyya is quoted for its meaning. Sruk, a ladle: there is no verb, but pra is regarded as implying prabhavanti, all these preside over your sacrificing: the explanation of Sayana is that of the Taittiriya Brahmana, but the line is obscure, the words in the senses given are unusual, and the whole is elliptical.

Page 23.

3. Animositys.—Dvedhari, hatred: Sayana proposes papniti, ains.

6. The Exorcisers.—Sabadhah, repelling the disturbers of sacred rites by repeating the mantra or charm for their destruction, is Sayana's explanation. rakshognanamuntro-chchhavanena tadvishayakabadhah.

7. By His Experiences.—Maya, usually illusion or guile: it is here explained karmavishayayajnanam, knowledge of the objects of sacred rites.

9. As the Parent of the World.—Dakshasya pitam tana is explained by Sayana as dakshasya prajapater, tanya, the daughter of the Prajapati Daksha: that is, the earth, here identified with the altar, tadirupa: she sustains, dharmyati, understood, him, Agni, the protector of father of the world, sarvasya jagatah, palakam dharanyati: this and the two preceding stanzas occur in the Saman II. 827, 829.

10. Ila.—As before, earth, or the altar.

12. Grandson of Food.—Urjo sapatam, or the son of the oblation, as blazing when fed by butter and the like: or, the descent may be differently accounted for, from the oblation proceeds Aditya, and from Aditya, Agni.
THE CREATION OF THE WISE—Kavikratuḥ, of whom Kavyah the wise, that is the adhvaryu, and the rest, are the makers, kartarakah, by their rubbing the sticks to evolve flame.

15. THE SENDER OF SHOWERS.—The Scholiast cites Manu iii. 76, for this property of Agni: “the offering that is sacrificed with fire proceeds entirely to the sun, from the sun is generated rain, and from rain food; from thence mankind.”

5. AWAKENING (OBLATION). Jagnīśīṃa: according to the Scholiast the Soma juice offered at dawn is termed Jagnīśīṃa, the sleep-dispelling svapnamīnīrakah, but here we are at the third or evening worship.

1. THE APPARATUS OF ATTRITION IS READY—Astitam adhimantānām asti praṇānanam kriyam: Adhimantana is the stick, the string, and the like placed upon the two pieces of wood to assist in their attrition: Praṇānanam may have its general sense of begetting, or it denotes a tuft of dry grass used to catch and communicate the flame: Sāma-Veda, I. 79.

3. SON OF IĻA.—The fire of the Altar.

4. IN THE PLACE OF IĻA—Hesyāṣṭade vahha prithivyah adhiḥ; that is, in the middle of the northern altar; this and the preceding occur in the Yajush, xxxiv. 14, 15; the passage is also quoted in the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa, i. 1. Adhy. 5, and similarly explained in the commentary.

8. IN THINE OWN SPHERE.—Sageṇa explains νεο λόκον by uttaravedyaḥ nātham on the centre of the north altar: Mahādharmi, Yajur-Veda, xi. 35, says, kṛṣṇajīvaṇa on the hide of the black envelope.
In the Chief Place of the Sacred Rite.—Sadasya yajnam sukritasya yonah; yajna, according to Sayana, is put for the yajamana, yajnasya kartaunam, who is to be stationed uttameloke, in the best place, or that which enjoys the fruit of the holy rite, sukritajanyopabhogasya etehe: Mahidhara says, sukrita yonah means the krishinajina, the black antelope-hide.

9. PRODUCE SMOKE.—Krinita dhunam, produce fire, by metonymy.

10. THY PLACE.—Sayana says this alludes to the Aruni, the stick of acasia or aswattha, or other trees: Mahidhara, Yajur Veda, iii. 14, explains it the Garhapatya, or household fire: he renders the concluding phrase also differently, give us increase of riches.

11. TANUNAPAT.—He who does not consume the persons of the worshippers yashtinam tanah, sharivani na patayati, na dahati, or it may have the meaning previously given, the grandson of the waters.

Matarishwan.—Who breathes, abhvasati, in the maternal atmosphere, maturi.

12. PROCLAIM HIM BORN, ETC.—When the priests and assistants behold the flame break forth they clap their hands and make sounds of rejoicing, like the parents of a new-born son.

PAGE 28.

3. THE WEARER OF THE HELMET.—Sushtra, in more than one previous passage, has been explained, having a handsome nose or chin, for which Sayana here also quotes the Nirukta, vi. 17, but he proposes a new meaning, shastranam a guard of the head, a helmet.
THE CONVEYOR OF MEN BEYOND EVIL.—Tarutra may also be rendered, he by whom the gods surpass or defeat the Asuras.

7. WHICH IS OBTAINED BY OBLATIONS.—Sumatirghritachi: the application of the epithet is not very obvious; that which goes to or obtains clarified butter, havir anchati, prapnoti, but it is not applicable to anything else in the hemistich.

8. HAVING DEPRIVED HIM OF HAND, ETC.—Sahadanum kshiyantum sampinak kunaram: this is the usual allegory of the destruction of the cloud, but several of the terms admit of different renderings; Sahadana, with those proceeding from Dasa, as in a former passage [ ? ]; or it may mean, united with the Danavas, or, according to Mahidhara, Yajur- Veda, xviii. 69, it may be simply asan from asana, strength: kshiyantam, according to Sayana, is kidhamanam, rain- opposing; Mahidhara explains it nikatavartamanum, being near to; Kunara may be a proper name, that of an Asura, a noisy one, kumanashilam, or evil-speaking, durnirghritanam, or, according to Yaska, parikswanana, loud-sounding; Sayana also gives us another interpretation; crush the increasing cloud shedding water, sahadanum udahadumjyutam; abiding in the sky, kshiyantam, uksate simantam; and thundering, kunaram, garjantam.

10. THE HEAVY CLOUD.—Alatrino halak, the first is explained, a cloud, and the second, that which by its abundance of water is able to do mischief; the verse is similarly explained by Yaska, Nir. vii. 2, but the construction and phraseology both make it somewhat obscure.

DESIABLE AND LOUD-SOUNDING, ETC.—Pruva paruhulam, vinirdhamantih is explained vananiyak chaldayamanastva upah purahutum bahubhirahutum parthivam udakam abhyayach:
char, as in the text.

12. Harms Not the Quarters.—Disah surya as minati na hinsati, he does not injure.

Haryashwa.—Indra, or he with the tawny horses.

Page 30.

15. Mortal Enemies.—Martyasaah. Sayana explains it here, Marayitamah, killers, murderers.

17. The Enemy of the Veda.—Brahmadwishe : Sayana renders it brahmanadweshakarine, or him who entertains hatred against the brahman; but brahma may mean the prayer of the Vedas, or the Vedas, which is here the more likely meaning, or at least the religion or ritual of the followers of the Veda.

Page 31.

III. 2. 3.—Many of the verses in this hymn are of more than usual obscurity.

1. The Sonless Father.—Shasadwahith: the latter is said to be the father of a daughter only, not of a son, because he conveys away (nahati, propayati) his property, through his married daughter into another family: shasad, shast, he stipulates, that his daughter’s son, his grandson, dukhtur napatyam, shall be his son, a mode of affiliation recognized by law; and, calving on an heifer thus obtained, and one who can perform his funeral rites, he is satisfied.

2. Born of the Body.—Tanvah, same as tanujah; na jamaye riktham arak, if there be a son the inheritance does not go to the sister, jamaye, bhagingai.

He Has made Her the Receptacle.—And by so doing he makes her sanskrīta,—he secures for her one of the essential purificatory rites.
If the Parents Procreate Children.—Yadi mātaro janayanti vahnim; here vahni is explained offspring, or rather, male offspring, a son, whilst mātari is said to mean a daughter; but it may imply both, as having been born by the wife, and the context requires this meaning; for the one, the son, the performer of obsequial and other rites, is the heir, whilst the other is rindhan, rikhyanama, to be increased or made wealthy, with dresses, ornaments, and the like.

1 and 2.—These two verses, if rightly interpreted, are wholly unconnected with the subject of the Sākta, and come in without any apparent object: they are very obscure, and are only made somewhat intelligible by interpretations which seem to be arbitrary, and are very unusual, although not peculiar to Sāyona, his explanations being based on those of Yaska. Nīr., III. 4—6.

6. See vol. i., p. 7 (I. 2. 3. 5.): the verse occurs also in Yajur-Veda, xxxiii. 59, where the commentator gives, besides the usual legendary illustration, a different and more mystical interpretation, explaining sarman by mākh, speech, that in which the gods saharmanate, delight together: the other phrases are explained not very distinctly, to the same purport.

8. Far-seeing.—Pāturik, kantama, most wise or far-seeing as to the past, from pāda, an object, and vik, who knows.

May He be Free from all Reproach.—Muncharośvino-cadhat, always, asūram, be free, muncharu—-from such a fault as that of the nature of the death of Vēтра: Vētra-vadharupad-doshat; but this is a Paurānik notion, Vētra, according to the Pūrāna, being a Brahman, and by killing him Indra was guilty of the heinous sin of Brahmahatya.
16. With the Sage Purifiers.—Kavibhih pavitrahi: according to the commentator, the sages, who are as it were the filters or purifiers of the Soma libation are the divinities, Agni, Vayu, and Surya.

Proceed with Days and Nights.—Dyuhkie-hinvantyak-tubhik: they go with days and nights: according to the Scholiast, they regulate by day and night the respective functions of all the world: ratridam sarvam jagat suv sa vijnaropanavam karsanti, they make the whole world diligent in its respective functions by night and day.

17. Day and Night.—The text has Ubbe krishne, both the blanks, meaning, the Scholiast affirms, aboratre, day and night.

By the Might of the Sun.—Suryasya mahana: the commentator identifies Surya with Indra, the impeller, preraka, of the world.

21. He shut the Gate upon All, etc.—Durakhe visham arihita ape maha: that is, according to Saguna, having placed the cattle in the cow-pens, he covered or closed the doors; wojjagh athapayitva tami dwaranyachchhaditavan.

1. Spiritless Soma.—Rijsihin, possessing rijsihan, gateasram Somam, Soma having lost its strength.

2. Mixed with Milk, etc.—Gavashiram, manthinam, shukram: the first has occurred before; the second is explained, manthasanyuktam, mixed with butter-milk; and the last, abhinavam, new or fresh; or they may mean shukramanithigrahe varamanam, being in the vessel of acid butter-milk.

DEVOCT.—Brahmakriia, Indrastotram kurmanona, making the praise of Indra.

5. SEND DOWN THE WATERS, ETC.—Apo arna sisarshi; antarikshahasthitanyakulakami parthivanyukulakami prapaya, cause the waters staying in mid-air to reach, or become those of, earth; the notion has occurred before.

PAGE 36.

11. AS THOU REMAINEDST CONCEALING, ETC.—Anayage sphigya eham avastha, is explained, ekataraya kautya bhuntam avachchhodya tishthani: the meaning is not very clear.

16. THOU hast RERESSED THE STRONG FLAME, ETC.—Dridham chid arujo goyam urum, is interpreted by Sayana, prabalam api avatvaratamanam urvanalam samyagalhankshih, thou hast entirely broken the strong (urum) fire abiding in the deep.

III 3. 4. Shatudri.—According to the legend cited by Sayana, given also by Yaska, Nir. ii. 24, Vishwamitra, the family priest of Sudas, the son of Pigmuna, having gained much wealth in his service, was returning with it home, when his road brought him to the confluence of the Vipash and Shatudri; in order to make them fordable, he addressed to them the first stanzas of this hymn, to which they replied, and allowed him and his followers to cross.

1. Vipash and Shatudri.—The modern Beasah and Satlaj, the former of which falls into the latter: the more usual reading of the ancient Sanskrit names are Vipasha and Shatudra.
5. At my Request.—Me vachase somyaga, to my speech, importing the Soma, i.e., according to the Scholiast, the object of my address is, that having crossed over, I may go to gather the Soma plant: Yaska agrees with Sayana in the interpretation of this stanza. Nir, ii. 25.

The River before Me.—That is, the Shutudri.

6. The Blocker-up of Rivers.—The cloud imprisoning the water of the rains.

Savitri.—Sayana considers Savitri as an epithet of Indra, the impeller or animator of the world. Savita sarvasya jagatah prerakah: the Nirukta has a similar explanation, ii. 26.

9. With a Wagon and Chariot.—Anasa rathena: the commentator, and Yaska also, separate these words, shakatena rathena cho, by a cart and a carriage: the anasa, a cart or wagon, or truck, would be for the conveyance of the Soma plant.

10. For Thee.—Te is repeated at the end of the line without any apparent connexion, according to the Scholiast it is repeated out of respect, te iti punar duktid adavartam.

11. The Bharatas.—The Bharatas are said to be of the same race as Vishwamitra: Bharatakuluja madhyah sarve; but possibly nothing more is meant than those who were the bearers of Vishwamitra’s goods and chattels; for his connexion with the Bharatas is somewhat remote: besides which their family priest was Vasishtha. Mahabharata Adi Parva, v. 3734: it is also to be observed that the word in the text is Bharata, whilst the name of the race is most correctly Bharata, with the first vowel long, although the short vowel is also allowable by the rules of derivation.
13. The Pin.—Shamya, yogakța: the commentator explains it also as the ropes that are fastened to the ends of the yoke, the traces, yogyagataparshankisamudagnum rajyarah, but he renders poktrani, which immediately occurs, in the same manner, and that is more properly the traces.

EXHIBIT NO PRESENT INCREASE.—Ma shunam aratam: Sayana explains shunam by samriddhim, increase, referring, most probably, merely to the present moment—meaning, may the rivers not so rise as to prevent his passage; otherwise it might be thought to convey a wish that the rivers might never suffer any diminution, taking shunam in the sense of shunyam, emptiness. Professor Roth has translated the Sūkta, in his Litteratur des Veda, p. 101: there are of course differences of interpretation between us, especially when he corrects both Sayana and Yaska, as in v. 5.

1. ARMED WITH MANY WEAPONS.—Bhuridatra: datra, from do, to cut, is explained a weapon.

2. THE PRECEDEK OF MEN.—Purasyava, ugrato guntā, the goer before: there is no other explanation.

4. ILLUMINING THE BANNER OF THE DAYS.—Prrochayan ketum ahım, lighting up, according to the comment, surya, or the sun.

7. TO THE GODS.—Devabhyaḥ: Sayana explains it stotrebhyah, to the pious or worshippers.

IN THE DWELLING OF THE WORSHIPPER.—Vivasvataḥ sadān; vivasvataḥ is here explained, of whom dwelling, saṣotah, where various (of) religious rites are performed.

PAGE 41.

9. THE ARYA TRIBE.—Aryam varnam: Sayana considers this as implying only the best tribe, or order, uttamam varnam, or the three first castes collectively.
3. Eat Suitable Food.—Sadrishir-adhik-dhanah, eat suitable grains, that is, according to the Scholiast, tried barley, bhrishtayan.

6. Yajur-Veda, xxvi. 23.

8. Knowing Well (the Worship), etc.—Prajanan pathya anu suah, that is, according to the Scholiast, rightly apprehending the praises which are due or peculiar, and which are offered with the rites enjoined by the Vedas.

2. Hath Become Illustrious, etc.—Ribhur yebhih, vrishaparva vihayah, with which (libations) he is Ribhu, or, as the Scholiast explains it, diptah, enlightened; also vrisha-parva, or he on whom the rainy season, and other divisions of time, parismi, depend; or, in fact, time itself, kulatmakah, and vihayah, who abandons or resigns to those who ask anything, that which they desire: the two first, Ribhu and Vrishaparva, may also be considered as proper names or appellations of Indra.

2. Expressed by the Stones.—Vrishadhutasya vi shinah, shew the usual predilection for, vrish, showering; raining: the literal acceptance of these terms would be of rain-shaken rainer, but the second is explained, the Soma, that bestows swarga, and such other benefits, and the first gravabhir-abhishtutam, juice expressed by the stones used for the purpose; the same idea of their being showerers, or bestowers of blessings, suggesting this appellation of them.

5. Many are His Donations.—Dakshina asya purvah: according to Sayina, these are both epithets of guvak, bahyut-ta yavo dakshinah prajyonte, those many cows, givers (of milk and the like) are born; but dakshina more usually means the fee or present to Brahmans or priests at sacrifices.

6. When the Humble Soma Libation Propitiates Him.—According to the Scholiast, the comparison is to this effect, as small rivers and scanty waters contribute to the vast ocean, so the Soma juice, however insignificant, contributes to the gratification of the great Indra.

8. As Capacious of Soma as a Lake.—Hrada is kukshayah somadhanaḥ: bellics, udarani, is used in the plural, to intimate expansiveness for holding the Soma.

2. Worshipped in a Hundred Rites.—Shatatkratu is a name of Indra, or it may be used as an epithet, he to whom a hundred (i.e., many) sacrifices are offered, or by whom many great acts are performed.

8. Sleep-Dispelling Soma Juice.—According to Sayana, drinking the Soma is preventive of sleep, pīṭhaḥ somah svapnamivaraṇaḥ.

1. As a Quick Horse.—The instigator of the rite is supposed here to address the officiating priests, urging them to be diligent labourers, like the carpenter or the pack-horse.

Acts Acceptable to Indra, etc.—Abhipriyayo marnīsāt paraṁ kavin iṣekhami sandrīsheḥ: the meaning is not very obvious, and the coherence still less so, although we have the additional aid of the explanation of the passage in the Aitareya Brahmana, vi. 20: priyam is said by Sayana to be indraya priyatamani, and parami to imply uttamaṇi, best and most dear to Indra, karmani, acts; or parami may mean the acts to be done on subsequent days, utareshvahasse kriyamanani: kasi, which is usually explained kranta darshī a seer of the past, is said to mean here a holy person who, for his assiduous devotion, has attained deification. yath purvam anuśthitah sāyogad deśabhigam agamāt; so the Brahmana, ye tena Rishyasya purvo pretat-te tei kasayāt.

3. THEY HAVE SET LIMITS, ETC.—Sam mattrahār maṇiśe, is explained. mattrahār rodasya īṣṭayatā parichchhiniye chakrah, with the elements they made determinate divisions of heaven and earth by so much, that is, to a definite limit or extent.

4. THE INFLUENCER OF CONSCIENCES.—The text has only asurasya; the comment explains it by praśakṣaṇa antarjyamitaya, impeller, from being in the inner spirit.

Page 47.

6. THE GANDHARYAS, ETC.—Gandharvasa vayukhērava; the Gandharvas, according to the Scholiast, are the guardians of the Soma. Somarākṣakau; he quotes the Taittiriyakas for the specification of similar beings, although the particular name is not given: Śvanabhṛjau, bimbhau, hasta, suhasta, krishanah, etc. sava somakrayanas, tan rakhadhvam ma vadabhan.

7. This stanza is singularly obscure, and is very imper-flectly explained by the commentator.

8. THIS SAVITRI.—Asya savitār sakir me: Savitri, according to the Scholiast, here means Indra, sarvasya jagatu antarjyamitaya praśakṣaṇa Indraśya, or Indra: the impeller, through his being the internal pervader of the whole world:
this verse is little less unintelligible than the preceding.

9. ALL THOSE WHO EXERCISE ILLUSION.—Vishnu māyānah, the Scholiast explains, sarve devah, all the gods:
māyā sometimes signifies wisdom, intelligence, so that it might be rendered also the wise: in the ordinary sense of may it may mean all the deceivers, or Asuras: the "whole of this Sukta" is very obscure.

2. Auspicious and Clothed in White Raiment.—
Bhadra castrani arjuna ca samvakaḥ: speech auspicious, wearing white garments, that is, tejoṣi, according to the Scholiast, splendid, energies.

Our Ancient and Paternal Hymn.—Pitrya dhīḥ, pitrākramagata stuti, praise come in the succession of progenitors.

3. At the Origin of the Day.—The Ashwins are especially worshipped at the morning ceremony.

5. The Faithful Friends.—The Angirās.

Ten Months' Rite.—Navagraha and Dashagyrah: see vol. i. p. 94 (I. II. 5. 4), and note (p. 370).

6. He Held in His Right Hand.—That is, he delivered the rains from their imprisonment in the clouds of the firmament.

1. Indra.—The commentary here gives various etymologies of the name Indra, taken from Yaska and the Taittirīya aranyaka, viz., he who sports (rumate) in the Soma juice (indu); or he who shows this (idam) universe; or he who divides (drinati), or gives (dadati), or takes (dadhati), or causes to worship (daryātī), or possesses (dharyātī) spirituous liquor (īram), or who runs or passes (diravati) the Soma juice (indau); or kindles or animates (īddhe) living beings; or he who beholds the pure spirit, or Brahma, which is this (idam) universe: the grammarians derive it from śīl to rule with the affix ran.
3. IMBIRE.—_Vrisahasa_ , sprinkle, shower, that is, into the stomach, so that it may not, according to the Scholiast, descend below the stomach.

4. THY ABODE.—_Kshayum tava : kshaya_ , an abode, here means _Indra's belly_ , _jathara_.

3. BEARER OF PRAYERS.—_Brahmavahah, stotrami whati_ , who bears or receives praises; or it may mean _brahmana stotreus prapya_ , who is attained by praise or prayer.

PAGE 51.

7. DEVOTED TO THEE.—_Tsayyacah_ , from _tsam_ thou with _kuac_ aff., converting it to _Tsayyu_ ; so, presently, _asmayuh_ , devoted or inclined to us; these are not infrequent _srdik_ forms, but do not occur elsewhere.

5. OR RATHER A MONARCH OF MEN.—_Kuvid mam gopam karase janaaya kuvid rajanam_ ; _kuvid_ is here explained by _api_ , surely, verily.

6. MAKING THEM AS IT WERE TWINFOLD.—_Pra ye dvidas dva rinjanti : sarva dsho dvids, dvidham, yatoh bhavati tah_ _prakarshena sadhavyanti_ , they especially make all the quarters of the horizon double, so that it (the sky) becomes two-fold; such is _Sayana's_ explanation: what it means exactly it is difficult to comprehend.

7. THAT WHICH THE FALCON, ETC.—This alludes to a legend briefly told in the _Aitareya Brahmana_ , _Panchika_ m, Adhyaya 13, and which is amplified by the Scholiast on that work; the _Soma_ plant grew formerly, it is said, only in heaven; the _Rights_ and the gods considered how it might be brought down to earth, and desired the _Chhandasas_ , the metres of the Vedas, to bring it: changing themselves to birds (Suparnas), they undertook the office: the only one who succeeded, however, was the Gayatri, in the shape of a hawk (ahyeni), and she was wounded by an arrow shot by one of the Soma-palas, or Gandharvas, the guardians of the Soma, thence termed Somabhrayjas, which cut off a nail of her left foot: the ichor from the wound became the soma or adhep of the burnt-offering: other metamorphoses are detailed.

III. 4. 6.—The main purport of this hymn seems to be to ring the changes on the derivatives of the root kri, to take, as in a former one it was upon those of the root virah, to shower: thus we have harṣatuh, taking, captivating, desirable; harṣa, the stone that bruises the Soma plant; also, Indra’s horses in the dual or plural, hari, harṣaḥ: again, harit, green, harṣavasah, he who has the horses called hari: haravasah, yellow-rayed, harivarimāsa, green-coloured; and so on, in every one of the five verses.

3. Sayana cites another text in support of Indra’s discovering or uncovering the hidden Soma, in which, however, the act is ascribed to Pushan, see vol. i. p. 26, v. 14. (1. 5. 6. 14).

1. Peacock-Haired.—Mayaṇa-rumabhīḥ, with hair like the feathers of the peacock.

The verse occurs twice in the Soma-Veda, i. 246; v. 1068; once in the Yajush, xx. 53: Mahādhama agrees with Sayana in the interpretation.

3. The verse is unintelligible without such filling-up of the several ellipses as the Scholiast suggests; we may say, however, of it, as of many other passages, with Professor Benfey, doch bleibt die wendeung dunkel: Soma-Veda, ii. 1070: the same has also the preceding verse, ii. 1069.
1. Yajur-Veda, vii. 38: there is a slight variety of reading, pragipat for prādīvat, Mahādhara renders the first and other lunar days or tithis, until the full moon, during which offerings of Soma are daily presented: Yaska agrees with the Rich. Nir., iv. 8.

2. Drive away the Malevolent.—Apanavatam mridah may also mean, drive away all those who are engaged in battle, i.e., enemies, or keep off from us battles; mridh, meaning war, battle, sangrama; the Yajush has this verse also, vii. 37, and Mahādhara explains it to the same purport.

4. Made his Form Obedient to his Will.—So according to another text, Sukta iii. 8, rupam rupam, Moghavan bobhavīta, Moghavan is repeatedly of various forms; he can take what form he will.

1. Fashioned by Vībru.—Vibhoutashtam: the Scholast explains it, appointed by Brahma for the government of the world, jagadādhikatva Brahmaṇa sthapitam.

4. The construction here makes the sense very doubtful: prishṭah srūho satho na vasu vasubhir niyutaṁ: it would seem as if Indra was also designated here as Vayu; the Vasus are said to be the Maruts; besides the explanation followed in the text, Sayana has another, as, Vayu, having the Niyuts for his steeds, moves like a chariot on high, so does Indra, accompanied by the Maruts.

