The Cincinnati Museum Association

RECEIVES

Endowments and gifts of money to be applied to general or specific purposes in the Museum and Academy; and,

Gifts and loans of objects of all kinds, that come within the scope of the Museum.

The isolated location of the buildings in Eden Park, their fireproof construction, and the constant care of the collections day and night, must commend the Museum as a safe depository for works of art, either permanently, or during the temporary absence of owners from their homes.

FORM OF BEQUEST.

I do hereby give and bequeath to the

CINCINNATI MUSEUM ASSOCIATION

in the City of Cincinnati, Hamilton County, Ohio,

.....

(Bequests may be made in money, books, paintings, sculpture, and all other objects of art).

BY-LAWS.

I.

The Annual Meeting of the Association shall be held on the first Monday in March in each year.

II.

The Board shall elect annually from their own number a President, Vice-President and Treasurer, and appoint a Director, a Secretary and a Cashier, and such other officers as may from time to time be deemed necessary, and define their duties and fix their compensation.

III.

The stated meetings of the Board of Trustees shall be held on the second Tuesday of each month, at 4 p. m. Special meetings may be called by the President, upon the written request of three members.

IV.

Five members of the Board shall constitute a quorum, and it shall require five affirmative votes to approve any proposition.

V.

There shall be the following Standing Committees, of not less than four members each, to be appointed annually by the President, and the Director shall be ex-officio a member of such Committees as the President may designate:

- | | |
|---------------------------|--------------------|
| 1. Finance. | 4. Classification. |
| 2. Law. | 5. Art Academy. |
| 3. Buildings and Grounds. | |

VI.

The Treasurer and Cashier shall give bond in such sums as the Board of Trustees shall require. The Treasurer shall be the custodian of the endowment funds of the Association, and pay the income therefrom each month to the Cashier. The Board shall designate the bank or banks where the funds of the Association shall be deposited.

VII.

The Cashier shall receive from the Treasurer the income from endowments and collect receipts from all other sources and deposit the same in the name of the Association in the designated bank or banks, to be disbursed on his check. He shall pay all bills after they have been audited by the Finance Committee and approved by the Board and shall make a monthly report to the Board of receipts and expenditures.

VIII.

No object shall be received into the Museum without first having been accepted by the Committee on Classification, and then approved by the Board; and no object shall be received on deposit conditionally, except on the approval of the Board. No object which shall have been received, accepted and approved, as provided for in this article, shall ever be loaned by the Museum Association to any person or Association, or ever removed from the buildings of the Association for temporary exhibition elsewhere.

IX.

These By-laws may be altered or amended at any stated meeting of the Board of Trustees.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES.

January 1, 1909.

To the Shareholders :

In last year's report reference was made to two bequests under the will of Mary P. Ropes and the will of Eliza O. Ropes. The first of these was turned over to the Museum by the executors, being 172 shares of Maine Central Railroad stock of a par value of $17,200 but with a present market value of $33,540, that being the valuation fixed in the appraisalment of her estate. Following the conservative custom of the Museum the bequest will appear at its par value, though its actual value to-day is practically double. As no conditions are attached to this bequest the income is available for general administration. It is expected that during the current year the other bequest namely that of Eliza O. Ropes, the same in amount, will also be turned over.

The Trustees have been notified that under the will of the late John Joseph Emery certain paintings collected by him and now in his former residence in New York City have been bequeathed to the Association, likewise the sum of $200,000 to be held as an endowment for the care of his collection of paintings and for the purchase of additions thereto, with the condition that no painting shall be bought for a sum less than $2,000 and that his collection shall be kept together. No preference is expressed as to the kind of paintings to be bought, this being left entirely to the judgement of the Board. The manifest intention, however, is to build up and care for a collection of paintings of unusual value artistically. This very important bequest by a former resident of Cincinnati will be far reaching in its influence upon the development of the galleries of the Museum, providing the means for a continuous growth. The present Emery collection is said to contain about fifty paintings.

The conditions of the Emery bequest require the Association to raise in some manner a building fund for additional galleries, as the existing building is already very much overcrowded, indeed quite incapable of caring for the collections already in possession of the Association. The Emery endowment cannot be used for building purposes, the income only being available and that for the care and maintenance as well as the purchase of additional paintings, as already stated. In the general plan for future buildings adopted by the Board some time ago the extension of the west wing toward the north would seem most economically to provide the additional space required and at the same time to give some relief to the congestion of other collections. No plans have been drawn for this wing nor estimates of its cost made, but in a general way it is thought that about $100,000 will be required.

As compared with 1907 the fiscal reports for the year 1908 show a return to normal expenditures. The opening of the Emma Louise Schmidlapp building has necessarily caused a permanent increase in the expense of administration. To assist the Trustees in meeting this Mr. J. G. Schmidlapp has again generously contributed $1,500 for the year, which makes the receipts in the Museum available for administration purposes somewhat in excess of the expenditures. But this balance is reduced to a deficit in the Academy department, due to a slight decline in money received from tuitions under the influence of general business depression. The general result on administrative accounts is a surplus balance of $536. To this is added $500 of annual members' dues remaining after an expenditure of a thousand dollars for the purchase of works of art, making a total credit balance on the year of $1,061 in a grand total of receipts amounting to $47,688, or slightly over two per cent. This credit balance of $1,061 for 1908 is to be compared to a debit balance of excess of expenditure in 1907 amounting to $7,304.

The annual membership continues disappointingly small, though slightly larger than in 1907. It would seem that a much greater number of people in Cincinnati ought be willing to contribute as annual members, especially as the Board has continued to reserve the dues received from members for the purchase of objects of art.

Late in 1908 the Board lost by death one of its most devoted members, one of the most constant friends of the Association, a man always willing to aid generously in personal service and in substantial gifts toward promoting our work. The cause of art has lost much in the lamented death of Daniel H. Holmes.

In submitting the accompanying reports we ask your consideration of the needs of the Museum and of the Art Academy, and would again impress upon the citizens of Cincinnati the very great influence upon their cultural welfare exerted by institutions devoted to the high ideals of art.

Respectfully submitted

M. E. INGALLS, President.

HENRY J. KOCH, Cashier.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR.

January 1, 1909.

