Coins—One hundred and forty-five new coins were added to the Museum Coin Cabinet. They consisted of 1 gold Kedar Kushāṇa coin, 21 silver punch-marked coins and 123 Kushāṇa and tribal copper coins.

5. Arrangement—Out of the newly acquired antiquities, the important ones were suitably mounted and displayed in the galleries. Some old pieces, important from art and iconographic point of view and so far kept in the godowns, were also adequately exhibited for the first time. Labels for all the new exhibits were prepared in Hindi and English.

6. Educational activities—This Museum always attracts a large number of students interested in Indian Art and iconography. It possesses the richest collection of the Kushāṇa period. This year, as usual, students of local and outside educational institutions visited the Museum. They were taken round the galleries in batches by the Curator and Sub-Curator and were explained the local history and significance of the Mathura antiquities. Members of the French, Belgian, United Kingdom, Netherland and Swiss embassies, stationed at New Delhi, evinced keen interest in the Museum. The photographs of important pieces of Mathura Art, estampages of inscriptions and Brāhmī charts were supplied to the scholars and educational institutions. The Curator on being invited by the heads of local colleges and schools delivered five lectures to students on subjects dealing with history of Mathura, Indian Art and Archaeology. He also prepared a talk on the origin, growth and importance of the Mathura Museum. The same was recorded at the Delhi Station of the All-India Radio and was broadcast on December 1, 1949, from the Patna Station of All-India Radio. He delivered another talk on August 3, 1949, from the All-India Radio, Delhi, entitled "The Archaeological Remains of Mathura."

7. Research and Publications—The Curator studied the old and new materials deposited in the Museum. As a result of his studies he prepared twenty-six articles in English and Hindi for various periodicals. Details of some of the articles are given below:

(1) Note on the Iconography of Brahmā, published in the Bulletin of the Baroda Museum, Volume V, no. 1—2 (1947-48).

(2) Some New Jaina Sculptures from Mathura—Jaina Antiquary, Arrah, Volume XIII, no. 2.

(3) New Mathura Finds. Published in JUPHS, Volume 21, (1948).

(4) Mathura Kali men Brahmā, published in the Sampurnananda Abhinandangrantha, Banaras, 1950.

(5) Three New Kushāna Inscriptions from Mathura—Read at the XV Session of the All-India Oriental Conference, Bombay, published in the Jaina Antiquary, Volume XVI, no. 1 (June, 1950).

(6) Mathura Sangrahālaya ki Tārā Mūrti, published in Shikshā, Allahabad, Volume 3, no. 1 (July, 1950).

(7) Tirthankara Image of the Mathura Museum, dated Samvat 1826, published in Ankanta, Delhi, year 10, nos. 7-8.

Sri Bajpai's illustrated book in Hindi entitled Mathura Parichaya (154 pages) was published this year. The book deals in detail with the general history, art, archaeology, religion and literature of Mathura, which city has been through ages one of the greatest culture-centres of India. This publication removed a long-felt want and was much appreciated both by scholars and the general public.

All possible facilities were given to scholars engaged in research work in this Museum. The Curator, Sri Bajpai, guided a number of research students and helped them in solving their difficulties. One of them, Mr. Norvin Hein, completed this dissertation here this year for the degree of Ph.D. of the University of Yale (U. S. A.), the subject of his thesis being "The Vaishnava Dramatic Traditions of Vraja."

8. Library—Besides the subscribed journals and periodicals, 52 new books dealing with Indian art, religion, literature, history and archaeology were added to the Museum Reference Library. A list of the new additions is given in the Appendix B.

9. Museum Building and Gardens—Last year some cracks had appeared at several places in the outer walls of the Museum building. The matter was immediately brought to the notice of the Executive Engineer, Provincial Division, Agra. The Chief Engineer, Public Works Department, Uttar Pradesh, was also later on apprised of the situation. But unfortunately the matter was much delayed and the cracks developed on. At last, in the months of May and June, 1949, some till-tiles were fixed on the affected walls by the Public Works Department authorities. Four masonry structures were also constructed to observe further developments in the sub-soil and foundations of the buildings.

The Museum lawns and gardens were maintained in a neat and tidy condition. Several new plants and shrubs were planted at suitable places.

10. Visitors—During the year the Museum attracted a large number of visitors from India and abroad. Some distinguished persons who paid visit to the Museum were—Sri V. D. Krishnaswami, Superintendent, Southern Circle, Department of Archaeology, Madras, Hon'ble Sri Jagjiwan Ram, Labour Minister, Government of India, Sri V. D. Tripathi, M.L.A., M. H. J. Lestoquoy, Vice-Consul, French Embassy, New Delhi, Sri C. D. Mudaliar, Chief Commissioner of the Province of Coorg, Mr. Frank Roberts, Deputy High Commissioner of United Kingdom in India, the Swiss Minister in India and the Maharaja Kumar of Sikkim.

11. General—The Curator, Sri Bajpai, visited several ancient sites in the Mathura District and acquired a number of antiquities for the Museum. His visit to the village Jhinga-ka-Nagla resulted in obtaining beautiful sculptures of early medieval period. He accompanied the District Magistrate, Sri J. N. Ugra, to Kudarban (ancient Kumudvana) and Maholi (ancient Madhupuri) and showed to him the ancient sites there. The Government was pleased to appoint Sri Bajpai as a member of the Uttar Pradesh Museums Advisory Board. He also attended a meeting of the Uttar Pradesh Curators' Conference at Lucknow called by the Hon'ble Minister for Education, U. P.

Sri Bajpai has shown genuine interest in the all-round development of the Museum. Eminent visitors to this Museum have spoken highly of his talents as a research worker and organiser. Members of foreign embassies stationed at New Delhi have expressed great admiration for this growing institution of art and archaeology.