1. Sama-Veda, i. 374.

3. As a Mine of Wealth.—Akara vasoh, or, according to Sāguna, he is praised to procure his aid in battle, which, when successful, is the source of wealth or booty; Ākṣayate ākṣayotāh dhanam ātra āryakaro ākṣayam, he is celebrated for the sake of war, for therein is wealth, therefore akṣara is the same as ākṣaya; or vacah ākṣayitri may be put together, weaker of the foe, vaca here meaning enemy.

5. MANY ARE HIS PROHIBITIONS.—Purvirasya niṣkshidho mṛtyeṣu is explained nanaprakarani anuśaṣanani. Various kinds of commands or regulations: a similar phrase in a former passage, vol. 1, p. 12, verse 5, puruṇaśaṣṭikā, has been rendered, repeller of many foes: there is no material incompatibility, the latter being a compound epithet, and the substantive in both cases being derived from śāhī to succeed, to go, with the preposition ut, out, ex, to exclude, to prohibit.

7. SHARYATI.—See vol. 1, p. 76, verse 12.

BEING IN SECURITY.—Tava śarman a vicaṃanti, they worship thee in the security, or unassailable place, dependent on, or protected by thee, tavasambandhini śarmanī nirbuddha-śabho śhitah: Mahāhara, Yajur-Veda, vii. 35, explains śarman either by sūkha-vimitte for the sake of happiness, or yajnagriha, the chamber of sacrifice.

10. ŚAṆA-Veda, i, 165 and ii. 87.

11. ŚAṆA-Veda, ii. 88—89.

Page 62.

3. AS A LOVER FROM HIS MISTRESS.—Vadhayūr eva-yaṣṭhanam, as one fond of women, a libertine, enjoys a youthful female
1. Sama-Veda, 1. 338.
2. Do Thou Concur with Me.—Prati me grinhti; the Hotri is supposed to speak to the Adhvaryus to direct their joint performance of some part of the ceremony.

4. His Place of Birth.—Jaya id astam yad u yonih, the apropos of this is not very evident: astam the commentator explains by griham, and he quotes the Smritis for the identity of house and housewife, grihim griham uchyate iti smrātah: the notion that a man is born of his wife evidently originates in the fanciful etymology of Jaya, a wife, from jan, to be born, as it is first found in the Brhmaṇa—

Tasyaṃ punar navaḥ bhutva dāshama māṣa jayate, Tad jaya jayaḥ bhavati, yad asyaṃ jayate punah.

Again, in her being renewed (as a son) he is born in the tenth month,
And a wife therefore becomes jaya, because he is again born in her:

from this, passing probably through the Śutras, we have the same in Manu IX. 18.

3. Bhāravyam samaparvishāya garbhā bhutvāha jayate Jayayās-taddhi jayatam yad asyaṃ jayate punah.

5. Both Ways.—Ubhayaṁ tē artham, according to the Scholiast, Indra’s wife awaits his return, the Soma libation invites his stay.

Protector.—Bhratar. lit. brother, but here explained poshaka, nourisher.

Page 64.

7. These Sacrificers Are the Bhojas, etc.—The text is merely ime Bhoja angiraso citrpaḥ: the Scholiast explains the former, Kshatriya descendants of Sudos; Saundashah kshatriya, yugam Kurvanah, instituting the sacrifice at which the latter, Medhatithi, and the rest of the race of Angiras, were their Yajukas, or officiating priests.

The Expeller.—Rudra; his sons are the Marutas.

Sacrifice of a Thousand Victims.—Sahasrasane, according to the comment, the ashvamedha.

9. The Generator of the Gods.—Deva-jah is explained by Sayana, the generator of radiances or energies, tejasam janayitri; the compound is not devaja god-born, nor was Vishwamitra of divine parentage: Deva-juta, which follows, is explained taistejajhibhakrishtha, drawn or attracted by these energies.

Arrested the Watery Stream.—Asthakhot sindhum arnavam: he is said to have stopped the current of the confluence of the Vipasa and Shatudri rivulets.

Indra with the Kushikas Was Pleased.—Aprigayuta kushikabhish Indra: Sayana explains this, Kushikagotrotaponnair-rishibhika saha, with the Rishis of the race of Kushika, or it might be rendered, pleased by the Kushikas.

12. Made: Indra Glorified.—Indram atushtaram: the verb is the third proterite of the causal, I have caused to be praised; or if taken in place of the present tense by Vaidik licence, it may be, according to the commentator, I praise Indra, abiding between heaven and earth, i.e., in the firmament.

The verses to this, from verse 9, inclusive, are translated by Professor Roth: Lit. und Gesch. der Veda. 105.

13. The Vishwamitras.—The Bharatas, or descendants of Bharata, are in one sense the descendants of Vishwamitra, Bharata being the son of Shukunala, the daughter of the sage. Maha. Adi P.: the same authority, however, makes Vasishtha the family priest of the Bhurutas, and their restorer to dominion from which they had been expelled by the Panchalas. —Ibid., 3735.

14. The Kikatas. —The Kikatas are said by Sayana, following Yaska, Nir., vi. 32, to be countries inhabited by Anargya, people who do not perform worship, who are miserable, nastikas. Kikata is usually identified with South Bahar, shewing, apparently, that Vaidika Hinduism had not reached the province when this was said; or as Kikata was the fountain-head of Buddhism, it might be asserted that the Buddhists were here alluded to, if it were not wholly incompatible with all received notions of the earlier date of the Vedas.

14. Na tapanti gharmani; Yaska explains the last harnyan, a house; but Sayana calls it a vessel termed Mahavira, used at the rite called Pragrihyam, pragrihyakhyav-karmapasuktam maharimapatram, which the cattle do not warm by yielding their milk to it.

Usurer.—Abhara pramanapandasya vedas; maganda is explained by both scholiasts, kasidin, or usurer, one who says to himself, the money that goes from me will come back doubled, and pra, prefixed, is equivalent to a patronymic.

Low Branches of the Community.—Nichiashakham, that which belongs to a low (nicha) branch, or class (shakha); the posterity born of Shudras and the like.

15. Given by Jamadagni. —Jamadagni-datta, according to Sayana, may mean, given by the Rishis, those who maintain a blazing jomat-jvalat, fire, Agni; a sense confirmed by the use of the plural in the next verse; the daughter of Surga, so given, is said to be speech, or its personification, sak-devata.
MIGHTY SOUNDS.—The sound of thunder or the like in the sky.

FOOD AMONG THE GODS.—As the prayer or exclamation which accompanies the burnt offering.

16. FIVE RACES OF MEN.—Panchajanyam kruhtishu: here, therefore, the five distinctions are restricted to human beings, confirming the Scholastic’s notion that the four castes and barbarians are intended.

DAUGHTER OF THE SUN.—Pakshya, the daughter of Paksha: pakshanirvabahasya, the distributor of the parts (of the year?), that is, suryasya, of the sun.

BESTOWER OF NEW LIFE.—Naayam ayur dadhuna, having new life or food: the Scholastic adds, manu kuruena bhavata.

17. THE HORSES.—Gavaa-pachchhato, iti, gavaa utsharva: gavaa implies, those who go, or, in this place, horses.

CAN BE READY FOR US.—Vishnuamitra, says the commentator, being about to depart from the sacrifices of Sadas, invokes good fortune for his conveyance.

19. KHAYAR AND SISHU.—Khadirasya varam is the text, the essence of the khadira, mimosa catechu, of which the Scholast says the bolt of the axle is made, whilst the Shishapā, Dalbergia-sinu, furnishes wood for the floor: these are still timber-trees in common use.

20. THIS LORD OF THE FOREST.—Yosanapati, that is, here, the timber of which the car is made.

22. The construction is elliptical: the ellipse is supplied by the Scholaster, as the tree is cut down by the axe, so may the enemy be cut down: as one cuts off without difficulty the flower of the Simbala, so may he be destroyed: as the cauldron (akha) when struck (prabhat), and thence leeking (yashant, sravanthi), scatters foam or breath from its mouth, so (dveṣhta madiya, mantrasamarthyna prahatah sun, phenam-mukhad ud giratu) may that hater, struck by the power of my prayer, vomit foam from his mouth.

23. According to Sayana, the passage alludes to a legend of Vishwamitra having been seized and bound by the followers of Vasishtha, when observing a vow of silence these were his reflections on the occasion: disparaging the rivalry of Vasishtha with himself, as if between an axe and a horse: some of the terms are unusual: sayakaṣya, commonly, of an arrow, is explained agreeably to its etymology from so, to destroy, coṣaṇakarnaḥ, of the finisher or destroyer, that is, of Vishwamitra: Lodham nayanti, they lead the sage, deriving lodha from lubdham, destroys that his penance might not be frustrated, tvasah kahayo ma bhud iti, lobbena tushnim, sthitam Rishum pashum manyamana, thinking the Rishi silent through his desire, to be an animal, i.e., stupid. Yaska interprets the phrase in the same manner, Lubdhama rishim nayanti pashum manyamanah, they take away the desiring Rishi, thinking him an animal: in the second half the words are also of unusual application: urasajina vajina hasyanty. Sayana derives vajina from vach, speed, with the suffix, and interprets it urasajina, all-knowing: the contrary, asajina, by murkha, a fool.

24. Sons of Bharata.—The sons of Bharata are the descendants of Vishwamitra whose enmity to the race of Vasishtha is here decidedly expressed: this and the preceding stanzas are regarded as imprecations denounced by Vishwamitra against Vasishtha, with whom he had quarrelled on account of his disciple the Raja Sudas.

The Anukramanikā observes—the last verses of this hymn have the sense of imprecations: they are unmindful to the Vasishthas, and the Vasishthas hear them not; antya obhisah-parthas ta vasishthadweschingah na vasishthah shrinvantah; the commentator on the Index cites this verse of the Brihaddevata in confirmation: shatadh baahyante mridha kirtanena shrutena ca, teham balah pramiyante tattam tas tu na kirtayet, the head is split a hundred times by reciting or listening to them, and his children perish; therefore let not a man repeat them; the commentator on the Nirukta, when he comes to the passage, lodham rishim sayanti, passes it by without animadversion, expressly, because he says the verses are imetical to the Vasishthas, and he is of the race of Vasishtha, of the Kapishthala branch. So Vasishthadveshi rik-aham cha kapishthala Vasishthah, atas tu na nirbravimi: it is not unusual for transcribers to omit these passages altogether, as noticed by Professor Roth, and by Professor Muller: see the various readings of the latter, Rig-Veda, vol. ii. Introduction, p. 56.

2. My Desire Proceeds.—Kamo me ichchan churati, lit. my desire wishing goes, or exists; the Scholiast adds to ichchan, sarvat bhogah, all enjoyments, but this does not make the expression more definite.

5. Abiding Places are Beheld.—As the constellations.

Superior Mysterious Rites.—In the latter case they are made known, it is said, by the Veda.

6. In Community, of Function.—In the interchange of moisture.

7. Heaven and earth are the personifications here alluded to.

Address Each Other by Twin Appellations.—Adu brusti mitumani nama: heaven and earth are designated together by urei and other duplicate terms: uryayuddhini-havanamamabhir, dvayopriethiavacchye.

8. Keep All Born Things Discrete.—Heaven and earth keep all that is born distinct or separate, by furnishing interval or space. avakashapradusena.

Page 68.

9. Protectress and Progenitrix.—Mahah pitur janitar, jami tan nah is explained mahatyah jayapitryah janapitryastwa, of thee, that is, of the heaven; jami is put for jayitum, or bhagunitcam, sisterhood, the condition of a relative or sister; this will not allow of piti and jaytri being rendered father and progenitor, else we have had Dyus; heaven, which is here addressed, characterized by these attributes: see vol. II p. 76, v. 33.

10. Proclaiming (Their Own Acts).—Paprathanah is explained as in the text, swani swani karmani prathayantah.

Page 69.

17. That Beautiful Appellation.—Charu nams may be explained agreeable or acceptable act or devotion, nams karma namanam va, charu, mancharam; by which the Ashwines attained deification, yona devataram pratputha; but in the preceding verse we have the similar phrase, sajatyum charu nams, explained sajate bhavam kamanam, desirable cognate appellation.

18. Keep Us from the Course Unpropitious to Offspring.—Yuyota no anapatyantyagantah; anapatyani is explained putram anahitani karmani tanmargat prithak kuruta.

20. Abiding in Fixed Habitations.—Dhruvakshena-sah, nischalasthanah, those of fixed places: it may be, perhaps, an epithet of the preceding pareatasah.
1. Great and Unequalled is the Might of the Gods.—\textit{Mahad-devam asuratvam ekam} is the burden of this and the following stanzas: \textit{asuratvam} is the abstract from \textit{asura}, explained strong, powerful, \textit{probala}, from \textit{asayati}, who or what throws or impels all things or beings, \textit{asayati}, \textit{kshipati sarvan}; the abstract is \textit{probalyam} or \textit{aishwaryam}, might or sovereignty; \textit{ekam}, one, is explained \textit{mukhyam}, chief.

4. The Universal Sovereign.—\textit{Samana raja} may imply either \textit{Agni} or the \textit{Soma}.

5. Existing in Ancient Plants.—Said either of \textit{Agni} or the sun.

6. Mitra and Varuna.—\textit{Mitra} presiding over the day, \textit{Varuna} over the night, but both being forms of one \textit{Agni}.

12. They Nourish Each Other.—Earth and heaven by the interchange of moisture.

13. Licking the Calf, etc.—This is rather obscurely expressed: the calf is said to be \textit{Agni}; the cow with milk in the sky, whose udder is the cloud, whence the rain of which the earth is in want descends; \textit{Ritarya sa paryu pincate}, is also explained \textit{Jalavirjita prithivy-adhyapodakena viita bhavat} \textit{varshakale}, the earth without water is sprinkled by the water of the sun in the rainy season.

14. The Earth.—The text has \textit{Padya}, which \textit{Soyana} explains \textit{Bhumi}, deriving it from \textit{pad}, or foot, the earth, according to a text of the 10th Mandala, having been created from the feet of the Creator: the 10th Mandala, however, is of questionable authority.

Abides on High.—On the altar.

Year and a Half Old Calf.—Tryuvim, saradharmavat-varawapastra vatsah, a calf a year and a half old; i.e., the sun of that period, or it may apply to the sun, as the protector (aish) of the three (tri) worlds.

The Abode of the Truth.—Ritasya suhman, Sarvat-hutsasyadityasya vatham, the place of the sun, who is one with the truth.

16. The Milch Kine.—Either the regions of space or the clouds.

17. Upon a Different Herd.—Auyasmin yatha, a herd; or troop, of regions, according to Sayana, disham evide.

18. Six or Five.—Sholka yuktah panchapancha vahanti; that is, either the six seasons of the year, or, by combining the cold and dewy seasons, five; these are figuratively Indra’s horses.

20. The Two Vast Receptacles.—Chamun, the two vessels in which gods and men eat, chamanty adanty annayor daramunushyath; this would imply vessels or ladles, but the Scholiast also proposes, the two that are eaten or enjoyed by living beings; that is, heaven and earth.

1. The condition of all created things in earth and heaven, and the elevation of the mountains, are the work of the gods, and no one can make them otherwise.

2. One is Visible.—Heaven and the firmament are not wholly discernible, earth is,
3. The Three-breasted.—That is, as subsequently specified, the year, personified: the number three, repeatedly mentioned, is said to apply to the seasons of the year, reduced from the usual number of six to three, the hot, rainy, and cold, by merging into them, severally, the vernal, autumnal, and dewy.

4. Adityas.—That is, according to the Scholiast, upon the months over which the twelve Adityas preside.

Now give it delight and now depart from it.—During the four months of the year when the rains fall, the rivers are filled; during the other eight they are more or less dried up.

5. Each of the three Lokas has three divisions: this is a piece of information addressed to the rivers, Sindharak being in the vocative case.

The Measurer of the Three Worlds.—The sun of the year.

Three Female Divinities.—The Scholiast says they are Jna, Sarasvati, and Bharati.

6. Riches of Three Elements.—Tridhata vayu, cattle, gold, and gems.

Dishana.—The goddess of speech.

Page 75.

8. Three...Bright Regions.—Heaven, earth, firmament.

Three Scions of the Year.—Agni, Vayu, and Surya, according to Sayana: the text calls them asurasya vira: asvrah is explained kalamas somanta, the year, identical with time: tasya putrah, its sons.

3. The Calf Invested with Many Forms.—The vegetable world, as characterized by rice, barley, wild rice, and the like; evahavanisvarudi-phala-lakshanam, putram, tangam, vatsam im.

Page 76.

1. THE Son OF THE South.—Dakshinayah putrah; that is, Ushasah putrah Surya, the sun, the son of the dawn.

Page 77.

3. STORES OF THE Exhilarating Juices.—Nidhaya madhunam; according to Sayana, nidhi is here a kind of vessel, patravisheshah.

6. YOUR Wealth is in the Family of Jahn.—Yudr durvinah Jahnayam; the latter is derived from Jahn, and is explained merely by Jahnukulajayam, in her born in the race of Jahn: it might imply the Ganges. Jahnvi, if we had reason to suppose the legend of her origin from Jahn was known to the Vedas: of course it was familiar to Sayana.

9. The Appointed Place.—Nishkritam, according to Yaska, Nir., xii. 7, is the place of agreement, nir ityeshah, samityetana sthan: it may be rendered by griha, house.

1. Mitra.—Mitra is said here to signify the sun, he who is measured or appreciated (migate) by all, and who preserves (trayate) the world, by bestowing rain: much the same rendering of the text is given by Yaska, Nir., x. 22.

3. Roaming Free.—Mitajnavah: mitajanuka, with measured knees, literally: which Sayana explains, yatha-kamam soreatram gochchhantah, going everywhere at pleasure.

6. Yajush, ii. 62: Makulhara renders ouah by its more usual sense of protection, not as Sayana, annam, food; and dyanam, which the latter renders by dhanam, wealth, the former makes either fame or food, yasko annam ra: the epithet sanasi, which Sayana makes sarvamh sambhajaniyaum. Mahidhara explains, sanatanam, eternal, upon the authority of Yaska, who includes it, he says, among the synonyms of purana, old: it is not, however, found there, Nigh. iii. 27.

1. Your Connexion.—Vo bandhuta might mean, your affinity or friendship, but the Scholiast explains it, they who connect acts with their fruits, badhnanti phalena karnani.

You have accepted the Share of the Sacrifice.—Yajnivyam bhagam anasha: Sayana here explains the verb as if it were in the second pers. plur. of the reduplicate preterite, yajam vyaptah stha, you have pervaded; the Veda conjugating ash in the Parasnaipada, instead of Atmanepada, as is usual; so in the third stanza we have samanashubh instead of samanashivre: the passage has been cited in a former page, vol. i. p. 49, note on I. 5. 3. 8, and is there somewhat incorrectly translated: in Sukta 161, v. 6, we have yajnivyam bhagam multana explained also prapanu, obtain: see the hymns to the Ribhus in the first volume, I. 5. 3, and second volume, I. 22. 5; also Grammar, 2nd Ed. p 241.

3. Perpetuated.—Dadhavire, as in the former case adharayuta, vol. i. p. 24. v. 8, has no accusative: the Scholiast, as before, supplies pranam, vitality, meaning immoral life, as follows.

They have attained Divinity.—See also vol. i. p. 167, v. 4.

Page 80.

6. Shachi.—Or Shachi may mean karnaum, act, site.
7. Food-bestowing Ribhus.—Ribhubhir vajibhir vajyas, implies a quibble upon the word vajya; which is the name of one of the Ribhus, put for all, but means, in its more usual sense, food.

2. Causiug up to be heard the Sounds of Truth.—
Sanrita sravanti: the phrase has occurred before, vol. 4, p. 175, v. 12, where it is rendered, awakener of pleasant voices, in the sense explained note on 4, p. 326: the dawn exciting or awakening the true or agreeable cries of beasts and birds.

Page 81.

5. The Repository of Sweetness.—Madhulba rather puzzles the Scholiast: madhbu may mean, he says, sweet words of praise, madhvarani stuti lokshanani sakajani, or simply praise; stoma; or, without referring to its etymology, it may be a name of Ushas: dha is that which has or holds.

Lights the Regions.—As in 8, 49, v. 4, of the first Ashtaka, vol. 1, p. 72.

6. Thy Desired Treasure.—That is, the sacrificial fire is kindled at dawn.

7. The Truthful Day.—Ritarya, satyabhitara: it is identified with truth as the season of the performance of religious rites.

Page 82.

3. (Wives of the Gods).—The text has only Varatrik:
the Scholiast explains it sarvahb sabhajana, devapatnajik, to be admired by all; the wives of the gods; which agrees with the specification of the two goddesses that follows.

10. This is the celebrated verse of the Vedas which forms part of the daily devotions of the Brahmins, and was first made known to English readers by Sir W. Jones’ translation of a paraphrastic interpretation; he renders it. Let us adore the supremacy of that divine sun, the godhead, who illuminates all, who recreates all, from whom all proceed, to whom all must return, whom we invoke to direct our understandings aright in our progress towards his holy seat (Works, Svo. vol. xiii, p. 367): the text has merely Tātmāvijñāna suṣrayam bhargavo devasya dhimahi, dhīya yo naḥ prachodayat; the last member may be also rendered, who may animate or enlighten our intellects: the verse occurs in the Yajush, iii. 35, and in the Sasanā, π. 8, 12: both commentators are agreed to understand by Sace, the soul, as one with the soul of the world. Brahma, but various meanings are also given; thus, Sasanā has: we meditate on the light which is one with Brahma, his own light, which, from its consuming influence on ignorance and its consequences, is termed Bhargas, and is that which is desirable, from its being to be known or worshipped by all (saregam) the property of the supreme being, (parameshvara), the creator of the world, and the animator, impeller, or urget (sacāra), through the internally abiding spirit (antaryami) of all creatures: again, yah, although masculine, may, by Nādi, license, be the relative to the neuter noun bhargas that light which animates all (dhīya) acts (karmāṇi), or illuminates all understandings (buddhik); again, devasya savitin may mean, of the bright or radiant sun, as the progenitor of all, sarasmā praśavijñāna, and bhargas may be understood as the sphere or orb of light, the consumer of sins, pṛṣṇam tadākam tejo-mandalam: again, bhargas may be interpreted: food, and the prayer may only implore the sun to provide sustenance, tasya prasadad annadilakśhanam phalam dhimahi, tasya udhurabhuta bhavema, we anticipate from his favour the reward that is characterized by food and the like, that is, may we be supported by him: Mahidhara, in his comment on the same text in the Yajush, notices similar varieties of interpretation.
16. Sprinkle the Worlds with Honey.—Ghrītān gavyutim ukṣhatam, madhva rajanī; gavyuti is explained either gavam margam, or goniyaastrinam, and the prayer implies, according to the Scholiast, give us cows abounding in milk: the verse occurs in the Yajur and Sama-Vedas; the commentator on the former explains Gavyuti either the path or sacrifice, or a field, and, in the latter case, explains ghrītān pure water, sprinkle our pastures with rain: Mr. Stevenson accordingly renders it, irrigate the pasture lands with showers, and refresh with waters the two worlds.

17 and 18. These two last verses occur also in the Sama-Veda ii. 14, 15: as the author of the hymn is Vishvamitra, the Scholiast proposes another interpretation of Jamadagnina, as an epithet of Vishvamitra, he by whom the fire has been kindled: see former note, iii. 4. 15. 15.

FOURTH MANDALA.

1. The emulous Gods, etc.—Samanyasvis dasanib sam nyerere; samanyasah is explained by the Scholiast, spardhasmanah, vieing with.

2. We have in this and the next stanza the same device that has occurred in the 127th (i. 19. 1) and following Sukta of the first Mandala, vol. ii. p. 11, which are written in the same long and complex metre, the repetition at the end of the line of the three or four preceding words: thus we have here, udvam janata prachetasam, viskram udvam janata prachetasam, with the sense partially modified in the repetition, at least according to the Scholiast.
5. DEPRECIATE VARUNA FOR US.—Ayu yakshaḥ voc. Varunaḥ: Sayana explains the verb by vinashya, destroy, and the object is Varuna-kritam, that which has been done by Varuna, as disease inflicted by him, such as dropsy; or the term may imply payam, sin; this and the preceding occur, Yajush, xxi. 3, 4.

7. BIRTHS OF AGNI.—As Agni, Vayu, and Surya, or it may refer to the places of his manifestation, or earth, firmament, and heaven: see Vol. I. p. 143, v. 3.

13. OUR MORTAL FOREFATHERS.—The Angirasas: the purport of this and the next verse is obviously the attribution of the origin of fire-worship of Angiras and his followers.

16. COMPREHENDED THE NAME OF THE KINE.—Te manwato prathamam nama dhenok: according to Sayana, dhenok may mean râch, speech, and with nama, stutisadham sahdo-matram, mere sound as the means of praise; it may also have its ordinary sense, the passage referring to the ancient nomenclature of cattle, as uttered by the Angirasas, as Ehi. surabhi, gugulu, gandhini, etc.

THIRCE SEVEN.—There are twenty-one metres of the Vedas.