The notable occurrence of the year is the bequest of the late John Joseph Emery, creating a fund of two hundred thousand dollars as an endowment for the purchase and care of a collection of paintings to bear his name, and giving the Museum as a nucleus about fifty canvases which he had gathered in his New York residence. Approximately eight thousand dollars a year will be available for expenditure upon the Emery collection. With the lapse of years this will build up an important gallery of paintings. Mr. Emery's concern for the quality of the works to be bought is reflected in his imposing the condition that no canvas shall be acquired for a less sum than two thousand dollars.

In the selection of the paintings to be bought with this fund the Trustees will have the same careful professional advice that has enabled them to acquire the excellent examples of current American art which for some years past have been bought with the proceeds of the Annual Membership fund. There is no restriction as to the nationality of the work to be purchased, and the Trustees will be free to buy anything that may be desirable. The canvases from which selections will be made under the price limit imposed by Mr. Emery will necessarily be among those whose commercial value has become fixed by a competition for their possession between collectors public and private. In this field as elsewhere the same opportunity exists for judicious selection according to artistic merit purely.

The price of a work of art often fails to indicate its artistic value, and cases will arise where this limitation will prevent the purchase of excellent canvases whose value in terms of money is below Mr. Emery's limit, especially those of men rising in the esteem of artists whose professional judgement may be regarded as a just recognition of uncommon merit and a safe forecast of the more popular esteem that will later be expressed in higher prices. These purchases can be made as heretofore out of the Annual Membership fund or any other resources the Museum may possess. The addition of an unrestricted endowment for the purchase of works of art is much to be desired.

When the paintings now in Mr. Emery's residence are received at the Museum it will be necessary to place them in a separate gallery. To set aside for this purpose one of the few galleries in the present building will seriously restrict the free exhibition space of the Museum as the building now is already quite unequal to the demands upon it. To set aside one of the existing galleries will mean that at least a considerable part of the special exhibition work will have to be abandoned. These exhibitions have become an important feature of practically all of the museums in the country; to curtail them would be a distinct loss of ground. The only solution will be the extension in some manner of our buildings, as is mentioned also in the report of the Trustees. Under the general plan for buildings thought out at the time Mr. Schmidlapp's building was erected it is possible to make extensions in a number of ways according to the means that may be provided by patrons of the Museum who may wish to contribute toward this building fund. The Director will gladly give to any one interested such information as may be desired in this connection.

This question of buildings is so important that frequent reference has in previous reports been made to the need of more galleries for practically all of the collections in the Museum. The matter was gone into quite fully last year and only a summary will be presented now in the following list of galleries needed.

GALLERIES NEEDED.

There should be enough additional picture galleries to permit a systematic classification into the following groups:

Old Masters.

Copies of Old Masters.

French art of the nineteenth century.

German art, especially the Düsseldorf school so freely collected in Cincinnati some years ago.

The Lessing drawings in a room adjoining the Düsseldorf gallery.

The early American painters, including a collection representing the artistic development of Cincinnati.

The paintings of Frank Duveneck.

The works of Robert Blum.

Modern American painting generally.

Water colors, drawings, etchings, engravings and studies of various kinds already in the possession of the Museum requiring each one or more galleries.

In other departments the collections of pottery and porcelain and glass, those relating to metal work, textiles and the art industries generally, require from two to three times the space now available. The same is true of the ethnological and archaeological collections, which are hopelessly packed into a few rooms.

This seems a long and imposing list of requirements, but it is literally true that the collections owned by the Museum require all of this space for their proper installation.

The Director wishes to express his appreciation of the assistance rendered in their various departments by Mr. L. H. Meakin, Honorary Curator of Paintings, Mr. C. J. Barnhorn, Honorary Curator of Sculpture, Mr. Philip Hinkle, Honorary Curator of American Archaeology, and Mr. James W. Bullock, Honorary Curator of Book Plates.

PURCHASES.

From the annual exhibition of American art: "Road to the Village" painted by E. W. Redfield; "An Autumn Field" painted by Theodore Wendel. Also two water color studies by John La Farge.

DONATIONS.

The record for 1908 shows 34 donations of 1259 objects, listed in the appendix. This does not include the collection of about fifty paintings bequeathed by the late John Joseph Emery, mentioned elsewhere, but which have not yet been delivered to the Museum.

Prominent among the donors this year is again Mr. Frank Duveneck who gave a highly important "Landscape" by John H. Twachtman, an excellent three quarter length "Study of a Woman" by W. M. Chase, and two canvases by himself, namely a "Portrait study of John W. Alexander" when he was a pupil of Mr. Duveneck, and the "Study head of a Young Man with black mustache and white ruff".

At the close of the special exhibition of the French Impressionists, lent by Messrs. Durand-Ruel and Sons of New York, Mr. George Durand-Ruel generously offered as a gift to the Museum one of a number of interesting canvases by the younger members of the school. The Committee chose Maxime Maufra's "Cutter in the Bay of Douarnenez", an admirable representation of this interesting artist.

For many years there has been in the Department of American Archæology what is known as the Collis Collection of pottery and other objects (1107) from Madisonville. This was about to be removed by the owner when Mr. Harry M. Levy generously purchased and gave it to the Museum.

The number of current periodicals is twenty-two.

Since the removal of the library to a wing in the Schmidlapp building excellent progress has been made in cataloguing and classifying the books and photographs. The use of the library has continued to gain, both on the part of students from the Academy and other visitors to the Museum in search of information supplementing that which the collections in the Museum offer. The library is essentially a reference library only, but in the interest of students of the Academy whose time is almost wholly taken up with studio work the experiment was made toward a limited circulation of books relating to the history of art, and more particularly those artist biographies in which many reproductions of work occur. This circulation aims to aid the busy student of the Art Academy in familiarizing himself with those aspects of art which it is essential he should understand.

These uses of the library are sufficient to differentiate it from other libraries of more general scope with which a museum library does not pretend to compete, its purpose being to serve a limited public studying art from a point of view radically different from that of the general public. As the use of our library increases, the need of thus supplementing the collections in the Museum becomes more and more evident.

The efficient work of the librarian, Miss Jane Wright, in classifying and cataloguing the collection of books and photographs with reference to the actual needs of students, and her personal aid freely given to those seeking material for study is to be commended. It is to be regretted that Miss Wright has concluded to resign in order to accept the tempting offer as librarian to the art department of Princeton University. A successor will be appointed early in the year. Meanwhile the books will be accessible to all wishing to use them.

