

Masters of Hindustani Classical Music

A series by IGNCA

Vidushi Savita Devi

Indira Gandhi National Centre for the Arts (IGNCA) presents 'Masters of Hindustani Classical Music', a series of recordings that captures India's unbroken lineages in music. For centuries, the vast repertoire of Hindustani classical music has been enriched by the contributions of various gharanas, the schools of music. This ambitious research project of IGNCA is envisaged as a tribute to the celebrated masters of this genre, as also to preserve and disseminate the traditional compositions and manifold forms that we have inherited.

The recordings present India's rich traditions of music that have lived and thrived through the efforts of artistes, composers, patrons of gharanas, and many dedicated disciples of the legendary gurus.

Vidushi Savita Devi inherited the illustrious tradition of Banaras gharana from her mother and iconic singer Siddheshwari Devi. Endowed with a rich voice, she trained under her mother for several years. It is said of Savita Devi that her voice touches the depths of the hearts of the listener. On music she says "I offer my sur as offering to God. For me music is to manifest that which is intangible and to give form to the formless." She has established an Academy in the memory of her mother. The major objective of the Academy is to preserve and continue the music of such eminences as Siddheshwari Devi, Begum Akhtar, Rasoolan Bai and Badi Moti Bai. She has been a teacher at the University of Delhi, imparting training on Sitar to hundreds of students. Her book on her mother and her compilations of compositions offer proof of her scholarship.