19. WITHOUT THE PURIFIED FOOD.—According to the Scholiast, this implies that no offering is made to Agni on the occasion: praise alone is addressed to him.

20. MAY AGNI BE THE ADITI.—May he be the cherisher of the gods as if he were Aditi their mother; or Aditi may mean the earth, that is, their stay or support: Mahishara, on this verse, Yajur-Veda. xxxiii. 16, explains it etymologically; without a defect, satya, labhannam, exist, arise, not mean or base.

Receiving the Sacrificial Food.—Devanum ruh aevinavah, according to Sayana, is participating in the sacrificial food of the worshippers: Mahidhara explains it, delivering the oblations offered to the gods, i.e., through fire.

1. Among the Mortal.—Or among mortal organs of sense, Agni being that of speech: agreeably to the text, Agnis-rag-bhutva mukham pravishat.

3. Thou Passest between the Deities.—Antaryas yushmamsccha deva-ma viska a chu marto, thou passest between, you the gods, and men; you, is specified from Agni’s being a divinity; he goes to men to receive the oblation, and to the gods, of whom he is one, to hear it to them.

5. In Full Assembly.—Sahataan, in the presence of spectators, upadrashtri sabharamayuktah.

6. Sumptuous Recompense.—Swatavana puruha is explained, abhavaan palayitri, wealthy preserver.

8. A Horse with Golden Caparisons.—Ashuro na so dama hanyam, that is, according to the Scholiast, swatavan-nirmita-kakshyam, having a girth made of gold, applying the epithet to the horse, although separated by so dama, in his own house.

11. This passage is elliptically and metaphorically expressed, chittim, achittim, chinavadevi-videva, may the sage (Agni) distinguish that which is to be known. Chittim: jnanam punyam, or virtue, and achittim achetanigam, not to be thought of, or papam, sin; or chittim and achittim may be explained by jnanam and ajnanam, knowledge and ignorance; morta, mortals or men: has no epithets; the Scholiast supplies them: the comparison runs, prithvatra vita virina cha, like backs bright, (kantam) and ill-bearing (durvakam) for the horses and the groom, (ashecapala), we are indebted to Sayana.

Page 90.

15. MAY: WR. ANGIRASAS, BE THE SONS OF HEAVEN.—
Divaspatra angirasu bhavema; or may we, the sons of heaven, be Angirasas; or, according to the Scholiast, bhutamanthah, possessed of superior power: according to a text cited by the Commentator, which, however, is not very explicit, the Angirasas are the sons of Aditya, angirasam adityoparatvam annayate: the text is tanya yd retah prathamam suddipatta tad-asau adityo abhacac, ityakevamy ye angara anusm-to angiras am abhavan, that which was his seed was first maniifested as Aditya, thence, in succession, those which were the sirets became the Angirasas: see vol. i, p. 198, note on 6.

Wealth-containing Mountain—Adriti rujena dhamnam, may allude to the rock in which the cows were hidden, or udri may be rendered cloud (megha), by the disruption of which rain is made to fall.

16. PROCEEDED TO THE REGION OF PURE LIGHT, ETC.—
Suchad ajan didhitin: depton shnam tejas chapechherah; Mahidhara, Yajur, xix. 69. explains this by ravi-mandalam, the orb of the sun, and gives a different interpretation to the last phrases: may we, dividing the rays of the sun, and pier-ing the earth (with sacrificial pots and the like), also proceed by the path of the gods, or to heaven: it is rather a bold interpretation, however, to convert opurna, the third plur.
of the third preterite, into opavanamah, first plur. of the present with the sense of the potential: thus and the three following verses occur in the Atharva-Veda, xviii. 5, 21, 24.
16. Herd of Cattle in a Well-stored Stall.—
Ayuheko kshamati pushavah, akhyat devanam go-janinanti, is, literally, like a herd in food-possessing animals, he has said of the gods that which birth is nigh: jana, Sayana interprets go-sangham, and makes out the rest as above; or he proposes an alternative, not more intelligible: the second half of the stanza is equally obscure as the first:
mortanam chid urushtirakripam erulhe chid arya wparaye ayoh: urushti is rendered by Sayana, prajya, progeny, as if it was the nominative, instead of being the accus. plural; and if so, there is no nom. to akripam, were made able: the word is remarkable, and is made more so by Sayana's reference to Yaska, Nir. v. I. where the word means, as usual, Apsaras; and the etymology is urubhys aubhuta, or urubhyam aubhuta, who pervades or proceeds from the thigh, conformably to the Paunanik legend of her birth from the thigh of Narayana; see also the Vikramavanshi of Kalidasa, which shews the legend to be of some antiquity.

Page 91.

1. Before Sudden Death.—Pura tamayitnao achittat, il. before the unconsciousness of the thunderbolt; implying, according to the Scholiast, a state of unconsciousness, or death as sudden as if the work of the thunderbolt.

6. To Man-destroying Rudra.—Rudrasya nri-gnate, the man-slayer, Rudra; the Scholiast says, of wicked men.

Page 92.

7. To the Extensive Year.—Shroves hrishatya: sharuh, sharat, sanuswarah, or sharu, may mean nriti, the female personification of evil, who, by some unaccountable inadvertence, I have turned, in a former passage, into a male deity; see vol. I. p. 57, verse 6: nirriti does occur, however, in the masculine; as in the scholia on the Taittiriya Yajush, t. 2, 11: nirritir yajnavighati rakshasah, an evil spirit disturbing sacrifice. Cal. Ed. p. 405; and in the comment of Bharatasesa on the word naivriti in the Amarakosha, t. 1, 56, he gives nirriti as synonymous with naivrita; nirritih cah naivrita iti ca, citing the Rattukosha in confirmation, naivritis tu khasaputro rakshaso naivritis-cah, Naivrita, the son of Khasa, a Rakshaso, he is also Naivriti; in the passage of the first Ashtaka adverted to, the epithets are feminine, and the change of sex is unwarranted.

10. THE SUN MILKED, ETC.—Dudhe prishnes-udhas: Prishni here, according to the comment, is a synonyme of Surya.

11. THE SUN WAS MANIFEST AS AGNI WAS ENGENDERED.—Alluding to the early morning sacrifice with fire, probably instituted by the Angirases.

PAGE 93.

16. EVER TO BE RECITED POEMS.—Nimachana (st) Kavyam: stutaram vaikavesi, kavibhik kritami, those which are made by poets ever to be recited.

1. LIKE A KING ATTENDED, ETC.—Rajemmanavan ithena: the latter (itha) may mean fearless, (host understood) gatahayagena, or, as usual, hastina: ama has also different interpretations, a minister, for amatya, or ama, an associate; or sickness, inflicting it on the foe: the verse occurs in the Niruktha, vi. 13, and is explained as in the text; and again in the Yajush, xiii. 9: with, upon the whole, a similar explanation.

FOLLOWING THE SWIFT-MOVING HOST.—Trishnaum amu prasitum drunanah is explained by Sasya, k小时yagmanin prakritihun sanam unugachchham: Yaska puts the two first into the third case, trishye aum prasiti, but does not give any meaning to the latter; the first he explains quick: Sayana also gives the reading, and explains the noun by sanatagas gatya, with extended or continuous march: Mahidhara gives prasiti the import it had in the first part of the verse, a net, a snare: this and the three following verses occur in the Yajush, XIII. 10, 13: the explanation occasionally slightly varies.

3. Direct thy flames against opposing rays.—Prati spashko visrija: spashak is explained by Sayana, parabadhakan rashmir, or he says it may mean charm, spies sent to determine between true and false, sanamrita-virekoutam; so Mahidhara interprets it, pravadihin, but he understands by it hinderers, prisoners, bandhanakritah.

4. Who acts as an enemy.—Aratim chakre may also mean who annuls or prevents our donation, one who makes a gift no gift.

5. Whether kindred or allied.—Janam-ajamin, bandham abandham; or it may mean whether formerly overcome or not: Mahidhara explains it punaruktam apunaruktam, repeated or not repeated; or punah punastaditam ataditam, repeatedly chastised or not chastised.

6. A Brahman coming quickly.—Ivate bhrasman: we have no explanation of the latter except parierudhaya, to the greatly augmented.

Shine upon his dwelling.—Argo vi duro abhidyauns: is also, as Sayana observes, differently rendered by some, he the worshipper especially shines over his house, argo gajamane griham abhi wisheshena dyotate.
8. Good Horses and Good Cars.—This, according to the Scholiast, is metaphorical for, may we, being with sons, grandsons, and the like, worship thee.

13. Preserved the Blind Son, etc.—Allusion is made, according to the commentator, to the well-known filthy legend of the birth of Dirghatamas, who, it is here said by Sayana, recovered his sight by worshipping Agni.

Cherished those Benevolent Rays.—Rurakska tan sukrito vishuvatadas : it is not very clear whether vishuvatadas applies to Agni or to Dirghatamas : Sayana, by inserting bhavan, your honour, adopts the former, but it seems questionable.

3. Filling Both.—Dvibahru, is explained by the Scholiast, dvayor madhyaniottamayoh thyonayoh parividhah.

Who Comprehends, etc.—Sama-suehipadam na yok upagulham vridvam apair mahayam prada rocham manisham : the detached position of several of these words makes the sense somewhat uncertain ; manisham, the Scholiast connects with Sama, and explains it jnatasrayam, what is to be known : upagulham atyantarabhasyan he would seem to attach to padam, but both renderings are perhaps questionable.

5. False in Thought, False in Speech.—Avritah, manavaasatyarbahita ; asatyah, uchikasatyarahitah.

The Deep Abyss of Hell.—Idam padam ajnata gubhiram, they engender this deep station, that is, according to Sayana, narakasthavan.

6. The Seven Elements.—Saptadhatu, the Scholiast says, means seven sorts of animals, agreeably to the text, Sapta gramsyah pashucah saptaranyah, seven tame, seven wild animals.

7. VAISHWANARA.— Vaishwanara is here said to be understood in the sense of the sun, upon the authority of Yaska, or, according to different opinions, the word expresses agni as lightning, or aditya.

ABOVE THE IMMOVEABLE HEAVEN.—Sasanya charman adhi prishuch the Scholiast explains svapata itu nishchalasya dyulokasya upari charanaya, for going above the immovable heaven like the sun.

9. ASSEMBLAGE OF THE GREAT (DEITIES).—Mahamani-kam, the solar orb, according to the Scholiast identified with vaishwanara, suryanandalam vaishwanara.

10. ASSIDUOUS (PERFORMER).—The text has only prayatasya, which the commentator amplifies into aham-yodhirupena nyatasya vaishwanarasya, of vaishwanara active in the form of the aham-asya fire and the rest.

14. LET THEM SUFFER FROM DISTRESS.—That is, if they pretend to worship Agni without the oblation, and other materials of a burnt offering, they cannot expect his favour.

15. SHINES LIKE A MAN WITH OPulence.—Kshiti-raya, like a raja, or the like, with wealth of cattle and treasure, rajaschandana dhanena rajayudini.

1. PREVAILEST OVER ALL THAT IS DESIRABLE.—Vishvan ahbhya manma: the last is interpreted by Sayana, mananitum shatrunam dhanam abhivhavati, thou conquerest the desirable wealth of foes.

4. THREE CIRCUMAMBULATES.—The expression is not very clear, Puravagnistrivishtyoti. Agni goes round, having thrice returned, trir-avritya paryeti or trirhi paryagnih krishate. Agni is thrice made around, which would imply that the fire was thrice circumambulated; the next stanza, however, clearly shows that it is Agni who goes round, either the altar or the victim: Sayana says the latter, parita gauchhatic pakhum.

5. Bright Rays...Fed With, Etc.— Asya rajina na shuka may also be rendered asuna ita diptayo dravantii, his rays spread fast like horses.

7. Whose Parents Need Not Urge.— Na matura pitara un chid ishten, nor mother and father, i.e., heaven and earth, are quickly powerful in urging him: yasna preshane kehyprum eva na prabharatah, is Sayana's interpretation.

Descendants of Manu.— Manushishu rikshu, may mean only human beings.

8. Twice Five Sisters.— The fingers employed in producing fire by attrition.

Like Females Awakening Him at Dawn.— Ushcharudham atkaryo na dantam, striaiva sthahi bhadramanam havishham bhakshakam: there is no verb, unless jijana is borrowed from the first half of the stanza; the meaning of danta may be also questionable.

11. The Prayer Has Been Composed.— Akari Brahna, the prayer or praise has been made: rather unfavourable to the doctrine of the uncreated origin of the Veda.

1. The Rite.— According to Mahidhara, Yajur-Veda, III. 15, the Agni here intended is the Ahamaniya which is kindled before the Dakshina.
APANAVANA AND OTHER BHRIGUS.—Apnavanao bhrigavah: according to Sayana, Apnavanah is the name of a Rishi of the family of Bhrigu: Mahidhara makes it the plur. apnavanah, and other Rishis, and the Bhrigus: he says it may also mean putramantah, having sons, as an epithet of the Bhrigus.

4. MESSENGER OF THE WORSHIPPER.—Dutam vivarwatah: the second is explained manushyangya yajamanangya, of the man, of the worshipper.

THE RESPLENDENT.—Bhrigaovanam-bhrigude-ocharantam, going like Bhrigu, that is, dipyanam-ityartho, shining, or being kindled.

6. LOVED YET UNAPPROACHED.—Vitan-kantam: aavya-tam, dahabhayadasevitaam, bright or beloved, not honoured or served, through fear of being burnt.

SEEKING OBLATIONS FROM ANY QUARTER.—Kuchid arthinam: the first is for kvachit, anywhere, anyhow: seeking fuel, butter, etc., samidajyadhativah smikurantam.

1. Sama-Veda, i. 12.

8. ENTIRELY OBViate THE REMOVABLE ILLS.—Atikshiprena vidhyati, is explained kshepyanvamsamshayatam arhapi duritani atishayena susrayatu, may he entirely destroy the evils which are capable of being destroyed.

1. Sama-Veda, i. 23: Professor Benfey's text reads, Mahan asaya odevayum: Professor Muller has mahanasi ya im-a-devayum.

3. HOTRI AND POTRI.—Two of the sixteen priests are here named: the Hotri is the offerer of the oblation; the function of the Potri doubtful.
4. The Officiating Priest at the Sacrifice.—_Uma gna agnir adhivara:_ the meaning of _gna_ is, usually, _devapati_, a wife of a deity, agreeably to which, one rendering suggested by Sayana is _agnir yaje devapatuir yajati_, Agni worships the wives of the gods at the sacrifice; or, as an alternative, _gna_, as equivalent to _gachchhan_, going, may designate the _adhivarya_, who moves about at the ceremonial.

5. The Director (of the Ceremonial).—_Upanukta_, the priest who pronounces the formulae of sacrifice, or he may be the _Brahma_, or the _Sadasya_, directing what is to be done.

8. The verse occurs in the _Yajush_, ii. 36.

1. _Yajush_, xv. 44: as the text is very elliptical, Mahidhara has a somewhat different explanation: thus, of _aswam na_, like a horse, he says it alludes to the _Ashvamedika_ horse, as the priests celebrate him at the sacrifice: Sayana explains the simile, _Agni_ is the bearer of oblations as a horse is of burthens, _bodharaṃ ashwamiva tatha havishho vahakam_: of the epithet of _somaiv._ or _oahii_, both agree in deriving it from _vaha_, to bear, but one explains it bearing, or causing to acquire, fruit or reward; the other, causing to attain to _Indra_ and the rest, _Indrati-prapakaiv_: _krutum na_, Sayana renders _upakartramivra_, like a benefactor; Mahidhara explains it sacrifice, may we celebrate or augment that thy sacrifice, _Agni_, with praises, etc.: the verse occurs also in _Sama-Veda_, 1. 434, ii. 1127.

3. This and the preceding occur in _Yajur-Veda_, xv. 45 and 46, and _Sama-Veda_, ii. 1128, 1129.

8. In the Sphere of the Gods.—So Sayana explains, _nabhir sadane_; _nabhi_, _bandhanam_, binding or fastening:
devanam sthane, in the place of the gods, and samunnadhan, samsmin gayne, in every sacrifice.

1. BY DAY, BY NIGHT.—That is, oblations are to be offered with fire both morning and evening.

3. THE OFFERINGS (TO THE GODS).—Kavya for kavyanó is explained by Sayana, acts in connection with fire, such as bringing the deities, conveying oblations and the like, or it may mean the functions of the adhvaryu; otherwise it might have been thought to refer to the kavya, or offerings to the Pitris or marcas.

Page 105.

5. WHOSE TONGUE EXHILARATES THEM.—By taking as their mouth the oblation.

The Humiliator of Demons.—Damanāsam has various meanings: rakshasam damanakarana-manasopetam, being intent on destroying the Rakshasas, having a mind for taming, or a tamed or humble mind, a liberal or a domestic mind.

2. Prosperous and Destroying His Enemies, Acquires Riches.—Dosha shivah sahasah sune yan dem a chit sachase swasti: Sayana refers shivah to Agni, as shivakara, making happy, but then there is no antecedent to yan, whom.

3. THE POSSESSOR OF GREAT STRENGTH.—Brikatāḥ ıkhatrīgasya is explained by the Scholiast, mahato balasya.

4. FREE FROM THE DEFECTS OF EARTH.—Aditer anagam is rendered by Sayana, bhumer anagasar, paparhatan: in what sense the sins of earth, or against the earth, is to be understood, must be a matter of conjecture.

Page 106.

5. REWARD OF WHAT HAS BEEN WELL DONE.—Yachchhor tokaya, tanayaya, sam yoh: sam the Scholiast explains by—paparupodravanan shantim, expiation or pacification of violences of the nature of sin, and yoh, sukritotpaitam sukham, happiness produced by what is done well.

1. This is apparently a mere paraphrastic announcement that the dawn having appeared the morning fire is to be lighted.

2. Hasten to Fulfil their Offices.—Yat suryan dive-arohanti the Scholiast explains, yada rashmogah suryasya arohanam karoyanti, when the rays of light cause the ascent of the sun, otherwise the nominative of the verb might be thought to be Mitra, Varuna, and the rest, Mitra being the deity presiding over the day, Varuna over the night.

5. See the preceding hymn.

1. Is brought to our Sacrifice.—Parinigate has, however, a technical import, implying a formal ceremonial, the bringing of the fire taken from the household fire wherewith to light the sacrificial fire, rajju sun being a horse; that is, whom they load as a horse bringing a load; Agni being brought to become the bearer of the oblation, havir rahana.

3. Yajur-Veda, ii. 35, Sama-Veda, i. 30; the commentator on the latter interprets the verb parvyakritam as taking the offerings for conveyance to the gods.

4. Srinjaya.—A certain Somayaji; we have several princes of the name in the Puranas, but none distinguished by this patronymic; the Srinjayas are also a people in the west of India: Vishnu P. 193.

7. I withdrew not.—Achchha na huta udaram is explained, abhimukhena kumarena huta san tvaadhvevalobhah na nirgatavan asmi, being called by the present prince. I did not go forth without receiving the two horses.

1. Spiritless Soma.—Rajishin, poss. from Rajisha, vigatasmrah somah, the Soma of which the essence is gone.

Page 109.

3. The Seven Efficient Rays, etc.—Ajijanat septa karun ahun ahun chic-chakrur vayuna grmanthah is rather obscure; it is explained by the Scholiast as in the text.

4. (Indra).—The Scholiast says Surya, but this can only be as identical with Indra, to whom the hymn is addressed.

9. The Sage.—The text has karim, usually rendered kranta-darshā, the seer of the past; but according to the commentator it is here a synonyme of Kutsa, as in the next stanza.

10. Kutsa.—A Rajarshi, the son, it is here said, of Puru, also a royal saint: frequent mention of the name has occurred, see Index, vols. i and ii, but it is borne by different persons: Kutsa, the author of several Suktas (vol. i. p. 151), being termed the son of Angiras; whilst (ibid. p. 173) we have a Kutsa, son of Arjuna.

10. The Truthful Woman has been perplexed.—After the destruction of the enemies of Kutsa, Indra conveyed him to his palace, where Shachi, the wife of Indra, could not tell which was her husband as they were both exactly alike.

With the Wheel of the Chariot of the Sun.—Vol. ii. p. 21, v. 9, p. 97, v. 4.
13. Mrigayo is said to be the name of an Aśura: Pipru has frequently been named. Vidathin is the name of a Raṣṭa.

Page 111.

Fifty Thousand Kṛṣṇahar:—Vol. I, p. 151, v. 1.: these are here also said to be Rakshasas of a black colour, kṛṣṇavarnani Rakṣanasi: the legend alluded to formerly specified but 10,000: here we have panchashat sahara.

14. Like the Cervine Elephant:—Mrigo na hasti is explained gaja-vishesa, mrīga iea, a sort of elephant like a deer: quere if the Sivatherum existed in the time of this Sukta.

15. The Goddess of Nutrition.—The goddess Lakṣmī.

20. As the Bhrigus fabricate a Car for Use.—Bhrigavo na ratham is all we have in the text: the Scholiast explains the first diptas-takshanah, bright or dexterous carpenters: the object of the comparison is not very obvious, but apparently it intends, that as a wheelwright makes a chariot for a special purpose, so the worshipper performs worship in order to secure Indra’s favour.

21. A New Hymn has been made for Thee.—Ahari Brahmas: the phrase has occurred before.

4. Heaven, thy Progenitor, etc.—Suvrata te jānīta manugata dyau: the commentator renders dyau by dyotamaṇa, and considers jānīta to imply Prājapati.

Page 114.

12. His Progenitor.—Prājapati, again, according to the Scholiast.

As the Wind is Driven by Thundering Clouds.—The simile is, however, applied to Indra by the Scholiast in another sense: as the wind is impelled by thunder-clouds, so Indra is influenced by the hymns of the worshippers.

14. STOPPED ETESA, ETC.—See vol. i, 11. 4. 15. vol. ii, p. 21, v. 9, p. 97, v. 4.

IN THE REGIONS OF ITS WATERS.—In the antariksha, or firmament.

15. Asiknyam yajaman no hota: the commentator considers hota as put for hotaram, the nom. for the accus., and explains it: the invoker, Agni, ahavataram agnim: he supplies also the copulative, sanchuti somam, he sprinkles the Soma: the stanza consists but of one pada, and is considered to refer to the preceding one.

21. The same as the last verse of the preceding Sūkta.

SŪKTA 8.—According to the legend recited by Sayana, the Rishi, Vasudeva, whilst yet in the womb, was reluctant to be born in the usual manner, and resolved to come into the world through his mother’s side: aware of his purpose, the mother prayed to Aditi, who thereupon came, with her son Indra, to expostulate with the Rishi: this is the subject of the Sūkta: the interesting part of this absurd story is its accordance with the birth of Shakya, according to the Buddhists, who may possibly have borrowed the notion from the Veda.

3. INDRA DRANK THE COSTLY SOMA.—Here, Sayana observes, Vasudeva vindicates his own willfulness by the example of Indra, who came to Twashtri’s house uninvited, and, by force, drank the Soma prepared for other gods.

4. THERE IS NO ANALOGY, ETC.—Aditi defends her son upon the plea that, as his period of gestation was marvellous, his actions are not to be compared with those of any others.
5. In Secret.—In the privacy of the lying-in chamber, unworthy of so great a divinity.

6. Ask them what is this they say.—That is, they are proclaiming the greatness of Indra, by which, and not by their own efforts, they have been extricated from the cloud.

7. What do the Sacred Strains Declare.—Kiswahvid asmai nibido bhananti; the Nivids are certain verses repeated at some sacrifices to Indra and the Moruts in their honour, and are tantamount to an acquittal of the charge imputed to Indra, and here anticipated by Aditi of brahmanicide. Vrita being a Brahman; the crime was transferred to the waters in the shape of foam; these explanations are rather, perhaps, derived from the Pauranik developments of the original legends, imperfectly handed down.

8 AND ff.—The rest of the Sukta is by the Rishi in praise of Indra.

9. Kushava.—The commentator says a Rakshasi, whom Indra, although at first swallowed by her, drove out of the lying-in chamber.

9. Vyansa.—The name of a Rakshasa who also attempted to destroy the infant Indra.

12. Since thou hast slain the Father.—Yat praksheinah pitaram padagrihya; the particulars of this incident are not related by Sayana, who contents himself with saying the allusions are variously explained by Taittiriyakas—Taittiruya Sanhita, vi. i. iii. 6.

13. In Extreme Destitution, etc.—So Manu has, Vanadewa, who well knew right and wrong, was by no means rendered impure, though desirous, when oppressed with hunger, of eating the flesh of dogs for the preservation of his life. x. 106: ichchhan attam, wishing to eat, might be considered equivocal, but the text here states shuno antrani pehe. I cooked the entrails of a dog.

The Falcon.—That is, swift as a hawk, shyena-vat shygragamindrah.

3. On the Day of the Full Moon.—Aparima is the phrase of the text, explained pournamangam.

6. Turviti and Vayya.—See vol. i, p. 82, v. 6, p. 92, v. 11.

7. He has milked the Barren Cows.—Adhok staryo danasupatnih, that is, he has removed the barrenness occasioned by the grief of their separation by rescuing the cattle carried off by the Pani.