LOANS.

Under this head are recorded all objects on deposit in the Museum subject to demand. Some have been here for twenty years; others appear and disappear within the year, forming part of the special exhibits. The accessions and returns reflect the activity of the administration in placing before visitors things which are thought to be interesting in various lines of artistic expression.

The total number of loans on hand January 1, 1908, was		473	comprising	11,383	objects.

SPECIAL EXHIBITIONS.

From month to month the Museum arranges to show special collections of some timely interest, usually concerning the work of contemporary American artists. The number of these special exhibitions was quite large this season, appearing in the following order.

1. Twelfth Annual Exhibition of the Society of Western Artists.
2. Exhibition of twenty-nine oil paintings by Herman Dudley Murphy.
3. Exhibition of twenty-six oil paintings by Charles Morris Young.
4. Exhibition of thirty-two oil paintings by Elizabeth Wentworth Roberts.
5. Exhibition of paintings and pastels by the French Impressionists. Lent by Messrs. Durand-Ruel and Sons.
6. Exhibition of one hundred and fifty-eight paintings, mural decorations and studies by Kenyon Cox.
7. Exhibition of twenty oil paintings by Charles P. Gruppe.
8. Exhibition of forty-two oil paintings, water colors, drawings and decorative designs by George R. Barse.
9. Fourth Exhibition of the Cincinnati Chapter of the American Institute of Architects,— two hundred and three drawings, designs, etc.
10. Fifteenth Annual Exhibition of American Art. Paintings, water colors, pastels, drawings, designs, and sculpture. May 23rd to July 20th, and for the most part until September.
11. Exhibition of architectural and decorative work by Frederick S. Lamb, Charles R. Lamb, and Ella Condie Lamb. Thirty-four designs, etc.
12. Exhibition of Thirty-six water colors by Mrs. Annie G. Sykes and thirty-nine by Miss Emma Mendenhall.
13. Exhibition of twenty-nine oil paintings and seven water colors by L. H. Meakin.
14. Exhibition of thirty-one oil paintings by Alson S. Clark.
15. Exhibition of one hundred and thirty-four studies selected from the work of pupils of the Art Academy, Cincinnati.
16. Exhibition of one hundred etchings by Joseph Pennell belonging to the St. Louis Museum of Fine Arts; including five pen drawings lent by the Century Company and three lithographs lent by Frederick Keppel & Company.

ATTENDANCE.

The attendance at the Museum during 1908 is shown below, in comparison with 1907.

The total attendance for 1908 was	: : :	51,005
Distributed as follows:		1907.	1908.
Sundays. 10 cent admission days		15,391	11,217
Saturdays. Thomas J. Emery Free
Days : : : : :		20,963	18,994
Other days—25 cent admission days		18,589	20,794
Total : : :		55,180	51,005
Of which Artists and Students,— including School Children, non-paying
		9,050	10,069
Other non-paying : : :		23,007	21,844
Paying attendance : : :		23,120	19,092
		55,180	51,005

Turnstile Receipts from

25 cent admissions	: : :	$1,789.75	$1,440.00
10 cent admissions	: :	1,441.60	1,121.70
Package tickets	: : :	137.00	65.00
		3,368.35	2,626.70
Annual Members' dues	: :	1,440.00	1,500.00
		$4,808.35	$4,126.70

The notable feature of this table is the fact that while the total attendance declined and was accompanied by loss in turn-stile receipts there was an actual gain of attendance on the twenty-five cent admission days. The explanation of this lies in the growing use of the Museum by school children, students, annual members, holders of package tickets and others of that general class. In other words the attendance has gained among those who come for a serious purpose, and the decline is entirely among those who come in a casual way, partly from curiosity. The Museum each year is visited by strangers in town whose numbers are affected by frequency of railway excursions, especially on Sundays. During the season of 1908 a much smaller number of excursionists visited Cincinnati. The novelty of the free day in 1907 may account for the slight excess in that year. We should expect gains henceforth over 1908.

The effort to increase the use of the Museum by school teachers with their classes met with an encouraging response. While the Museum is not in position to create an office of docent who shall be ready at all times to act as guide, it has been arranged that the librarian or an assistant will render services of this nature in so far as may be practicable. An hour has been fixed for Saturdays when the librarian will be pleased to meet any teachers who may care to come to the Museum to familiarize themselves either with the permanent collections, the special exhibitions, or the material contained in the library. In this way the Museum hopes to ascertain and supply the specific wants of teachers from time to time. Furthermore appointments may be made for guidance in conducting classes through the Museum.

MUSEUM PRESS.

The work of the printing office may be stated as follows:

Annual Report, 76 pages 8vo	:	1,725 copies.
Museum Catalogues, 15 issues	: : :	20,080 "
Museum, announcements	: : :	21,435 "
Museum, labels	: : : :	1,273 "
Art Academy Catalogues, 36 pages 8vo		1,550 "
Art Academy, circular announcements		9,115 "
Other matter	: : : :	61,175 "

The preparation and distribution of this matter is an important part of the public work of the Museum.

ART ACADEMY.

The sudden death of Vincent Nowotny last summer removed an unusually efficient teacher of figure drawing, one whose influence upon students had been of the greatest value for many years. The position seemed at the time extremely difficult to fill. The Academy, however, is fortunate in the strength and resources of the other members of the faculty with Mr. Frank Duveneck as its chairman, and after a careful consideration of the situation a conclusion was reached to select one of the men whom Mr. Nowotny had trained, and to intrust to him under the guidance of the experienced members of the staff such work as might be necessary. For many years it had been the custom of Mr. Nowotny and Mr. Meakin to conduct these classes jointly, so that Mr. Meakin is entirely familiar with the methods pursued. The choice of Mr. Herman Wessel for this position seems entirely justified by the results of his work since September.

ACADEMY ATTENDANCE.

The number of tickets issued in 1908 was		:	409.
Students whose names are repeated, owing to enrolment in both day and night classes, or otherwise in duplicate		:	49.
Actual number of individuals in attendance		:	360.
Of whom	men	173.
	women	187.
Of the 173 men and while	71	attended the regular term day classes
	102	the night classes
	13	attended both.
There were also	8	men in the day summer classes.
Of the 187 women while and	175	were in the regular term day classes.
	12	the night classes
	30	the China painting classes
while and	24	were in the regular summer classes
	7	in the China classes in summer.

