Mission: Promise to deliver; Deliver on time

The screenshot displays the Open J-Gate website's opening screen within a browser window. The browser's address bar is empty, and the page features a light blue background with a faint watermark of a globe. At the top center, the Open J-Gate logo is displayed, consisting of a blue square with a white open book icon and the text "Open J-Gate" in red and white. Below the logo, the text "4751 Open Access Journals (2587 Peer-Reviewed)" is shown in red. A navigation menu includes "Quick Search", "Advanced Search", and "Browse Journals: by Title | by Publisher | by Subject". A "Quick Search" form is centered, containing a search input field with the placeholder "Enter Search Term", a "Submit" button, and two checked checkboxes: "Peer-Reviewed Journals" and "Professional & Industry Journals". A note below the input field reads "(Use double quotes for exact Phrase Search)". The text "Powered By J-Gate" is positioned below the search form. At the bottom left, the Informatics logo is visible, and at the bottom right, there are links for "What's New", "Browser Compatibility", "About Open J-Gate", "Feedback", and "Contact", along with the copyright notice "©Informatics India Ltd 2008". The browser's status bar at the bottom shows "Done" on the left and "Internet" on the right.

Enabling Digital Resources for the Arts and Humanities

Latest News

From April 2008 the Arts and Humanities Data Service (AHDS) will no longer be funded to provide a national service. However, the JISC have very kindly provided funding for a further year to keep the website available, to maintain and update the AHDS cross-search catalogue, and for the Centres to continue to deliver AHDS collections. The catalogue will allow users to search across the collections of the AHDS partners, including new collections added after 31st March. To use the cross-search catalogue please use the link on the left hand side.

Despite the loss of central funding, the host institutions of the AHDS are committed to working separately and together to retain the expertise and skills of the staff of the AHDS, and to provide a revised set of services for the arts and humanities research community. For further details about the services on offer please click on the links on the right:

IMAGE-INDIA

Discovering the unseen (or lesser-known) heritage

Why this endeavour?

Each time I have travelled in India, it has been an eye-opener. Ravaged by time, pillaged and plundered by conquering invaders and colonial lords - little of India's historical legacy survives intact. But what does, can often be stunning and amazing. Even the much photographed Taj Mahal with its poignantly balanced proportions evokes a sense of awe and wonder. But India is much more than the Taj - it is a diverse medley of numerous aesthetic traditions that give its art and architecture a vitality that can engross and inspire even today.

Unfortunately, much of this heritage is little known. It survives precariously in small towns and obscure villages, rarely photographed, and documented only in a few infrequently read texts. This endeavor is a modest effort to rectify the balance.

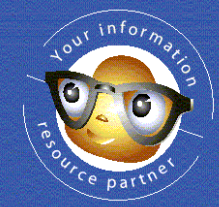

Unlike the portfolios of many others who have photographed or written about India, this is not intended to be a record of what is curious or bizarre; or another brilliantly detached survey of India's teeming crowds and impoverished citizens. Neither do I wish it to be an exotic or mystical fantasy. On the contrary, I hope to make this a compilation of images that presents India's historical record in a way that is both illuminating and evocative, useful and intriguing for lay readers and professional scholars and historians alike.

Surviving artifacts and monuments frequently provide the best clues as to how a civilization may have developed and matured, (or stagnated, or passed into a phase

The screenshot shows a web browser window displaying the 'Works of Art' website. The browser's address bar is empty, and the toolbar includes standard navigation icons. The website header features the text 'WORKS OF ART' and 'EUROPEAN PAINTINGS' in a serif font, with a circular logo containing the letter 'M' on the right. A navigation menu on the left includes 'Home', 'Works of Art', 'Collection Database', and 'European Paintings'. Below this is a search bar with a 'GO' button and a dropdown menu set to 'Works of Art'. A 'SIGN UP' section encourages users to gather their favorite works in the 'My Met Gallery'. The main content area is titled 'European Paintings: All' and 'Work 815 of 2,378'. It features a large image of a painting, 'Haystacks (Effect of Snow and Sun)' by Claude Monet. To the right of the image is a metadata box with a yellow warning: 'This information may change as the result of ongoing research.' The metadata includes: Artist: Claude Monet (French, 1840–1926); Title: Haystacks (Effect of Snow and Sun); Date: 1891; Medium: Oil on canvas; Dimensions: 25 3/4 x 36 1/4 in. (65.4 x 92.1 cm); Credit Line: H. O. Havemeyer Collection, Bequest of Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, 1929; Accession Number: 29.100.109. Below the image is an 'Enlarge' button and an 'ADD to My Met Gallery' button. At the bottom of the page, there are links for 'Signatures, Inscriptions, and Markings', 'Gallery Label', 'Provenance', 'Exhibition History', and 'References'. The browser's status bar at the bottom shows 'Internet'.

Mission: Promise to deliver; Deliver on time

The screenshot shows the MIT OpenCourseWare website interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with links for Home, Courses, Donate, About OCW, Help, and Contact Us. A search bar is also present. The main content area is titled "Music and Theater Arts" and features a "DONATE NOW" button. The text describes the arts at MIT, mentioning exhibitions, performances, and readings. It also highlights the Music Program, which provides challenging undergraduate musical education. A sidebar on the left lists various course categories, with "Music and Theater Arts" highlighted. Two images are included: one showing people in a studio setting and another showing a jazz ensemble performing.

Music and Theater Arts DONATE NOW

At MIT, the arts are widely practiced, performed, and celebrated - in corridors and classrooms, on stage and in the studio.

Hundreds of exhibitions, performances, and readings enliven MIT's campus annually, enhancing and enriching campus life while drawing tens of thousands of visitors from throughout the region.

Between 60 and 70 percent of incoming freshmen come to MIT with strong interests and involvement in the arts. Many pursue their artistic interests through participation in MIT's Music and Theater Arts Section, which provides numerous opportunities for students to develop artistically and intellectually.

Music

MIT's Music Program provides a challenging, rewarding undergraduate musical education for students at every level of preparation and talent. The music faculty includes internationally known composers and performers, and students may choose from a wide variety of offerings in performance, theory/analysis/composition, and music history/literature.

MIT students can major, double major, minor or concentrate in music. In addition to individual and class study in traditional and experimental music, students may participate in many performance groups directed by members of the faculty. These include the MIT Symphony and String Chamber Orchestras, Wind Ensemble, Festival Jazz Ensemble, Chamber Music Society, Concert Choir, Chamber Chorus, Gamelan Galak-Tika and the Senegalese performing ensemble R&MB&X.