9. Agru.—The commentator has only a certain female, Agru nama kachit.

Where He was Being Devoured by the Ant.—Vamribhir-adana, upajihvikahhir-adyananam: Sayana evidently understands by upajihvika, the white ant, as he explains, niveshanat, valmikahyhat sthanat: valmika is the familiar term for a hillock thrown up by the insect.

The Serpent.—Ahim, explained sarpa: the presence of a snake in an ant-hill is still a popular notion.

The Joints were Restrung.—The phraseology is partly doubtful: ukhochhit samaranata para, Sayana interprets it valmikahyaya ukhayas chhedakani parauni samagacchbanta, the joints which had been relaxed or corroded by the insects of the ukha, or ant-hill, were re-united by Indra.

11. See p. 115.
2. Yajur-Veda, xx, 48, 49: in the first, Mahidhara supplies balabhah instead of marudabhah as the subst. to ejishthabhah; and in the second renders yajdsatou for the sake of bestowing food.

Page 120.

4. With the Noon-Day Hymn.—Samartham mamadah prishthya: prishtham is termed the madhyandinasatam udgatrihirdayamanam stotram.

Page 121.

1. Along with us.—Mahidhara, Yajur-Veda, xx, 47, says, with the gods, deva bhuh: soyana has asambhah saha.

Like the Radiant Sun.—Dyaur na kshatram abhidhuti pushyat: Mahidhara connects the simile with what precedes, whose many exploits (are celebrated) like the heaven: he refers, also, kshatram to the sacrificer, may be, (Indra), cherish (our) strength.

2. The Powerful Leaders.—Prishnypant arin, balabhuta sarin, that is, the Maruta.

5. Utters a Voice Enjoining Men to Worship.—Vacham janayan yajadhyayi: the speech of Indra is the thunder, the effect of which is to induce the paece deorum cultor et infrequens, whether Roman or Hindu, retrosum vela dare.

Page 122.

6. Of the Worshpper.—Aushijasya, from ubhy, a priest, one who employs priests.

Indra.—Adri is the name in the text, a name, it is said, of Indra, from dri to divide, to tear, as foes.

7. The Protector of the World.—Bharata is explained as the patronymic of Bharata, which means jagat-bharta, the protector of the world, or Prajapati.
In the Secret Thoughts.—The text has only guha pru, which Sayana expands into guharupa-bridaye prabhavati: it, that is, the strength, balam, of Indra, prevails or presides over the heart, in the nature of secrecy or mystery.

7. This verse is somewhat obscurely expressed: the purport, according to the Scholiast, is, that the might of Indra always protects his worshipper. Indraya balam sarvada yajamanam palayati.

8. He finds it in the Haunt of Gaura and Gavaya,—Vidat gaurasya gavayasya gohe: vidat here has no government, and gohe for griha, a dwelling, is a strange term as applicable to the Gaura and Gavaya which Sayana says, are two species of mriga, a deer, or any wild animal; but they are in fact two kinds of wild cattle. Bos-gavans, or Gavans-frontalis, and Bibos gaurus, or B. cavifrons, confounding the latter also with the Bibos asil of Silhet: the purport of the expression, according to the Scholiast, is, that Indra obtains these two animals tua dhanu pashu labhate, either for himself as sacrificial flesh, or for his worshippers, some of whom, at least, even now, would not object to eat the flesh of the wild oxen.

10. Bestows Riches on Man.—Varisah purave kah, manushya dhanam karoti: it might be thought to refer to a descendant of Puru, but the first vowel of Puru is short.

1. Food, Hymn, Soma and Prayers.—Alluding to the four-fold forms of offering worship, Brahma, Stoma, Soma, and Uktha: the first is said to be the cakes steeped in butter and the like offerings or oblations; the second, the praise that is recited aloud; the third, the libation of the Soma juice; and the fourth, the praise or prayer that is repeated silently or in a lower tone, not chanted or sung.
2. THE INVESTING PARUSHNI—Utrams parushind is explained achadikam parvattim nadim, the river having joints or bends covering—the comment does not say what.

Whose Bordering Districts he has frequented—The phraseology here is somewhat obscure, and the Scholiast does not materially enlighten us: the text is, yasyah parisahi sukhyaya sva. ii., whose joints through friendship he has approached; Sayana explains it, yasyah nudyah bhimsan desha sukhikarmane samaritas, the separate districts of which river he has, for the sake of friendly acts, covered or concealed.

8. The phraseology is very obscure in some parts: shami shashamanasya shuktih is explained by Sayana. shamanam stutakah stuti-karma, but what this means, especially in connection with what follows: asmadryak shushuchanasya yamya, it is difficult to say.

PAGE 126.

7. RESOLVING TO KILL, ETC.—Jighanaas-druham dhunvaram, anindram: the last of the three epithets determines the gender of the party, but we have no other else: the Scholiast supplies Rakssakasim: who she may be is nowhere intimated; but from what follows it may be thought to mean death, the debt of nature, the payment of what Indra’s favour delays by prolonging life: but this is mere conjecture: the comment is of no avail.

8. RITA.—Rita ordinarily means sacrifice, or truth, or water: here it may apply, according to Sayana, to Indra, or to Aditya, or to the three former personified as divinities; the following stanzas are a succession of changes on the word.

9. The King entered into the Sacrifice.—As presents made to the officiating priests; or the phrase may mean also, the rays of light have entered into the water, gava ritam aviveshuh, rashnaya udakam aviveshuh.

10. Desirous of Possessing Water.—Ritavya shu-shnman-turya-u-gavayuh: is rather enigmatic; the Scholiast explains it as in the text; shushno, balam, turayasa turnan-gavayuh-u-charthē; jalakamascha bhavati.

3. Inflictions of Austerity upon their Persons.—Ririkwanas-tanaah, are explained by Saguna, snakiyani sharirani tapasa rechayanto yujamanah, worshippers emaciating their own bodies by penance; if correctly interpreted, therefore, we have the ascetic penances of the Hindus, recognized by the text of the Veda.

8. When the Lord is Engaged in the Long Battle.—Dirgham yad ajin abhyakhyad arya: Saguna explains arya by swami, lord, that is, Indra; and Patni, in the following passage, he says, is Indra's wife; but it would be more consistent with the concluding passage to render arya as the name of the orthodox Hindu, in whose behalf his wife propitiates Indra.

9. A Man has Realized, Etc.—The text is bhugusa vasnam acharat kanyas: lit., by much a man acquires a little, wealth or value; kaschid panyena dravyena alpataram mulyam praptotiti: the kaschit must be understood, therefore.
of the vendor, which is consistent with what follows in this and the next verse: the meaning of this and the following verse is thus explained, according to Sayana, by ancient acharyas, skilled in religious doctrines: one (a vendor) who takes a small price for valuable goods, comes afterwards to the buyer, and says, this has not been sold by me, and, so saying, he requires the balance of the price; but he, the vendor, does not recover the full price, nor does he get back the article: according to the bargain between them it may not be otherwise: the sale has taken place, and if the bargain has been kept, then it has only to be considered that such is the object of the price, and that is the conclusion: a bargain has been made, and the (stipulated) price given: therefore, in the first place, an agreement is to be made by me; so reflecting, Vamadeva, having by much praise got Indra into his possession or subjugation, purposes to make a bargain when about to dispose of him, as in verse 10.

3. LIGHT.—Jyotir; but the commentator explains it water; Jyotir udakam.

And long behold the rising Sun.—That is, may the sacred fire long be kindled in the house of the sacrificer at the hour of sunrise.

Page 130.

1. This and the two following verses are attributed either to Indra or to Vamadeva; in the latter case it is said the sage uttered them while yet in the womb, knowledge of truth being generated in him, and enabling him to identify himself with universal existence: through the eye of supreme truth I am everything, paramarthadrishtya kritvam aham asmityarthaḥ: we have here, therefore, the basis of the pantheistic Vedanta.

2. To the Venerable Manu.—The text has only aryaya, the Scholiast supplies Manava.

4. With A Wheelless Car.—Achakraya vadhaya is explained, chakrarahitena rathena, with a car without wheels: the text has kanyam, but the Scholiast says this is a metonymy for the Soma, which, as we have before seen, (note on III. 4, 5, 7), is said to have been brought from heaven by the Gayatri, in the form of a hawk; according to Sāgana we are to understand here by the hawk the Supreme Spirit, Paramātman, but this seems to be the notion of a later day.

1. But as a Hawk I came forth with Speed.—That is, according to the Scholiast, until the sage comprehended the difference between the body and soul, and learned that soul was unconfined, he was subject to repeated births; but in this stage he acquired divine knowledge, and burst through his bonds with the force and celerity of a hawk from its nest; as the Nitimajjari says, Vamadeva shyenarupam asthaya garbhad-yogena vihritah, Vamadeva, having assumed the form of a hawk, came forth from the womb by the power of Yoga.

2. The Impeller of All.—The Paramātman, or Supreme Spirit.

Beyond the Winds.—The vital sīra, or life, the cause of worldly existence, which is pain.

3. The Aitareya Brahmana, as above mentioned, narrates this incident in the same manner.
4. Antah-parnam, tan-madhye sthitam: the Brahmana says, as we have seen, one nail of the left-foot, but the shaft was broken by the collision; the fragments of the nail became the quills of the fretful porcupine, those of the arrow, water-snakes, flying foxes, and worms.

2. The everywhere-going Wheel, etc.—Maha druko, prabhutasya droghih, of the very mighty oppressor or tyrant, alluding probably to his heat.

3. Before the Noon.—Puru madhyandina: in the forenoon, when the Soma is drunk, and thence Indra and Agni have been invigorated.

As Robbers are the Destroyers of those, etc.—The text has only durge dureme kratva na yata, as of those gone on account of business in a difficult place: where protection is difficult, Savya supplies, from robbers.

4. Thou hast made the Servile Races object.—Visno dasir-akrinoraprasastah: dasi as the adjective of visah, prajah, people, men, is explained, karmahinah having no special or religiously instituted rites or functions, which is not incompatible with the literal purport, slave, or servile: aprashastah is rendered garhitah, reviled, vile: the expression is important as marking the existence of low and servile classes.

3. The Holy Places.—Sutirtha, shobhanani tirthan; the phrase would imply that there were places of pilgrimage at this period.

5. The phraseology is rather doubtful, brahamariva raya akayasya dhanam parukshah, which is explained, mahaddipter asamantat stutyasya bahvanamya dhanaeqa dane nimitte bhojanasas-tvam bhojanana bhavena; may we be enjoying thes for the sake of the gift of wealth of much food, every way commendable and very brilliant.

Page 134.

1. Superior to thee, more excellent than thou.—Sama-Veda, t. 203: Benfey’s text reads uttaram and jyayas in the neuter; instead of uttaro and jyanam in the masculine, as in the Rik.

4. Thou hast stolen.—The text has mukhaya suryam, thou hast stolen the sun, but this is explained by Sayana by the more usual legend.

8. The Daughter of the Sky.—The dawn, extinguished by the ascendancy of Indra throughout the day.

12. The Swollen Sindhu when Arrested.—Sindhun vibalyum vistathnam; vistubalyavastham, whose youth was passed, i.e., who was full of water; sampurnajnam, and vistishthamanam, stopping or being stopped.

17. Borne across when denied Inauguration.—Aparagat, he enabled to cross; according to the Scholiast, he made them worthy to be inaugurated, or crowned, which they were not at first, as the text implies, by asmatvau, not bathers; alluding to their exclusion from the succession in favour of the youngest son Puru by their father Yayati; see Vishnu Purana, p. 1.

18. Those t...kayas.—The Scholiast renders aryat-aryabhimanau; aryatvabhimaninam, presuming on their dignity as aryas, and being without any faith or devotion
19. Blind and Lame.—We have here another, and somewhat contradictory statement from that of a former passage, when the blindness and lameness were attributed to one person, Purânavîj, Vol. II, 142, verse 12, and note: here we have not only the dual, jahita for jahitau, but also dual for dual, the two, which agrees better with the still earlier allusion to the same defects in two different individuals: Vol. I, 170, verse 8, and note.

20. Stone-built Cities.—Ashmanmayinam puram: whether the notion of masonry be confined to the walls, or extended to the dwellings, it indicates familiarity with something more substantial than mud hovels.

24. The text has samam pusha samam bhayo samam devah karulati; the triple repetition of sama, vananipram, dhanam, would seem to separate not only Bhaya, but Karulati from Pushan, but if the last be rightly rendered by krittadanta or adanta, the broken-toothed, or toothless, it applies to Pushan: the attribute has not occurred before, though the Scholiast quotes the Veda for it. Pusha prapishthah sugodanta hityadi shrutishu; according to the Puranas, Pushan had his teeth knocked out by Virabhadra’s followers at Daksha’s sacrifice: Vishnu Pur. 67, note 6.

1. This seems to be a popular stanza; it occurs twice in the Sama-Veda, I, 169, 232; once in the Yajush, 27, 29, and once in the Atharvam, XX, 124, 1.

2 and 3.—The same may be said of these two stanzas: they both occur in the other three Vedas, Sama-Veda, n. 33, 34; Yajur-Veda, 27, 40, 41; Atharva-Veda, 122, 2, 3.

1. Come to us quickly.—Amnakam ardhâma, amnakam samipam, near to us: Mahîshâra explains arðha, dwelling-place, nivasa desham, or hall of worship, dem-yajana-desham; it is properly, a hall, whence Benfey renders it sita, but this is merely inferential, like the interpretations of Mahidhara. Soma-Veda, r. 181, Yajur-Veda, 33, 63.

17. JARS.—Khari, a certain measure; by metonymy, a jar or ewer, drona-kalasha, holding such a quantity; in modern use it is the name of a grain measure, equal to sixteen dornas, or about three bushels.

22. Not regardless of thy Worshippers.—He napat na patayitah, stotrin avinaashayitah, kintu patayitar, ityarthah; oh thou, not casting down, not injuring or destroying, those who praise, that is, cherishing them.

23. Kaniṅakam vidradhe nave drupade arbhake; nave and arbhake have their usual meanings, new, small; kaniṅakam is explained by skalabhanjike, dolls or puppets; vidradhe by nyudhe, arrayed, or arranged; and drupade by drumakhyāsthane sthitv, standing on a place fixed, termed either a tree, or from a tree, a plank or platform, probably, answering to a stage on which puppets were exhibited.

SUKTA—THE RHIBUR.—See vol. 1. 5. 5.

1. Were borne quickly, etc.—As applicable to the deified mortals, it alludes to their being transported to the sphere of the gods: if the rays of the sun are to be understood, it implies merely their dispersion through the sky.

Page 141.

7. See vol. II, p. 66, v. 11.

11. Wearyed out by Penance.—Rite shrantuṣya saṁhitayā is the phrase of the text: Sayana says, no saṁhitayā bhavanti devah, the gods are not through friendship, shruntat tapo-yuktat rite, except one wearied by penance, which would seem to apply to the worshipper; but again he says, etc shruntat uto dadau, they, wearied out, therefore gave.

Page 142.

1. The Divine Word has desired the Drinking.—
Drishana deni: in the Aitareya Brahmana it is said, Prajapati said to Saciiri, these are thy fellow-students; do thou drink with them.

2. Precious of your Celestial Birth.—Vidana janmanah is explained, janmanasya devatun-lokshanasya, devatun-priptim janantuh, knowing the attainment of dedication.

Page 143.

7. Sympathizing.—It is not easy to find an equivalent for Saishabha, although the sense is obvious enough: sajsaha Indra Varuna somam pahi, is, literally, Indra, who are copleased with Varuna, drink the libation; implying that they both derive the like satisfaction from the beverage which they imbibe together.

7. The Rites.—Ritupala is explained, ritupadesa: the deities to whom the Rito sacrifice is dedicated.

The Wives of the Gods.—Gnaspatinabhih; gna is usually rendered the wives of the gods; the compound is here explained strinam-pala-yitryah, the female protectors of women:
it may imply the goddesses, but there is no authority for such an interpretation.

8. With the Parvatas.—Paretebhhih, parvamadbhih, parvanyarchyananair-devanishchah; a sort of deities to be worshipped at the Pareas, certain periods of the month, as the new and full moon, etc.
9. Accomplished Acts productive of Good Results.—Swapatanyā cakrasya: according to the Scholiast, svapatana-mulhami karmani, acts, the means of accomplishing their good offspring or consequences: according to Sayana, also the relative yē refers to the antecedent in the next verse, te agrapat, they the first drinkers, the Soma being first offered at the evening sacrifice to the Ribhus.

1. After the Munificent Indra.—Indram anu, Indram anusritya or anuyamantu: having followed, or may they come after, Indra; or it would be more consistent to render it, may they come after (you) to Indra, etc., see the preceding note.

9. With Numerous Adherents.—Shravo-virovat might be rendered food-comprehending-offspring, but as proya has been already specified, the Scholiast interprets viravat, viros habens, by bhṛtyadibhiruptam, endowed with dependants.

1. Ribhus.—The text has Ribhukṣah which is properly the nom. sing. of Ribhukṣin, a name of Indra: here Sayana identifies it with Ribhavat, the plur. nom. of Ribhu; in some of the following verses of this hymn the word appears as Ribhukṣanah, the nom. or voc. plural of Ribhukṣin substituting optionally, the short for the long vowel in the antepenultimate, Ribhukṣanah for Ribhukṣanah; see Sanskrit Gr., 2nd. edit., p. 460.

3. I offer you, etc.—Juhe manushakat uparasu vikshu yushme sacho bhikadhiveshu somam: the meaning is not very clear: upaśra is explained, those who are pleased or sport near the worship of the gods, devayajana-samipe ramantah; tasu vikshu-prajasu, in or among such people:
brihaddevyeshu, Sayana considers an epithet of deveshu understood.

4. Possessed of Treasures.—Vajinah, the possessors either of horses or food, is here used somewhat irregularly for Vaje: ayakshipra, according to the commentator, means as hard or strong as iron, ayovat, sarabhisshipra: sunishkah having good nishkas, a certain weight of gold, if not a coin.

Sons of Indra, Grandsons of Strength.—The text has here the nouns in the singular, son of Indra, son or grandson of strength, and inconsistently follows with rahocos, you, in the plural.

This Last Sacrifice.—Ityagriyam, agra bhavam, would mean the first, the preceding, but Sayana explains it, tritiyam sanram, which is most consistent with the worship of the Ribhus.

5. Splendid Wealth, etc.—Such are the explanations of the epithets given to rajas, wealth, ribhum, yajam, vajitamam, indravantam, indanatamam, ashwanam, explained as in the text.

6. A Horse at the Sacrifice.—Medhasato so aravato: perhaps a horse fit for the ashwamedha is implied.

1. Heaven and Earth.—They are not named in the text, but the dual pron. cos, of you two, is supposed to imply them.

You Two have given a Horse a Son.—So Sayana explains the kshetram and urvarasam of the text, deriving them from kshetra, land, urvaras, fertile soil, and son, to give: why these should signify ashva and putra is not very obvious.

2. Dadhikra.—Dadhikra, or may also read, Dadhiktravan, is given in the Nyayasastra of Yaska amongst the synonyms.
of ashwa, a horse: the form is noted in Panini, iii. 2, 67; according to Mahidhara on Rick 6, of Suka vii, Yajush, 23, 32: the etymology is dadhi, who bears, who carries his rider, and krama, to go: according to the Aitareya Brahmana, iii. 15. 5, Agni, in the form of a horse, destroyed the Asuras by the desire of Bharadwaja.

4. PUTS TO SHAME THE ADVERSARY OF THE PIous MAN. —Vidatha nichikyat tiro aratim paryapta ayoh, is explained jnatavani janam, aramanam, arim va, tirsakrodi stotramanushyasya, knowing things cognizable, who disgraces the opponent, or the foe of the man, the praiser.

5. THEY CALL AFTER HIM HASTENING. ETC.—Shravasacha-achchha pashumad cha yatham, is explained annam kirttim va pashumad yatham cha aChechcha abhilakshya puchchhantam nam anukroshanti, they call after him, that is Dadhikra, going, having in view either food or fame, or a herd consisting of cattle: Sayana rests his interpretation on that of Yaska, Nis. iv. 24: perhaps the anukroshanti should be again supplied as applicable to the pashumad-yatham.

3. ADITI.—Aditi is considered by Sayana as an appellative, akhandaniya, the indivisible or infrangible, that is, Dadhikra.

4. OF THOSE WHO PRAISE HIM.—The text has marutam nama bhadram: Sayana explains marutam by stotrinam, of the praisers.

6. MAY HE MAKE OUR MOUTHS FRAGRANT.—The mouth having been defiled by the use of inelegant language, according to Mahidhara: the verse occurs in the Sama-Veda, i. 358; Yajush 23, 32; and Atharvan, xx, 127, 3: according to the commentator on the Yajush, it is to be recited at the ashirasmedha when the priests bring the queen away from the horse.

3. AND AFTER HIM WHO IS, ETC.—This is a very elliptical passage: asya dravatas-turanyataheparnam na ver-anusat pragardhinah, lit. of him running, quick-going, as after the flight of a bird, go they eager: the Scholiast supplies the ellipse, and as the verb anuyati is in the singular, he supplies a nominative, sarvah janah, every man.

AS SWIFT AS A HAWK.—Shyenasyena dhrajato ankasampuri Dadhikravah sahorja taritvah, literally, as of a hawk quick-going with respect to the insertion of the foot or to the breast, ankasam-padadharam utah-pradesham va of Dadhikravan, together with strength, or for the sake of strength, together, enabling to cross: it is not easy to make any sense of this even with the help of the Scholiast, although there is nothing very difficult in the words: Mahidhara, Yajush, 9. 15, explains ankasam pari, a horse's trappings, the cloth, chaunri tail, etc., vastrachamudrikam, over all his body, which fly open as the horse gallops, like the wings of a bird, whilst the horse himself has the speed of the hawk.

5. This stanza is known as the Hansavati Rich, and occurs twice in the Yajush, 10. 24, and 12. 14, as well as in the Aitareya Brahmana, iv. 20. 1; and although the commentators vary a little in their interpretation of the individual terms, they agree as to the purport of the whole, the identification of Aditya, or the sun in the type Dadhikra with Parabrahma, or the universal deity, and consequently his identity with all the other types of the supreme being; these terms are thus specified,—1. Hansa, from hnam to go, he who goes eternally to destroy, who destroys individually, or it is resolvable into aham, I, and sa, he, that is, I am that, the supreme: 2. Vasu, the appointer of the stations of all creatures, or all men, or that which abides (casati) at all times, sarvada: 3. Hatu, or sacrificer: and 4. Atthi, or guest, meaning in both cases Agni, or fire, first as the sacrificial, and secondly as culinary, fire: 5. Nrishat the dweller among men, is explained Chaitanya, consciousness, or Prama, vitality; or, according to Sayana in the scholia on the Brahmana, sight, or the eye, according to the text “the sun, becoming the eye (of the world), entered into the two eyes (of man)”; 6. Varasad is uniformly rendered the dweller in the most excellent station, that is, the solar orb: 7. Ritasad is he who is present in truth, or in water, or in sacrifice; the comment on the Brahmana interprets truth, the text of the Veda, vedavahya</>: 8. Vyomasad, the dweller in the sky, has its literal meaning everywhere; only Sayana makes it out to be the wind: 9. Abjah, who is born in the midst of the water, as, according to another text, udaka-mudhye khalvayam jayate, Mahidhara says, in the form of a fish, etc.: the Brahmana intimates that this refers to the apparent rising of the sun from the ocean and setting in the same: 10. Gojah, born amidst, gshu, says: Mahidhara says, gari, prithivya, in the earth, being identical with the elements: 11. Ritajah, born of truth, from being visible by all, not invisible like Indra and the rest, is Sayana’s explanation in this place; in his scholia on the Brahmana he interprets it, born from the mantras of the Vedas: 11. Adrija, mountain born, that is, in the eastern mountain, where he rises: Mahidhara says, born in stone in the form of Agni, as if alluding to flint; or adri, having for one meaning a cloud, he may be said to be generated in the clouds in the form of rain: finally he is Ritam, truth, that is, according to Sayana, in both his comments, sound truth; or Parabrahma, as by another text, "Satyam jnanam anantam Brahma," truth, wisdom, infinitude, Brahma; and as he explains it in this text, abadhyam savrdshishthanam Brahma tattvam, the indefeasible, all-regulating principle, Brahma: so in his gloss on the Brahmana, truth, he says, is of two kinds, vyavaharikam, truth in speech and worldly dealings, and paramarthikam, or Parabrahma, the supreme universal spirit: he notices, also, the reading of another Shakha or Ritam brihat, which is followed in the Yajush, and is explained by Mahidhara, the all-pervading, the infinite suryagatam aparagatam, that is, Parabrahmarupa; Aditya in the form of Parabrahma.

1. Indra ko tum Varuna: the single names of the two deities being put in the dual form, implies the nomination of both.

6. Be around us.—Paritakmayyi: it is rendered paritakane, which is not more intelligible: paritakma occurs also in the sense of night, in which case it may mean, may Indra and Varuna protect us in the night against evil spirits.

Long Life.—Suvo drishike is the text, which is interpreted suryasya chirasaktadarsahanaya, for the sight of the sun for a long time, i.e., chirasaktanaya, for long life.