In conclusion the Director wishes to commend the various members of his staff both in the Museum and the Academy for their genuine devotion to the advancement of art in Cincinnati through an unselfish service that does not stop to question even the most unusual demands upon their time and energy. Without this the resources of the institution would be far less adequate than they are.

Respectfully submitted

J. H. GEST, Director.

APPENDICES.

BEQUEST OF THE LATE JOHN J. EMERY,
FORMERLY A RESIDENT OF CINCINNATI.

Item Fifth:

I bequeath to the Trustees of the Cincinnati Museum Association of Cincinnati, O., all the paintings (except those I have given away in writing) in my city house, at the time of my death, and to the endowment fund of the Museum Association the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, the income of which sum is to be used for their care, preservation and increase, provided that these pictures shall be kept in a room apart and to be known as the "Emery Collection", and also provided that in purchasing pictures from the income of the said fund not less than two thousand dollars shall be paid for each picture and as art has no nationality, the products of the artists of any country shall not have a preference.

Memorial to Daniel Henry Holmes

Trustee of the Cincinnati Museum Association from the year 1898 to the year 1908.

Daniel Henry Holmes became a Trustee of the Cincinnati Museum Association in 1898, and continued to act until his death on the fifteenth of December, 1908. He was an active member of the important committees on Classification and on the Art Academy, the committees which consider the collections of the Museum on the one hand and the educational policy of the Academy on the other.

By temperament, by education, by reading and by travel, few men are so equipped for efficient service in the cause of art as was Daniel Henry Holmes. With a cultivated and intelligent appreciation of the vital qualities in art he was quick to dismiss the commonplace and prompt to recognize any expression of a vigorous and full-blooded artistic personality.

Frank and outspoken in giving his opinion, he never forced that opinion upon others who might differ with him, but let it stand to justify itself. If further knowledge changed his own view he made no concealment of his altered judgement. Conventions and traditions in themselves were no shield against his keen penetration to the heart of things. He loved genuineness and manliness, blood and sinew, rather than polished manner in art; and yet he was a lover of style in the best sense.

PURCHASE FUNDS.

The attention of Patrons is called to the need of Funds for the Purchase of objects for the Museum.

I. ENDOWMENT FUND.

The income only to be expended. Into this shall be funded receipts from Patrons of the Museum. Any person may become a Patron upon payment of one thousand dollars.

Patrons shall during life be admitted without charge at all times when the Museum may be open to the public. They, and the members of their immediate families, shall enjoy all the privileges of Annual Membership, without further payment during the life of the Patron.

Contributions to this Endowment Fund may be made directly by persons desiring to give otherwise than as Patrons, and Special Funds may thus be created for the extension of the Museum Collections in some particular line approved by the Trustees.

II. ANNUAL PURCHASE FUND.

The receipts from Annual Members for the five years beginning with 1898 were set aside as a fund to be expended in the purchase of works of art, the receipts of each year to be spent within the year, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

The longer continuance of this practice will depend upon the degree of support given to the Museum by the public, for it will remain possible only so long as the income of the Museum from other sources shall suffice to meet the expense of maintaining the institution from year to year.

ANNUAL MEMBERS.

The Annual Fee of a member is $10.00, and no further liability is incurred. This may be paid in currency, or by check, drawn to the order of the Cincinnati Museum Association.

PRIVILEGES OF ANNUAL MEMBERS.

1. A ticket admitting for the ensuing year a member and his family, and any non-resident guests visiting them, to the Museum whenever it may be open to the public.

2. Tickets to all lectures given under the auspices of the Trustees either in the Museum or Art Academy.

3. A copy of the Annual Report and of each hand-book, or catalogue, published by the Museum.

4. The use of the Museum Library for consultation.

5. A copying ticket entitling the holder to copy, sketch or study objects belonging to the Museum, subject to the rules of the Association.

6. Invitations to all the receptions given by the Trustees at the Museum.

Further information regarding these funds may be had of

J. H. GEST, Director,
Cincinnati Museum Association.

PACKAGE TICKETS.

100 FOR TEN DOLLARS.

Subscribers for these tickets contribute to the Museum a much needed income and at the same time through their distribution of the tickets bring to it many new visitors.

The Trustees have at the request of business men decided to issue at a special rate packages of one hundred tickets good any day within a year for a single admission to the Art Museum. The object of these tickets is to enable firms and others to give their employees and their friends visiting the city an opportunity to see the Museum, thus extending its influence as an educational factor in the community.

THE ART ACADEMY OF CINCINNATI.

42ND YEAR: SEPT. 27TH, 1909, TO MAY 27TH, 1910.

Under the name of the Art Academy of Cincinnati the Cincinnati Museum Association maintains a school for the study of art. For the support of this school separate endowment funds are held, and only such tuition fees are charged the students as will make up the difference between the income from these endowment funds and the cost of conducting the school. The fee is now twenty-five dollars for instruction from the middle of September to the end of the succeeding May.

TEACHERS.

FRANK DUVECK,	}	For Drawing, Painting, Composition, Artistic Anatomy, etc.
L. H. MEAKIN,
HERMAN H. WESSEL,
GRACE YOUNG,
C. J. BARNHORN,	:	For Modeling.
WILLIAM H. FRY,	:	For Wood-carving.
ANNA RIIS,	:	For Design and China Painting.
HENRIETTA WILSON,	}	For Preparatory Drawing, etc.
KATE R. MILLER,

The classes in the Academy provide for the development of students from the most elementary to the most advanced work. After a year's study in a preparatory class the pupil is usually admitted to one of the life classes which are a strong feature of the Academy. In these the opportunity for training is practically unlimited.

The Academy seeks from the start to help its students in acquiring the two faculties most essential to artistic expression; first an intelligent observation of nature, and, second, a clear and exact personal record of that observation. To recognise the elements of character wherein lies the charm, and then to formulate with a sufficient degree of precision, and in one's own natural way, whatever in form, or color, or arrangement, goes to make that charm. The process of development is so personal that a student is in a sense always ready to put his knowledge to practical use whenever called upon to do so. Those who remain in the Academy for many years have only the advantage of a farther development under favorable criticism. The soundness of this training has proven itself from year to year in the success of many pupils who have gone out into the world to practice art in its most varied applications. A foundation thus laid is the first need of the artist or artisan. In comparison the technical requirements of a particular trade are easily acquired.