8. Longing for you.—Yuvayuh is explained, yuum kumayamanah.

Approach the soma for its advantage.—Siive na gama upa somam asthuk, alluding to the mixture of milk and curds with the Soma libation, dadhyadishrayanaya.

9. As dependants attend upon an opulent man.—Joshtara iea casco, sevaka dhincham evaminam: as servants upon a rich master, or as derived from jush, to please, joshtarah may be rendered flatterers, parasites.
LIKE HUMBLE FEMALES.—Raghvir-iva shravaso bhikshamanah; raghvir-iva lagheya-iva, like light or trivial: there is no substantive, but the appallative is feminine.

10. MAY WE OF OUR OWN BE, ETC.—Taman patayah syana: that is, according to the Scholiast, without any effort or labour, aprayatnena.

Page 153.

1. TOWFOLD IS MY EMPIRE, ETC.—Mama dwita rashtram kshatriyasya vishayakah: here, therefore, we have a positive indication of the military and regal order.

ALL THE IMMORTALS ARE OURS.—Vishnu amrita yatha sah: therefore he is king also over Swarga.

THE GODS ASSOCIATE ME WITH THE ACTS OF VARUNA.—Kratum sachante Varunasya devah, rajam krishter-upamasya savrak: except the last word, which the Scholiast renders rupa, form, there is nothing unusual in the terms; but even with the explanations attempted by Sayana, the purport of the sentence is quite unintelligible, beyond its being probably the identity of Varuna and Trasadasyu, as asserted in the next verse.

4. AS THE ABODE OF THE WATER.—Sadane ritasya may also imply, for the place or sphere of the sun, the word rita being used here and in the following passages either for udaka or aditya.

ILLUSTRATING THE THREE-FOLD ELEMENTARY SPACE.—That is, according to Sayana, for me the creator has made the three worlds, madaartham eva kshityadilokatrauyam akarshit parameshwaram.

Page 154.

8. TRASADASYU.—Purukutsa, son of Durgaha, being a prisoner, it is not said on what occasion, his queen propitiated the seven Rishis to obtain a son who might take his father's place; they advised her to worship Indra and Varuna, in consequence of which Trasadasyu was born.

9. Dwelling Near the Gods.—Ardhadevam is explained: devanam samepe vartamanum; or we might render it, demi-god, though such an appellation would not apply to Indra, to whom Trasadasyu is compared; on the contrary, Indra is declared to be one half of all the gods, and therefore entitled to the largest share of offerings, yat sarvesham ardham Indrah prati tasmad Indro devanam bhnyishthabhattanah.

10. Frer From Any Imperfection.—Anaprasphurantim ahinsam, unharmed, according to Sayana: Mahidhara, Yajur-Veda, 7. 10, explains it, not going to another, amasyagaminam.

3. By Which of Your Acts Are You Most Distinguished.—Kaya shachinam bhavathah shachishta; shachinam yushmat sambandhinam karnanam shaktinam ca, acts or energies connected with you.

6. The Flowing (Stream).—Sindhu: but it may here mean either water in general, or a cloud.

1. Associate of the Solar Ray.—Sangutim goh, is only explained, goh sangamayitaram, the bringer into union, or associate of Go: what the latter is intended for is not explained, and the translation is purely conjectural, founded upon the connection of the Ashwins with light, or the sun.

2. Powerful Horse.—Kakuhanas, is explained mahanto ashvakah, or it may be praises, stutayah.

6. For Us Both.—The two Rishis, the authors of the Sukta.
1. Three Analogous Kinds of Food.—Prikshasā mitunā trayah: mitunā is properly twins, or a pair, but it may be used, according to Sayana, for a greater number of analogous or connected objects, as mato pita putraśādeva mitunam, mother, father, son, constitute a twin or pair; the three sorts of food are said to be ashanam, paṇam, khaḍah: in what the last differs from the first is not specified.

1. Purified by Holy Acts.—Shukravatācharyadina dīpto aham, illustrious by observing vows, etc.

I bring to Thee the Soma, First Offered.—Ayamī te madhuvr ōgram: this is consistent with the passages in the preceding hymn; also Soma-Veda, ii. 975: according to Sayana, madhuvr here is for madhum, the gen. for the acc.; but this is not necessary, as, I bring to you of the Soma would be no unusual construction: Ayamī is explained prapayamī, and ōgram, ītarebyāh pūrem: Mahidhara, Yajur-Veda 27, 30, has a partly different version: may the cup (shukra-graha) come to thee, ayamī, agachchhatu, which is the essence, of the Soma, ōgram, sarabhtak madhumah raseya.

1. Like a Prince the Terrorizer of Foes.—Vypo naḥ is explained śatrūnam tepayita rajaya.

2. Who art the Represser of Calumnies.—Nir-yuvrana uṣastik are considered by Sayana equivalent to abhisastir nikheshha nyajyajyam, but what either signifies is very doubtful: the translation of the text is only a substitute for a blank.

Page 160.

3. The Dark Nurses of Wealth.—Krisna vasudhīti, krishnavarṇa vasūnam dhatryaṁ is Sayana's explanation.
1. Who abides with Noise in the Three Regions.—
Trishadhashto ravena, trishu abhunshu varunana rauvisvivam trishhatetyanena sthulena.

4. Seven-mouthed.—The seven metres are said to be his mouths.

6. Universal Deity.—Vishvadeva, an appellation of Brahaspati, because, as the deity presiding over mantras, he is the same with every deity; or deus may here, it is said.
mean praise, he who has the praise of all.

9. This and the two preceding stanzas are cited in the Aitaresa Brahmana, viii, 5, 24, 26, as authority for the indispensable employment by a prince of a Brahmana as Purohit, or priest, to conduct solemn rites on his behalf; "the gods cat not the food of a Raja who has no Purohita; therefore, when about to sacrifice, let him appoint (lit. place before) a Brahmana, na hava apurohitasya Rajno dero annam adanti, tasmad Raja yakshyamana Brahmanam puro dadhita; Sa jana, in commenting upon the verses cited, adopts some explanations differing from those here followed, but the variations are not of any great moment; as Ila, food, instead of Earth, his food increases at all seasons; and sajana, allies of his enemies, instead of his own people: wherever Brahman occurs he renders it Brahmana.

1. Are giving Man the Faculty to Act.—Gahum kriman am jana; that is, yajmananam yamanadi-vyaparasasaarthya am akurum; they give to the offerers of sacrifice the ability to perform the acts of going and the like.
3. The Churlish Traffickers.—Panaya in the text, vaniyah in the comment; that is, according to the latter, adatarah, non-givers.

4. Seven-mouthed Angirasas.—Repeating the seven saudik metres.

11. This verse, it is said, should be inaudibly recited every morning at day-break.

2. Mother of the Rays of Light.—Mata gavam rashminam mata.

She is the Friend of the Ashwins.—The Ashwins are to be worshipped together with the Dawn.

4. The Baffler of Animosities.—Yavayad-dveehsasam; according to the Scholiast, the Dawn puts to flight those enemies who had been endeavouring to destroy their adversaries during the night.

5. Like Showers of Rain.—Gavam sarga nā; the first is here explained by udakanam; (see above, verse 2), of waters; udakanam sargah means, according to Sayana, varshadharah.

1. May the Great Deity grant us such Every Day.—Tachechhardir no mahan udayan devo aktubhih; chhardish is explained by griha, a house, or it may mean light; aktubhih is lit. by nights, by metonymy for days.

5. Puts on His Golden Armour.—Pishanyam drapim prati munchate, is explained by Sayana, hirannayam kavacham achchhadayati pratypadayam, every morning he puts on a golden emiress.

3. PUTS FORTH HIS ARMS.—Bahu prasrarak; he puts forth his rays.

5. THREE DIVISIONS OF THE FIRMAMENT.—According to the Scholiast the antariksha is divided between Vayu, Vidyut, and Varuna, in three portions.

THREE BRILLIANT SPHERES.—The regions of Agni, Vayu, and Surya: see Vol. II. p. 165, verse 8, and notes.

THREE HEAVENS.—The lokas of Indra, Prajapati, and the Satya loka.

THE THREE-FOLD EARTH.—These are not particularized.

THREE FUNCTIONS.—Those of distributing heat, rain, and cold, according to Sayana.

2. THOU ENGENDEREST.—Swasti, from sw, to bear or bring forth; it becomes here a pet term, and, in one or other inflexion, recurs in the three verses following, requiring a modified translation.

SUCCESSIVE EXISTENCES.—Anuchina jivita; jivantaryanakramayuktani, that is, in the order of fathers, sons, etc.; the verse occurs Yajur-Veda, 33. 54, and is somewhat differently explained by Mahidhara: damanam, which Sayana renders dataram; he explains rashniramukham, collection of rays: the latter part of the hemistich he therefore reads, thou spreadest abroad thy rays, and excitest amongst men the consequent offices of vitality, that is, the daily duties following on the return of morning.

Page 167.

5. IN LIKE MANNER AT THY COMMAND THEY STAYED.—Yatha-yatha-potayantalah, eucheleustes, tuam vigemine eciam tastuh, savaya te; tanunujnya evam eva tishthanti: it does not appear very clearly who are alluded to, but possibly it applies to the worshippers.

1. ADITI—Dyusabhumi adite trasitham nah: adite, undivided, indivisible, may be an epithet here, according to the comment, of heaven and earth.

Who is it, Gods, that offers you.—Ko wo adhware varico dhati devah may also mean, which of you gods bestows wealth at the sacrifice?

2. There is no peculiar difficulty in the words of this stanza, but its purport is not the less doubtful.

3. SWASTI.—Swastim is explained, sukhanivam, etan-namikam devim, the abode of happiness; well-being is its usual acceptance, but it is said to be here a goddess so named.

Page 168.

6. As those Desirous of Acquiring Riches Praise the Ocean.—Samudram na saucharane samishyevah is explained, dhananam sambhaktam ichchantah samudramadhyagamana-ya samudram yatha stavanti, as those wishing to possess riches for the sake of going through the midst of the ocean praise the ocean; that which follows is less obvious: gharmanva-rasa nadyo apavaran, is rendered, diptahwanayo' nadyo apavriva-wantiti parokshe tva, but there is no copulative: the Scholiast refers the phrase to the deities, may they, Heaven and Earth, cherish or replenish the rivers.

2. Divine, Adorable, etc.—Devi-yojate, aminati, ukshamanca, ritavari, udruha, deva-patra, yajnasya netre, are the epithets; literally, the shining, or, as usually rendered in this translation, divine, objects of worship, unharming, sprinkling (rain, and therefore fertilizing), possessing truth, or water, or sacrifice, not oppressing or violent, having gods for sons, leaders or investigators, or subjects of sacrifice.

6. Mutually Sanctifying each other.—Punane tanum mithah, according to the Scholiast, may be differently explained: it may apply to the worship or the worshipper, purifying them severally by each individual form, svakiyaya murtiyasrodhayantau yajnam yajamanam tv; or it may apply to the regions, heaven and earth, the former purifying or fertilizing the latter by rain, the latter supporting the former by cultivation: dyauh svakiyacarasreṇa bhuvaṃ, eva cha svakiyena karṣyena, the comment adds, chandraṃasti sthiteṇa dvām, by that which is in the sky or the moon, the sense of which is not obvious: the phrase is probably incomplete, being a quotation; these three verses occur in the Sama-Veda, ii. 946, 947, 948.

1. With the Master of the Field.—Kṣetrasya patino may be understood in its literal acceptance, or as intending Rudra or Agni.

3. Be Kind.—This, as well as the epithet of the Kṣetrapati that follows, is the same as that of the herbs, madhumata, literally, having sweetness.

4. Happily.—Shunam vaḥah shunam narah, etc.: shunam the Scholiast renders sukham, sukham yatha bhavaśat tatha, so that pleasure is or may be: as a personification it is the divinity through whose favour the work goes well, sukha-kрид devah, who may be either Vayu or Indra.

5. Shuna and Sira.—Shunasirau is here given in the dual as the name of two divinities, of whom Shuna, according to Shunaka, is the dyudecaḥ, the deity of the sky, that is, Indra, when Sira will be Vayu, according to Sayana: Yaska Nirukta, 9. 40. makes Shuna, Vayu, and Sra, Aditya; in ordinary acceptation. Shunasira is a name of Indra.

6. Sita.—Sita is usually a furrow, and in that sense it occurs as a personification of the deity, or object of four stanzas in the Yajush, 12. 69—72, four furrows being drawn at the ceremony at which these stanzas are to be recited; but in the next stanza Saunaka explains it the wood supporting the furrow, sitidharakatham, which Indra is to take hold of, Indra grihito, unless kashtha in the fem. retain its usual acceptation of quarter of the horizon, when Sita may mean the sky, as in the next line, or, she, is interpreted by the Scholiast, dyau, the sky.

7 AND 8.—The two last verses occur also in the Atharvam, III. 17, 4, III. 17, 13.

1. The Sweet Water Swells up from the Firmament.—Samudrad-urmi-madhman udarat: the meaning, according to the Scholiast, varies greatly according to the signification given to samudra: as, samudante asmin yajamanah, that in which worshippers delight, sacrificial fire; or, samudrad-drayantapah, that from which waters rush, celestial fire, lightning: urmi in the first case may imply reward or consequence, in the latter, rain; and in the latter sense of urmi, samudra may have one of its more ordinary meanings, antariksha, the firmament: the passage, it is said, may be also made to apply to other objects of the hymn: as, for instance, samudra may imply, etymologically, the udder of the cow, whence flows milk, samudravati, from which come urmi, ghi or butter: the whole hymn occurs in the Yajush, 17. 89—99, where Mahidhara limits the objects to two, Ghi and Agni, sttra annadhyaasena ghritam stuyate pranadhyaasena chn agnih: as the representative of food, ghi is here praised, as that of vitality, Agni: accordingly the phrase is differently interpreted: samudra is the ocean of ghi, from which it rises as its wave, samudrad ghrta-mayat madhuran rasavan urmir udagachchhat, and, having so arisen, it pervades immortality by Agni, as the life of the world with whom it is combined: udgatya chha sa utmir-anura jagatprana bhutenagnina, sam aikibhuya urmitawam vyapnoti: it may be doubted if this is more intelligible than Sayana's, but it is clear that both the commentators intend Agni, with whom ghi, as the material of the oblation, is meant to be identified.

1. That Which is the Secret Name, etc.—Ghritasya nama guhyam yad uti jhva devanam urmitasya nabhah; that is, the material of sacrifice commonly called ghi is, in the mantras of the Veda, designated the tongue of the gods, being used metonymically for Agni; also the navel or binding, that is, the means of securing immortality for him who offers it in oblations.

2. The Four-Horned Brahma.—Brahma chutuh-shringa: Brahma is explained by Sayana as usual, partvishe devah, the augmented, developed, or great deity; his four horns are the four Vedas: Mahidhara separates the attribute as presently to be noticed, and explains Brahma by Ritvi, priest.

The Fair-complexioned Deity Perfects this Rite—Aumid-gaura etc: the text gives Sayana's explanation; Mahidhara explains gaura by yajna, and attaches to it the epithets chutuh shringa, the sacrifice with four priests, obtains the object for which it is solemnized; the stanza, according to Sayana, applies especially to Agni as the sun: Mahidhara apparently refers it to ghi: the former, however, declares it applicable to all the subjects of the hymn following the etymology of the Nirukta.

3. Sayana, in conformity with the opinion of Yaska and others, applies this verse also preferentially to Agni, identified either with Yajna or with Aditya; the four horns of the former are the four Vedas; of the latter, the four cardinal points of the horizon; the three feet of Yajna are the three daily sacrifices; of Aditya, morning, noon, evening; the two heads of Yajna are two particular ceremonies termed Brahmamandana and Praurvya; of Aditya, day and night; the seven hands of Yajna are the seven metres; of Aditya the seven rays, or the six seasons and their aggregate, or the year, as the seventh; the term vrishabhaha phalanam varshita, the rainer of rewards, applies to either; and so does ravanite, he rears, implying the noise made by the repetition of the mantras of the Vedas; the three bonds of Yajna are, mantra, kalpa, and Brahmana, the prayer, the ceremonial, the rationale; of Aditya, the three regions, earth, mid-air, and heaven; Mahidhara limits vrishabhaha, kamanam varshita to Yajna, and explains the attributes accordingly, but with an occasional difference; the four horns are the priests, the Hotri, Udgatri, Adhvaryu, and Brahma; the three feet are the three Vedas; the two heads the Havirdhana and Praurvya rites; the hands are the seven priests, or seven metres; the three bonds the three daily sacrifices; he somewhat gratuitously also applies the terms to grammatical speech, the four horns being nouns, verbs, prepositions, and particles; the three feet, either the three persons or the three times; the two heads, the agent and the object; the seven hands, the seven cases; and the three bindings, the three numbers; but this is an uncalled-for display of ingenuity; Yaska applies the verse to Yajna, and is chiefly followed in his explanation of the terms by Mahidhara, Nirukta, 13. 7.

4. The Puṇīs are as usual explained Asuras: the three forms or states in which the ghee was deposited in the cow were milk, curds, and butter, of which Indra engendered suṣuma, milk, Surya butter, and the gods (devasah) fabricated (tattak-shuh) curds from the shining, venaś, that is, Agni: Mahidhara renders devasah dvijaṭaṇyuh, the twice-born, but does not differ materially in the rest.

5. According to the sense given to samudra, the showers, first indicated by the epithet śuta vṛccīṣa, implying merely copious, may be either of water or ghee: uteṣa is said to be a name of Agni, either as lightning or the sun, or the fire of sacrifice: Mahidhara very superfluously, and incompatibly with his explanation of the objects of the Sūkta chooses, to understand, as one meaning, ēta arshaṭa, sacha udgachchhami, these words originate from the ocean of the water of faith, purified by the metres and other supplementary portions of the Vedas, amidst which words the Rishi sees the golden form of Agni, for Agni is the deity presiding over speech, or holy texts, agni hi vacham adhishtanti devataḥ: he gives as an alternative, however, a similar interpretation to that of Sayana.

6. Sayana considers that in this verse the ghee that is poured from the ladle on the fire is alluded to: Mahidhara interprets śhena, which Sayana makes an epithet of sarusah, and renders praṇayitrpaḥ, by sacah, words, texts, which he says flow like rivers, freed from error by the heart and the mind; separating unāra-hrida by the copulative from manasa, manasa cha, whilst Sayana makes the former the adjective of the latter, antarhridaya manasa, hridayamadhyagatena chittena, by the mind gone within the heart.

7. Swift as the Wind.—Vatapramiyuh, rasyutat prakrishtavega: Mahidhara refers the comparison to sindhu, a river agitated by the wind.

Breaking through the Confining Banks.—Kushtha bhindan urmibhibh prnavanah: kushtha, according to Sayana, means limiting circles, marjayodhutan paridhin, limits within which the flowing butter increases with its juices; Mahidhara makes it part of the comparison, with the rapidity of the steed rushing into the boundaries of the battle, kushtha meaning sangrama-pradeshan: according to Sayana, ghrita may here also mean water, when sindhu will imply the antariksha.

10. (Priests).—The text has no nominative; Sayana supplies Ritwijuh, priests; Mahidhara, devah, gods, which agrees better with part of what follows.

The Pious Praise, the Source of Herds of Cattle.—Sushtulim gavyam ojum: the latter Sayana renders gosambandhinam sanghatam, the number or collection relating to cattle; or, he says, it may mean abundance of water; Mahidhara divides the terms, and explains Agni by yajna, (sacrifice), and gavya by ghi: gods, approach the pious praise, and, the sacrifice at which ghi is offered.

11. Dhnam te vishvam bhuvanam adhisritam: the first is explained by Sayana, tejah-sthane, in the place of brightness or heat; Mahidhara, by vibhutyam, superhuman power; the purport is the identification of all things with Agni, present in the ocean as submarine fire; in men, as vaishvanara, which is an etymological pun from vishva, all, and nara a man; in life, ayushi, as the vital principle, or ayus may mean food, anna, when the digestive fire is intended; in the assembled waters or the firmament, as lightning; in war, as the metaphorical fire of valour.

That Sweet-flavoured Wave—Urmīk ya abhritah: the wave which is so deposited, akapitah, may imply either the butter of the oblation, or water in the shape of rain.

IV. 5. 13.—This Sukta, which is probably ancient, is a good specimen of Vaidik vagueness, and mystification, and of the straits to which commentators are put to extract an intelligible meaning from the text.

1. Sama-Veda, i. 73, ii. 1096, Yajur-Veda, 15. 24: Mahidhara explains prati dhenum ayatim ushasam, as the cow is awakened in the morning by the calf, and men by day-break: he differs also in the explanation of the simile in the second hemistich, yahaa iti pra trayam ujjitah, rendering it, as large (birds) springing from the branches of the trees, or as the largest birds from their nests.

3. This and the preceding occur in the Sama-Veda, ii. 1097—98.

The Confining Girdle of the Aggregated World.—Yad-im ganasya rashanam aijigah, when he has seized the rope of the company, i.e., the darkness encompassing the world, like a cord or rope, obstructing all active exertion, jagato rajjurasa yaparoprati bhandham tamah.

Recumbent.—Uttanam is explained vistratam, an epithet of ajyadharam, stream of ghi, understood.

4. The Multiform (Heaven and Earth).—The text has only virupa, various-formed: being in the fem. dual it is applied to dyaparopritivyavu, understood.

6. In a Fragrant Place.—Surabha for surabhau loke, fragrant with the odour of ghi and other offerings, the altar.
8. Of Well-known Might.—Tad-ojah, lit. having that strength: tad, that, implying that which is notorious, sat prasiddham balaṃ.

11. Cognizant of the Ways of Worship.—Videsah pathinam: the first is rendered yashtayadevaparipramanam, having knowledge of the gods who are to be worshipped; the last, with regard to the ways of worshipping them, deva-yajamanamargam prati.

1. According to what is no doubt the most accurate interpretation of this verse, and of those which follow, they contain only a metaphorically obscure allusion to the lighting of the sacrificial fire: the mother is the two pieces of touchwood, which retain fire, the child, and will not spontaneously give it up to the father, the yajamana, until forced by attrition: till then, also, people, the priests, do not behold it, but they see it when bursting into ignition: this, however, has not satisfied the commentators, and a curious and strange legend has been devised for the interpretation of the text, or has been, perhaps, applied to it by way of explanation, having been previously current: it is more probably, however, suggested by, than suggestive of, the verses: Sayana quotes the Shatgayaana Brahmana as the authority: the story is this: Raja Tryaruna, the son of Trivirisha, of the race of Ikshvakus, had for his Purohit Vrisha, the son of Jara: it was the custom, it is said, when a Raja and his Purohit went out in the same chariot, that the latter should drive, and, on an occasion of this kind, the chariot went over a Brahman boy who was playing in the road, and killed him: a dispute ensued between the Raja and the priest as to which was the murderer, the former accusing the latter because he was driving: the Purohit retorting, that as the chariot was the Raja's, he was the responsible person; they referred the matter to an assembly of the Ikshvakus, who decided against the Purohit: Vrishu restored the boy to life by the prayer thenceforth called after him the Varsha-saman, but being offended with the Ikshvakus for what he considered their partiality, fire thenceforth ceased to perform its functions in their dwellings, and the cooking of their food and other offices ceased; attributing this to the displeasure of the Rishi, the Ikshvakus respectfully invoked his presence, and, with the same mantra, he prayed that the energy of fire would be restored to them, which accordingly took place: this energy or activity is designated by the unusual term of Haras, Agner haras; so far the legend is intelligible, but what follows is rather obscure: Sayana proceeds: so singing, the Rishi, having seen distinctly the Brahmanicide become the wife of king Trasadasyu, in the garb of a Pishach, and that she, having taken the Haras away from the fire-chamber, was concealing it in her regal clothing (kashipou?) he, having propitiated that Haras by the Varsha Sama, reunited it with Agni, upon which the offices of fire, in cooking and the like, were discharged as before: Sayana adds to his version a quotation from the Tandya which stops with the restoration of the boy to life: the Niti-manjari cites the legend from the Brhad-devata, the first part of which is the same as that given above, but there is some slight variation in the conclusion: after the decision against the Purohit, this authority continues, the Atharvan having seen (or composed) the Angiras-mantras, restored the boy to life, but being in wrath, he deserted the king, and went to another country: upon his departure, the Haras or function of Agni ceased, and there were no more burnt-offerings: the Raaja, being much distressed, went to the Rishi, and pacified and brought him back, and prevailed upon him to become his Purohit.
once more: still the fire withheld its activity, until the Rishi discovered that the queen was in reality a Pishachi, with whom the Haras had associated, and was seated on the throne with her, and hidden in her robe: on discovering this, the Rishi repeated the second stanza of this Sukta, "Young mother, etc.," to which Haras, in the form of a boy, replied: the Rishi then recited the ninth stanza, "Agni shines etc.," on which the flame burst forth and consumed the Pishachi, after which things went on as before: if there be any meaning in this legend, it may possibly intimate some quarrel between the princes and priests, and a consequent temporary discontinuance of worship with fire.

2. See the preceding note: in this and several other stanzas the allusion to the product of fire by attrition is blended with reference to the circumstances told in the legend as above particularized.