A SUMMER TERM

of ten weeks duration, from the middle of June to the end of August, is provided for teachers and others who wish to study in vacation. Tuition fee, $20.00.

The Cincinnati Museum Association

RECEIVES

Endowments and gifts of money to be applied to general or specific purposes in the Museum and Academy; and,

Gifts and loans of objects of all kinds, that come within the scope of the Museum.

The isolated location of the buildings in Eden Park, their fireproof construction, and the constant care of the collections day and night, must commend the Museum as a safe depository for works of art, either permanently, or during the temporary absence of owners from their homes.

FORM OF BEQUEST.

I do hereby give and bequeath to the

CINCINNATI MUSEUM ASSOCIATION

in the City of Cincinnati, Hamilton County, Ohio,

.....

.....

.....

(Bequests may be made in money, books, paintings, sculpture, and all other objects of art).

BY-LAWS.

I.

The Annual Meeting of the Association shall be held on the first Monday in March in each year.

II.

The Board shall elect annually from their own number a President, Vice-President and Treasurer, and appoint a Director, a Secretary and a Cashier, and such other officers as may from time to time be deemed necessary, and define their duties and fix their compensation.

III.

The stated meetings of the Board of Trustees shall be held on the second Tuesday of each month, at 4 p. m. Special meetings may be called by the President, upon the written request of three members.

IV.

Five members of the Board shall constitute a quorum, and it shall require five affirmative votes to approve any proposition.

V.

There shall be the following Standing Committees, of not less than four members each, to be appointed annually by the President, and the Director shall be ex-officio a member of such Committees as the President may designate:

- | | |
|---------------------------|--------------------|
| 1. Finance. | 4. Classification. |
| 2. Law. | 5. Art Academy. |
| 3. Buildings and Grounds. | |

VI.

The Treasurer and Cashier shall give bond in such sums as the Board of Trustees shall require. The Treasurer shall be the custodian of the endowment funds of the Association, and pay the income therefrom each month to the Cashier. The Board shall designate the bank or banks where the funds of the Association shall be deposited.

VII.

The Cashier shall receive from the Treasurer the income from endowments and collect receipts from all other sources and deposit the same in the name of the Association in the designated bank or banks, to be disbursed on his check. He shall pay all bills after they have been audited by the Finance Committee and approved by the Board and shall make a monthly report to the Board of receipts and expenditures.

VIII.

No object shall be received into the Museum without first having been accepted by the Committee on Classification, and then approved by the Board; and no object shall be received on deposit conditionally, except on the approval of the Board. No object which shall have been received, accepted and approved, as provided for in this article, shall ever be loaned by the Museum Association to any person or Association, or ever removed from the buildings of the Association for temporary exhibition elsewhere.

IX.

These By-laws may be altered or amended at any stated meeting of the Board of Trustees.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES.

January 1, 1910.

To the Shareholders:

Since the publication of the last annual report the Museum has received from the executors under the will of Eliza O. Ropes 172 shares of Maine Central Railroad stock bequeathed by her to the Association. This is the second of the two Ropes bequests referred to last year. This bequest is entered at the par value of the stock, $17,000, though appraised in the estate at $33,540. The Treasurer also received from the executors $2,794 of back dividends.

The Clara Hunter endowment of two hundred dollars was given by Dr. Frank A. Hunter who presented last year to the Library the important collection of photographs gathered by his sister the late Clara Hunter. The purpose of this endowment is to supply a small income annually for the purchase of additions to the collection of photographs.

In last year's report the Trustees referred to the bequest of the late John J. Emery to which is attached a condition that the Museum shall provide "that these pictures shall be kept in a room apart". To meet this condition the Board realized that some alterations in the building would be required, as the galleries now available are not nearly sufficient for the accommodation of the present collections of pictures. It was therefor decided that something must be done to increase the wall space for picture exhibition. It was found that this could most economically be done by constructing a gallery in the recess over the open area on the north side of the old building, and furthermore by changing the lighting of the existing galleries from side light to top light, thus gaining all of the wall surfaces hitherto taken up with windows. These alterations will materially increase the exhibition space for paintings and permit one of the rooms to be assigned to the John J. Emery collection. The Trustees will then be in position to notify the executors of his estate that the Museum is prepared to comply with the conditions of his bequest. There will then be nothing to prevent the turning over to the Museum of the fund of $200,000 and the collection of paintings.

The plans and specifications for the extension and the changes in the building were prepared by Messrs. Garber and Woodward, architects, and the contract was let for the work to be executed for the sum of $30,750. This, however, does not include the installation of a plant for electric lighting for the entire building which is under consideration as a separate contract.

After considering various means of meeting this necessary expenditure the Board decided that since the Ropes bequests were unconditional they could be applied in part to this purpose, especially as the market value of the stock was practically double the par value at which it had been entered upon the books of the Association. The Board therefor authorized the Treasurer to sell one half of the Maine Central Railroad stock, which will produce about $34,000. It is hoped that the balance remaining after paying the cost of the building alterations will be sufficient, together with the back interest on the Ropes stock remaining in the surplus account, to meet the cost of the lighting plant. There can be no question of the need of some method of lighting in order that the collections may be seen in the afternoons of dark winter days. The Museum can thus also be lit on special occasions when it may be desirable to open it in the evening. The question of substituting electric light for gas light in the Art Academy at night will also come up.

The important gifts of recent years, the Emma Louise Schmidlapp Building, the Thomas J. Emery Free Day Endowment, the Ropes Bequests, and the John J. Emery special Endowment, indicate a growing appreciation of the work done by the Museum in the mind of the liberal public, and give bright promise for the future. But it must be remembered that restricted gifts generally increase also the charges on the unrestricted funds. The loss of $1,200 annual income from the Ropes bequests through conversion of half the principal into building,—a conversion made immediately necessary by the John J. Emery bequest,—is an illustration of this. Mr. Schmidlapp's generosity in continuing this year his annual gift of $1,500 for the maintenance of the Schmidlapp Memorial Building has prevented a similar loss from that gift. The Trustees confidently expect that similar generosity on the part of others will enable them without embarrassment to accept all desirable gifts and to incur any expense made necessary thereby.