4. Passing like a Herd of Cattle.—Going from pasture to pasture.

Grey-haired are Young.—Pali kri-i d yuvatayo bha-vanti: the flames which had been so often produced may be considered as aged, or as the text, literally, grey-headed; or allusion is intended to the suspension of the functions of fire, as in the legend.

5. Who have Disunited my People from the Cattle.
—Ke me maryaham viyavanta gobhith: what enemies have despoiled my kingdom, is the explanation of Sayana.

An Invincible Protector.—That is, Agni.

Page 176.

7. Shunahshepa.—See vol. 1, p. 29 and note on the Sukta; the text here divides the two parts of the name, as Shunashchichchhepa, interposing chit, a general particle, by Paitik license.
12. THAT SHE WILL BESTOW HAPPINESS, ETC.—Bhishmamatmanavesharmayunat is repeated with a slight variation of the first word, havishmate, in the repetition.

1. THOU ART ARYAMAN IN RELATION TO MAIDENS—
Twam aryama yat kaninam: as regulator of the ceremony the nuptial fire may be regarded as Aryaman; the stanza is to be recited at marriages.

2. A MYSTERIOUS NAME.—That of Vaishvanar, according to the Scholiast, the friend of all, vishva, men, nara.

WITH MILK AND BUTTER.—Anjanti mitram sudhitam na godhik: the last, lit. with cows, is put by metonymy for the products of the cow.

3. THY BIRTH IS BEAUTIFUL AND WONDERFUL.—Agni, as the lightning.

CERISHEST THE MYSTERIOUS NAME OF THE WATERS.—
Pasi guhyam nama gonam: Sayana renders it udakam ghyam namani rakshani, but gives no explanation.

7. THE CALUMNIATOR.—Abhishastim etam, is, properly this calumny, but as the antecedent of yah, he who, in the masculine, the relative requires the sense of abhishastri, accuser or calumniator.

IN THESE TWO WAYS.—Offence, agas or aparadhah, and sin or wretchedness, enas, or papa.

8. PROCEED TO THE WEALTH OF SACRIFICE.—
SansthavedAgni iyase rayinam: lit. to the heap of riches, but the riches, according to the Scholiast, are here those of the oblation, havirlakshanarnam.

KINDLED BY MORTALS, ETC.—Martair vasubhir idhyamanah: the second, according to Sayana, is an epithet of the first, meaning, "vāsukaiḥ, placing or fixing in an abode or place of dwelling, i.e., either the altar, or the chamber of sacrifice.

9. As to a Father.—So in v. 2 of the next Sūkta, may the bearer of the oblation, the undecaying Āgni, be a father to us; or the relationship may be reversed; protect him, Āgni, who, like a father, cherishes thee as a son. Āgni being generated and maintained by the sacrificer; as, by another text, thou art the son of him who maintains thee.

10. He Offers the Copious Oration.—"Bhūrī nāma vādamana dūdhato; nāma, the Scholiast says, may mean oblation, "khar.; or it may be rendered, praising thy many names he offers oblations.

12. Perhaps an Offence Has, Etc.—Vasūr to tad id ago avachi, is explained, that which is an offensive expression may have been spoken to Vasū, commonly rendered giver of dwellings, by our saying or intimating, "idam dehi, give this; or it may be rendered, this offence which has been offered to us by our enemies, has been reported to Āgni.

3. The Wise Lord of Human Beings.—In the first verse we had vasupatim vāsam, the lord of riches, of riches; so here we have a similar redundancy of construction, visham vishpatim, the lord of men, of men.

6. Appropriating the Sustenance to Thine Own Person.—"Vayah kriyamāna tāuce suvai; or by tāne may be understood putra, a son, or the yajamana in that relation.

8. Cherish us with Triply-Protected Felicity.—"Tri-varūthena sharmana, with three defended; that is, preserved by act, thought, and speech; or if sharmana be rendered by house, griha, it may be understood, protect us by or in a three-roofed, or three-storied dwelling, i.e., trichchhadiśkhena grihena, i.e., a spacious mansion.

10. IMMORTALITY.—The immortality that is defined as the unbroken succession of descendants, amritātucan santatyēchchhediŚalkaham; another text to the same effect is cited, prajam anu prajaye tad u te mṛtyumrīdam, when progeny is born after progeny, that verily is the immortality of thy mortality.

11. These last two stanzas are to be recited at the sacrifice for obtaining sons, putrakameshti.

V. 1. 3. APRIS.—See vol. ii, p. 297, note on l. 21. 9.

1. SUSAMIDDHA.—This agrees with the first hymn, vol. i, p. 15, in making Susamiddha a name, not merely an epithet of Agni.

4. (GRASS).—The Buthis or Poa cynosuroides.

7. ON THE PATH OF THE WIND.—Vatasya patman may mean, with the swiftness of the wind, or through the firmament.

TO THIS SACRIFICE OF OUR PATRON.—Māṇuṣaḥ no yajnam, lit. to the sacrifice of our man; that is, of the yajaman.

10. Yatra vēthā devanam guhyamamani; the last is explained repaṇi, forms, but no further interpretation of the phrase occurs: it is not specified as a faculty of Vanaspati in any preceding hymn to the Aпре, although, as in them, Vanaspati here represents Agni as identified with the sacrificial post, or gṛha, or, as the Scholiast here says, the deity presiding over it, gṛpaḥ kāminä deśa.

11. To AGNI.—The term is Suḥa, who here, as heretofore, is an Aprites, or personification of Agni.

1. To whom, etc.—Yam āstam yasti dhanavah āstam, which is repeated in the text with each nominative, is explained narvesham grihavat ashrayabhutam, he who is become the house-like asylum of all: the verse occurs Sama-Veda, i. 425, ii. 1087 and Yajur-Veda, 15. 41: Mahidhara also renders astam by griham.

5. Sama-Veda, ii. 373.

6. These fires cherish, etc.—Pro tva ugnayo agnishku vishvam pushyanti varyyam: prapushyanti dhiknya garkapatyadishu, they nourish exceedingly, by their intensity, wealth dhanam, understood, in the household and other fires; that is, the primary flames of Agni, when manifested in the household fires, are the source of riches.

7. They seek the Pastures of the Hoofed Cattle.—Ye patwabhik shaphanam vraja bhuranta gonom is explained by Sayana, ye rashmayah, those rays which, patanaath, by fallings, ichchhanti yuthani shaphanam gonom, wish for or proceed to the herds of hoofed cattle; an explanation which does not render the sense more obvious: it means, he adds, that the spreading flames long for the burnt-offering, ayate jwala homaya kankshanti-ityarthah.

9. The two Ladies.—Termed jhu and upabhrit, two ladies used for pouring the oiled butter upon the fire.

39. translates *Uṣṇ., water, and the apppellative, grandson of water, timber being the offspring of water, and fire the offspring of fuel.

3. ASSUMES THE RADIANCE OF THE RITE.—Ritasya rashnim adade is variously explained by the Scholiast, he accepts the ray that is the apprehender or absorber, graha, of water, alluding to the production of rain as the result of burnt-offerings; or he becomes endowed with the energy generative of the reward of the sacrifice, phalajanakam tejah avakritavan; or, again, he accepts the praise which is, as it were, the lustre or ray of the sacrifice.

5. AS BOYS RIDE UPON THE BACK OF A FATHER.—Bhuma prishtheva, is, literally, like many or much on the back: the Scholiast explains bhuma as signifying offspring, or that which is many, bahu bhavatiti bhuma apatyam; and prishtha, he adds, implies the backs of the father, pituh prishthe deshan vea; as boys mount upon the fathers' side, so do the flames, putra yatha pituranam arohanti tad vata.

7. HE CROPS THE DRY GROUND.—Dhanwakshitam dati: dhanwa the commentator explains a place without water, nirudakapradesham; and akshitam, trinakashthadibhir akshiptam, tossed over with grass, timber, and the like.

8. BRIGHT AS AN AXE.—Shuchi sma yasma atrivat pra swadhitiva tivate: it is not very obvious whether the comparisons apply to Agni, or the worshipper; they might both be understood by the worshipper, eager to offer oblation as an axe to cut; or both might be applied to Agni; atri, meaning an eater, or devourer, or an animal eating grass; it seems, however, most reasonable to apply atrivat to the yajamana, and swadhit to Agni.
10. May Isha overcome Hostile Men.—Ishak sa-zahyan urin: ishak may be, according to Sayana, the Rishi of the Sukta: or derived from ish, and being the accus.-plur., it may be an epithet of urin, encountering or opposing men.

2. The Destruction of Decaying Trees.—Jarad-visham is, literally, that which is poison to the old; the commentator explains it jaratam vriksham eyapikam, the perpetrator or consumer of old trees; or it may mean jira-dakam, that by which water is dried up.

7. Art dominant over all Terrestrial Vianos.—Abhi jrayansi parthiva vi tishthase: Sayana explains jrayansi by annani, food, eatables; and parthiva by vrikshah, trees; or he admits it to be an epithet of jrayansi, earthly eatables, as the cakes and butter presented in sacrifices with fire.

V. 1. 9. Here begins the 4th Ashtaka.—The grammatical portion of Sayana's commentary, which is very full in the first and second Ashtakas, is suspended in the MSS. of the third; it is resumed in the beginning of the fourth, but is only occasionally repeated.

1. Jatavedas.—In addition to previous explanations, the name is here said to imply, he whom all know to be identical with all that exists; or, vedas may mean wealth, when it will signify, he from whom all wealth is generated.

4. Like the Young of tortuously Twining Snakes.—Putro m euarynaw, like the son of the crooked-going; the Scholiast says, like a young snake, balasarpah; or it may mean the colt of rearing and plunging horses, of those not broken in, asihilshitabalaahsah.
5. When diffused in the three Regions.—Yadinnaha trite dici opadhamati is explained, trishu shanasu vyaptah, spread in the three regions; or, trini shanani atitya, having gone beyond the three regions; atmanam upa vardhayati, he blows up or enlarges himself.

As the Fire blazes from the Blast of the Blower.—The text has shishite dhmatari, he sharpens as in a blower; which the Scholiast explains, like the fire, which, in the proximity of one blowing with a bellows, blazes up, so Agni sharpens his flames, or of himself adds to their intensity.

7. Do thou be present.—The confusion of the second and third person is that of the original.

1. Sama-Veda, i. 81: there is a slight difference in the text of the second half of the stanzas

2. The Doer (of great Deeds).—The text has only karma for kuranga; the acts alluded to are such as driving away the Rakshasas or other disturbers of religious rites.

4. Arouses (Thee) of thine own Accord.—Divashchid yesham brihat sukirtir bodhati trman: the application of the two last words is somewhat doubtful; Sayana disconnects them from the preceding, and supplies the name of the Rishi of the Sukta, Gaya, as the nominative of bodhati; evam vidham tevam Gayastmano swaayam eva bodhayati, Gaya of his own accord, or of himself, as it were, arouses thee, Agni, as described.

1. Sama-Veda, ii. 257. Yajur-Veda, 15. 37: Mahidhara agrees with Sayana in interpreting Bharatas by Ritwiks, or priests; he differs slightly in some other respects, rendering the stanza, Agni has been engendered by the priests for the present sacrifice; he shines so brilliantly, that with his flames he touches the sky, the patron of the sacrificer, vigilant dexterous, fed with butter, pure.

2. HAVE FIRST KINDLED IN THREE PLACES.—Tvisha-dhusthe samidhīre, that is, as the three fires, the Garhapatya, Ahamuniya, and Daksīna.

3. BORN OF TWO MOTHERS.—The two sticks of attrition.
Thou hast strung up from the Devotion of the Householder.—Udatisthō vieasvatah: the latter is said to designate the Yajaman, from his especially, vi, abiding, vasata, in the chamber where the agnihotra, and other rites with fire, are celebrated.

6. Sama-Veda, ii. 258. Yajur-Veda, 15. 28: Mahidhuro agrees with Sayana: he adds as the explanation of guha, apṣu, in the waters, referring to the familiar legend, see vol. i, pp. 198 and 199 note.

2. SHOWER OF WATER.—When the author of a Sukta takes a fancy for the word rita, probably, in one of its meaningsthe Latin ritus, it is difficult to follow him in respect of its various significations of sacrifice, praise, truth, water:
ritasya dhara, however, necessarily implies the last.

With both Truth and Untruth.—The text is very elliptical and obscure: naham yatum sahas na dwayena ritam sapam śrishya viśvanah: it is, literally, not I to go by strength, not by the two I swear, the sacrifice of the shining showerer: Sayana supplies yukta, joined or endowed sahas, with strength, and makes yatum mean to injure, or injury of pious acts, connecting it with sapam, which he renders by sprishami or karomi, I touch or do; I do not proceed to injure sacred offices; by the two, he explains satyavrimitabhyam, by truth and untruth, that is, avadikam kriyam na-sapami, na karomi, I perform not any act not enjoined by the Veda: ritam here he interprets praise, and again attaches to it sapami, without the negative, I vow or repeat the praise of Agni.

4. I (know) HIM NOT AS THE LORD, ETC.—Na aham patim santuh asya rayah; the verb is understood: the Scholiast renders it bhajamanasya osya mama rayah evam nam tam agnim aham na janami, I do not know that Agni, the master of the riches of this one, or me, the enjoyer: what it means is not very obvious.

4. WHO AMONG THEM, ETC.—The two last are persons not worshipping Agni; but the verse may be also thus rendered, who are they that confine their foes? who are they that preserve men from uttering untruth? who are they that vindicate people from calumny? they are: Agni, thy worshippers.

2. This and the two next verses occur Sama-Veda, ii. 755—757.

PAGE 191.

2. THEY ARE DETAINING BY SACRIFICE, ETC.—Ritena ritam dharunam dharayantu: they, the Yajamanas, hold or detain, ritam dharunam, yajvasya dharakam satyam, the true holder of sacrifice, that is, Agni, by the ceremony, param vyomani, utkrishte sthane, in the best place, that is, the altar.

3. ENJOY FORMS EXEMPT FROM DEFECT.—Ankhyacas-tanvastanvate, are explained by Sayana, vastanur-anhastvyojika vistarayanti, they effect the extension of their own persons, disjoined by or separated from sin; the sense is not very obvious.
4. Thou mathearest every kind of food.—Vayo vayo jaunse yad dadhanah; the Scholiast interprets yeda dharya-mano bhavani yada sarcom annam jarayasi, when thou art being detained, then thou causest all food to decay, i.e., to digest.

5. Like a Thief, etc.—This may, perhaps, also imply that wealth bestowed upon the Rishi is deposited in a secure receptacle, like the hidden booty of a thief, padam na-tayur guham dadhanah, but the whole Sutta is obscurely worded.

1. Sama-Veda, 1. 88: the latter reads prashastaye for praise, instead of prashastibhih, by praises.

2. Bhaga.—Bhaga, according to Sayana, here means Surya.

4. Like the Vast Sun.—The text has only yaham na, like the great; the Scholiast has mahantam suryam itra, like the great sun.

2. Performer of various Functions.—Vidharman: it applies either to the Rishi or the yazamana.

3. By his Lustre, verily, the Sun is Luminous.—The text has only anqa sam u archisha, va asa being put for va isa; literally, by the light of him, he verily: asa, he, according to the commentator, designates the sun; and the entire phrase is, by the light of him, that is, of Agni, the sun becomes radiant; aditya archishman bhavati.

5. Be Alert for our Prosperity.—Shagdhi avastaye: the commentator says the verb may here be put for the first person, and mean yache. I ask for, or it may mean, as translated, shakto bhava, be able.

1. Sama-Veda, 1. 88: the reading of the second half of the stanza somewhat differs: our text is vishrami yosamartya.
kavya martyrshu rasyati; the Sama has vihve yasminnunartye kavyam murtasa indhuti, in or upon all that which is immortal, mortals offer oblations.

Page 194.

4. LEADS THE WORSHIPPER TO HEAVEN.—Swar-nare, a synonyme here of yajne, sunyam yajamanam rasyati, it leads the yajaman to heaven.

Page 195.

4. He who, like the mixed Oration, is filled with Food.—Gharman na vaajjatharah, he in whose belly is food like the gharman: besides its ordinary sense of warm, hot, and that of day, assigned to it by Yaska, the word has other meanings: Sayana apparently identifies it with the ceremony called Pravaryya, pravaryya tva gharman yatha kavyanajjena-payassa sikta, like the Pravaryya the gharma, sprinkled with the oblation butter and milk: perhaps we should read pravaryya, at the Pravaryya, for, by a subsequent passage, gharma means a vessel, a pitcher.

1. Yajur-Veda, 19, 64: instead of tugajatana, the printed Yajush reads kavyavahana, conveyer of offerings to the manes.

3. Prayasvats.—Prayasvantaḥ is, literally, those having food, annavarataḥ.

Page 197.

1. A Son.—The text has vyāmin, raw, riches, but the Scholiast understands it metaphorically, and renders it putram, a son, a meaning consistent with what follows.

1 and 2.—These two verses seem to be favourites: the first pada of the first occurs twice in the Sama-Veda, i, 448, n. 457; the second once, ii, 458; the second pada of the second stanza occurs in the same, ii, 459; we have both of them twice in the Yajush, 3. 25, 15. 48: *Mahidhara's explanation is much the same as Sayana's, except in one or two words; as varuthyah in the first line of the first stanza: Sayana explains it varaniyah, sambhajaniyah, that which is to be chosen, to be enjoyed, to be worshipped: *Mahidhara interprets it favourable or auspicious to the family or the house, varutha meaning, he says, either putra-samuhu, an assemblage of sons, or griha, a house: Sayana also gives as an alternative, endowed or inclosed with circumferences or defences, paridhi-khir-vritah, alluding, perhaps, to the common import of varutha the fender of a carriage; again, vasubravas, in the second line of the first verse, which Sayana interprets avaptannah, he by whom food is dispensed, Mahidhara explains renowned for wealth.

1. The Son of the Rishis.—Agni is termed the son of the Rishis, as generated by their rubbing the sticks together which produce fire.

2. That Agni is True.—Satya: by true, in this and other passages, is meant, it is said, one who does not fail to bestow upon his worshippers the recompense of their devotions.

6. This and the preceding verse are directed to be recited at a sacrifice performed to obtain male offspring, putrakaneshti.

7. Sama-Veda, 1. 86. Yajur-Veda, 26. 12: *Mahidhara differs from Sayana in his interpretation of this verse in several respects: considering the first line, yad vahishtham tad agnaye brihad archa vishvaso, to be addressed to the Udgatri, he renders it, sing to Agni, that Brihad-sama (a hymn of the Sama-Veda), which is the most effectual means of obtaining our desires; and he refers the vocative, Vishvaso, to the second line in which a more important variation occurs: it runs, mahishi iev tuad rayistrot voja udirate: Sayana makes mahishi the adjective of rayi, great riches, and observes of iev that it is a pleonasm, ievit parah: Mahidhara understands it as denoting a comparison, and explains the passage, as the first-married bride proceeds from her home to her husband, prathamaparivita stri grihat patim pratip udgachchhati, so riches and food proceed to the worshipper, Agni, from thee: the necessity of supplying a whole sentence is rather against this rendering, and mahishi as an adjective is of not unfrequent occurrence.

9. Vasuyus—The Vasuyus are here explained vasekamah: they who desire wealth.

V. 2. 13. Tryarureka, etc.—Of these princes we have yet met only with the second, vol. i. 1. 16. 7. 14: in the Vishnu Purana a Tryarureka occurs (p. 371), but he is the son of Tridhanuvar, and the seventh in descent from Trasadasyu, with whom, therefore, he could not be contemporaneous; so that either the Veda or the Purana is wrong: the latter enumerates a Tryarureka among the Vyasas, p. 273; no other authority gives Bharata a son named Ashwamedha.

Atri alone may be the Rishi.—For in fact the Rajas are rather the Devatas, they do not commemorate their own donations: it is Atri, or some member of his family, who speaks.
2. Hundreds of Suvarnas.—The text has only skatani, the hundreds: the Scholiast adds suvarnamam, of suvarnas: it is not impossible, however, that pieces of money are intended: for if we may trust Arrian, the Hindus had coined money before Alexander: the people of Sambas, Raja of Sindomana, present him with told money.

Triple-mixed Soma.—Mixed with curds, milk, and parched grain.

1. Bearing the Ladle with the Oration.—Havisha ghritachi is explained by the Scholiast purodahadilakshanena yuktaya ghritachya srucha sahita, with the ladle of ghi connected with the cakes and other articles of the oblation: the whole passage is remarkable, whether this explanation be admitted or not, as it leaves no doubt that a female is described as discharging the offices of a priest worshipping the gods at dawn with hymns and oblations: besides Vishvanara being feminine, the epithets praeki ilana ghritachi are of the same gender: the term is explained, the repeller of all enemies of the nature of sin, surum epi paparupam shatram sarvapriti: we have no further clue to her history than that she is an Atreyi, of the race of Atri.

3. Preserve in Concord the Relation of Man and Wife.—Sam jaspatyam suyamam kurushtha, make perfect the well-connected duty of wife and husband, an appropriate prayer for a female, Yajur-Veda, 33, 12.

6. Select the Bearer of the Oration to the Gods.—According to the Taittiriya, there are three kinds of sacrificial fire: the kasyarukhana, which receives the oblation intended for the gods; the kasyarukhana, that intended for the Pitris; and the Saharakshas, that intended for the Asuras: the worshipper is therefore directed on this occasion to select the first.

1. Three Luminaries.—The sun, the wind, and fire: the same are probably intended by the similar phrase preceding tryagyama-trini aryaumani tejusni, according to Sayana.

3. Obtains Cattle for the Offerer.—Manoshe ga acindat, yazumanaya melayati ga, may also mean rain, dhenur- erishitakshanani udakani va.

6. Cities.—The text has bhogan, meaning, according to Sayana, cities, when the acute accent is on the last vowel, bhogan ityutadattah purvachanah.

7. Has Quickly Consumed.—Apachat, has roasted or digested: we have here a sort of hecatomb.

8. When he had slain Ahi.—Or perhaps yad ahin jaghina might be rendered, that he should kill Ahi.

10. Confounded the Voiceless Dasyus.—Anasa dasyus amrinah: anasa, Sayana says, means asyarakites, devoid or deprived of words, asya, face or mouth, being put by metonymy for shabda, the sound that comes from the mouth, articulate speech, alluding possibly to the uncultivated dialects of the barbarous tribes, barbarism and uncultivated speech being identical, in the opinion of the Hindus, as in the familiar term for a barbarian, mlechchha, which is derived from the root mlechchh, to speak rudely: Professor Muller, Universal History of Man, 1. 316, referring to this text, proposes to separate anasa into a, non, name, the nose, noseless, alluding to that feature in the aborigines, as contrasted with the more prominent nose of the asya race: the proposal is ingenious, but it seems more likely, that Sayana is right, as we have the Dasyus presently called also like garments and like a chariot.—Praises and hymns, the Scholiast says, are compared to garments, as being fit to be received as a respectful present, upasankhara-vadgrahyun: if correct, this shows the custom of presenting honorary dresses to be of Indian origin and considerable antiquity: the same are compared to a chariot, as the means of conveying Indra and the gods to sacrifices.

6. Maruts.—Or Maruts may here signify praisers, worshippers, stotarsh.

7. Desiring to do good to Manu.—Manu sac gatam ichchhan: gatam is explained sukham, but the Scholiast identifies Manu with the Rishi of the Sukta, namuchina upakhritagodhanaya mahyam: to me whose wealth of cattle has been carried off by Namuchi, an Asura who has been named before named.

8. Like a sounding and rolling cloud.—Ashmanam-chit swargam varthamanam: Sayana renders the two first megham eva, like a cloud.

9. What will his female hosts do unto me?—Indra is supposed to say this.

The two his best beloved, etc.—These legends are apparently Vaidik, except the decapitation of Namuchi by Indra, which is related in the Gada section of the Shalya-Parva of the Mahabharata, where it is related that Namuchi, through fear of Indra, took refuge in the solar rays: Indra promised that he would not harm him if he came forth, but broke his promise, and, on Namuchi's issuing forth, cut off his head: by this he incurred the guilt of Brahmanicide, for Namuchi, it is said, was a Brahman, but Indra was taught expiation of his sin by Brahma.

Page 206.

12. THE RUSAMAS.—The Rusamas, according to Sayana, are the people of a country of the same name, the principality of Rinanchaya.

13. In this, the next, and the last stanza, Agni appears as the devata, although not so specified by the index.

15. THE GOLDEN EWER PREPARED FOR THE SOLEMNITY.—Gharmash-chit taptah pravrije ya asid ayasmayah: according to the commentator, ayasmya, properly, made of iron, is here, made of gold, kiranyamaya, kalasha, a ewer: gharmash-chit he explains mahavira tes, that is, like the ewer, or vessel so termed, containing a mixture of Soma, melted butter and milk, perhaps put upon the fire, as by a text cited in the note of Sayana on v. 7. of Sukta xlix. yad ghe ityapat tad gharmasya gharmatvam iti shruts: see also Sukta xix. 1. pravrije for the pravargya ceremony.

2. THOU HAST GIVEN WINES, ETC.—Amenan-schij-janiitatas-chakartha: mene is here used in the sense of stri, woman in general, and jani, as usual, in that of wife: the commentator explains it apogatasrikanshehu jayavata karoshi, thou makest sundry persons, from whom women are separated, possessed of wives.