The fiscal statements herewith submitted are quite clear and seem to require no comment except an explanation of the manner in which the call loans have been paid off. In the balance sheet for last year these loans were $11,500. This item entirely disappears this year. The loans of a year ago include balances unpaid on the old account of building alterations and represented also expenditures made on special accounts of which the accumulation had been invested in securities which the Board at the time preferred not to sell until the bond market was more favorable. These sales have since been made and the entire debt taken up. It was found, however, that in order to clear this debt it was necessary to treat the capital of the Association as invested in building alterations. In thus treating capital the Board reverts to the original use of that fund which was actually invested in the old building and only afterwards restored out of income, and thereafter nominally regarded as a fund invested in securities in order to increase the income.

The growth of the Museum in the past few years is marked in many ways. But each extension of its buildings and each added facility for educational work has involved new obligations and increasing demand upon its resources. Added galleries mean heavier cost of administration and growing collections require still more buildings while the insistent demand of the public for guidance in the study of the collections requires new expenditures in educational lines. Though the Museum is in a better position than ever for public service it is more than ever in need of funds and buildings.

Your attention is called to the accompanying reports.

Respectfully submitted

M. E. INGALLS, President.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR.

January 1, 1910.

In the Museum department the most important event of the year just closed is the decision of the Trustees to enlarge the space available for the exhibition of pictures. This provides one new gallery 30 by 50 feet and also brings about important improvements in the old galleries. When the original Museum building was planned in the early eighties the importance of overhead lighting was not fully recognised. Accordingly we had at that time but one gallery properly lit from the top. All of the other rooms had conflicting side-lights which prevented pictures being well shown and also caused the loss of wall space occupied by windows. All these windows will now be closed, the lighting will be entirely from the top, and all the walls will be available for exhibition purposes. Though some of the rooms are small the fact of being well lit will greatly add to their usefulness.

While the conditions in the picture galleries are thus greatly improved we are still far short of what is needed to carry out the plan referred to for several years, of classifying the collections into consistent groups according to schools and periods, so that each gallery may be harmonious in its character and not contain works so unsympathetic that one interferes with the enjoyment of the other, as is necessarily the case under conditions so crowded as they have been hitherto.

On the main floor the new extension will provide a gallery of equal size with the picture gallery above it, and to this extent the space available for industrial art collections will be enlarged. The removal of the collection of ceramics to this gallery is under consideration, but is not definitely decided. The metal work and textiles are likewise so badly congested that it is difficult to decide which one most needs expansion. The collections of metal work have been greatly improved through the important loans of the Hon. John S. Conner, whose collection of silver now occupies five cases and is expected to require more. This is unusually rich in ecclesiastical and ceremonial silver and the Museum is extremely fortunate in securing it. The development of the collection of musical instruments is checked for want of further space, as extensive additions to it are promised the moment they can be accommodated. An important loan of a permanent nature has been made to the section of arms and armor. This consists of the collection of the late A. W. Blair placed in the Museum by his father. It embraces practically all of the models of the guns of the United States Army from Revolutionary times down to the present. Preparations are being made to install the collection as well as can be done in the present room. On the lower floor some additional space may be gained for the section of American Archaeology, especially for a proposed room relating to Hamilton County in which material the Museum is especially rich.

PURCHASES.

From the Annual Exhibition of American Art: "Evening Light" painted by Frank W. Benson; "The Dunes at Knocke" painted by Charles Warren Eaton. Also a Still Life painted by William M. Chase.

DONATIONS.

During 1909 13 donations were received, including 206 objects listed in the appendix. Notable among these is the oil painting "El Nieto" by Sorolla presented by Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Taft. This secures for the Museum a characteristic example of this virile Spanish painter. Messrs. Scott and Fowles gave an interesting canvas, "The Thames", by the Dutch painter, Cossaar. Mr. Frank Duveneck gave a bronze bust by C. J. Barnhorn.

The brother and sisters of the late William Martin Aiken, architect, gave to the library of the Museum his professional library of 180 volumes and a large number of photographs and prints. Mr. Aiken when a resident of Cincinnati had conducted classes in the Art Academy and had in many ways shown a lively interest in the Museum, and it was as a recognition and expression of his affection for the Museum Association that his relatives made this handsome gift.

LOANS.

This heading includes all objects on deposit in the Museum subject to demand. Many of these are essentially on permanent loan, though a large number are received and sent out each year representing one form or another of special exhibitions.

The total number of loans on hand January 1, 1909, was

The work of the Library under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Kellogg has expanded so greatly in an educational direction that I have asked her to prepare an independent report which will be found among the special reports. We have continued to aid not only the students but other visitors to find in the Museum and the library the material for which they are in search. Either the Librarian or her assistant has frequently guided classes through the Museum, helping them toward a more definite use of the collections. While work along these lines has been continued with even greater activity than before an entirely new line has been taken up. A class in the history of art is conducted by the Librarian for the pupils of the Art Academy who are taking the teachers' course to which reference is made later in this report. The importance educationally of a more systematic visiting of the Museum on the part of public school children has led to an arrangement between the Museum and the Superintendent of the Public Schools under which a body of teachers will next year be organized into a class for a series of lectures at the Museum on art in its relation to history, and in the use of the Museum collections for demonstration. The aim of this course, like that in art history for pupils of the Art Academy, is to develop an appreciation of the characteristic qualities of the art of different times and periods, and in that way to lay the foundation for a discriminating taste and a knowledge of art as a means of expression of the ideals of civilization in the forms which are peculiar to art rather than to literature. It is to lead the student to the work of art from the point of view of the artist and connoisseur rather than that of the student of general history.

SPECIAL EXHIBITIONS.

The Museum has continued its work in special exhibitions which show as far as can be what is going on in current art throughout the country. The number of exhibitions was again large.

1. Exhibition of one hundred Samplers, lent by Alexander W. Drake.
2. Exhibition by the Women's Art Club of Cincinnati of one hundred and eighty-three paintings, drawings, sculptures, etchings, jewelry, carvings, etc.
3. Fourth Annual Exhibition of one hundred and three Selected Water Colors by American Artists.
4. Exhibition of sixty-eight oil paintings by Eight American Artists.
5. Thirteenth Annual Exhibition of the Society of Western Artists,—one hundred and eighty oil paintings and photographs.
6. Exhibition of fifty-two oil paintings and pastels by F. Reaugh and C. P. Bock.
7. Exhibition of seventeen drawings by Burne-Jones. Lent by Henry Turner Bailey.
8. Exhibition of seventeen portraits by John da Costa.
9. Exhibition of eighteen oil paintings by Theodore Wendel.
10. Exhibition of thirty-four oil paintings by Henry R. Poore.
11. Exhibition of forty-nine oil paintings and sketches by D. Anthony Tauszky.

12. Exhibition of thirty-five oil paintings by Constable, Corot, Courbet, Diaz, Daubigny, Gainsborough, Israels, Mauve and others, lent by Messrs. Scott and Fowles.
13. Sixteenth Annual Exhibition of American Art. Paintings, water colors, pastels, drawings, designs, and sculpture. 314 numbers.
14. Exhibition of fifty-six oil paintings by William M. Chase.
15. Exhibition of thirty-one oil paintings by L. H. Meakin.
16. Exhibition of forty-five tempera paintings by George Haus-halter.
17. Exhibition of three mural decorations for the Covington Cathedral, painted by Frank Duveneck.

MUSEUM PRESS.

The work of the printing office may be stated as follows:

Annual Report, 74 pages 8vo	:	1,725 copies.
Museum Catalogues, 15 issues	: :	18,860 "
Museum, announcements	: :	24,390 "

Art Academy, circular announcements		5,175 "
Other matter	: : : :	71,710 "

The preparation and distribution of this matter is an important part of the public work of the Museum.

Of particular interest was the printing of a series of fourteen large half-tone reproductions of paintings, mostly American. These are especially for distribution in the schools to familiarize pupils with modern art and with the examples of it contained in our Museum.

ATTENDANCE.

The total attendance has again risen, mainly in the free admissions. The Emery Free Day gained ten per cent, the free admissions of artists, students, and school children, eighteen per cent, while the twenty-five cent admissions and the ten cent admissions, including package tickets remained practically unchanged. Reference has already been made to the assistance given by the Librarian in advice and at times acting as guide to classes visiting the Museum. This will be carried still further the present year.

The attendance at the Museum during 1909 is shown below, in comparison with 1908.

The total attendance for 1909 was	:	:	54,088

ART ACADEMY.

There has been no change in the teachers of the Art Academy with the exception that Miss Grace Young has been added, partly to relieve the pressure on the drawing class intermediate between the primary and life classes, and more particularly because of her unusual ability as a colorist both in water colors and in oils. Her classes in the latter respect have devoted most of their time to the painting of still life, though with occasional use of the costume model.

The preparation of pupils of the Art Academy as teachers of art in the public schools has long been under consideration. It was never thought advisable to establish what is ordinarily known as a normal school department because the distinct purpose of the Art Academy has always been to train students for artistic expression either in painting, modeling or applied design. The tuition fees have been merely nominal and together with the income from endowment barely sufficient to maintain the school as an art school proper. Tuition fees large enough to support a normal department could not be secured, and furthermore the expediency of such a department has been in question. We have always contended that a teacher of drawing should primarily be a good draughtsman and that all things being equal a student thoroughly trained in our school ought to be competent to teach. Yet, one must admit that some special preparation for teaching ought to be added to this in order to familiarize the applicant with the conditions to be contended with in public school work and with the methods that seem to be applicable there. All of this, however, we contend should be regarded as merely something added to what the school has all along been doing. After conferences with the College of Teachers of the University of Cincinnati and with the Superintendent of the Public Schools a plan was evolved which seems to meet the conditions on both sides. It enables the students in the Academy without real interruption of their development as artists to fit themselves for teaching under the conditions existing in the public schools, and in that way it promises to make it possible for schools to attract as teachers a better trained class of students. Part of the programme in the preparation for teaching is the conducting of a course in the history of art referred to previously in this report and also in the report of the Librarian who has had it in charge.

ACADEMY ATTENDANCE.

The number of tickets issued in 1909 was	:	428.

and	8	in the China classes in summer.

The Director would call attention to the valuable assistance rendered in their various departments by Mr. L. H. Meakin, Honorary Curator of Paintings, Mr. C. J. Barnhorn, Honorary Curator of Sculpture, Mr. Philip Hinkle, Honorary Curator of American Archæology, Mr. F. W. Hinkle, Honorary Curator of Arms and Armor, and Mr. James W. Bullock, Honorary Curator of Book Plates.

In conclusion the Director wishes to commend the various members of his staff both in the Museum and the Academy for their genuine devotion to the advancement of art in Cincinnati through an unselfish service that does not stop to question even the most unusual demands upon their time and energy. Without this the resources of the institution would be far less adequate than they are.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN.

The course in history of art conducted during the winter for the Training Class for Teachers and Supervisors of Art has brought to the Museum one afternoon each week a class of fourteen. The work provided is essentially a study course,—the text book used is Reinach's Apollo, an hour being given to recitation, the class usually remaining for an hour longer to study and discuss photographs which elaborate the lesson. Supplementary lectures have been given by Mr. Gest and Mr. Meakin and a paper by Mrs. Robertson. The class has also enjoyed the privilege of visiting Mr. Taft's collection of Old Masters and of seeing an excellent example of Gothic architecture in St. Mary's Cathedral, Covington, for which the important series of mural paintings by Mr. Duveneck were recently made. The Museum collections have, of course, been freely used in illustrating the subject, the students gaining a familiarity which will serve them in their teaching later on.

Throughout the year special collections of photographs have been arranged following one another, on the walls of the little gallery which is used as a class room, to serve as extra illustration. An effort has been made to benefit other teachers and students by giving notice of these. The response has been highly encouraging, and a very considerable part of the increased attendance in the Library, 2528 as against 1699 last year, is directly attributable to this cause.