3. THE RIBHUS.—The text has unavah, which the Scholiast explains manushyah, and applies to Ribhavah.

THE VENERABLE (ANGIRASAS).—Brahmanah: Brahmans is the expression of the text, explained by the Scholiast angirasah: the verse occurs, with the hemistiche transposed, Sama-Veda, i. 439, 440.
7. Hast Arrested the Devices of Shushna.—
Shushnasya chit pari mayah agribhuh; Sayana explains mayah by yuvatiḥ, young damsels, thou hast seized upon, or carried off, the young women of Shushna.

Page 208.

9. To the Worshiffer.—Karne vahantu; karna is explained stotri, praiser, stotravī karoṭi, or yajamana, the institutor or maker of the rite.

11. Etashā has borne away the Wheel.—Bharachchakram Etashā; according to the comment, Etashā is put for Etashaya; he, Indra, has taken the wheel for Etasha: see vol. 1, p. 194, v. 13.

1. The Flood-gates.—Khāni, the holes or interstices of the clouds.

Sama-Veda, 1. 315.

3. From the body of Vītra, it is said, sprang the more powerful asura, Shushna, that is, allegorically, the exhaustion of the clouds was followed by a drought, which Indra, or the atmosphere, had then to remedy.

4. The Protector of the Showering Cloud.—
Miho-napatam, meghasya rakshitarum; napat, here meaning patri, a protector, a preserver, as in the Brahmana cited by the Scholiast, prana vai tasmānāpataḥ, sa hi tānākah pati; vital air is called the body-preserver, for it preserves the limbs.

8. Footless, Measureless, Speechless.—Apodam amatram mridhramachan; here amatram is said to signify amatram, aparimānam, without measure, or, perhaps, bulk.

1. Associated with the Maruts.—Samaryas, as an epithet of Indra, is of somewhat doubtful meaning: Sayana gives three explanations,

\textit{martyost, stutribhik, subhah}, together with mortals; that is, with worshippers. \textit{yuddhamanair-marudadbhik}, with the \textit{Maruts} and other combatants, or \textit{samara-atik}, fit for or suited to war.

\textbf{PAGE 211.}

3. This verse occurs in the \textit{Yajush}, 10--22, with some variety of reading, chiefly in the first hemistich, as \textit{ma ta Indra te vayam Turashad ayuktase abahumato vidasuma}, which \textit{Mahidhara} interprets, \textit{Indra Turashat}, may we who are thine, may we, unattached (to thy ear), never perish, like that which is not of the nature of spiritual existence; in the second line we have \textit{rashmin swashvan}, reins with good horses, instead of \textit{rashmin yamase swashwan}.

5. \textbf{All-powerful Indra.---Ahishushma, a rather unusual epithet of Indra; the Scholiast explains it, suryato eoyptabalal, of all-pervading strength.}

\textbf{LIKE BHAGA IN BATTLES.---Satteva Bhago na havyo prabhriteshu churuh} may be explained differently, as prabhrithe signifies war or sacrifice: may a faithful follower or ally, \textit{satteva-bhrityodih}, come, like Bhaga, as an associate, \textit{churuh sanyata}, to be commended; havyo, in sacrifices, or defended, \textit{pratibhatasahumantova}, in battles: as the divine Bhaga comes as our ally, so may followers and others come.

6. \textbf{Exulting.---Nritamana is, literally, dancing, anityan.}

\textbf{BRILLIANT WEALTH.---Ehims rayim} is, literally, white riches; where, if silver money be intended.

\textbf{PAGE 212.}

9. \textbf{Vidatha, the Son of Marutashwa.---We have had Vidathin before, Suka xxxix. verse 11, the father of Bijishwam; these names are not found in the principal Purnaish.}
BESTOWING UPON AND GIVING TO ME.—Chyavatana dadana, causing to alight upon, giving.

10. DHWANYA, THE SON OF LAKSHMANA.—We have here, also, an unusual name in Dhwanya, and Lakshmmana must be a different person from the brother of Rama.

2. THOUSAND-EDGED.—Sahasra bhrishtim, the Scholiast interprets aparimita tejas, of unbounded lustre.

3. PROUD OF HIS DESCENDANTS AND VAIN OF HIS PERSON.—Tatanushtim, tanushubhram, are explained, he who desires, (causht) an extended (tata) raw (santatim) and he whose person (tanu) is decorated (shubhra) with ornaments, and in both implying swaposhakam ayajvanam, a self-cherisher not offering sacrifice.

4. DOES NOT TURN AWAY.—Na uta ishate, he does not fear, or does not go up, or from hence: na bibheti na guck-chhati vr is the explanation of the Scholiast.

WHOSE BROTHER HE HAS SLAIN.—Avasdit has no other nominative than Shakra, but in the second line we have na kileishad ishate, he, Indra, does not go from sin, sin being put for sinner, that is, from one who is a parricide or the like, pitrudi-vadha-yuktat, that is, he does not turn away from him who has committed these crimes; the reason also is given, eti idvasya prayata, for verily he desires his offerings, prayatani danani; the doctrine, therefore, is here inculcated, that devotional merit compensates for want of moral merit; the converse is also implied by the passage quoted by Sayana from the Vedas, that sanctity does not compensate for want of devotion; Indra being represented as saying, I gave to the wolves the Paulomasis in the firmament, and the Tatis, the kalakanyas, and arunuuktus upon earth; because, Sayana observes, these Yatis did not worship or praise him.

9. Agni—Indra is intended, according to the Scholiast, as identical with Agni; of the following names, Agnivesha appears in the Puranas as a Rishi, a son of Brahma, but here his son at least must be a Raya.

Page 214.

2. Four, Three or . . . Five Classes.—Whatever favours may be granted to the four castes, the three lokas, or the five orders of men, pancha kshitinaam.

Page 215.

7. Our Chariot.—Ava ratham; the latter may also signify, the Scholiast suggests, a son, he whose nature it is to give delight to his parents, svanhasvabhavanam, putram.

2. Ascend to Thy Destructive Jaw.—Hanu shipra aruhat; as the two nouns have usually the same sense, as Sayana observes, one should be regarded as the epithet of the other, and he therefore explains hanu as the means of destroying, or destructive, hananasaadhavanam.

3. Through Dread of Poverty.—Amater-ic; amati is explained either dvaridryam, poverty, or asotri, one who does not praise or worship.

5. Do Thou Defend Us in Battle.—Another instance of the abuse of the derivations of vriksh, to rain or shower.

Page 217.

1. Sama-Veda, i. 366.

1. Since Previous Treasure is to be Distributed by Thee.—Mehonasti tvu datam rathas, is explained by Sayana, manushanyam dhanam rucaya dataryam, praisable wealth is to be given to thee; Yaska gives a like interpretation, but notices another interpretation of mehanasti, me iha nasti, what is not in this world, or on this occasion, mine, Nirukta, iv. 4: the verse occurs, Samã-Veda, i. 345. II. 522.

2. GIFT OF UNLIMITED SUSTENANCE.—Tanya akuparasya danatne, in the giving of that unlimited food, omnasya: Yaska would fill up the ellipse with danasya, gift; he explains akupa-para by durepara, or mahapara, having a distant or great opposite boundary, whence it is also an appellative of the sun and the ocean; it also means a tortoise, one who does not go into a well, kupa: the verse occurs Samã-Veda, II. 523.

3. BOUNTIFUL.—Dita, desiderative of da, desiring to give, an epithet of manas, mind or will; Benfey's text of the Sama reads diksha, II. 524.

2. THE SHOWERER.—Either of the Soma juice, or the benefits derivable from offering it; but here is the usual misuse of vrisha.

4. ACCEPTOR OF THE SPIRITLESS LIBATION.—Rijisha: the possessor or ruler of the rjisha, which is here explained gatasya somarasa, or that which has been offered at the morning and mid-day ceremonies, and of which the residue is now presented at the evening sacrifice.

5. SWARBHANU.—Swarbhana is a name of Rahu, the personified ascending node, and the causer of an eclipse; he was a son of Kashyapa, by Dasi, the mother of the Danes, or Asuras; Vishnu Pur. p. 147; another genealogy makes him the son of Viprachitti, by Sishika, the sister of Hiranya-kashipu, ibid., p. 148.

6. BY HIS FOURTH SACRED PRAYER.—That is, by the four stanzas of this hymn, from the fifth to the eighth.
2. Divinities Who Accept Pious Praise.—According to the commentator, divinities are of two orders, those who share praises, stotrabhajah, and those who share oblations kavirbhajah: the first is here alluded to.

Rudra the Showerer.—This last clause may be considered as applying especially to the Maruts as the sons of Rudra.

3. The Celestial Destroyer of Life.—Divo asrayo is explained dypamanyo pranapahartre, that is, to Rudra; and yajyave, yagyu-sadhakaya: or Asura may be rendered pranaadatri, the giver of life, when it will imply Surya or Vayu.

4. Treta.—Or Trito may be an epithet of Vayu, the threefold, pervading the three regions of heaven, mid-air, and earth.

9. The Parvatats.—The clouds, according to the comment.

In Liberal Donations.—Tuje nas-tane: tane is rendered by visritte, expanded, and tuje by dane, gift, or tuje may mean son, and tane grandson.

Establishers of the World-like Heroes.—Ye vimsat na virah, jagato vasayitarah viro iva is the explanation of the Scholast.

Accessible to All.—Aptye yajyate: according to Sayana, the first means aptayyo sarvah, to be obtained by all; the second, yajyate, to be worshipped, that is, Aditya.

Propitiated by Our Praise.—Nah shansam abhishten, our praise in seeking or approaching; the want of a verb renders this somewhat doubtful.

10. Earth-fertilizing Rain.—Vrishno bhuyaya garbhama: bhuyya, Sayana explains by, either suited to the earth or the firmament, bhumi-antariksham; in the latter case the embryo of the firmamental rain will mean Agni as the lightning, according to Sayama.

With his Withering Rays.—Grinite Agni etari na shushah; mayi gantari na krulhyati sukhakarui rashmibibhi, who is not angry upon me when going with his agreeable rays; but this seems inconsistent with the sense given to the verb: shusha, drying up, would be more congruous.

12. Bright as Cities.—Puro no shubhra, purani tre dipta, shining like cities.

15. As a Protectress.—Varutri, asmad upadrava tarayitri, what or who keeps off oppression upon us.

Page 223.

17. Niriki.—See note on IV. 1. 3. 7.

19. Ila and Urvashi.—Ila may here be the earth, or the daughter of Manu, in the form of a cow, the mother of the herd, yuthasya mata; or the latter may be explained nirmatri, she who measures; or yutha may be applied to the company of the Maruts, when Ila, it is said, may be madhyamika vach, middle, articulate or human speech; or the latter sense may be applied to Urvashi.

Investing the Worshipper with Light.—Abhyutansana prabhritya ayoh: the latter, the commentator says, is to be read aryam, in the accusative, man, or the Yajamana; prabhritya, upon the authority of Yaska, Nirukta, II. 49, may mean either light, tejas, or water, udakam, and, being in the genitive, requires some such term as danena, by the gift of, to be supplied; or the ellipse may be filled up by yajña, when the sentence will be, covering or protecting the sacrifice of the man making the offering.
20. Urjavya—Sishaktu na urjavyaya pushtek: urjavya is the name of a Raja; pushtek is for poshakasyn, one who cherishes or patronizes: the nominative to the verb may be either Urvashi or Ilā, or the Marudganaḥ, the company of the Maruts.

3. The Most Prophetic of the Prophets—Kavita-manaḥ kavīnaṃ: kavi, as before observed, is usually explained kranta-darshi, a seer or shewer of the past, whence may be inferred the application of his knowledge to the future,

"Till old experience doth attain,
To something of prophetic strain."

4. Yajur-Veda, 2. 15: there are one or two varieties of reading, but they are not of any importance.

5. Ribhushin—Ribhushin is usually considered to be a name of Indra, but here it implies Ribhu, whilst Parandhi is equivalent to Vibhu, making, with Vaja, the triad.

9. Put apart from the Sun—Suryād-ganayanaṃ, make them separate, condemn them to darkness.

Adversaries of Prayer—Brahmadveshin. Sayana says, may mean haters of Brahman, or of mantras, that is, in the latter case, of the Vedas.

1. The Milk Kine—Dhemutah, according to Sayana, here means rivers, and the rest of the stanzas harmonizes with his interpretation.

3. First Drink of this Sweet Juice—The Scholiast states that Vayu’s drinking first of the Soma is repeatedly enjoined, asukrit prapanchitam.

4. Soma yields its Pure Juice—The text has only shukras anshuh, which is thus explained, so cha anshuh
408  Rig-veda Translation

shukram niralam rasam dugelhe, and that Soma has milked the pure juice; or Anshu may be an epithet of Adhvaryu, the extensively present priest, anshur cyapto adhvaryuḥ.

Page 227.

6. GNA.—Gna is a synonyme of strī, a woman, a wife; it commonly expresses the wife of a deity: here, Sayana says, it is a proper name, Gnam, etusnamikam devatam.

7. The Vessel.—Gharma: see V. 2. 16. 15.

8. As the Bolt to the Axle of the Wagon.—As the cart cannot move if the axle of the wheel is not fastened by the pin or bolt, so the offering of the Soma is without efficacy unless the Ashwina be present.

Page 228.

12. Whose Back is Dark Blue.—That is, who is enveloped in smoke: from this and other attributes specified, and his presence in the sacrificial chamber, the Scholiast reasonably infers that Brihaspati is Agni, ityadi lingui-agy-aguir-eva Brihaspatih.

13. Horns of Three Colours.—Tridhatu shringah, his flames of three colours, red, white, and black (or smoke).

14. The Excellent Place.—That is, to the fire altar.

As People Rub the Limbs, Etc.—Sishum urijanty ayuṣa na nasa, yatho munushya shishum evasya urijanti: they rub the infant has double application, to the first kindling of Agni by attrition, and to the new-born babe.

15. Jointly offer......Sacrificial Food.—Conformably to the text, Jayapati agnim adahiyatam, let husband and wife worship or keep up Agni: the right of the wife to take part in fire-worship is laid down in the sixth chapter of the Mimansa.

16. See verse 16 of the preceding Sūtta.

16. See verse 17 of the preceding Sūtta.

1. By such Praises Thou Exaltest Him.—Or only vapi sarthame may be applied to Indra, thou prosperest; Indra, by such praises; this is Mahidhara's explanation, which differs in some other respects from that of Sayana, Yajur Veda, 7. 12.

5. The whole of this verse is singularly obscure; it is literally, seizing with the trees the seized in the effused, the produce of the branching, in the embryos of the mind well-moving, (or) well praised, among the speech holders, straight-sung, thou shiniest; augment the protectresses, the life in the sacrifice; it exhibits no little ingenuity in the Scholiast to have reduced this to any thing like intelligibility.

8. By the Sign of This Moving Revolution.—Asya yatusasya ketuna is the text; the explanation is karmam- dayadilakshanena, characterized by functions such as rising and the like.

He also... Acquires Abundant Reward.—Ya u swayam evam evam karat, he who, not urged by another, entertains of his own mind the hope of reward, he does much, or enough: atyartham karoti is one explanation; another is, atyartham kuryat, let him do much, or enough; neither is very explicit.

10. Kshatra, Manasa, Etc.—These, according to the Scholiast, are the names of the Rishis.

11. Swift is... Inebriation.—Shyena avam aditya laksaya mudak: shyena is interpreted shyktra, quick, and aditi, uttisvariddhah: avam, of these, implies the Soma juices; mudaka, intoxication, is the devata of the verse.
12. SADAPRIMA, ETC.—Names of Rishis again.

14. THE MINISTRANT PRIEST.—Sutamblabo yajamanasya satpatik: the last, according to Sayana, is put for hotri; the first is the name of a Rishi: its etymological purport, the bearer or offerer of the libation, is possibly only a metaphorical personation, and, with the context, though mystically expressed, merely describes the effusion of the Soma.

3. ANCIENT AUTHOR OF SACRED SONGS.—Mahisam janushe purvyaye, stutinam utpadayitie pratnaya, to an ancient begetter or producer of praises.

6. VISHISHTRNA.—Manur-vishishtripram jagaya: Manu conquered the enemy without a chin, or as shipra means also a nose, it might mean noseless: Sayana also says Indra and Vritra may be here intended.

7. TEN-MONTHS WORSHIP.—Or, when the priests of both the nine and ten months rites offered worship: see Vol. I, p. 276, note on I. 11. 5. 4.

SARAMA.—Sarana, according to Sayana, may here signify either flowing, eulogistic, or sacred speech, sharanashka stutirupaka vak, or, as usual, the bitch of Indra.

10. SURYA HAS ASCENDED, ETC.—Surya arubhat shukrom arnas: Surya has mounted the bright water, that is, the commentator says, he has become everywhere visible; but it looks very like an allusion to the sun's rising apparently out of the sea.
3. Swar.—Swar is a name of Aditya according to both commentators, this and the preceding stanza occurring also in the Yajush, 33, 48, 49.

8. Rodasi.—According to Yaska, she is the wife of Rudra: we have had her before as the bride of the Maruts, Vol. II, I. 23. 3-5.

May the Goddesses Partake.—Vyantu devih, may the goddesses eat, Nirukta, XII. 46.

The Season of the Wives of the Gods.—Yo ritar javinum, that which is the time of the wives of the gods, that is, the goddesses presiding over it: yo devajayanam kalatudabhiman devyah.

1. Awakener of her Daughter.—Duhitur bodhayanti, bhunya bodham kurvane, making the awaking of the daughter, the comment says, of the earth: in a subsequent passage quoted by Sayana we have Ushas called dvor duhita bhuma-nasya patni, the daughter of heaven, the bride of earth: she is most usually designated the daughter of heaven: see Vol. ii, I. 18. 4. 3.

3. Many-tinted and Pervading Luminary.—Prasnaa ashma vichakrame vajrapatyantra, also Yajur-Veda, 17, 10, where, besides the explanation given by Sayana, as in the translation, Mahidhara takes the word ashma, rendered by him as by Sayana, vyapaka, or sarvatra vyapta, pervading also in its usual sense of stone, alluding, he says, to a pashuna, or stone, which in some ceremonies is placed in the Ahavaniga fire, and to it he applies the epithets that are, in the other interpretation, ascribed to Surya: Sayana probably refers to this when he intimates that ashma may also imply a simile, the term of comparison being dropped, luptopani va asma sadrishah.

4. The Four Chief Priests.—The text has only chat-swarah, four: the comment supplies Ritvijah.

His Three Elementary Rays.—Tridhataco yacah, supposed to be the causes of cold, heat, and rain.

5. (Behold).—It may be rendered, also, men, look at the form which is to be seen: the text has no verb.

5. Here and There Sustain.—It is not very clear what is intended, but apparently the Scholiast understands it to mean that the firmament is supported or maintained in its place by the various changes of times and seasons which it may be considered to generate.

1. This is addressed to Agni as the lightning.

2. The Dawns which have, etc.—Apo, apachir-apara apejati: the Scholiast renders apachik by pratinivrittamukhi, apao by agaminir-ushasah, and the verb by apahalayahati, he causes to go away, he sends away future dawns with averted faces: the first apo is considered a pleonasm.

Improves His Understanding, etc.—*Pratapvahhrir-Y: pratirn: is explained vardhayati vso nanishom, or swayam vardhate.

PAGE 237.

4. As of a Deputy.—Tam asya ritim parashor-ica: the text has no verb; the comment supplies pashyani and interprets parasu by pratimikthi, a deputy, a substitute: in like manner as a deputy fulfils the will of his master, so the functions of Agni make him the deputy or representative of the yajamana; or parasu may imply an axe, as usual, which accomplishes the object of the wood-cutter, as Agni does that of the sacrificer.

5. WE KNOW HIM NOT AS ENDOWED, ETC.—No tasya vidma purushatvata sayam: the Scholiast says tasya is for tam, we do not know him, joined with or possessed of yuktam, manliness, purushatvam, or the property of fulfilling desires, kamanam purakatvam.

1. DISTRIBUTORS OF PRECIOUS WEALTH.—This function has been before assigned to Bhaga. Sukt. xlvi. verse 6; he was there named Bhaga vishakta explained dhanamam vibha-gurita: here he is designated ratnam vibhajantam: the Scholiast first applies ratnam to havish, the oblation; but he also says yajamanaratham dhanam vibhajantam: see also Mandala iv. 17. 11, where he is called vajra vishakta.

3. BESTOW EXCELLENT VIANDS.—Adyatra yatra var-yani: the first is explained adannayani, entables; the verb also, it is said, may be governed by Agni understood, when the phrase will mean, Agni consumes excellent consumable timbers, varaniyani kashtham dasate: in that case the other terms, usually proper names, will become epithets, meaning the nourishing, the desirable, the uninjurable Agni.

5. PRESENTED VICTIMS TO THE VARUS.—Pra ye vasubhyu ivada namah: ivad namah are interpreted yamanaved annam, food having motion, that is, yashvatmakam, the same with animals.

1. Yajur-Veda, 4. 8.

2. WE SEEK TO UNITE WITH OUR DESIRES.—Te rayo, teyhi a prache suchamahi suchathyai, is not very perspicuous, and the explanation of Sayana, followed in the translation, does not materially improve it, te abhaya dhanam suuchamahi, te hity aparvanishyath sarvaih kamaish sangachchhenah.
3. Worship, therefore, etc.—Ato sa a nrim atithin, akah patnim dashasyata; the verb may be differently interpreted, and the text imply, bestow upon us male descendants, guests, and wives.

4. Whence the Victim, etc.—Yatra vahuir-abhibhitak might mean, where the fire is placed, but Sayana interprets vahni, yajnasya vedha; the bearer of the sacrifice which, from the following epithet, dronya, fit for the tree, that is, for the yupa, or post to which the animal is tied, he concludes must mean pashu, the victim.

LIKE A CLEVER WIFE.—Arna dhurem, aranakushala yoshidiva, like a woman skilful in going or in pleasing; the sense of arana is, however, doubtful.

1. THE Protecting Deities.—Umebhish, rakshakarth; we have had the umā before as a class of deities, sometimes identified with the Pitris; see Vol. ii, note on III. 1. 6. 8.

PAGE 240.

8. LIKE ATRI, DELIGHT IN THE LIBRATION.—Atri may be also used for the sacrifice of the Rishi; delight as at the yajna of Atri.

11. MAY THE ASHWINS CONTRIBUTE TO OUR POSTERITY.

The term in this and the following similar passages is always swasti-swasti no mimitam ashwna, interpreted avinasham eshemam, imperishable prosperity, or, literally, well-being, welfare.

14. PATH OF THE FIRMAMENT AND GODDESS OF RICHES.

Pathya, Revati, are considered as two proper names, Pathya that of a goddess presiding over the Antariksha, and Revati, of a goddess presiding over riches; it may be doubted if there is any better authority for these divinities than etymology.
15. WITH A REQUITING, GRATIFICATION AND COGNISANT KINSMAN.—Punardadatta, aghnata, janata, with one who gives again, one who does not kill or harm, usually, one who does not make an evil return to kindness, one who is grateful, although Sayana here explains it, one who does not inflict injury by long-suspended anger; janata, by one knowing, he says, is meant one who does not cut an old acquaintance, madhyagush-chirakalam yatuk ko ayam siti sancham ukuratu, by one who does not feel any doubt, saying, who is this of mine that has been long since gone away; to these designations, bandhujanana, a kinsman, is to be applied, bandhujanena sangamenaiki.

7. THE MARUTS WHO ARE OF THE EARTH.—Ye parthina, prithivicambuddhah, connected with the earth.

Urna vasata shundhyavah, diptih shodhikah uchchhada-yanti: purifiers they put on light; the last is perhaps a more correct form of the noun than sundhyavah, as formerly given, Vol. ii, p. 213, note on 4.

10. THE PATHS THAT LEAD US, ETC.—The words so rendered are Apathayah, Vipathayah, Antaspatham, Anuspathah, which may also be considered as the proper names of these four orders of the Maruts.

11. THEY UPHOLD THE DISTANT OBJECTS.—The text has only adha pararatah, the latter being formed from pararat, duradesahah, a distant place or country, tat sambandhinah being in relation to it; that is, according to Sayana, the winds being in the firmament give support to the distant stars and planets.
14. Like a Friend.—Mitram en may also be rendered adityam en, like the sun.

16. Seven Times Seven.—According to another text, there are seven troops of the Moruta, each consisting of seven, making up the usual number of forty-nine, suggesting, most probably, rather than suggested by, the absurd legend given in the Puranas, Vishnu Pur. 151.

17. Upon the Banks of the Yamuna.—Yamunayam udhi shrutam radho gurugam is rather a remarkable passage, as if an allusion were intended to Gokula, the scene of Krishna's boyhood.

3. Formless.—Arapasah, aleps, may mean intangible.
4. In Bracelets.—Khadihu: in a former passage khadi was interpreted hasta tancava, a guard for the hand or arm, Vol. ii. p. 87, verse 3; it is here rendered hastapadasthita katalah, rings for the hands or feet, bracelets or anklets.
9. Rasa, Anitabha, Kubha.—Names of rivers, according to the comment.