The question of education on a large scale,—that is of bringing the general public into intelligent and agreeable acquaintance with objects of art is a matter which is occupying the attention of every Museum at the present time. It is being variously dealt with. There is, of course, no difficulty in answering the needs of an individual or of a small group who come with a definite question or a common want. It is a pleasant and profitable task, for example, to talk over the Greek sculptures with a group of children who know their mythology. But it is doubtful whether the needs of large visiting classes of school children can ever be adequately met by instruction inside a museum. Certainly to attempt locally the systematic instruction of great numbers would be an impossible tax on a small and busy staff. In spite of the hearty co-operation of the Director, of Mr. Meakin and especially of Mrs. Fishburn there are times when the request for guidance must be reluctantly refused. Volunteer service of the right sort would be a great boon and would hardly run the risk of becoming stereotyped,—a real danger to any employing the function too frequently. By far the best results, however, are to be gained by the school teacher who possesses sufficient knowledge to use the collections. She can reinforce her own work by drawing on an inexhaustable fund for illustration, and by reason of her knowledge of the child's degree of preparation she need waste nothing. If she possess, in addition, a love of beauty, either native or acquired, the conditions for success could hardly be improved upon.

The Museum, then, is putting its main strength along this line into its work for teachers. Beside the history of art class, Mr. Meakin has given a number of talks on painting in connection with the half-tone reproductions widely distributed among the public schools and Mr. Barnhorn has lectured on sculpture. A further effort is being made in the preparation of a course for teachers of history which will be given next year. This is planned primarily for the Sixth Grade teachers in the public schools, after consultation with Dr. Dyer and with his co-operation. It will consist in amplifying the course in general history as it is at present taught, by an account of the coincident history of art illustrated with the stereopticon and by some discussion of the principles of art.

Further information about the Library has already been given in the Report of the Director. The accession of the Aiken Architectural Library which includes a wealth of rare and beautiful plates greatly enriches this department and Dr. Hunter's gift of a fund through which to add to the Hunter Collection of photographs is an encouraging evidence that the value of an endowment for library purposes is beginning to be felt.

With the growth of the direct educational work the need of an adequate income devoted entirely to the purchase of books and photographs is more urgent. And while the necessity of providing reference books for the students of art history is acute and the small section which circulates among the students of the Academy is pressing for enlargement the future of the Library as a collection of important works must be constantly kept in mind. Publications of great moment in the world of art are constantly being produced, the illustrations in which are final in the authority with which they are selected and the perfection with which they are made. Such books are a museum in themselves and, once out of print easily pass out of reach.

Librarian.

The attention of Patrons is called to the need of Funds for the Purchase of objects for the Museum.

I. ENDOWMENT FUND.

The income only to be expended. Into this shall be funded receipts from Patrons of the Museum. Any person may become a Patron upon payment of one thousand dollars.

Patrons shall during life be admitted without charge at all times when the Museum may be open to the public. They, and the members of their immediate families, shall enjoy all the privileges of Annual Membership, without further payment during the life of the Patron.

Contributions to this Endowment Fund may be made directly by persons desiring to give otherwise than as Patrons, and Special Funds may thus be created for the extension of the Museum Collections in some particular line approved by the Trustees.

II. ANNUAL PURCHASE FUND.

The receipts from Annual Members for the five years beginning with 1898 were set aside as a fund to be expended in the purchase of works of art, the receipts of each year to be spent within the year, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

The longer continuance of this practice will depend upon the degree of support given to the Museum by the public, for it will remain possible only so long as the income of the Museum from other sources shall suffice to meet the expense of maintaining the institution from year to year.

ANNUAL MEMBERS.

The Annual Fee of a member is $10.00, and no further liability is incurred. This may be paid in currency, or by check, drawn to the order of the Cincinnati Museum Association.

PRIVILEGES OF ANNUAL MEMBERS.

1. A ticket admitting for the ensuing year a member and his family, and any non-resident guests visiting them, to the Museum whenever it may be open to the public.

2. Tickets to all lectures given under the auspices of the Trustees either in the Museum or Art Academy.

3. A copy of the Annual Report and of each hand-book, or catalogue, published by the Museum.

4. The use of the Museum Library for consultation.

5. A copying ticket entitling the holder to copy, sketch or study objects belonging to the Museum, subject to the rules of the Association.

6. Invitations to all the receptions given by the Trustees at the Museum.

Further information regarding these funds may be had of

PACKAGE TICKETS.

100 FOR TEN DOLLARS.

Subscribers for these tickets contribute to the Museum a much needed income and at the same time through their distribution of the tickets bring to it many new visitors.

The Trustees have at the request of business men decided to issue at a special rate packages of one hundred tickets good any day within a year for a single admission to the Art Museum. The object of these tickets is to enable firms and others to give their employees and their friends visiting the city an opportunity to see the Museum, thus extending its influence as an educational factor in the community.

THE ART ACADEMY OF CINCINNATI.

43RD YEAR: SEPT. 26TH, 1910, TO MAY 26TH, 1911.

Under the name of the Art Academy of Cincinnati the Cincinnati Museum Association maintains a school for the study of art. For the support of this school separate endowment funds are held, and only such tuition fees are charged the students as will make up the difference between the income from these endowment funds and the cost of conducting the school. The fee is now twenty-five dollars for instruction from the middle of September to the end of the succeeding May.

TEACHERS.

FRANK DUVEINECK,	}	For Drawing, Painting, Composition, Artistic Anatomy, etc.

ANNA RIIS,	:	:	:	For Design and China Painting.
HENRIETTA WILSON,	}	For Preparatory Drawing, etc.
KATE R. MILLER.

The classes in the Academy provide for the development of students from the most elementary to the most advanced work. After a year's study in a preparatory class the pupil is usually admitted to one of the life classes which are a strong feature of the Academy. In these the opportunity for training is practically unlimited.

The Academy seeks from the start to help its students in acquiring the two faculties most essential to artistic expression; first an intelligent observation of nature, and, second, a clear and exact personal record of that observation. To recognise the elements of character wherein lies the charm, and then to formulate with a sufficient degree of precision, and in one's own natural way, whatever in form, or color, or arrangement, goes to make that charm. The process of development is so personal that a student is in a sense always ready to put his knowledge to practical use whenever called upon to do so. Those who remain in the Academy for many years have only the advantage of a farther development under favorable criticism. The soundness of this training has proven itself from year to year in the success of many pupils who have gone out into the world to practice art in its most varied applications. A foundation thus laid is the first need of the artist or artisan. In comparison the technical requirements of a particular trade are easily acquired.

A SUMMER TERM

of ten weeks duration, from the middle of June to the end of August, is provided for teachers and others who wish to study in vacation. Tuition fee, $20.00.