The Wide-Roving Ocean.—Kramah sindhah is explained sarvatra kramanah samudra, the everywhere-going ocean.

Page 245.

15. Imperishable Grain-Seed.—Dhanyam bijam akshtam: unperishing grain-seed is the literal interpretation; perhaps a copulative is required; grain and seed, only, in fact, the grain is the seed.
19. To Whom Solemn Rites are Familiar.—Prishthayajyane: by whom the sacrifices called Prishtha are made: these are said to be six, of which two only are specified by the Scholiast, Rathanara and Brihat, Shatprishthaik Rathanara-brihadadibhir yanaya.

Page 246.

9. This Wide-Extended Earth.—Pravadevati prithivi: a set of changes is here rung upon the double compound, pra-cuti, having extent, extension, and cut, again, having or possessing, pravadevat, extensive, or it may imply, having pre-eminence, as indicated by pra, pra: another meaning is also given to it, tat-puro, being subject to it, as the earth is subject to the Maruts, or they pervade the whole earth, kritnam bhumim vyapnucanti: so the heaven is pravadevati, spacious, or subject to the pravata, pravaddhyat, the pre-eminent or spreading Maruts, and so on.

Page 247.

10. Leaders of the Universe.—Surasarah is interpreted surasya natarah, leaders of all; diw sarah, leaders of heaven, follows.

11. Golden Tiarae Are Towering on Your Heads.—Shiprah shirshavesa citata kiranaryayik: shipra is explained ukhnisaumayyath, composed of turbans or head-dresses.

12. And Stir the Bright Water.—Rusbat pippalam, shrubhravarnam udakam, or it may be applied to nakam, the heaven of bright water, the firmament.

You Utter a Loud Shout.—The text changes the person of the verb, yut suvaranti ghoshum, when they sound a noise; and this suggests to the Scholiast to propose other explanations, as when they, the Asuras, make a fearful noise, or when the worshippers utter loud praises.

13. Tishta.—Tishta is said by Sayana to be a synonyme of Aditya: in its ordinary acceptation it is the eighth lunar mansion: the appropriation is of some interest, as affording evidence of the existence of the astronomical divisions of the moon's path in the days of the Veda.

14. The Sage Learned in the Sama.—Samapram, somnam vididham prerayitaram, the prompter or instigator, in various ways, of the Sama hymns.

Page 250.

3. As the People of the Earth, etc.—Mihushmati, prithivi parakata is explained probalasamikas prithivi parair, angir abhihuta, the earth having a powerful master when oppressed by others: earth, says Sayana, is put for its inhabitants, praja, people or subjects, who, when oppressed, have recourse to their own ruler, or yatha sammaminam upadruta abhipachchhahi.

4. Like Horses.—The text has gavah, which the Scholiast translates by ashwah, horses.

5. Like a Heap of Waters.—Gavam sargam iva may be also rendered, like a herd of cattle.

8. Rodasi.—The wife of Rudra, and mother of the Maruta.

9. The Rain-bestowing Goddess.—Mihushi is considered to be another name of Rodasi, the wife of Midhevat, an appellation of Rudra.

1. The comparison is very elliptically intimated, and requires to be largely assisted by the comment: it is, literally, this our praise is addressed to you as to the thirsty, from heaven, rushing waters to the water-wishing: Sayana explains it as alluding to the legend of the well brought by the Maruta to Gotama when suffering from thirst; see Vol. i, p. 127.
8. WORSHIPPED WITH COPIOUS OBLATIONS.—Bṛihat ukshamanah may also mean sprinkling much water, udakam sanchantah.

4. MODELLED BY VIBHWA.—Vibhucatashtam: vibhwa is the second of the Rikhus, a skilful artist: fabricated by him, implies, according to the comment, very perfect or handsome, tena nirmitam atyartharupavantam.

6. MAY EMIT A DOWNWARD SOUND.—Avosriyo vrishabhah krundatu dyauḥ: dyauḥ: vrishabhah, mean, it is said, the shining showerer, that is, Parjanya, or Indra, in that capacity, usriyāḥ, in connection with the asura or rays of the sun, avakrundatu, avamukham shabdayatu, may sound with his face turned downwards, vrishtyartham, for the sake of rain.

7. THEIR PERIPETIZATION.—Swedam suvedasthuyam varṣham, rain in place of peripetization.

8. WORSHIPPED WITH COPIOUS OBLATIONS.—Repeated from the last verse of the preceding Sukta.

1. THE PRIEST.—Spasḥ, nom. spat, for sprashta, one who touches the oblation, or the fire, an unusual term for the Hotri.

PAGE 254.

7. BOTH GODS AND MORTALS.—The text has only ubhaye yatha viduk, as both know: Sayana explains it, men of course know by perception the setting in of the rains; the gods know it by the aprayana and other sacrifices which are offered at that season.

PAGE 256.

V. 3. 5. (INTRODUCTORY NOTE). A WONDERFUL OLD STORY.—Sayana calls it, saścharyam puravrittam.
ahuragamaparagah, those who have gone through the aquam have related a wonderful old occurrence.

6. THOUGH A FEMALE—Uts tua stri Shashyasis: tua is said here to mean eke, one, which is equivalent to the indefinite article.

PAGE 258.

8. HER OTHER HALF—Nemah is the term in the text, meaning, literally, half, as it is said in the Smritis, ardham shasrirasya bhraya, a wife is the half of the body (of the husband).

17. DARSHYA.—The patronymic is also read in some places Dolbhya.

On NIGHT.—Upon concluding the praises of the Maruts, and thus having attained the rank of a Rishi, Shyavashwa, summons the night, here called Urmga, to convey the intelligence to Rathaviti, who gives him his daughter, with many valuable presents, but at the end of the ceremony the Rishi departed for the woods to resume his austerities; it is not said if he took his wife with him, but it is to be so inferred.

19. GOMATI RIVER—Gomatih, according to the comment, means, having water, rivers, being in the plural: as the name of a river it would be the Gomati river in Oude, which rises in the skirts of the first range of the Himalaya; or it may be a river of the same appellation more to the northwest, rising in Kulu, a leader of the Beyah or Vyasa.

His STERDS.—Which are said to be attempted to be detained by a class of Aryan termed Mandebras.
Most Excellent of the Embodied Forms of the Gods.—Devanam shraddham caupushunam is also explained the best of the embodied or light-possessing deities, that is, of Agni and others; devanam caupushunatma tejoratam agyadivam prashasayam; or it may apply to the sun only, the mandala, the orb, the visible form, as it were, of the sun; mandalam hri-suryaya caupushunayam.

2. The One Chariot of You Two Goes Round.—Yam ehak pavir u vasrita pav is the circumference of a wheel, put by metonymy for the chariot; as Sayana explains the phrase, yucayor eko race anukramanenam parabhranatra.

5. Augmenting the Well-Known and Ample Form.—Shrutam amatim anuvardhad-urvim, which the Scholiast interprets, visrutam sharivadipim anuvardhagopantam, augmenting the renowned bodily lustre, and separates urvim, tad tad urvim paulyantam, but gives no equivalent for the word, which usually means great; the passage is obscure.

Ascend Your Car, etc.—Garte mitra asatah; garta, it is said here means ratha, a car; Nirukta, 3. 5, and as it recurs in verse 8, arohatho Varuna, Mitra, gartam.

6. Mansion of a Thousand Columns.—Kshatram sahasrasathhum, anekamakshambhakastambhopan smudhaddirupa-griham; a house, such as a palace and the like, possessing many supporting pillars; the expression is noticeable as indicating the existence of stately edifices; Sayana purposes also to render kshatram by dhanam, wealth, or balam, strength, applying the last to the ratha, the strong chariot of the deities supported by innumerable columns.

8. Atash-chakshathye aditam sitim cha, is explained, aditam, akhandaniyam bhumim, the indivisible earth, and ditim, khandaniyam prayatikam, the divisible people and the rest: the stanza occurs in the Yajush, 10. 15, with a various reading of the first half; but Mahidhara explains ditim by adinam, not base, that is, vishitanushthataram, one who follows what is prescribed, that is, performs his religious duties; and ditim by dinam, base, or nastikavritram, an infidel; the phrase meaning that Mitra and Varuna observe that this man is a sinner, that man righteous, nyam papi, nyam punyavan.

3. Your Forms Traverse Earth and Heaven.—Vam tanyavah, visritra rashmayah, the expanding rays.

3. By the Power of the Emitter of Showerers.—Aurasya mayaya is explained udaka niratisuk parjanyakam samarthhyena, by the power of Parjanya, the caster-forth of water, influenced by Mitra and Varuna as the deities presiding over day and night.

7. With Rapid Steeds.—Hastibhih padbhah, literally, with hands, with feet, that is, according to the Scholiast, with those having four feet, that is, with horses.

5. The Children of Varuna.—Varunasheshasah; shesha is said to mean apatya, offspring.

Page 264.

1. Varuna, Whose Form Is Water.—Varunaya ritapeshara, udakam eva rupam yasya, of whom the form is verily water.
4. EVEN OF THE SINNER.—Ankaschit, popino api, even of the sinner: Sayana adds svastotah, of your own prayer, but it may be doubted if this qualification is necessary.

V, 5, 12.—All the verses of this Sukta occur in the Sama-Veda, ii. 493, 494, 495, and 818, 819.

4. THEY FAVOUR THE ZEALOUS WORSHIPPER.—Ritam ritena sapanta iśhiram daksam ashatē is explained udakena nimittena yajnam sprishantau eshanavanam pravṛddham yajamanam kavir va vyapnutaḥ, they two, for the sake of water, touching or affecting the sacrifice, they pervade the inquiring, powerful institution of the rite, they reward him: or it may be, they pervade or accept the efficacious, adequate oblation.

Page 266.

1. AUGMENTING THE FORCE OF THE VIGOROUS INDRA.—Vāvridhanau anatim kṣhatriyasya: anatī is usually rendered form, ṛpa: kṣhatriyasya the Scholiast explains: possessed of strength, kṣatram, balam, an attribute, and here an appellative of Indra: or it may mean, he says, the kṣatrisya: or military caste.

2. STAND SEVERALLY IN THEIR THREE SPHERES.—Agni, Vāyu, and Aditya, present, severally, upon the earth, in the mid-air, and in heaven.

3. FOR PROSPERITY AND HAPPINESS.—The text is śaṃ yoh, which is explained vriśṭaṣthamanayo, sukhaya mishrana-yo cha, for the alleviation or prevention of calamity, and for the mixture or association of happiness.

3. Sama-Veda, ii. 335—337.

3. YOU HAVE ARRESTED ONE LUMINOUS WHEEL, ETC.—Irvā anyyed āpūṣhe āpūṣh-chakram rathasya yanathuh:
the passage is obscure, even with the aid of the Scholiast: irswa he renders, sapas, form. sapashe, adityangya shobhayat, for the beauty or lustre of the sun; sapas, he considers equivalent to sapushmat, having light or lustre, luminous, as an epithet of chakram: the fixing of one wheel of the car of the Ashwins has been alluded to before; see Vol. 1, page 40, verse 19.

The Ages of Mankind.—Nahusha yogas is the derivative of nahusha, manushya, man; yasa for yugani, is explained as used by metonymy for the divisions of time in general, as morning, noon, night, or the sacrifices offered at stated periods.

5. Resplendent Rays of Light Encompass You.—
Pari-vam anusha sasyo qhrina varanta atapah may also be rendered, according to Sayana, the radiant horses, sasyoh, ashvah, qhrina, bright, scorchers, atapah, of enemies, accompany you.

Page 269.

8. Mixers of the Soma Juice.—Madhyayacah, somader mishrayatarau, mixers, or causers of the mixing of Soma and other things.

1. Descended. . . . upon the Earth.—Kashtahl, the singular used for the dual, bhumaq tishthantaq, being upon the earth; or ku may be equivalent to kwa, where, where are you two abiding?

4. Pauru.—Pauram chid udaprunam, pauru paurya jisrathah: the name of the Rishi is here, according to the Scholiast, arbitrarily applied, first to the Ashwina, because they are in relation with Pauru as the author of the Sukta; and although the text gives Pauru in the vocative singular, it is to be understood in the dual, Pauru, therefore, being Ashvins: next it implies, as Pauram, a cloud, from its being solicited by the Rishi for the fall of rain, as implied by the last term, Pauraga, to me the Rishi so-called.

4. AS. . . . A LION IN A FOREST.—Sinhara sam drukapada: the latter is rendered a place of difficult access, a thicket: the comment supplies, for the government of the accusative, yatha balad cjayavanta shurah, as heroes hurl down a lion by their strength.

8. Angusha martyesha, yajumanesha, madhye stutyah, to be praised amongst worshippers, or angusha may be a substantive meaning stotra or stoma, praise. may the praise of the ear of the Ashvins amongst men, or by the priests, be beneficial to us, amayah.

10. THE EXCELLENT SACRIFICIAL OFFERINGS, ETC.—Vasvir u shu van bhujah princhanti savam pricha, is explained as in the text, vasvir bhujah being rendered by prashanyani dhanami hasirlakshmanani, excellent riches, characterized by the oblation, that is, sacrificial offerings, and princhanti by prapmuvanti, obtain or reach being prichah, yuvam praptum kanyayamanah, desiring to reach you; Sayana suggests also another explanation: the worshippers, su prichah, who enjoy vasvir-bhujah, wealth of sacrificial offerings, bring them into due contact with you, savam susthu samparchayanti.

1. MASTERS OF MYSTIC Lore. HEAR MY INVOCATION.—Madhri nuna skrutam haran: the first is explained, madhrividya veditaran: see Vol. i, i, 17, i, 12 and note: the verse occurs twice in the Sama-Veda, i. 418, ii. 1093.
3. This and the preceding occur in the Sama-Veda, ii. 1094-95.

4. Distinguished, Devoted, Embodied (Adorer).—The epithets are unusual, kakusa, uriga, sapusha, explained severally by the commentator, mahan, great, mrigayita, searcher, sapushman, having body, yajamana is understood.

9. Blazing with the Oblation.—Rushat pashu might mean blazing with the victim; but the Scholiast interprets pashu here either by rashmi, a ray, or havish, oblation.

1. Agni Lights up the Face of the Dawns.—Abhutiagnir-ushasam anikam; the latter is interpreted mukham, or the verse may be rendered. Agni, the face or beginning of the dawns, shines.

Come Hither To-day to the, etc.—Pipivansam gharmam aghchha, that is, according to the Scholiast, swangash parivridham pradiptam yajnam, to the bright sacrifice, vast or developed with all its members; or pipivansam may imply apayitam, nourished, with the Soma juice or with clarified butter; gharma, again, may also mean the vessel so called, or the Pravargya ceremony, at which it is used, being fed or nourished, pipivansam, with the butter and curds it contains.

2. With Protection against Destitution.—Amsaagamishtha pratyavartin; varti, it is said, means jivam, living or livelihood; avarti, the contrary, the want of it.

3. Whether You Come, etc.—The day is divisible into two, three, five, or fifteen parts: here the five-fold distinction is alluded to: udita suryasya is explained the afternoon, atyanta pravriddhasamayah aparaha ityarthah.
THE DRINKING OF THE SOMA... ASHWINS.—Nedanin-pitir ashwina tattana: it is related that the other gods refused to admit the participation of the Ashwins in the Soma libation at these hours, but on the present occasion they are not passed over: idam api suradecanum yamam na tanotyasheinan vibhaia, but now the drinking of the other gods does not extend, having omitted the two Ashwins.

Page 273.

1. THE ANCIENT SAGES.—Kavayah purvakhaipah: kavi is said to mean one learned in the Vedas, on the authority of the Aitareya Brahmana, ye va anuchanas-te kavayah, those who are anuchanas are kavis, and anuchana is explained in the commentary on the same work, shadanyasahita vedadhya-yinah, students of the Vedas with the six supplements.

2. THE EVENING IS NOT FOR THE GODS.—Conformably to another text, purvakno cru decanam, the forenoon verily is for the gods.

1. SWANS.—The hansa, the swan or goose, is supposed to be a connoisseur in pure water.

2. LIKE TWO WILD CATTLE.—Like two Gaurus, Bos Gaurus.

4. FIRE OF CHAFF.—See Vol. I, p. 180, verse 8: the fire is here called vibisam, tushtagnim, a fire of chaff.

5. Ancient chroniclers, puravida, says Sayana, tell this story: the sons of the brothers of Saptavahatri being determined (it is not stated why) to prevent his having intercourse with his wife, shut him up every night in a large basket, which they locked and sealed, letting him out in the morning; in this dilemma the Rishi prayed to the Ashwins, who came to his succour, and enabled him to get out of his cage during the night, he returning to it at day-break: in this stanza he first addresses the basket, petika, as a form of Vanaspati, lord of forests, and then invokes the Aświnīs.

3. This verse, somewhat modified, occurs in the Yajur 8, 98.

This and the two stanzas preceding are termed by Sayana the garbhāśhraviniyupanishad, the liturgy of child-birth.

1. Sama-Veda, i. 421, ii. 1090; the concluding phrase is the burden of the following verses, sujata; ashvamedhīte; sujata, well-born, is explained abhicchanaśpraduhati bhūta, becoming manifest with splendour or light; ashvamedhītva, she whose praise for the sake of horses is affectionate and true, asvamārtha priyamatyastmika stutivyasyāyaḥ sa.

5. These Thy Assembled Worshippers. — Yach chid hi te gana ime chhada yanti maghāttaye, perichid vashyayo dadhur dadhato radho ahram: Sayana seems rather dubious as to the proper sense of several of these words: mahataye may mean dhanadana or dhanavatattvaya, for giving or for possessing wealth; pari chid vasyayo dadhur is explained, asmān eva kamanayanam parito dharaya; desires of or being kind to us, they support us every way, and dadhato radho ahram may mean giving wealth that is not to be wasted or taken away, or of which there is no need to be ashamed: the sum of the meaning, agreeably to the Scholast, is, all they who, offering oblations, worship the dawn, receive the reward for the benefit of us, or of me, that is, of the author of the hymn, ye tvam havir-dadatoh stuvanti te surve aṣya-asmadartham phalam dharaya.
1. The verse occurs in the Yajush, 5. 14, and is there somewhat differently explained: viprasya brikato vipashchitat, which Sayana regards as epithets of Savitri, are connected by Mahidhara, with vipa, and are rendered the priests of the eminent and wise (institutor of the rite): again, in the second hemistich it is not clear whom the commentator understands by eko savamavid, the only one, knowing knowledge, although he possibly concurs with our Scholiast in identifying Savitri with Brahma.

2. Savitri Comprehends All Forms in Himself. — Vishwa rupani pratimunchate, he liberates, severally, all forms: that is, according to Sayana, atmani budhani or darwin he binds or holds in himself: Mahidhara, Yajur-Veda, 13. 3, explains it, he makes all forms manifest in their own substance, by removing darkness.

Has Illumed the Heaven. — Nakam vyakhyat, swargam prakasayati, he makes manifest Surya as the reward of the Yajamana.

3. Yajush, II. 6. sa etashah savitri: Sayana explains etashah by etavorah, shubhra, shobhamana, white-coloured, bright, shining: Mahidhara resolves it into etad, thus, in this world, and sheh, who reposes in, who pervades: or, as etasha ordinarily means a horse, Nighantu, 1. 14, it may be intended to designate the sun under that form.

Page 278.

1. Surya. — According to Sayana, Savitri is especially the sun before rising; Surya is the sun in general.

1. Enjoyable Wealth. — The text has bhojanam, most usually food, but it is here explained bhogam, to be enjoyed, that is, dhana, wealth.
3. That Savitri Who is Bhaga.—So Savita Bhaga: or the latter may be an attributive, bhajaniya, to be worshipped, or shared, or desired.

4. Drive Away Evil Dreams.—Para dukshwopnyam sum: Sayana considers the second equivalent to dariidryam, poverty: the verse occurs in the Sama Veda, t. 141.

5. That which is Good.—Bhadram, progeny, cattle, dwelling, as by the text, praJa vai, bhadram, pashavo bhadram, griham bhadram iti.

6. To the Will of the Divine Savitri.—Devasya savituh save: the last is explained by the Scholiast anujnayam satyam, his will or assent existing; Aditi is said to mean here bhumi, the earth.

7. All the Gods.—Vishwadevam, as by the text, Tam hi sarvatmahead Indram, Mitram, Varunam, Agnim ahuh, they have verily called him Indra, etc., from his identity with all.

1. Parjanya.—Parjanya is Indra in his character of the sender of rain: Sayana cites Yasika, Nirukta, 10, 10, for various fanciful etymologies; as par, derived from trip, to satisfy, by revering the final consonant of the latter, and rejecting its initial, janya may imply either victor, jeta, or generator, jenayita, or impeller, prarjayita, of fluids, rasanam: the usual Unadi derivation is quite as probable, which refers it to wish, to rain, p being substituted for r, ri becoming the guna, ar, and sh being changed to j, anya is the affix.

3. The Messenger of War.—The text has only dutan, which the Scholiast interprets bhatau, warriors.
6. Drops of the Rainy Charger.—Vrishno ashttvaryo: Sayana, however, explains the latter vyapakasva of the pervading rain.

9. Destroyest the Wicked Clouds.—Hansi duhk-kritah, the wicked, here means, according to the Scholiast, the clouds not yielding their water.

1. Prthivi.—According to Sayana, Prthivi may here admit a two-fold meaning, and apply also to the antariksham, or firmament, when the subsequent phrases, parvatanam kshidram bibharshi, will mean, thou sustainest the fracture, or opening of the clouds, and maham jinshi bhumin, thou delightest the earth with great or abundant rain.

Page 281.

2. He has placed Fire in the Waters.—Either the lightning amidst the rain, or the submarine fire: the Yajush, l. 31, reads viśku for apru, he placed in people, or human beings, digestive fire.

Soma Plant in the Mountain.—Somam adrau: the Soma creeper, Makidhara observes, grows in the crevices of the stones of mountains, parvatanam pashanaasandhishu somavāllyā utpadyamanatvat.

3. As the Rain Bedews the Barley.—Yavan as vrishitr, vyunatti bhuma: Sayana is disposed to render vrihi by seka, the sprinkler, the man, yuman, who waters the soil, but this does not seem necessary, and it is not so explained in the Nirukta, 10. 4.

Page 282.

6. But these wonderful acts, according to Sayana, are not the acts of Varuna, but of Paramēshvara, the Supreme Being, from his existing in the forms of Varuna and others, Varuna Parameswara Ansya uchitam no Varunaasya, tu gaya Varunadirupavasthakam.

7. A Benefactor, a Friend.—Aryaman ivyaksha va, according to Sayana, are the same as Aryaman and Mitra, the final ya being pleonastic; the first he explains by datri, a giver, or by guru, a spiritual preceptor.

A Dumb Man.—Varunaranam va: the Pada separates the word into Varuna and Aranam: the meaning of the latter is somewhat uncertain: Sayana explains it as ashtadharmam, not having sound or speech, or as adataran, not giving, niggardly;
but neither is quite satisfactory.

1. As Trisna Confutes the Words of His Opponents.—Vanir-ivo Trisna: the comment explains this, Trisna rishi prativedavakyan prabhisvati, as the Rishi Trisna breaks or refutes controversial arguments; or Trisna may mean Agni, who, in the three regions, disregards or dissipates reproaches.

2. The Five Classes of Men.—Pancha charshavani: this precludes all allusion to mythological beings.

Page 283.

5. Like Two Adityas.—Ansa: ansa is the name of one of the twelve Adityas, here put in the dual, ansa va, for any two.

6. Like the Soma Juice Expressed.—Ghritam no putam odhibhik: mention of the stones restricts the sense of ghritam to the Soma effusion.

V. 6. 15.—This Sukta is more than ordinarily obscure, abounding in unusual words, and unconnected and ungrammatical constructions; thus the name of the Rishi, Bouyamarut, remains unaltered in its case termination, whatever.
may be its syntactical connection with the rest of the sentence; this possibly has led Professor Benfey to regard it as an epithet of the Marut in the vocative singular, and to translate it sturmvolle Marut, but this would not get quit of the grammatical incompatibility, as the Maruts are always designated in the plural, except when spoken of as a gana, a troop or company; moreover, there is no authority for giving to Evaya the sense of stormy: Sayana is sufficiently explicit, and he only follows the Anukramani, Suktam Evayamarutakhyasya Atreyasya Muner-arsham, the Sutra has for its Rishi the muni of the race of Atri, who is named Evayamarut.

1. Vishnu Attended by the Maruts.—Vishnou Maruteate: vishnou is considered by the Scholiast as the adjective to the pervading, eyapaya, that is, Indra, of whom Maruteate is a usual designation: he admits, however, as an alternative, Vishnou so, or to Vishnou; also Sama-Veda, i. 462.

3. In Whose Dwelling there is, etc.—Na yesham tri sudhasthe ishte is explained by Sayana, Marutam swakya nisast saktotam prcita na ishte na ishte chalavitiin, there is no impeller who has power to cause the movement of the Maruts when abiding in their own abode.

Impellers of the Rivers.—That is, the lightning, as associated with rain, may be considered as giving impulse to the rivers.

8. Vishnu.—Indra, it is said, is here again meant.
